HOW MUCH CAN YOU CARRY?

THE STERLING OIL CO.

brought in on Monday the 20th of July one of the biggest gushers in Sour Lake. It is situated in the Wirt-Davis tract and has been producing oil continuously since it came in, the Spindletop Power Company taking the entire output from the well. Besides owning this the Company owns two other valuable pieces of Oil Land at Sour Lake, where they have just let a contract for drilling a second well in the gusher district. The Company has acquired a twelfth interest in 87 acres of land near Saratoga and a well will soon be drilled on this land, the indications are that fine gushers will be developed in this territory. The Company also owns property in Beaumont, Texas where there are two wells.

All who purchase the stock prior to September 15th. will participate in the September dividend. The price of the stock is 20 cents per share. No orders accepted for less than 50 shares.

COPETE MINING CO.

27 William Street, New York

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them ar—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now clear and undisputed title to, all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $1.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

CATARRHOZONE

CATARRHOZONE INHALER is the greatest invention of the century for the cure of diseases of the respiratory organs. It is sure to cure because it cannot fail to reach the germs in the air passages that give rise to the diseased conditions.

The antiseptic vapor of Catarrhozone is inhaled at the mouth, and after permeating the air cells and passages of all the respiratory organs, is exhaled slowly through the nostrils. It goes everywhere the air we breathe goes, and is certain to reach the seat of the disease no matter how remote.

AN ORDINARY COLD lasts about one day if Catarrhozone is inhaled five minutes every hour.

CATARRH and BRONCHITIS are relieved at once and cured for all time, by the persistent use of Catarrhozone.

CATARRHOZONE OUTFIT consists of a beautifully polished hard rubber inhaler and sufficient liquid for recharging to last two months. Costs $1, or trial size 25c. Sold by Druggists and N. C. POLSON & CO., Kingston, Ont.

Police Court

There was one case at the Police Court yesterday morning. J. H. Chatten claimed that a citizen owed him $14 wages, earned as a hired servant, at a rate of $1.50 per day. Judgment was given against the defendant who was called upon to pay $10 and costs, amounting to $12.35 altogether.

Renewing Parts of the Track

Every year the Canadian Pacific Railway removes a certain amount of its trackage, selection being made in the spring as to the points where the rails will do the most good. On the eastern division this year 57 miles of track have been re-laid, 26 of these being between Montreal and Quebec, and the balance on lines south of this city. Fifty-six pound rails are being released, and in their place are being laid rails of 80 pounds. The change is very much for the better, as the trains travel much more smoothly on the heavier than it does on the lighter rails.

The Game Laws

Chief Game Warden Tinsley is posting notices around the Province giving a synopsis of the Ontario Game Laws with amendments to date. Mr. Tinsley calls particular attention to the change in the act making the open season for quail from Nov. 1st to Nov. 20th inclusive, instead of from Oct. 1st to Nov. 30th. By special Order-in-Council no quail may be shot at any time in York County.

Excursion to Midland

The Grand Trunk will run an excursion to Midland on Tuesday, October 13th. The excursion will be under the auspices of the Omemee Choral Society, and the following rates have been fixed: Peterborough and East's, $1.35; Lakefield, $1.55; Millbrook, $1.35; Hastings, $1.65; Keene, $1.55. There will no doubt be a large crowd.

A Fine Group of Pictures

Mr. R. M. Roy has on exhibition at his studio entrance a magnificent lot of pictures of children. They are superb and are naturally attracting a lot of attention. Appropriate speeches were made and neatly responded to.

A Handsome Trophy

The beautiful trophy won by the Baseball League, is now on exhibition in Schneider's window, George st. The cup was presented to the League to become the property of the team winning it during the past season by Messrs. G. H. Williamson and Sanford D. Hall, and was won by the Y.M.C.A. nine after a keen struggle. The League was quite a success during the past season and the "Y" boys are to be congratulated upon winning the cup. They have been champions now for two successive years.

A Sad Runaway

On Monday morning a runaway accident occurred at Havelock in which Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dinsen were severely injured. It appears that while out driving their team took fright and ran away, throwing out both the occupants of the rig. Mrs. Dinsen's arm was broken, her face badly cut, and she sustained internal injuries of a serious nature. She was unconscious for over two hours after the accident. Mr. Dinsen had his hip fractured and was otherwise injured, being unconscious also for over an hour.

Mr. Dinsen is proprietor of the Dinsen House at Havelock. He was formerly connected with the hotel business in Peterborough, where he is well known. His many friends here will sympathize with him and Mrs. Dinsen in their unfortunate accident.

Harry Lindley's Western Co.

After a too prolonged absence Harry Lindley will give four performances at the New Rink on Brock street, commencing Friday, October 9th. During his absence from Ontario the past two years he has toured all the western provinces and the State of Washington, and as he remarked yesterday "I am well acquainted with all the B. C. politicians, and although a Conservative, can but condole on the downfall of Joe Martin, but feel certain that my favorite province, for I can play its towns, cities for six months a season, will do better with organized party lines than its previous eccentric modes." David Harum is one of Lindley's favorite creations, in fact he is its dramatic originator and this will form one bill. Little Mystic, bright and cheerful, is to the fore with illustrated songs, etc., and doubtless will attract a big matinee. The prices are simply 10, 20 and 30 cents.

OVER STUDY

Children Don't Break Down When Fed Right

It is often the case that when children break down at school it is attributed to overstudy, when it is really only a case of improper feeding.

This can easily be overcome by a little care in the selection of food and drink. "Since childhood I have been a coffee drinker and about a year ago I became so nervous and run down that I was compelled to leave school and give up studying altogether.

"Everyone thought my ill health was due to overstudy but during several months of rest my condition did not improve but instead I grew worse. Medicines failed to help me and I was sick and miserable all the time. One day a friend while discussing my condition advised me to leave off coffee and try Postum. It was not long before I began to gain strength for Postum began to build me up almost immediately.

"In less than three months from the time I left off coffee and used Postum I was back again at my studies and was soon studying harder than ever before and yet I felt and looked fresh and strong in spite of the hard work. There can be no doubt in the world that all this improvement was due to leaving off coffee and drinking Postum in its place.

"My married sister, hearing what Postum did for me, thought she would try it but in making it she did not follow directions and got a weak and characterless drink from which she and her family turned in disappointment. It was shortly after this I visited her and made Postum as directed on the package which is easy enough and all were so delighted they said they liked it better than coffee. Since then Postum has had a high place in my sister's household and her health is very much better since she left off coffee and began Postum.

"A schoolmate of mine whose complexion was very sallow and muddy saw what Postum did for me and decided to drink it in place of coffee and it was but a short time until she began to gain strength and her complexion lost its sallow hue. Now she says she will never drink any more coffee but will stick to Postum."

This young lady also tells of numerous other relatives and friends whose health, appearance and weight have been very much benefited by leaving off coffee and drinking Postum, the food drink. All names given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

DEATH OF MR. A. L. COLVILLE

Passed Away Yesterday Morning at Campbellford

The news of the death of Mr. A. L. Colville, of Campbellford, will come with a shock to his many friends and acquaintances in Peterborough. Mr. Colville had been ailing for only a few days, but no serious results were apprehended. His condition suddenly became alarming on Monday evening, and his brother-in-law, Dr. Boucher, was telephoned for. He went down yesterday morning, only to find that Mr. Colville had breathed his last shortly before his arrival. Bright's disease is said to be the cause of death.

Mr. Colville was about 56 years of age. He studied in Peterborough in Mr. (now Judge) Weller's law office. After being called to the bar he began the practice of his profession in Campbellford where he resided ever since. He was married to Miss May Boucher, a sister of Dr. R. P. Boucher, town, and besides the widow, leaves two sons and two daughters. Only three months ago the marriage of one of the daughters took place and she is now at her home in England. The other daughter is unmarried at home. The eldest son is practising law at the Soo, and the youngest is with the Bank of Montreal in Montreal.

The many friends of the family in Peterborough will join The Times in tendering their heart felt sympathy.

GOT THE COLD SHOULDER

How a Well Known Citizen Met a Waterloo

A well known local boniface, whose reputation as a hunter is well known, was out in the woods a few days ago after partridges. The day was wet and he got lost in the woods. He wandered through the mud and rain and darkness, trying to find his party, for more than two hours, but not a house could me see, not a light, not a road.

Finally, though, he struck a narrow lane, and in due course a house appeared. It was now late; he was cold and tired; he thought he would go no farther. So he banged at the door till a window on the second floor went up, and a gruff voice said:

"Who are you?"

"A friend," said the boniface meekly.

"What do you want?"

"To stay here all night."

"Stay there, then."

And the window descended with a bang, and our friend shouldered his gun again, and resumed his journey wearily.

The above was given The Times as a true story. If you doubt it, you can ask the genial proprietor of the Snowden House.

—Monetary Times—From one of our travelling representatives we learn that the business men of Omemee, Ont., would welcome the opening of a chartered bank in their village. There is not even a private bank, although the population is 800 and the place is prosperous.

—Mr. W. Mellen, employed at the Canadian Cordage Manufacturing Company's works, was injured on Monday by having a ladder fall on his head, and inflicting a somewhat severe cut, necessitating a doctor's services, several stitches were required to close the wound.

Lindsay Post: The Trent Valley Navigation Co.'s steamer Ogemah, on her trip on Saturday, when passing out of Bobcaygeon broke her shaft and was completely disabled and had to be towed back to her dock. The passengers were transferred to Mr. Boyd's yacht, the Calumet, and taken to Lindsay, but arrived too late to make the morning train connections. The Manita will take the disabled steamer's route.

—The regular monthly meeting of St. Andrew's Young Men's Guild, was held last night. The business consisted of the installation of officers, and an open paper for discussion was given by Mr. E. J. Anderson.

It Stands Alone.

Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription stands alone, as the one and only remedy for leucorrhea, female weakness, prolapsus, or falling of the womb, so absolutely specific and sure in curing these common ailments of women, as to warrant its makers in offering to pay, as they hereby do, the sum of $500 reward for a case of the above maladies which they can not cure. This is a remarkable offer. No other medicine for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments is backed by such a remarkable guarantee. No other medicine for woman's ills is possessed of the unparalleled curative properties that would warrant its makers in publishing such an offer; no other remedy has such a record of a third of a century of cures on which to base such a remarkable offer.

Miss Emma Welter, who is Secretary of the Young People's Christian Association, at [illegible] Avenue, New York City, says: "Your 'Favorite Prescription' is a boon to sick and tired women, for it cures them when other medicines fail. I know whereof I speak, for I have had experience with it. For fourteen months I had constant headaches; seemed too weak to perform my daily duties, and when the day was over I was too tired to sleep well. I suffered from nervousness and indigestion, and everything I ate distressed me. Doctors [illegible] but received no relief. After reading one of your books I decided to give your 'Favorite Prescription' a trial. Am very glad I did, for I found it was just what I needed. I commenced to improve at once and kept getting better until, after a few weeks, I was entirely cured. I have remained in perfect health ever since, and remain a firm friend of your 'Favorite Prescription.'"

The dealer who offers a substitute for "Favorite Prescription" is only seeking to make the little more profit afforded by a less meritorious medicine. His profit is your loss. Therefore, turn your back on him as unworthy of your patronage.

GOLD——$80,000,000——GOLD
—If you want to make a GOLD DIVIDEND PAYING INVESTMENT—
Purchase the Treasury Stock of The Drake Mining Drainage and Tunnel Transportation Co.
OF COLORADO
The Company is capitalized at $2,000,000, consisting of 2,000,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock.

The Property
Consists of nine patented, well developed mines and mill sites, situated in Gilpin County, Colorado. This county has already produced more than $80,000,000 in Gold
The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk on ore to a depth of 150 to 600 feet, and a tunnel run a distance of 2,300 feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to unwater and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation
The Colorado & Northern Railroad passes directly in front of the mouth of the tunnel. All ore can be dumped therefrom directly into the cars, giving quick and cheap transportation to the mills. Large returns have been paid from the product of these mines.

Sale of Preferred Stock
The company desires to not only push its development work and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own mill site at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ores. For that purpose it now offers for sale 250,000 shares of its Preferred Treasury Stock at 50 cents per share reserving the right to increase the price of all unsold shares thereof at any time without notice.
The Company pledges the whole net product of its mines to pay an eight per cent annual dividend on the sum paid for such stock, before any other stock receives any dividends whatsoever. After such dividends has been paid, the common stock shall receive a like dividend, when the surplus fund remaining shall be distributed among the common and preferred stock, share and share alike. All stock will be issued full paid and non assessable.

Active and experienced agents wanted to sell said Preferred Treasury stock on commission.
Prospectus can be had on application. Persons desirous of purchasing stock can do so by remitting to the Company by Draft, P. O. or Express Money Order payable to the order of

MR. CHAMBERLAIN TO COLONIES AS KINSMEN

That Empire May be Kept Together, Offers Preference for a Consideration in Return

Mr. Chamberlain, in his Glasgow speech yesterday, said he recognized the right of the colonies to develop their industries, so as not to be dependent on foreign supplies. But he asked them to leave to Britain the manufacture of those things for which she had great capacity for production. He relied on the colonies as kinsmen to do this for the good of the empire as a whole. He offered the colonies a preference and relied on them to do the fair thing by the Mother Country.

OPENS THE CAMPAIGN.

Glasgow, Oct. 6.—Whatever may be the opinion held regarding the great question which Mr. Chamberlain has raised or the probable issue of his campaign it is generally admitted that he has opened it in a masterly manner. For nearly two hours tonight he held a vast and enthusiastic audience absorbed. As though inspired by the knowledge that the practical collapse and breakup of the Unionist party left him in sole possession of the field, he spoke with more than his customary energy and persuasiveness.

It was an inspiring scene within St. Andrew's Hall, where he delivered his speech. Every corner of the auditorium was packed with a crowd cheering, singing, and waving handkerchiefs, as Mr. Chamberlain went to the platform. A distinguished company of peers and members of the House of Commons was present. He was greeted at the close with a great demonstration. The points of his speech attracting remarkable attention were his eulogy of Mr. Balfour; his representation of the coming struggle as one greater in its consequences than the Boer war; his description of the American tariff as an abomination.

Because of Sheffield.

Mr. Chamberlain, after a few preliminaries, said: "I do not think it right to raise any exclusive party issues, but after what has occurred since the meeting at Sheffield, a word or two might be given me to say that I am no longer a leader. I am still a loyal servant of the party whose union and strength is essential to the welfare of the empire, and which has found a leader whom every member may be proud to follow." The speaker paid the highest tribute to Mr. Balfour.

He continued: "It seems as though in this country there have always been men who did not know the meaning of loyalty and friendship. To them I say that nothing they may do will have the slightest influence to affect in the slightest degree the friendship and confidence existing between the Premier and myself.

Invited Discussion.

"I have invited discussion upon a question peculiarly within my province owing to my past life and the office I so recently held. Great Britain in the past has played a great part in the world's history. I desire her to continue and see the realization of the great ideal of an empire such as the world has never seen."

The late Colonial Secretary alluded to the recent collapse of the campanile and continued:—

"I do not say that I anticipate such a fate for the British Empire, but I do say that I see signs of decay, cracks and crevices showing that the foundations are not broad and deep enough to sustain it. Am I wrong to warn you? Is it not strange and inconsistent that the same people who indicted the government for its unpreparedness in the South African war should now denounce me in language equally extravagant because I want to prepare you for a struggle so serious that if we are defeated the country will lose its place among the great nations, a struggle which we are invited to meet with antiquated methods and tactics?"

Mighty Contrast.

Mr. Chamberlain contrasted the moderate increase of 7 1-2 per cent. in the export trade of Great Britain and the increase of 30 per cent. in her population since 1872, with the enormous increase of trade in the United States and Germany, and he asked how the country could expect to support its growing population with its trade practically stagnant for thirty years. He proceeded:

"On the other hand, the protected countries which I myself thought one time were going rapidly to wreck and ruin have progressed infinitely better in proportion than ourselves, and, instead of our remaining the workshop of the world, we are sending less and less of our manufactures abroad, while the protected countries are sending more and more of their manufactures here. Thus our manufactured exports from £116,000,000 in 1872, have gradually dwindled to £73,000,000 in 1902 to the protected countries of Europe and the United States.

Loss of Trade Overlooked.

"In the same period our exports to non-manufacturing countries, like Egypt, China and South America, have practically remained unchanged. This loss of trade to the protected countries has not been noticed hitherto because during the same period our exports to the British colonies have increased in ratio to counterbalance this loss, and are now more valuable than our trade with the whole of Europe and the

POST OFFICE FRAUDS

Many New Indictments Reported at Washington

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6.—The Federal grand jury, which has been investigating the Post Office Department, reported a large number of indictments late yesterday afternoon. Among those indicted are General James N. Tyner, formerly Assistant Attorney-General for the Post Office Department, and Harrison K. Barrett, who was his assistant. They are charged with conspiracy to defraud the Government.

There are two indictments against Tyner and three against Barrett. An indictment also was returned against Harry C. Hallenbeck, of the firm of Wyncook, Hallenbeck and Crawford, of New York, who formerly had the contract for supplying the department with money order forms. In that connection, John T. Metcalfe, formerly chief of the money order division of the Post Office Department, and his son, Norman R. Metcalfe, also are indicted. The charge against these three is conspiracy to defraud. Machen and Beavers are also indicted again and indictments against a number of others were not made public.

General Tyner is paralyzed at his home in this city, and efforts are being made to secure bail for him.

OUR GRAND OLD MAN

Canadian Commissioner Braves Rough Weather

London, Oct. 6.—Nothing daunted by the depressing weather, accompanied by a rain and a half gale, Lord Strathcona attended the funeral of Sir Michael Herbert the late British Ambassador at Washington, which took place to-day at Wilton two hours from London.

British opinion regards it as eminently fitting that Canada was thus represented at the obsequies of so successful an Anglo-American peacemaker as Sir Michael Herbert.

OFFICE WRECKED BY AN EXPLOSION

One Man Killed and Two Others Injured

WATER BOILER BLEW UP

One of the Injured is a Brother of Rev. Charles A. Eaton

Amherst, N. S., Oct. 6.—Springfield post office was yesterday afternoon the scene of a terrible explosion, and as a result one man is dead and two men and a boy lie in the hospital seriously, if not fatally injured. In the morning, Samuel McDonnell, janitor of the building, telephoned the Maritime Heating Company, of Amherst, to send a man up to make some repairs to the hot water boiler. Frederick Eaton was detailed for this work, and left by the noon train. The work was completed, and it is supposed the men were testing it, as at 4 o'clock a most terrific explosion occurred in the basement. The post office department was completely demolished and Samuel McDonell instantly killed, while Eaton and his assistant, whose name cannot be learned, were terribly cut and bruised. A lad, who was in the post office at the time, was caught in the falling debris and cut about the face and head by broken glass being driven into his face.

Eaton's injuries are very serious. The latest word is that the doctors have hope for his recovery. McDonell's body was found about 10 feet from the boiler, his face was badly cut and body bruised. Another boiler in the basement was also wrecked by the force of the explosion.

McDonell leaves a wife and child at Springfield, and two sons in business, one at the Joggins Mines and the other at Farrsboro, N. S. Eaton belongs to Amherst, where he has a wife and family of young children. He is a brother of the Rev. Charles A. Eaton, D.D., pastor of the Euclid Avenue Baptist church, Cleveland, Ohio, formerly pastor of Bloor Street Baptist church, Toronto.

The wrecked building, which is of brick and stone and cost about $35,000, has been occupied a little over a year; work on it having commenced in 1900. It is one of the handsomest post offices dy who was only appointed last month, dy, who was only appointed last month, and his daughter, had a most miraculous escape, being in the building surrounded by falling glass and plaster, but escaped uninjured.

The cause of the explosion is not yet known. The upper part of the building occupied as a custom house, was uninjured.

SIR CHARLES TUPPER ENDORSES MR. CHAMBERLAIN'S IMPERIAL POLICY

SIR CHARLES TUPPER, BART.

Canada's Great Statesman Backs Up the New British Policy

UNITY OF THE EMPIRE

Is the Watchword which will Sweep the Country

London, Oct. 8.—Sir Charles Tupper, Canada's great statesman, is lending his energies to the support of Chamberlain's policy of fiscal reform. Sir Charles, who is in the eighties, is working hard in the interests of imperial union. Not only on the platform but in the press, is Sir Charles active. He has a clever article in the Empire Review, avowing hearty sympathy with Mr. Chamberlain's proposals. He says that such a policy would hasten the ability to supply men and ships, so that the Empire may hold together come what may. Mr. Chamberlain asks England to seriously consider that proposal, and Canada curiously awaits the reply.

CANADIAN PREFERENCE.

The Glasgow Chamber of Commerce, regarding the fiscal enquiry has issued schedules to 1,036 members. Nine per cent. replied. The majority of these report that the import duty on corn and foodstuffs would not seriously affect their trade, also that Canada's present preference was insufficient.

YOUNG GIANT OF FISCAL REFORM.

Mr Cumming MacDona, M.P., writing to the Times about Canada, says the whole country is keenly alive to the necessity of maintaining the closest relationship socially and commercially with the mother country. He had never seen such exuberant loyalty as he had witnessed in Canada. If their constituents could only have seen with what cordiality their representatives on the parliamentary tour were received by premiers cabinet ministers and the mayors of Montreal, Quebec, Ottawa and Toronto, they would have felt how close the relationship was. He calls Canada the young giant of fiscal reform, whose phenomenal prosperity has aroused the enmity of Germany and the active criticism of the United States.

GERMANY'S DEPENDENCE.

The Financial Times says the returns of the German Statistical Office dealing with trade between Great Britain and Germany for 1902, shows unmistakably that Germany is far more dependent upon Great Britain and her colonies as an export market for her goods than the British Empire is upon Germany.

LORD BRASSEY ON CANADA.

Lord Brassey, addressing a Liberal mass meeting at Hastings on the fiscal question, said the silence of the wheat growers of Manitoba and Ontario was noteworthy. English statesmen should ask whether there was no means of developing the colonies less hindersome than food taxation.

DEPENDS ON OUR WEST.

Albert Swardlehurst, in the Empire Review says that 30,000 American farmers have banded together not to sell wheat under one dollar a bushel, and the Canadian farmers are asked to join the combine. With tariff advantages there is no inducement to the Canadian farmers to join the proposed agreement, and without their co-operating, the attempt to raise the price of wheat must fail.

"OUR LADY OF THE SNOWS."

The Westminster Gazette wonders at the retention of "Our Lady of the Snows" in Kipling's new book despite the Canadian protest against it.

HE HESITATED IN ADMITTING THE U. S. CLAIM

Lord Alverstone of Alaska Tribunal Asks Scope of American Contention

London, Oct. 7.—When the commissioners hearing the dispute over the Alaska boundary resumed their seats this morning Judge J. M. Dickenson continued his lengthy discourse on the meaning of the words in the treaty. He resumed his argument as to the meaning of the word "coast," and showed that early in the negotiations Mr. Bagot proposed a boundary line drawn from the head of Lynn Canal. Under this plan the west side of Lynn Canal would have belonged to Russia. That proposal and others less favorable to England were severally refused by Russia. Yet, under the treaty, according to the British interpretation of the word "coast," England would possess a large part of the west side of Lynn Canal, which she had never even claimed at the beginning. He argued from various expressions in an earlier draft that Mr. Canning and Mr. Bagot meant to yield, and Russia insisted upon retaining a continuous strip of solid land on the continent, not broken by patches of land and water. Such a line, he declared, would be entirely ineffective as a barrier and was foreign to the motives and objects and the manifest intention of the whole negotiations. Dealing with the argument of Attorney-General Finlay that the negotiators could not have meant the coast to follow around all the inlets, since it would be impossible to draw a line parallel to such convolutions, Mr. Dickenson contended that it was possible, and illustrated his point by supposing a cart in motion, having one wheel on the coast and the other ten leagues inland. The line traced by the interior wheel would no doubt in places overlap but such overlappings might be disregarded. He added, however, that the negotiators never intended that the lines should be drawn with any closer degree of parallelism to the coast than the mountains on the maps before them showed. He alluded to the maps after the treaty, and said the Russian, English, United States and Canadian all showed the line going round the heads of inlets.

Judge Dickenson then proceeded to discuss the mountains. He argued along Mr. Watson's line, that the treaty contemplated a regularity and continuity, and said that the mountains relied on by Great Britain did not fulfil the essential requirements of the treaty. The mountains selected by Mr. King, in their isolation suggested the scriptural description of "skipping like rams," while [illegible] miles of his mountain line is over water.

President Alverstone—Do you contend that there are no mountains anywhere within the meaning of the treaty? I must know this.

Mr. Dickenson (hesitating)—That is the contention of the United States.

HE DEALS MINUTELY.

London, Oct. 7.—Judge Jacob M. Dickinson, American counsel, resumed his argument before the Alaskan Boundary Commission this morning. He continued his contention as to the meaning of the term "coast" as employed in the treaty and in the negotiations.

All sides admit that Mr. Dickenson is making an excellent summing up for the United States. He deals minutely with each point raised in the speeches of Attorney-General Finlay, Solicitor-General Carson, and Mr. Christopher Robinson, K.C., the Canadian counsel, endeavoring to refute by means of countless references to legal authorities, and continues to hold the interest of the members of the commission and other auditors.

CANADIAN PACIFIC WILL NOT RETALIATE

Sir Thomas Shaughnessy and Grand Trunk Pacific

THE ONTARIO TERRITORY

C. P. R. Does Not Propose to Act Until Cox Scheme Becomes a Reality

Montreal, Oct. 8.—"I trust there will never come a time when Canadian railroads will not be face to face with a car shortage."

Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, was discussing with a reporter this morning, on his return from the west, the report that the American railroads are face to face with what promises to be the greatest car shortage in their history.

"A possible lack of cars," continued Sir Thomas, "is the very best thing which can happen a railroad, so long as the effort of the management are directed—as the efforts of the management of the C.P.R. have always been directed—toward supplying sufficient cars to meet any reasonable emergency.

"The fact of the matter is, however, that the C.P.R., in common with other Canadian roads, is not likely to be placed in the position of our friends across the line who, during the past six months, have been repeatedly forced to refuse large quantities of freight, owing to lack of cars to meet the requirements of transportation."

The grain in the Northwest, while it did not move during the month of September this year in as large quantities as it did in September of last year, will shortly reach the elevators in little less quantity than was the case in 1902. "The wet weather," said Sir Thomas, "has retarded the work of harvesting by about two weeks, but, while I was coming east, operations were in full swing and I have little doubt that most of the lost time will be regained."

"Will the C.P.R. experience a repetition of its difficulty of last year in providing sufficient cars to transport the grain?" asked the reporter.

"The late harvest will, of course, make it somewhat more difficult for the railroads than it would otherwise have been, but with our increased rolling stock I do not this year anticipate the difficulty which presented itself last year."

Sir Thomas was somewhat chary about discussing the Grand Trunk Pacific, although he had discussed the project in its relation to the policy of the Canadian Pacific Railway while in Vancouver.

"I did not discover any popular feeling regarding it," responded Sir Thomas, and, though not in so many words, he indicated that he had been unable to discover any great popular demand for a second transcontinental railway in that section of the Dominion, which, it is commonly believed, will be most benefitted by the undertaking.

"As in Montreal, I carefully refrained from discussing the Grand Trunk Pacific except when I disclaimed any disposition upon the part of the Canadian Pacific Railway to build lines in Ontario as a method of retaliation upon the Grand Trunk Railway for its invasion of what had been reported in the press to be our territory. I merely said the Canadian Pacific Railway never resorted to retaliation of any kind and that even if in the present instance a different policy were to be adopted no action would likely be taken until the proposed enterprise was becoming a factor in competition."

Alluding to the report that the company would attempt to make British Columbia as much a winter as a summer resort, Sir Thomas informed the reporter that the advisability of keeping a portion of the Banff Hotel open all winter was under consideration, but that no definite decision had as yet been reached.

PROTECT THE CHILDREN.

The brutal murder of another little girl, in Ontario, presumably by a tramp, once more emphasizes the demand for some vigorous and united action to rid Canada of the tramp nuisance. Within a few months there have been three of these savage and brutal outrages, one near Collingwood, one near Brantford, and one near Montreal. The man who can hear or read of such infamies without his blood boiling, is not worth calling a man. It is the fact of such crimes going unpunished that makes lynch law possible in a law-abiding community. The Dominion and Provincial law officers of the Crown should co-operate actively not only to bring the murderers to justice, but for the protection of our children in the future. So long as the depredations of the tramps were confined to petty thefts, to intimidations, or even to occasional crimes of a more serious character, such as arson or robbery, with violence, the evil was tolerable. That the people of Canada will endure with patience this latest development of the tramp nuisance, is unthinkable.

INFERIOR BINDER TWINE

That stalwart Patron of Industry, Mr. Haycock has been distinguishing himself as Dominion inspector of binder twine. During his recent trip to the west he has collected fines aggregating more than $500, confiscated a quantity that was under grade, and driven out of the country more than 200,000 lbs. of inferior twine. Some twine, supposed to be 600 feet to the ball, measured only 400—that is to say, the farmer had to pay more than one-third more for the length of twine he used. Hitherto unscrupulous manufacturers traded on the fact that it was impossible for the farmer to inspect binder twine, as the necessary unrolling, in order to measure made it useless for the binder, but this fraudulent article will, as the result of Mr. Haycock's appointment, be driven off the Canadian market.

In binder twine the only inferior goods foisted upon Canadians by foreign manufacturers. It is coming to be well understood that in many lines of goods that "made for export", in countries which Canadians specially favor by the extent of their purchases, are of greatly very much inferior to those intended for the home market.

The long and stubborn strike in the textile interest of Philadelphia has just been closed. Of the 112,000 persons who went on strike in June, all but 1,000 have returned to work, convinced at last that they were engaged in a hopeless struggle for impossible conditions. The results of the strike, as summed up by the Philadelphia Ledger, tell the story of pure economic folly.

The loss is divided more equally than usual between the men and the employers. The latter evidently will not have the [illegible] enjoyed by the anthracite mining companies to recoup their losses by higher prices. The trade of the year has been lost by idleness of the mills during the summer. Their market has gone to other industries. Now that work has been resumed it is too late for any great energy in production until work for next season's trade shall begin in the winter. Therefore, while the loss of the employes in wages is estimated at $8,000,000 that of the employers in trade is estimated at $12,000,000.

The employers, however, have made a permanent gain, which will be a permanent loss for the workmen. The necessities created by the strike have stimulated invention remarkably. Many operations done by hand before the strike are now done by new and ingenious applications of machinery. The popular process of mercerizing was formerly done by hand labor. New machines have been invented for this, each of which will do the work of five or six men. New inventions have also been made in the dyeing department which are expected to displace at least 2,000 men in a single district. This is the only result the industry has to show for $20,000,000 of loss, and this will be regarded as an additional loss by the present generation of hand workers.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Sir Henry Maxim, of machine gun fame, has a new invention which he is keeping secret for a while, but which he says will be an eye-opener when exhibited. What it is no one knows, but conjecture points to a new and wonderful flying machine.

A railless age is now predicted by automobile enthusiasts, who look to this machine to put railway cars out of business. So eminent an enthusiast as Sir Henry Norman, editor of the English edition of the World's Work, makes such a prediction in all seriousness.

To assume that the Alaskan boundary commission will fail to agree is to assume that national prejudice is more potent than a sense of justice. If the commissioners are to be regarded as mere attorneys for their respective governments the commission might as well not have been created.

That some superstitions are hard to dissipate is demonstrated in the fact that the residents along the Rio Grande are establishing shot gun quarantines against yellow fever, which is prevalent in Mexico. If modern science is not utterly at fault a shot gun quarantine is about as effective a shield against yellow fever as a barbed wire fence would be against a cyclone.

Jessie Keith of Stratford—Glory Whalen of Collingwood and now Irene Coles of Brantford—three outrageous murders, presumably by tramps. Is it any wonder that estimable people are enraged to the pitch of summary vengeance upon the criminals. Burning alive is too merciful a punishment for such human tigers.

AGA'NST THE PREFERENCE

Warnock of Galt Knitting Co. Says Tariff Is Hurtful

Galt, Oct. 5—"There is no question but that the preferential tariff is decidedly hurtful to the woollen industry in Canada," said C. R. H. Warnock of the Galt Knitting Co. this morning. "And," he added, "I make this assertion entirely free of politics."

It has been rumored in Galt and elsewhere that the closing of the three mills in Carleton Place, Peterboro and Almonte, controlled by the Canada Woollen Mills Company, which owns the Hespeler Upper Mill, was a political dodge, by which President Kendry hoped to have the preferential tariff abolished. This, Mr. Warnock thinks, is absurd. "Would a company drop several thousands of dollars and cripple its trade for several months merely for the purpose of affecting a voluntary election?"

Continuing, Mr. Warnock said the woollen business was bearing the brunt of the whole preferential tariff. It affected the cheaper grades of tweeds, particularly. English manufacturers, through the preference, made Canada a market for their surplus stock. It stood to reason that a mill could manufacture large quantities cheaper than small. Then by cheapening the cost of their goods for their own market they were content to realize a smaller profit on goods exported to Canada. Labor, too, was cheaper in England. But the worst feature was the importation of goods made in Germany and finished in England.

The import daily under the present tariff was 22 1-2 per cent. net, where formerly it was 35 per cent. net, a difference of 12 1-2 per cent.

"From information I have," said Mr. Warnock, "the woollen mills all over the country have fewer orders ahead of them than ever before, and I would not be surprised to see a number of mills close down within the next few months. The government does not realize what a serious step it is taking in the matter of the preference."

ACTRESS MAKES TROUBLE

Dorthy Hunting Gets a Philadelphia Youth Into Trouble

Philadelphia, Oct. 5—J. Howard Rommell is a youth who has little more than passed his eighteenth birthday, but his love for the beautiful is abnormally developed. One evening a month ago he strolled into a local theatre, prepared to admire in a leisurely way the pretty girls who constitute the chorus in "Miss Bob White." But mischievous Dan Cupid was out on a lark that night, and before J. Howard knew where he was at he realized that his heart was no longer his own, but reposed in the possession, willy nilly, of Miss Dorothy Hunting, the handsome and talented leading lady. With glistening eyes and palpitating breath, he worshipped his divinity throughout the performance. Then he called next day at a florists and ordered a dozen American Beauty roses, which he directed to be tied with the costliest ribbon and sent to the prima donna. He very generously intended to allow Rommell sr., to foot the bill, and his visits to other florists and merchants was on the same understanding. Now, however, upon complaints said to number about 20, made by merchants who were victimized, either by worthless checks or false representations, Rommel is locked up, awaiting an adjustment of his affairs. Among the complainants are florists, jewelers and clothiers. One firm is said to have parted with a valuable piece of diamond jewelry, which is thought to have been a present to the actress. Young Rommell, in fact, is have lavished gifts upon her.

Miss Dorothy Hunting is a Hamilton girl, and only a short time ago figured in proceedings at Osgoode Hall, between herself and her husband over the custody of their child. She only went on the stage four or five years ago, but by her appearance and talent has won great success. She is well known in Toronto through her appearances in "The Princess Chic" and, last spring in "The Strollers," and the musical comedy in which she is prima donna is booked for Toronto this winter.

OSHAWA IN O. H. A.

Will Go in Circuit with Peterborough Port Hope and Belleville

Port Hope, Oct. 6—It is hoped that Oshawa's team in the intermediate series of the O.H.A. will be carried out. In previous years the teams in this district have been too few, and consequently the season for the losing team was rather short. A district made up of Belleville, Peterborough, Oshawa, and Port Hope with a double schedule drawn up would give each team six home games, and make the season better in every way.

Marlboros of Toronto, who went into the finals last year with Paris after winning the protest against Belleville, are talking of entering the senior series this year. The Marlboros were by no means out of their class last year, but, of course, as there is very little difference between intermediate and senior, the chances are they might make a fairly good showing. Paris, last year's champions, will likely follow suit. If Belleville carries out her threat to enter the series and Oshawa fails to put in a team, it will be up to Peterborough and Port Hope to take a step higher also.

Dry Placer Miner, formerly of California.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 200 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure this gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the value.

Simplicity of Machine—Its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck or more of sand, either ordinary house of sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing lands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

Black Hills Copper Company
LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000
PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - - $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jerome mineral belt of Arizona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to-day.

A limited amount of the Stock is now offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

OF COLORADO

The Company is capitalized at $2,000,000, consisting of 2,000,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock.

The Property

Consists of nine patented, well developed mines and mill sites, situated in Gilpin County, Colorado. This county has already produced more than

$80,000,000 in Gold

The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk on ore to a depth of 100 to 600 feet, and a tunnel run a distance of 1,300 feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to unwater and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation

The Colorado & Southern Railroad passes directly in front of the mouth of the tunnel. All ore can be dumped therefrom directly into the cars, giving quick and cheap transportation to the mills. Large returns have been paid from the product of these mines.

Sale of Preferred Stock

The company desires to not only push its development work and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own mill site at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ores. For that purpose it now offers for sale [illegible] shares of its Preferred Treasury Stock at [illegible] cents per share reserving the right to increase the price of all unsold shares thereof at any time without notice.

The Company pledges the whole net product of its mines to pay an eight per cent annual dividend on the sum paid for such stock, before any other stock receives any dividend whatever. After such dividends has been paid, the common stock shall receive a like dividend, when the surplus fund remaining shall be distributed among the common and preferred stock, share and share alike. All stock will be issued full paid and non-assessable.

THE ROSE OF THE RING

"It wouldn't hurt me much," the woman replied, her good-natured face beaming. "Such a lovely child would make a fortune on the stage, and when you've set up a circus of your own, it would be easy to train her, and she'd turn out a bargain in the end."

"How you jump at conclusions! Why mother, do you think it possible the woman would desert her little one?"

"No, I don't. But you were saying 'if,' and so was I. What I mean is, if she turned against the child and left it on my hands, I couldn't send it away—and I wouldn't, either."

"Well, as you believe such a thing's not likely to happen, we won't say any more about it; but instead of being trained for the circus, I'm afraid the little one would have to get a different sort of teaching at the workhouse."

Mrs. West did not argue the point; but the sniff she gave just then meant a lot, and her daughter-in-law mentally made up her mind that if such a thing did happen, she would persuade Jim not to be hard on the little one.

"We may have children of our own some day," she thought, "and I shouldn't like anybody to be hard-hearted to them if me and Jim was taken from them."

Mrs. West had alluded to the time when Jim would be the proprietor of a circus.

This was his ambition, and he was steadily saving up to carry out his plans.

Mrs. West had had him brought up to what she called "honest trade"; but Jim had grown tired of his working toils, and had longed for a different life.

His friends told him he had a fine voice; he could sing a comic song so as to keep his hearers in roars of laughter, and no man was lighter on his feet, or could practise funnier antics.

Jim's talent—if talent it must be called—had procured him an engagement as clown in one of the London theatres, and as a natural sequel, he had fallen in love with the pretty columbine, Polly Haynes, whom he had married when the pantomime had come to a close, before Easter.

They had enough money saved to set up a little home, and with some substantial help from Mrs. West they had started life very comfortably.

"We're bound to get on," James had said a dozen times; "Polly's too good for a columbine—there's not enough for her to do in that line, and when once I'm my own master things'll begin to look different. There'll be no taking on and throwing off then—pantomimes don't last long enough, and there's time left between for clowns and columbines to starve."

Starvation! Was that all the stage had to offer when the glitter of tinsel and gaslight was over?

If Bertha could have foreseen what her child's future was to be, she would have prayed for it to die as she sat watching by its cradle that night.

CHAPTER II.

The time seemed very long to Bertha, as she sat in the dimly-lit parlor, waiting for Mrs. West's return.

She was glad when the baby awoke, and she could take it in her arms and tend to it.

She wrapped a warm woolen shawl over its night-dress, and while the infant lay in her lap, looking up at her with big, blue eyes, she sang snatches from some quaint, old ballads.

She had a sweet voice, and as she let the clear tones rise to their full power, more than one passer-by paused in the bleak wind to listen to the song.

After a time she ceased singing.

The baby had fallen asleep again, and, reluctantly, with many soft kisses on the little face, she laid it back in the cradle.

What a long time Mrs. West was!

Could anything have happened to her?

The roads were rendered slippery by the snow, and she might, perhaps, have met with an accident on her way back, after leaving her son and his wife.

These thoughts made Bertha more anxious, and, unable to endure the suspense, she went into the passage, and opening the street-door, looked out for some sign of Mrs. West.

Was it fancy—a fear born of her lonely surroundings, or did she see a shadow glide across the snow and disappear in the darkness near the railings?

She felt an icy chill creep over her as she stood waiting for it to move again.

Everything remained as still as the grave, and, persuading herself the shadow had been cast by the lilac-bush, blown fiercely about in the wind, she closed the door, and went back into the room.

She felt too restless to take up her needlework again, although there were several tucks to be finished.

Troubled thoughts were passing through her mind, and she hardly knew how long she had sat there, when she heard the street door handle turn and someone enter.

Mrs. West had returned at last! Bertha rose to meet her, glad that her time of watching was over, and she would no longer be left with her nervous fears.

She hurried into the passage, and then, with a sudden gasping cry, started back as though she had been shot.

Instead of the portly form of the landlady, she saw before her a man. He had closed the door, and one hand, white and shapely, was still on the handle.

There was a flash of a diamond ring as he removed his hat, and stood bareheaded; and with every tinge of color leaving her face, Bertha shrank back into the room.

"It has not taken me long to find you," he said. "If I had been obliged to search to the end of the world you should not have escaped me. I am your husband—Felix Errol!"

The words were uttered in mocking tones, and his grasp tightened on her shoulder so as to cause her pain.

"I am not likely to forget what you are to me," she answered, looking at him with loathing in her eyes. "I only wish to Heaven we had never met, or that I could put the whole universe between us."

"You would like to see me dead," he sneered.

She shivered.

"No," she answered; "I should not like to see you dead; I would rather you lived and mended your life, but away from me."

"How you hate me, Bertha! And yet, what did you say to me when we were married?"

"I said I loved you."

"And did you love me?"

She broke passionately from his hold.

"How did you value that love? You made me disobey and deceive those who held me dearest; you made me what I am now—a castaway, without a friend to whom I can hold out my hand. For what? Because I had money, and that money you craved until you got it in your possession and squandered it away. I have nothing more to give. Why have you followed me?"

"There the law is an unjust one. Is there no release from such as you, save through death?"

He shrugged his shoulders impatiently.

"We don't want to go for heroics," he said. "You know me well enough to understand I have not followed you without making sure of my plans. I do not intend to leave you here tonight, Bertha. I have a cab waiting a few yards off, which will convey us to a more inviting atmosphere, and tomorrow we shall be on our way to Monte Carlo."

"You may, probably; but I shall be here with my babe."

He flung an indifferent glance towards the cradle.

"As to that," he replied, "I have a right to decide what shall become of the child. Wrap it up, and bring it with you; it must be disposed of before morning. Where we are going, it would be in the way."

"Dispose of it before the morning! What did those words imply?

Bertha knew enough of this man to realise that he would stop at nothing to further his own ends, and she made up her mind not to let the babe fall into his power.

"You have caused suffering enough," she said, in a low voice. "You need not try to bring the child to a life of misery. Leave her to me, and go. We are not likely ever to willingly cross your path, and you can be free to live your life as you choose—you going your way, and leaving us to ours."

"Let this scene end!" he exclaimed, savagely. "I have no time to waste, and the sooner you come with me, the better; and," he added, bending his face close to her, while his gleaming eyes seemed to pierce her very soul, "let this be the last time you play me such a trick. Don't ever attempt to run away from me again."

"I shall not go back with you," she said, resolutely. "You do your worst, Felix; but you shall not force me to drag out an existence with you. I hate you so bitterly that I would rather die than go back to you. Once I loved you—not knowing you; now I know you, I loathe the very air you breathe!"

His face grew white with rage.

He was tall, powerfully-built, and handsome in his way, his dark face forming a striking contrast to her fair one.

He was fifteen or twenty years her senior, although still in the prime of manhood, "an adventurer, a gambler," a stranger would decide, after a brief survey of Felix Errol's features; and then might be added, "unprincipled, unscrupulous—a man not to be trusted."

"Do my worst!" he hissed, his fiercest passions roused. "Yes, I will do my worst; and you shall see what it is to defy me. I will leave you, and take the child!"

With a sharp cry, she stretched her arms across the cradle, and gazed at him like a hunted deer driven to bay.

"You shall not touch the child!" she exclaimed. "If you try to tear her from me, I will not be answerable for what I may do!" Then [illegible] knees, she clasped [illegible] moaned—

"Oh, God! [illegible] enough already that [illegible] still be persecuted? How shall I [illegible] the influence of this man? How [illegible] myself from the agony with which he threatens me?"

Her fate seemed to rest in his hands, and the fate of the babe, so much dearer to her than her own life.

"Leave us, Felix, she cried. "For the love of heaven, leave me in peace with my child. I will work for her, and bring her up to love your name. She shall know nothing of your sinful life, nothing of your cruelty to the mother who bore her, if you will only leave us, and never come near us again!"

"Ties, such as are between us, cannot so easily be disregarded," he said, his eyes losing none of their vindictive expression. "I cannot carry you away by force, but the child I will have. If I leave you here to-night, you will be alone."

He went over to the cradle, and, bending down, pulled the coverings roughly aside.

Bertha threw out her arms protectingly.

With a savage movement he struck them back, and, seizing the child, dragged it from its pillow.

Stung to fury by this outrage, Bertha sprang to her feet; and, as she saw her child held aloft in its father's savage grasp, as she saw the terror in the sweet, awakened eyes, and knew its helplessness and danger, a sort of madness took possession her her.

A knife was lying on the sideboard.

Quick as lightning she clutched the weapon, and raising it in the air, aimed at his heart.

But as the knife descended, he caught her by the wrist; then he flung the child back into the cradle.

GET NOTHING BUT SYMPATHY

Macedonian Delegates on Way to European Capitals

London, Oct. 4.— The possibility of war in the Near East developing out of the appalling welter of massacre now seems more remote than ever. At the same time, there seems little or no hope of improvement until the winter perforce prevents the movements of Bulgarians, Macedonians, and Turks alike.

Nor do the attempts to secure the intervention of Europe meet with the slightest encouragement. Such an outcry as was raised over the Armenian atrocities, it is now evident, cannot be brought up in behalf of the Macedonians. In England there is no Gladstone in the field. When appealed to by archbishops, bishops and other prominent men and associations, Prime Minister Balfour replies with a non possumus. Further, efforts are about to be made, but nothing can be expected to result from them.

Sailed for Washington.

Yesterday Constantine Stephanove, a Bulgarian graduate of Yale University, sailed from Antwerp on the Red Star Line steamship Vaderland for New York as a Macedonian delegate. His object is to see President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hay and request them to intervene in the Balkans, or at least to remonstrate with the Sultan. Stephanove has just completed a six months' sentence of imprisonment for acting as a guide to a correspondent of a London paper in Macedonia. He will lay facts that have not yet transpired before the President.

Other delegates are on their way to France, Germany, and England, but they cannot expect anything beyond sympathy.

JAPAN NOT SEEKING WAR

Movement of Troops to Corea Explained by Diplomats

London, Oct. 6.—Baron Hayashi, Japanese Minister, commenting on the movements of Japanese troops to Corea, announced from Paris yesterday, to-day said: "From the published accounts I am certain that any movements of troops are only the routine relief of the Japanese forces guarding the telegraph line from Fusan to Seoul and the Chemulpo. To send a small body of troops to Corea would be no menace to Russia and would have no effect on her plans. A mobilization of the Japanese forces on a large scale is not contemplated for a moment and Corea's consent would have to be obtained for any such step.

The minister added that he still believed Russia intended to keep her promise to evacuate Manchuria, Oct. 8. Until that promise was broken Japan was not likely to make any move. The Japanese troops guarding the telegraph lines were stationed in Corea with the assent of Russia as well as Corea.

Paris, Oct. 6.—Information received here through official sources, at St. Petersburg show that the explanation given of Japan's moving troops to Corea is calculated to remove suspicion concerning her intention. The number of troops moved is estimated at between 3,000 and 10,000.

Japan explains that the movement is part of a plan of experimental mobilization for the purpose of showing her ability to mobilize a considerable force in connection with the friction between Japan and China, but that it has no connection with differences between Japan and any other power.

AN EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY

FOR BOTH LARGE AND SMALL INVESTORS

Owing to valuable Patents having been granted this Company, we are desirous of extending our business to the Dominion of Canada. Owing to the Customs duties, the extra cost in transportation and the numerous expenses attached, and the delays in deliveries in shipping goods from one country to another, it is absolutely necessary that we should have a factory in the Dominion, that we may be in a position to meet the immediate wants of the business.

The articles that we make from our Patent Fabric are too numerous to mention, and it is not necessary that we go into the details of the merits of our goods, as they are already in use to a large extent and have no equal. Our goods are covered by several patents, and the profit on the goods is large, averaging from 25 to 100 per cent, thus affording the company large revenue to meet all its obligations

In order to secure funds to equip a plant in the Dominion of Canada we will offer to the people of Canada $100,000 of our Bonds paying ten per cent. interest per annum.

Experience has shown that stocks based upon sound industrial enterprises have never been equalled from the standpoint of legitimate profit. For instance, a few hundred dollars invested in the Bell Telephone Company's stock in the beginning of the enterprise now commands thousands of dollars, after having yielded large dividends annually. Of course opportunities for such profitable investments do not present themselves every day, and it is also very true that a vast amount of capital has been misdirected in the endeavor to exploit inventions and enterprises which shrewd and far seeing investors should have recognized as impractical. But as regards this enterprise even the most conservative must admit it has possibilities of development which are almost incalculable and which have already been demonstrated in a practical manner. We have no speculative elements—this is a sound business proposition, and the patents which we own are worth several million dollars, as there can only be one fabric of this kind and that is ours.

All the above facts are simple statements of the truth and can be fully substantiated to the satisfaction of all investors.

The business is no experiment, the incorporators of this Company have made it their business for a great many months past and understand all the details, the prospects are therefore bright, and brighter than those of many other opportunities.

This Company is not a promotors company, every dollar goes to enhance the value of the property and business and increase the capacity. There is nothing speculative in this proposition, the enterprises are undertaken for industrial purposes only to make profits by the operation and development of the business.

Considering that the enterprise is already upon an established basis with a certainty of profitable future expansion, we feel warranted in the assertion that this is an attractive proposition to investors whether large or small.

The price of these Bonds are one dollar each, and will be issued in any number wanted. With every purchaser of each five Bonds we will give as a bonus, one share of stock of the Company, the par value of which is five dollars per share, thus assuring interest on the investment, and with the stock which is bound to increase you will have for nothing. These Bonds will be issued for five years. Persons desiring to avail themselves of this opportunity want to send their remittance at once.

First Class Mining Proposition.

The Anaconda Gold Mining Co.

Home Office: 412 Merchants Loan and Trust Bldg.
135 Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

This is one of the best propositions ever placed before the Canadian investor. The Company owns 600 acres in the celebrated Black Hills District, South Dakota, comprising 32 claims. The tract is unquestionably on the great Homestake belt, being located directly between the wonderful Homestake mine and the Clover Leaf mine. Two shafts have already been sunk, the main one being down 184 feet, with capacity of going 1000 feet. The Company has also installed an Ingersoll-Sargeant air compressor and drills, 125 horse power boiler, steam pumps, and in fact everything needed for actual operation, with the exception of its stamp mills; which will be installed at once. The vein of gold-bearing quartz traversing the Company's property is very rich. Assays have run from $3 to $54.30 per ton.

The Company has a capital of 1,500,000 shares, divided into 750,000 preferred and 750,000 common, par value $1 per share, fully paid up and non-assessable. The treasury stock has been made preferred stock to the amount of 25 cents a share. Out of the first dividends 25 cents per share will be paid to the owners of this preferred stock before holders of common stock receive any share of the profits. After the 25 cents has been paid to the shareholders of preferred stock, then all alike share in the dividends. (This means nothing less than that the first investors in the enterprise will have all their money returned to them before any dividends are declared to the rank and file o investors.

A limited amount of Stock has been placed on the Canadian market. Full particulars and copy of prospectus may be obtained from MR. R. J. KIDD, or the undersigned Agent for Peterborough city

AN OPPORTUNITY

C. C. Pugh, postmaster at Adel, Dallas county, Iowa, and Dr. W. J. Williams, surgeon for the Milwaukee railroad at that place, are very successful mining men. They understand the western country and know the mines and their possibilities. They are selling Williams Fork Stock at 10 cents a share. This stock went off the market at 25 cents July 1 this year and there is none to be had of the company at any price. They guarantee this stock to be gilt edge $40,000 worth of ore on the dump now. If you want 1,000 shares of this stock send draft for $100 to Adel State Bank, Adel, Iowa, and they will send you your certificate for same. If you want 500 shares send draft for $50 to said bank. Pugh and Williams do their business through this large bank, hence you are safe in sending money to them. Dividends will come soon from this property and it will then go to $1.00 per share. It is in Colorado and officials of that state write that it is a magnificent property. If you knew this property and the people back of it you would want this stock. For reference write Hon. Geo. W. Clarke, Adel, Iowa, member of the Legislature. He will tell you as to our reliability. If you buy 1,000 shares of this stock we send you a guarantee and you will also thank us for calling your attention to it. An honest proposition. Write immediately with draft as this stock will be offered but a few days at 10 cents. Last shipment of ore went over $120 to the ton.

STOCK MARKETS.

New York, Oct. 7.—Now that the uncertainty regarding the steel common dividend is over and stock holders in a measure know what to expect the concensus of opinion is that there will be improvement in the general trade in the stock market. The monetary situation is still reviewed as more unfavorable. The railroad situation generally continues very favorable.

New York, Oct. 7.—Market waited for steel dividend. The declaration of the United States steel common dividend took place after the close and in spite of many definite assurances the dividend was made the subject of great doubts. Traders and betting London did nothing although consuls were still easier. This was due probably to Cabinet disturbances. Although it was hard to turn over 500 share lots in any other stock there was a market for 5,000 share lots, especially in steel preferred. Actual sales of the dividend took place at varying figures. Averaging about 3-4 of 1 per cent. underneath the surface, however there was a feeling that the price could not be much worse and might be greatly better, even if the common dividend rate was reduced clearly. However the preferred stock was favored. There has been a feeling for a long time that inside interests whenever they wanted to liquidate have sold the common stock on the gound that itcost them little in the first place and have been inclined to retain the preferredstock which in view of its cumulative dividend might turn out the better, year in and year out if the corp's business should be indifferent or merely fair. Similarly the dividends for the second mortgage bonds is comparatively good. There was a radical tendency toward ease in the local money market. Call money has become a drug. Two per cent. is all that can be counted upon.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—While there was a great deal of selling in the wheat market yesterday there was a good buying in lower prices. The world's visible supply showed an increase in the primary market accumulation. The professional element is doing the bulk of business. Corn continues rather uncertain and the trade is rather mild. The crop situation is better. The cash is fairly good.

The Mines of Pearl, Idaho.

Pearl, Idaho, Oct. 5.—The Lincoln mine has the wire strung and everything is in readiness to change to electric power and lights as soon as the motor arrives.

The Marguerite company is in about 40 feet on its crosscut from the 200 foot level, which is to cut the Checkmate lead, of which property the Marguerite is the west extension.

The Van Riper New York syndicate, since purchasing a half interest in Lawey's Le Van group, is pushing work with a full force night and day, and will soon bring another producer into line. Since the Dewey people have purchased the Checkmate mine, they have put on a full force sinking the main shaft and have completed arrangements to put in electric power and lights, and will largely increase the output of the mine.

The I.X.L. is driving its lower crosscut tunnel to cut the main lead at 350 feet in depth. They are now 300 feet. They are also continuing their drifting in the 200-foot level in the upper tunnel, in which they have recently struck $40 ore. This upper tunnel and drift is in over 1,000 feet length.

Hon George W. E. Dorsey, president of the Blue Bucket company, has about completed arrangements whereby the Boise merchants, Pearl mine owners and county commissioners will enlarge the Rock Creek wagon road and extend the same through Rock Creek canyon to the Payette river, making this the main thoroughfare for the Long Valley and Thunder Mountain travel. This route, when completed, will cut off five miles of the distance from Boise to Payette river.

The Pearl Mining Company, Hon. George W. E. Dorsey, president, is running a cross cut tunnel to cut the I. X. L. vein on its Rock Creek group. They also have on day and night shifts driving the tunnel on the Independence which follows the lead in 400 feet, gaining a depth of 200 feet, from which point a station will be cut. A steam hoist will be put in and a shaft sunk 500 feet. This work is under the supervision of P. Poston, manager of the company.

The Yankee syndicate has erected new boarding and bunk houses and is making preparations to extensively develop its North Star mine on Deep gulch.

Captain Charles A. Parker, who is now east will return September 1st, having completed arrangements while east to put in a steam hoist, electric power and power drills to continue the sinking of the double compartment shaft on the Blue Bucket. This shaft is now down 150 feet. At 200 feet a cross-cut will be run to the south vein. The shaft will be sunk to 500 feet at once.

The Idaho-Belt company has completed arrangements to put on three shifts September 15th on its Bull Dog tunnel, which will cut the Bull Dog vein at 40 feet and the Little Nelson 140 feet in depth. This tunnel, when completed, will be 2,000 feet in length and will reach the Blue Bucket group. It will crosscut the eight veins on the five properties of the Idaho-Belt company. They will also put on a force of men and develop their Highland, which is the east extension of Dewitt, Williams and Spalding's Pay Day, upon which there has been recently opened up an eight or ten foot vein of high grade ore.

The Kalnuck company has the foundation well under way for its new Chillian mill on the Payette river. They have 6,000 tons of ore now on the dump ready for the mill. This company has three shifts running their 1,400-foot crosscut to cut their lead at 750 feet in depth.

The Hy Henry company has struck a good body of ore on its Horse Shoe end property.

The Osborne people are down 250 feet on the Vail incline and have a good body of ore.—Mining Review.

COPETE MINING CO.

27 William Street, New York

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $160,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them are—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now clear and undisputed title to all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

MYRA B. MARTIN, SECRETARY

Mr. Richard McCallum

A Remarkable Case Exciting Great Interest in Stirling, which, if Possible adds to the Popularity of Catarrhozone as a cure for Catarrh, Bronchitis and Throat Trouble

"For many years," he writes, "I have suffered from Catarrh, and continually hawked and coughed, so that my throat was always in an inflamed irritable condition.

"Doctors' medicines did not help me in the least, and all other remedies I used were quite useless. In one case it was time wasted in snuffing powder up the nose; in another using a greasy ointment, and so on. Not one of them was the least bit of good.

"I heard Catarrhozone favorably spoken of, and tried a sample, and it really benefitted me more in a few hours than years of treatment with doctors' and other so called remedies.

"Receiving such immense benefit from the sample size I got the complete outfit, large Hard Rubber Inhaler, etc., and but a few weeks of its use completely cured me of Catarrh and throat trouble.

"I recommend Catarrhozone as the most satisfactory Catarrh remedy on the market. Every word said about it is true.

(Signed) "Richard McCallum."

Now perhaps you need a remedy like Catarrhozone. It is the only treatment that is applied locally as well as constitutionally. The Inhaler clears the air passages, stops hawking and spitting, and purifies the breath.

The Ferrozone Tablets which are used in conjunction with Catarrhozone Inhaler, drive all the poisons from the blood and build up the system to a healthy, vigorous condition.

The complete outfit costs $1, at all druggists; trial size 25c. by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont. Buy Catarrhozone to-day.

The Railway Gates

His Worship, Mayor Roger, received a letter from Mr. H. P. Timmerman, of the C.P.R. stating that an extra man has been put on at Peterborough, whose duty it is to look after the gates at the George street crossing. This prompt action of the railway authorities is commendable.

Free Text Books

Toronto Globe: A deputation of trustees of the Peterboro Public School Board interviewed Inspector Hughes yesterday on the use of free text-books in the schools. The visiting trustees were - Inspector D. Walker and Messrs. Mowry, Pringle, Jameson and Hill. The introduction of the free text-book system in the Peterborough Schools has been under consideration for some time and will probably be initiated with the new year. The Peterboro trustees visited several of the schools down town and, after ascertaining the details of the system in use in the public schools here, they also decided to visit Brantford, and from there they will go to Hamilton, with the same object in view.

Lectures on Vitosophy

Prof. Wm. Windsor, LL. B., Ph. D., the world's most eminent phrenologist, will deliver a series of lectures on Vitosophy, Phrenology and Health Culture at the Y. M.C.A. Hall, beginning Friday night. Prof. Windsor, who is an authority on these subjects has many interesting theories in regard to the brain and its uses; the diseases and their cause; poverty and its cure. For instance, he believes that poverty is a disease and can be cured. According to his belief poor people are the result of two causes —either they are working at the wrong vocation, or else they have the "poverty disease." The Professor states that there are seven cardinal virtues in human character, and according as an individual possesses one or more of these virtues he is adapted to various kinds of labor. In his lectures, which will be free, Professor Windsor will explain these theories fully and will each evening read the characters of a number of prominent citizens by examining their heads.

"THE COUNTRY GIRL."

Attractive Play This Evening by a Powerful Company o. Artists

In the production of the Country Girl, which will be given tonight at the Rink, Edith Ellis Baker will be seen in a character that all the celebrated actresses have, since the days of Garrick, essayed at some time.

The Country Girl was written when all England seemed to be given over to fun and folly and while, perhaps, there is not the same style as that which characterized the works of Sheridan in the School for Scandal and The Rivals, yet the Country Girl has held its own through the centuries and is, today, being presented to tremendous houses in both London and New York.

Mrs. Baker, who is known to the theatrical world in London and New York as Edith Ellis is well known throughout the United States, not only as an actress, but as a playwright, being the author of "The Point of View" which was cordially received and successfully played at her theatre in Brooklyn last season.

Mr. Donald Robertson, who will be remembered by many Canadians as the star in that admirable drama "The Man in the Iron Mask," plays a strong and finished interpretation of Harcourt to Mrs Baker's Peggy. Mr. Robertson was many years with the famous Austin Daly companies and before coming to this country was associated with Irving in London. Mr. Robertson toured the United States with the initial tour of Olga Nethersole.

Peterborough play-goers have the advantage of seeing this excellent organization because of a loss of dates in the larger border cities in the United States and so, have been compelled to play the city of Peterborough on short notice. Everything has been done to make the rink comfortable for the patrons, scenery having been procured for the stage, and an enjoyable evening may be expected. Seats on sale at Salisbury's Book Store.

A BUSY SEASON

Curtis Bros. Brickworks Closed for the Season

Messrs. Curtis Bros. have closed their brick works after a busy season, having manufactured, during the summer, near two and a quarter million bricks, every one of which has been disposed of, the largest orders being that of the Canadian General Electric Company and the Cereal Company.

The firm have a large number of men employed, many of whom are kept on through the winter, getting out wood. Their brick, as everybody knows, is the best that can be made, and it is therefore not surprising that there is a great demand for it.

A BRUTUAL ATTACK

Village Constable Fitzgerald, of Ashburnham Injured

Yesterday morning Constable Fitzgerald, of Ashburnham, was severely cut on the head by a man named John O'Brien, whom he was attempting to arrest. It appears that O'Brien, who is said to be a dangerous character, has of late been drinking and creating a disturbance. When approached by the Constable he seized a couple of stones, which he viciously hurled at the officer of the law, inflicting a wound in the scalp requiring several stitches by the surgeon, Dr. Young, who was promptly summoned.

Mr. Fitzgerald, notwithstanding his severe wound, closed on his man, and got the handcuffs on. He was taken to gaol, and will appear for trial today.

—At the County Police Court on Tuesday His Worship, Magistrate Edmison sentenced Wm. Williams a professional tramp to six months in Central Prison. Williams broke into a farm house in Asphodel when there was nobody at home and carried off a clock.

INSPECTING THE MINES

Two Peterborough Citizens on a Trip to Colorado

Messrs. Robt. Harrison, Water st., and Thos. Patterson, broker, Simcoe street, are on a trip to Colorado, where they will inspect the property of the Stony Pass Mining Company of which Messrs. Thos. Patterson & Co. are the local fiscal agents. This proposition is said to be one of the best ever offered to the Canadian investor. The object is to confirm the reports of the promoters of the Company by actual personal observation and make intending investors doubly safe. A full report of the visit of Messrs. Patterson and Harrison will appear in these columns on their return.

PERSONAL MENTION

Movements of the People—What They are Doing and Saying.

—Mr. Richard Crowe, Warden of the County, was in town yesterday.

—Mr. Lonsborough, government road inspector, passed through town yesterday on his way north.

—Miss B. Halpin, of town, is among those who graduated at St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, and is now receiving the congratulations of her friends.

—Lindsay Post—Miss Bertha Jones and Miss Alice Wilson, of Peterborough, have returned after spending a few days in town.

DEATH OF MRS. W. H. PENDRY

A Former Peterborough Lady Passes Away in Brooklyn, N.Y.

It is with deep regret that the many friends in Peterborough of Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Pendry, will learn of the demise of Mrs. Pendry, which took place on Monday last at their home in Brooklyn, N.Y. The deceased lady had been in poor health for a considerable time, and her end, therefore, was not unexpected. The family removed from Peterborough, where they resided about five years, to Brooklyn, N.Y., 25 years ago.

The remains arrived on the C.P.R. local last night, and were taken to the residence of Mr. E. Courtney, Dr. Pendry's brother-in-law, concession street, Ashburnham. Interment will take place this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Little Lake Cemetery.

The hearty sympathy of The Times is extended to Dr. Pendry and his son in their irreparable loss.

INCIDENTS OF THE DAY

—A couple of route boys are needed at The Times office.

—Howard Peters, charged at the County Police Court with stealing a horse declined to elect to be tried by the magistrate and after a preliminary examination he was committed for trial.

—The railway gates on Simcoe street were badly damaged on Tuesday evening by a runaway team of horses belonging to Mr. Wolstenholm. The gatekeeper was also severely injured.

—The work of rebuilding the swing of the Lindsay street bridge is being rapidly pushed forward by a large staff of men under the foremanship of Mr. Alex. Ross. The new bridge will be of a more permanent character than the old one, as concrete will replace the old timber foundations.

Insurance News.

Insurance men of the west who read the daily columns of insurance information in the Chicago Record-Herald keep pace with the times and are prepared for all emergencies and contingencies that have grown into the insurance business. The column "With Insurance Men" gives in compact form all the latest doings in the insurance world, and it is conceded by insurance men everywhere to be the best and most up-to-date report published by any newspaper in the United States. The Record-Herald does not copy its information from insurance journals, but secures it first hand from managers, agents and companies and by telegraph from its own special correspondents, by telephone and in special cable dispatches from abroad. The New York service of the Record-Herald's insurance department is equalled by no other paper. In fact, the Record-Herald is the only daily newspaper that gives insurance men the first information daily on every important event in the insurance business.

ST. JOHN'S WIN FIRST GAME

The first game in the Junior series of the City League was played on the Oval yesterday afternoon between the Rough Riders II. and St. John's choir boys, the choir boys winning by 6 points to 4.

The Rough Riders scored first, Kelly making a splendid run for a try which was not converted. From this on the choir boys were very aggressive, forcing 2 rouges in the first half, and in the second half Seymour ran around the end for a try, putting his team in the lead by 2 points. Wood, Kelly and Ackerman made a splendid back division for the Rough Riders while the wings and centres of both teams played the game the the way it should be played. The choir boys' back division played faultlessly, Wellers' fine punting being a feature. Mr. R. F. McWilliams and Mr. Chris. Graham made very satisfactory officials.

The teams lined up as follows—

St. John's		Rough Riders
	Back
F. Sawers		A. Parks
	Halves
Seymour		Wood
Weller		Kelly
Robinson		Ackerman
	Quarter
E. Wood		Burritt
	Centre
Cumming		[illegible]
	Wings
Loy		Overend
Junison		O'Brien
Bone		Sheffield
Craig		Quinlan
Strickland		O'Brien
Thornton		Greer

The next game in the Junior series will be played next Saturday at Lakefield, between the Rough Riders and the Grove team, of Lakefield.

CHAMBERLAIN TO COLONIES AS KINSMEN.

United States together; our colonial trade, in fact, is the most rapidly increasing, important and valuable of all our trade. Meanwhile, foreign exports to the United Kingdom have risen from £63,000,000 in 1871 to £149,000,000 in 1902. I do not comment on that, but when I am told that we ought to hold the same opinions as our ancestors, I reply that we should, if the circumstances remained the same.

Trusts to Working Class.

"I have made these figures clear. It is plain that our import trade is essential to our prosperity. If it declines or fails to increase in proportion to our population and the loss of foreign trade, then we shall sink into a fifth rate nation. We have reached our highest point, and I am not certain but that some of my opponents regard that with absolute complacency. I do not believe in the setting of the British star, but then I do not believe in the folly of the British people. I trust them and trust to the working classes. I have confidence that they who are the masters, electorally speaking, will have the intelligence to see that they must wake up, that they must meet the new conditions with an altogether new policy.

History of Protection.

"Now, what is the history of protection? First, there is a tariff and no industries. Then gradually primary industries for which the country has natural facilities grow up behind the tariff walls. Then, secondary industries spring up; first of necessaries, then of luxuries, until at last all together is covered. In the United States the process is completed. She produces everything and excludes everything.

Now is the Time.

"We can intervene now, but it is doubtful whether we could intervene twenty years hence. We can say to our colonies, we understand your views and aspirations, and do not desire to dictate or think ourselves superior to you we recognize your right to develop your industries so as not to be dependent on foreign supplies, but there are many things you do not know how to make, for which we have a great capacity for production; leave them to us; do not increase the tariff walls against us; let us exchange with you for your productions; do it because we are kinsmen, because it is good for the Empire as a whole, and because we have taken the first step and set you the example; we offer you a preference; we rely upon your patriotism and your affection that we shall not be losers thereby.

Look Into the Past.

"Suppose we had made such an offer to the United States and Germany ten or twenty years ago. Do you suppose that we should not have been able to retain a great deal of what we have now lost and cannot recover? America is the strictest of the protective nations. It has a tariff which to me is an abomination. It is so immoderate, unreasonable and unnecessary, and although America has profited enormously I think it has been carried to excessive lengths and I believe that a great number of intelligent Americans would gladly negotiate with us for its reduction. But until very recent times even this immoderate tariff left us the great tin plate trade, amounting to millions of pounds per annum, and which we might have kept if we had given some reciprocal advantage. It would not have been worth America's while to put a duty upon an article of which it had no particular use or special aptitude.

"Were we to lose the colonial as we have lost our foreign trade, we should arrive at the parting of the ways. If the opportunity is not seized now it will not recur. Canada will fall to the level of the United States, Australasia to the level of Canada, and South Africa to the level of Australasia, and that would be the beginning of a general decline which would rob us of our most important trade."

Mr. Chamberlain said he believed that the colonies "ARE PREPARED TO MEET US IN RETURN FOR A VERY MODERATE PREFERENCE. They would reserve to us the trade we already enjoyed, would also arrange their tariffs in the future in order not to start industries in competition with those already in existence in the mother country, and not only would they enable us to retain our trade with them, but they would give us a preference on all trade done with them by our foreign competitors."

He had spoken with many colonists who believed that the present colonial relations could not be permanent. They must either be drawn closer together or they would drift apart.

By Commercial Union.

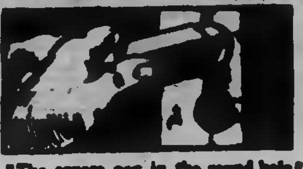
He believed that it was only by a commercial union and reciprocal preference that they could lay the foundation of a federation of the empire, to which they all looked as a brilliant possibility. He wished to repeat explicitly that he DID NOT WISH TO TAX RAW MATERIALS USED IN BRITISH MANUFACTURES. He said he proposed nothing that would add one farthing to the cost of living of any workingman or of any family in the country.

Concluding Words.

Mr. Chamberlain concluded: "I warn you, I urge you, I implore you to do nothing that will tend towards the disintegration of the empire, not to refuse to sacrifice futile superstitions and inept prejudice, and thereby to lose the result of centuries of noble effort and patriotic endeavor."

Glasgow, Oct. 6—In his speech to-day Mr. Chamberlain stated his plan of fiscal reform briefly as follows: He proposes to put a low duty, not exceeding 2 shillings (48 cents) a quarter on foreign corn, but none on corn from British possessions.

He proposed no tax on maize, partly because it formed the food of some of the very poorest among the population,



"The square peg in the round hole" figuratively expresses the use of means unsuited to the desired end. A great many people who have been cured of dyspepsia and other diseases of the stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery say: "We tried many medicines with only temporary benefit. It was not until we began the use of 'Golden Medical Discovery' that we found a complete and lasting cure."

$3,000 FORFEIT will be paid by WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Proprietors, Buffalo, N. Y., if they cannot show the original signature of the individual volunteering the testimonial below, and also of the writers of every testimonial among the thousands which they are constantly publishing, thus proving their genuineness.

"It is with pleasure that I tell you what Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pellets' have done for me," writes Mrs. T. M. Palmer, of Peede, Kaufman Co., Texas. "Two years ago I was taken with stomach and bowel trouble. Everything I ate would put me in distress. I lived two weeks on milk and even that gave me pain. I felt as though I would starve to death. Three doctors attended me—one said I had dyspepsia, two said catarrh of the stomach and bowels. They attended me (one at a time) for one year. I stopped taking their medicine and tried some patent medicine; got no better, and I grew so weak and nervous my heart would flutter. I could not do any kind of work. Now I can do my work very well; am gaining in flesh and strength, and can eat anything I want."

and partly because it was raw material and feeding stuff.

He proposed a corresponding tax on flour, and he would give special preference to the miller with the object of re-establishing one of our ancient industries and of preventing a rush from the country to the town, and also of placing corn, offal and feeding stuffs more cheaply within the possession of the farmers.

A small tax of about 5 per cent. on foreign meat and dairy products, excluding bacon, which was the food of so many of the poorest population.

Lastly, he proposed to give a substantial preference to the colonies upon wines and fruits.

Against these increases he proposed some great remissions. He proposed to take off three-quarters of the duty on tea, half the duty on sugar, with corresponding reductions upon cocoa and coffee.

The net result of these impositions and remissions would be that the town artisan's food would, according to the most elaborate calculation, cost him two pence half penny (five cents) less per week than it did at present, while that of the agricultural laborer would cost him two pence (four cents) less, but if, as he believed, a great part of the tax on food would be paid by the foreigner, there would be a reduction in the cost of food, both for the artisan and the agricultural laborer.

The loss to the Exchequer, he estimated, at £2,800,000. A moderate duty of 10 per cent., on manufactured goods would give to the Exchequer £9,000,000 a year, and he would make use of that for remission of taxes.

The question was, what would the Colonies say? He believed they would treat generously any offer Great Britain might make.

The Leading Specialists of America. 25 Years in Detroit. Bank Security.

Nine out of every ten men have been guilty of transgression against nature in their youth. Nature never excuses, no matter how young, thoughtless or ignorant he may be. The punishment and suffering corresponds with the crime. The only escape from its ruinous results is proper scientific treatment to counteract its effects. The DRAINS, either by nightly losses, or secretly through the urine, must be stopped—the NERVES must be built up and invigorated, the blood must be purified, the SEXUAL ORGANS must be vitalized and developed, the BRAIN must be nourished. Our New Method Treatment provides all these requirements. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers disappear; the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, bashfulness and despondency disappear; the eyes become bright, the face full and clear, energy returns to the body, and the moral, physical and sexual systems are invigorated; all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. The various organs become natural and manly. We invite all the afflicted to call and consult us confidentially and free of charge. Cures Guaranteed or no Pay. We treat and cure: Varicocele, Blood Diseases, Stricture, Gleet, Emissions, Urinary Drains, Spermatorrhoea, Unnatural Discharges, Kidney and Bladder Diseases.

ATTACK ON THE KAISER PROTECTOR OF SULTAN

The Russian Minister, Plehve, is Again Charged with Breaking Faith, Scenes in a Russian Court

London, Oct. 8 — Russian correspondents of The Times describe the court-martial just held at Tanganro on twenty-three Socialists, including a youth of nineteen, and two young women accused of participating in the demonstration and strike riots at Rostoff last year. The trial was not held at Rostoff on account of the strong public sympathy for the prisoners, and an attack on the authorities was feared even at Taganro, where a strong force of Cossacks was deemed necessary. Labels with the name of each prisoners were placed along the dock that the witnesses might see whom to denounce. Four of the most important witnesses, who were detectives, did not appear. Their written statements made to an officer of the gendarmerie and handed in were objected to by the defence as illegal, because, they were not given before a Magistrate, and especially as the detectives were absent by order and could not be cross-examined. The public prosecutor admitted the illegality of the proceedings, but he ruled that the evidence should be read on the written order of the Ministers of War and Justice and the Interior. The witnesses present showed themselves untrustworthy. The public prosecutor urged that six of the prisoners be condemned to death.

Speeches by Prisoners.

Most of the prisoners were silent, but Anna Logatcheff made a long speech in a dignified manner. One defiant prisoner, Vassil Tchenko, described how and why he joined the Socialists. He said:— "I read in a patriotic book that Russian workmen participated in the movement because they were under the influence of the Jews, who received English money to organize an agitation to humiliate Russia. Among the Jews, as well as the Christians, there are workingman. They are our brothers. Those who exploit us, Jews or Christian, are our enemies, but you, your Cossacks, and your Government, are our worst enemies."

Three Condemned to Death.

Three of the prisoners were condemned to death, two girls were sent to eastern Siberia for life, seven to minor terms of imprisonment, and the rest were released. The public in the court greatly sympathized with the prisoners, and even the Cossacks seem to be moved.

Gomel and Kishineff.

London, Oct. 8—The Times recently printed an official statement communicated by M. Plehve, through Mr. Arnold White, asserting that the Jews were the aggressors at Gomel and Kishineff, and citing an alleged confirmatory incident in Pinsk, where three Jews attacked a Christian boy. Russian correspondents of The Times now give the true version. The boy had a scuffle with a Jewish boy, and was wounded in the hand, but was soon well, and they made friends again. The Official Messenger distorted the story as quoted by M. Plehve, and the Governor, with a company of soldiers, descended on the town. Some days later the Christian boy's brother wired to the Official Messenger, contradicting the published story, and giving the true version, but The Messenger did not publish it.

Times' Editorial View.

The Times, in an editorial on the incident, says it shows that caution is necessary in regard to the narratives circulated by a Minister who is so ready to traverse accuracy of all intelligence lacking his official imprimatur.

The Kaiser and the Czar.

Paris, Oct. 7 — M. Jaures, in La Petite Republique, disapproves of the projected Socialist demonstration against the Czar on his visit to Rome, because no hostile demonstration was made when the Kaiser went through. He says: "He, (the Kaiser) had just delivered speeches at Essen and Breslau which still excite the indignation of the German Social Democracy, and had ordered his soldiers to shoot their fathers and brothers at the command of the officers." Czardom, says Jaures is largely responsible for the massacres of Armenians and Bulgarians, but the Kaiser's responsibility is greater. It is he who has been for years past the official protector in Europe of the Sultan, the great assassin; so that to denounce Czardom alone would be to play into Emperor William's hands. "When that Sovereign caracoled about the streets of Rome he was stained with more Armenian and Macedonian blood than the Czar." It is Emperor William who counsels the Sultan to throughly repress the Macedonian insurrection, and who chiefly obstructs European intervention. To emphasize the Czar's responsibilities by a hostile reception after sparing Emperor William would be to make the Kaiser think he is the sole and inviolable force of Europe.

ELECTRIC LIGHT PLANTS FOR ALL

Wizard Edison Claims to Have Perfected

A WONDERFUL INVENTION

By Which Every Man May Posses an Electrical Plant of His Own —Non-Explosive

New York, Oct. 9.—In an interview Thomas A. Edison, the inventor, says he has perfected an electricity generator to charge storage batteries. Edison says:—

"I have invented and made a machine which is six feet long, six feet high and five feet wide, that will generate electricity sufficient to store my batteries to run an automobile and light a house at an expense, per unit of electricity, for very much less than the largest companies sell it, I know now that I can make a machine at a selling price of $150.

"Almost any shed now in existence for the accommodation of an automobile contains sufficient spare room to take in one of these machines.

"No chimney is necessary. Just an ordinary pipe ventilator through the roof is sufficient.

"An ordinary maid servant can operate it.

"It is not necessary that one should understand English in order to be told how to operate it; a person can be shown how to operate it.

"One or two minutes is all the time necessary to learn how to operate it.

"Run your automobile under the shed. Attach the wire which connects the batteries with the machine, press the button and a little time will do the rest.

"When the batteries are charged the machine will stop automatically.

"Run your feed wire from the house into the shed. When the automobile is not in use connect the feed wire from the house with the batteries in your automobile. They will light your house for you.

"If you go to bed like other people, you will have enough power left in your batteries in the morning to take you wherever you may want to go go in your auto

"The supply of fuel for one day will not weigh three pounds.

"It can't explode or take fire."

STANDING OF PARTIES IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

It Still Looks as Though McBride Will Have Twenty-Two Supporters

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 9.—From present appearances, Premier McBride will have twenty-two seats in the next House. Comox, Skeena, Similkameen, Kaslo and Revelstoke all evidently going his way. He also counts on Davidson, of Slocan, and possibly on Wells. A recount in Fernie may seat Smith, thus reducing McBride's members to 21. Returns are not all in yet, but Herman, of Skeena, wires that he expects Clifford to be elected with about 15 majority. The Liberals also concede Similkameen to Shatford, Conservative.

GIRL RIOTERS FIGHT

They Make an Attack on Girls Who Took Their Place

New York, Oct. 9.—Twenty-five striking girl rag sorters, formerly employed in a factory on First street, made an attack upon the fifteen girls who were employed in their places early to-day. Encouraged by 1000 spectators, the rioting girls tore the clothing of the workers and pummelled them with their fists. Windows in the front of the building were broken by missiles thrown by the combatants. A man who tried to protect the working girls was struck on the head with a brick and, after being rescued from the rioters by the police, was sent to the hospital. Police reserves were summoned. One girl, said to be the ringleader, was arrested. The strikers had been out three weeks.

TROUBLE IN VENEZUELA

Government Forcibly Collect Duties Already Paid

Port of Spain, Island of Trinidad, Oct. 9.—Emissaries of President Castro of Venezuela, have arrived at Ciudad Bolivar, Venezuela, with orders to collect forcibly not only the taxes, but the custom house duties already paid by importers from May, 1902 to August, 1903, the period during which the revolutionists occupied that city as the seat of government de facto. The amount demanded is about $1,000,000. The foreigners, especially the firms of Blohm & Co., German; Palazzi & Co., French; Boccardo & Co., Italian; and Dalton & Co., American, have refused to pay, claiming that the duties had been already legally paid. Menaces and vexatious tactics are employed against the foreigners. Herr Sprick, A German, refused to pay back duties and a cargo of rum belonging to him, which was being landed from a steamer, was seized by the government and sold at public auction for almost nothing. The German merchant in this manner lost $25,000. Venezuelan merchants who refuse to pay having no protection, are imprisoned.

President Castro's representative at Ciudad Bolivar was quoted as saying: "Germany and the other foreign powers obliged the Venezuelan government to pay millions. Now it is Venezuela who forces the Germans and other foreigners to reimburse her."

POLICY TO BE EXTENDED

Statement Issued From Russian Foreign Office

Vienna, Oct. 4.—M. Sawinsky, Foreign Minister Lamsdorf's secretary, has issued a statement regarding the result of the conferences in Austria between Count Lamsdorf and Count Goluchowsko, the Austria-Hungarian Foreign Minister, from which it appears they have reached a determination that the two powers shall continue the Balkan policy arranged last winter. The programme for reform in Macedonia then drawn up has, however, been essentially extended and elaborated.

The secretary characterized the statement that Russia had demanded the free passage of her troops through the Dardanelles as being quite incorrect, and adding that the Minister's conference included the whole European area, with the exception of old Albania, and gave repeated evidence of entire accord in the views of Count Lamsdorf and Count Goluchowski, that in consequence of the agreement the powers need not fear war between Turkey and Bulgaria, nor any great difficulty in the execution of the reforms.

After German Trade

Hamburg, Oct. 9—The United States Steel Corporation through its Hamburg agents, Steffens & Co., offered yesterday for the first time to sell to German ironmasters sheet iron and iron plates for home consumption or export. Commercial papers profess to doubt that the offer is sincere or that it is likely to lead to business, especially as plates are now among the lowest priced articles in the German market. They also believe that the company will lose heavily if it invades Germany.

LAKEFIELD FALL SHOW

VERY SUCCESSFUL EXHIBITION ON WEDNESDAY

Lakefield, Smith and Ennismore Society Score Another Success

The annual exhibition of the Township of Smith and Ennismore and the Village of Lakefield Agricultural Society took place on Wednesday in the society's grounds at Lakefield.

The attendance was good, notwithstanding the threatening weather, the gate receipts being about $300. There were four railway coaches of people from Peterborough in attendance, besides many who drove up. It was estimated that 1200 people were on the grounds.

The exhibits were better than last year, the entries being more numerous than ever before.

Following is the entry list horses, sheep and swine—

HORSES.

The showing in horses was above the average, the roadster and carriage class being well filled, while in agricultural and general purpose classes, the entries were also numerous and some very fine animals were exhibited.

Geo. W. Fitzgerald in carriage class exhibited single horse and best outfit for Dr. Johnston's special; Mr. McIntyre exhibited a single horse in the same class. H. C. Garbutt also entered two single horses in this class. Galvin Nicholls, entered a heavy draught team and Dr. King, of Peterborough, a single carriage horse. T. E. Jory, showed a span of carriage horses for Grafton's special and F. Jory exhibited two single carriage horses. D. Darling showed a heavy draught horse for Brown Bros. special. J. J. Bickle a one-year-old colt in the road and saddle class. R. P. Payn had two single horses in the carriage class and a three year old colt in the road and saddle class, and R. Johnston had a single horse in the carriage class and also made an entry of a ladies driver. J. H. Davis had a single horse in the carriage class, and Fred Kennedy a horse in the road and saddle class. Albert Carpenter, of Peterborough, was a competitor in the speeding class, and H. C. Garbutt exhibited a carriage horse as did also Gavin Preston. Isaac Garbutt was a large exhibitor showing a general purpose mare and foal and a one year colt, and a one year old colt, brood mare and foal, and a single driver in the carriage class, and also made an entry for best lady driver and best outfit. Milburn Brothers also had a big exhibit, a heavy draught brood mare and foal, a general purpose brood mare and foal and also a one-year gelding, a single horse in carriage class, and a horse for best outfit. George Johnston showed a two year general purpose colt. Aldus Northey showed a team of heavy draught and J. Sage a three-year roadster colt and horse to compete for best outfit. S. McKibbin had two two year old draught colts, brood mare and foal and a one year old filly in carriage class and a brood mare and foal and one year filly in roadster class. John Fairbairn was present with a general purpose brood mare and foal. A single carriage horse and horse for best outfit was shown by George Hay, of Warsaw, G. W. Morn showed a heavy and a general purpose brood mare and foal, a two-year heavy draught colt and a two year general purpose colt and yearling heavy draught colt. Frank Gray made an entry for speeding events and Fred Roseborough of Selwyn, showed a two year general purpose colt. Alfred Carpenter of Peterborough a three year old general purpose colt. T. H. Graham, of Peterborough had an exhibit consisting of a heavy draught brood mare and foal and a two-year general purpose filly. C. J. Galvin showed a heavy draught brood mare and foal and two-year colt. A general purpose brood mare and foal and heavy draught brood mare and foal and general purpose span of horses were shown by Jas. Lang. Alex. Darling, Hall's Glen, showed a three year roadster, and D. Garvey, of Lakefield, a two year old general purpose colt and a roadster brood mare and foal. G. A. Gillespie showed a carriage horse and Jacob Snelgrove, of Lakefield, showed a field of horses consisting of a carriage horse and span, a saddle horse, a gentleman's rider and team for best farmer's outfit, Gavin Preston of Selwyn, exhibited a general purpose brood mare and foal, and W. J. Bullock a two year carriage colt and a two-year roadster; John Preston, three year roadster; T. E. Jory a span of heavy draught horses and general purpose horses, respectively. J. N. Johnston, V.S., Lakefield, had an entry in speeding class, a carriage horse and also competed for prize for best lady driver. Levi Payne had a single carriage horse, as did also Wilbert Roseborough, of Peterborough, together with a roadster and entry for best outfit. F. E. Kline had a carriage horse and entered for prize for best lady driver. Joseph Tremnun of Peterborough had two teams in heavy draught and general purpose classes. Garvin Nichols, Point. heavy pair draught horses, Wm. Forsythe a two year carriage and a two year roadster colt; W. H. Down, Lakefield, a carriage brood mare and foal and pair roadsters; Geo. Garbutt a span of carriage horses; Wm. Allen, of Lakefield, a carriage horse and an entry for best outfit and roadster in carriage or cart; Joseph Roseborough, a span of general purpose horses; Thos. R Mann Bridgenorth, two roadster colts and a saddle horse; Aaron McNaughton, of Young's Point, a general purpose brood mare and foal; W. J. Northey, of Selway pair of carriage horses; Fred Roseborough a single horse and brood mare and foal in carriage class, competed for best outfit and best lady driver; R. H. Leary, Peterborough, a pair of bay mares "Nora" and "Myrtle" in carriage class, a pair of carriage geldings, "Pete" and "Pat" and bay mare "Favorite." Mr. Garbutt exhibited a single carriage horse and Mr. McIntyre a general purpose driver in the speeding class.

CATTLE.

Milburn Brothers exhibited a thorough bred Durham bull and Geo. Johnston an aged bull and Andrew Johnston a bull calf in same class. Wm. Moore of Douro, had a thoroughbred Durham bull, and H. C. Garbutt a Durham bull aged. In the same class Robert Garbutt showed a milch cow and a one-year heifer, and W. J. Bullock a milch cow and one year heifer; Fred McKee a one year thoroughbred Durham bull and George Johnston an aged bull of the same breed. John Garbutt and Son, of Peterborough, entered six thoroughbred Durhams—one year bull, two bull calves, two milch cows and a heifer calf.

In Ayrshires W. J. Bullock, of Lakefield, exhibited an aged bull.

Grades were exhibited by Mr. Fred. Walden, who had a cow and three heifers; Robert Garbutt, a milch cow and four heifers, R. Q. Dench, a one year heifer. Geo. G. Ogilvie, of Lakefield, two heifers; Andrew Fairbairn, two heifers; John Fairbairn, of Lakefield, two heifer calves; John Brown, Lakefield, three milch cows; W. H. Down, Lakefield, two-year heifer.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN'S CONFIDENCE SUPREME

Believes Colonies Are More Than Ready for the Issue

GOLDWIN SMITH'S VIEWS.

Says No Mandate is Likely to Come From Colonies and Chamberlain Asks None

London, Oct. 9.—The first Canadian voice heard in the press here after Hon. Jos. Chamberlain's pronouncement comes from Prof. Goldwin Smith, who says: "No mandate in favor of Mr. Chamberlain is likely to come from Canada."

To this Mr. Chamberlain replies: He say that he asks no mandate from Canada. Canada formally expressed her wishes in favor of mutual preference at the Colonial Conference and in Hon. Mr. Fielding's last budget speech.

Mr. Chamberlain's present business is to convince the British people that his proposals are good for Great Britain and the Empire. His whole speech breathes a confidence that if the British people say yes the colonies will gladly negotiate a fair business arrangement on a give and take basis, giving the British manufacturer a preferential place when it can be given without injury to essential colonial industries. The keynote to this part of Mr. Chamberlain's proposals is contained in the following sentence:

"I say authoritatively that the colonies are prepared to meet us now. They will not surrender existing trades, but will leave to us others which they have not yet started. With decent organization the Empire may be entirely self-supporting."

LIABILITY OF A UNION

Officers of a Union Authorized to Defend an Action

Toronto, October 8.—By a decision of Mr. Justice McMahon on application in the Metallic Roofing Company's suit against the local Union of Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers, its officers are authorized to defend the action on behalf of all its members. The court, however, dismissed a similar application in regard to the International Union. This decision does not involve the liability of a union as a union, because under the decision in the London suit of Small vs. Hytlemranch, a union cannot be served by process of the court and so cannot be sued.

THE DUTY OF THE HOUR

To the Editor of The Times.

Sir,—In view of Edison's new battery, which is destined to revolutionize locomotion and lighting, the citizens of this town ought to do all in their power to assist in the action that has been brought against our unworthy council for the purpose of nullifying a by-law which gives to the Cereal Company control of our streets and a monopoly of our street car locomotion and street lighting for a long term, at an exorbitant rate. To-day's press speaks of this achievement of Edison's as the greatest of all his triumphs in the conquest of the forces of electricity, and as one that will place electric lighting and electrically propelled vehicles in the hands of the masses of the people. It has been tested and its utility demonstrated to the entire satisfaction of the inventor. The generator is so simple that a child or maid servant can operate it at almost a nominal outlay, and it will make us absolutely independent of the electric light companies and is absolutely devoid of danger. From the above it must be evident to everybody that we are paying ten times too much to the Cereal Company, if that by-law goes into operation. Besides it is fair to presume that with the rapid strides of science there will still be a further reduction in electric appliances.

Yours, etc.,
A CITIZEN.

A CRISIS IS POSSIBLE AT ANY MOMENT NOW

This is a Critical Day in the Far East, Russia Said to Have Refused to Evacuate China

Yokohama, Oct. 7—According to information received here the Russian Minister at Pekin, M. Lessar, has informed the Chinese Foreign Office that Russia will never evacuate Manchuria unless her latest demands are granted.

China, it is added, has appealed to the Japanese Minister, M. Uchida, for Japanese assistance.

It is now feared that the promised Russian concessions are insufficient to allay her continuous menace to Corea, nor is the Chino-Japanese commercial treaty to be signed Oct. 8th, thought to be adequate to compensate for permanent Russian occupation.

A rumor current this evening says that definite Russian demands concerning Manchuria and Corea have been presented to Japan by Baron Von Rossen, Russian Minister to Japan. The correspondent of the London Daily Mail at Kopo, Japan, telegraphs that Baron Von Rosen, on October 4, presented a note to the Japanese Government, contending that Japan had no right to interfere in the question of the evacuation of Manchuria which solely concerned Russia and China. The note further proposed the partition of Corea and suggested that Japan should take the southern half and Russia the northern provinces. The Japanese Government sent a reply, rejecting the Russian proposals. A crisis is possible at any moment.

Washington, Oct. 7.—It was said to-night on the highest authority that this Government had reason to believe that Russia was insisting on the very demands on which Count Lamsdorff assured Ambassador McCormick had never been presented, and which Count Cassini, the Russian Ambassador, told Secretary Hay were merely presented as bases of negotiations. It was stated by the same authority that this Government will not feel called upon to enter a protest against Russia's action, so long as our commercial treaty, which is to be signed to-morrow, is observed, and the two ports in Manchuria promised by Russia are open to the world's commerce.

In effect, the demands referred to were that detachments of Russian soldiers should guard the telegraph stations, that no concessions should be granted to foreigners, without corresponding concessions to Russia; no new Consuls should be admitted without Russia's consent, and that no new treaty ports should be opened. In regard to the latter, however, China has agreed to open the ports of Mukden and Tatungkau, and Russia has stated he will not object.

It was reported a day or two ago that three divisions of Chinese troops had embarked and were within a few hours' sail to Corean ports, awaiting orders to land if the Government should decide on immediate action in the event of Russia refusing to evacuate Manchuria. The Japanese believed that if Russia insists upon holding Manchuria she will not attack Corea, and Japan considers the independence of that country, or its occupation by Japanese to be absolutely essential to her own (Japan's) future.

The treaty between Britain and Japan which has been referred to in connection with these events, provides for neutrality in the case of either engaging in war, and active co-operation in the case of two or more powers making war on the other parties to the treaty.

The Russian fleet in far eastern waters at present is a strong one in battleships and cruisers (of all classes) numbering, it is said, twenty-two vessels, opposed to about thirty vessels of a similar class of the Japanese navy. Most of the Russian ships are modern, some of the Japanese vessels are old, as warships go now, but still efficient. On water, at any rate, Japan is for the moment the stronger.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Annual Meeting Held in Y.M.C.A. Last Night

A meeting of the Peterborough Historical Society was held in the Y.M.C.A Hall last night with the following members present. Messrs. H. C. Rogers, J. B. McWilliams; E. B. Edwards, E.H. D Hall, T. A. S Hay, Strickland and Mrs. Birdsall and Miss Watt.

After the minutes of the previous meeting had been read and confirmed after which the constitution of the society were read and adopted; the Secretary's report was next read and was received as was also that of the Treasurer.

The present officers were re-elected with the exception of Miss Watt who was appointed Treasurer.

After a number of accounts were passed the meeting adjourned.

ALIENS FLOCK TO AMERICA

Immigration Statistics Show Foreign Population is Enormous

Washington, Oct. 7—Figures have been compiled by the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor which show the total immigration into United States since 1820 to be approximately 20,000,000. The number of foreign-born persons now living in the United States is more than 10,000,000, and the number of persons of foreign parentage exceeds 26,000,000.

Before 1820 no records of immigration were kept, but it has been reckoned that the immigration between the years 1784 and 1794 amounted to 4,000 a year. In the year 1820, 8,385 aliens entered the country. Since that time immigration has increased in an ever-swelling wave until in the past year it surpassed all previous records by more than 200,000.

JURY POINTS AT THE MAN KENNEDY

Accused Murderer Bought a Chicken Previous to Commiting Deed

Brantford, Oct. 9— The Coroner's jury empanelled to inquire into the circumstances surrounding the death of eight-year-old Irene Cole to-night brought in this verdict:— "We find that Irene Cole was wilfully murdered by a person or persons unknown to the jury at present. It is the unanimous opinion of this jury, from evidence produced, that suspicion points to the prisoner Kennedy. We desire to call the attention of the city authorities to the fact that the place known as the Willows is a rendezvous of some of the worst characters, and would recommend that steps be taken to remedy this evil without delay."

A great deal of important evidence was received at the inquest to-night but it was mainly that of the police who made the arrest, and who were present at the examination of Kennedy's person and clothing immediately afterwards.

Dr. Ashton, who was called to examine the clothing, would not say definitely that there were blood stains upon it, but he thought they were. Particular stress was laid upon the fact of the finding of an envelope in Kennedy's pockets. Dr. Ashton thought that stains discovered on it were bloodstains, but if they were they gave evidence that the blood had been diluted with water.

Kennedy promised a few days ago to make a statement when he was arraigned before Magistrate Woodyatt tomorrow morning, but today he retained Heyd, Livingston & Couch to defend him, and they do not intend that he shall do any talking until they think the proper time has come. Kennedy still disclaims any knowledge of the crime, and says he was not in the Willows at all during the afternoon.

Prof. Ellis has not been able to complete the examination of the clothing in connection with the Cole murder case at Brantford. It was hoped that he would have it ready for the inquest last night, but the report was too extensive. He will conclude it in the course of a few days, and then make his report upon it.

WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY

Marconi's New Inventions are Said to be Working Well

Sydney, N. S., Oct. 9.—As the Lucania with Mr. Marconi on board, speeds across the Atlantic, the great success of the inventions which he recently installed at Table Head, Glace Bay, is being almost hourly demonstrated. Wireless communication was established under the new system shortly after the Lucania left New York and has been kept up more or less regularly since. The success of these new improvements was never doubted and Marconi's belief concerning their adaptability is now being fully carried out. The messages that have passed between Table Head and Mr. Marconi are merely signals transmitted and received in such a way as to put the improvements to the severest test. It is not given out whether Marconi is in communication with Poldhu or not, but the presumption is that he is.

TEN THOUSAND ARE COMING IN SPRING

Salvation Army Pepares for Big Contingent of London, Oct. 9.—General Booth, of the he Salvation Army, has commissioned Colonel Lamb, until lately director of the Salvation Army Farm Colony in Essex, to proceed to Canada to negotiate with the Canadian Government for the emigration of 10,000 men, women and children next spring.

Before taking this step the Salvation Army communicated with the Canadian Emigration Department, and was given to understand that there was no place for ex-criminals or tainted emigrants in Canada. The Army thus clearly understands that every care is necessary in the selection of emigrants.

The Salvation Army agencies all over Canada will look after the emigrants until suitable situations are found. Moreover, the Essex colony gives the Salvation emigrants rough training preparatory for Canadian settlement.

Reduction in Sugar

On the 3rd inst., all Canadian refined sugars were reduced 10c per cwt. An erroneous report has been circulated that instead of a reduction sugars have been advanced the amount mentioned. Housekeepers will, of course, regret that the reduction did not come a little sooner, when the preserving and canning season was on. Grocers should now reduce their price one cent per pound.

ONE PRICE

CASH SYSTEM

A truly cash system—NO CREDIT. Some stores advertise a cash system to gain the benefit that a Cash Store infers "merchandise sold at a small margin" but, do they refuse to give credit? With very few exceptions NO. Our system a true cash system allowing us no loss of profits on account of less office help required. No bad debts to be evened up. No interest to be reckoned for outstanding accounts. This is the Sutcliffe method of cash retailing.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 7 1903

EDITORIAL COMMENT

There are still in Bermuda thirty-six Boer prisoners who refuse to take the oath of allegiance. Some people think the climate of Bermuda is the most delightful in the world.

Some people declare that the Christians of Macedonia are mighty poor Christians and that may be true. If unworthy Christians everywhere were selected for slaughter, however, the undertakers in this and all the other so-called Christian countries would have their hands full for quite a spell.

High heels vindicated the truth of the proverb about pride going before a fall at a wedding in Raleigh, N. C. The bride who wore the latest atrocity in style for footwear, stumbled in going down the church steps, and fell on her face, and the surgeon had to darn her entire countenance before she could proceed on the honeymoon.

Young husband of two weeks takes his gun to go shooting. Still younger bride watches him depart and jestingly dares him to shoot her. Fookiller is over in the next county watching another young man pull his gun out of a wagon, muzzle first. Young husband takes the dare and points the gun. Young wife's head is blown from her shoulders. Young husband awfully shocked but protests that he didn't know it was loaded. Yet we prate at times about the universal spread of intelligence, not to say common sense.

Strikes have driven another big manufacturing plant out of Chicago. The Allis-Chalmers Company, conducting the largest machinery manufacturing plant in the west, has definitely decided to no longer submit to trade union arrogance and extortion, and will remove all its important departments to the town of West Allis, near Milwaukee, on October 1. Several hundred employes and heads of departments will go with the company. Plans for the erection of large additions to the works here have been abandoned. Strikes have cost the company in Chicago during the last three years $150,000.

MONEY NO OBJECT

It is a fact that not less than a million is spent every year by people seeking a satisfactory cure for Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

Probably the best and most highly recommended preparation is Catarrhozone, which treats the local symptoms very effectually by means of medicated air supplied through a convenient hard rubber inhaler. The poisons in the blood are driven off by Ferrozone Tablets, which are taken after each meal. They promote appetite, aid digestion, and make the blood rich and pure, so that it will nourish all parts of the body.

This combined local and constitutional treatment in catarrhal diseases has met with wonderful success and can be relied upon to cure every time. The inhaler stops sneezing, coughing, droppings in the throat, and brings quick relief and cure to all the disagreeable symptoms of catarrh.

Mrs. James Tweedie, of Jay Bridge, says: "For years my daughter doctored unsuccessfully for Catarrh. She had droppings in the throat, hawkings, nausea, and could not sleep at night. The first day's use of Catarrhozone benefited [illegible] and ultimately cured my daughter so that Catarrh has never returned. I can recommend Catarrhozone as a grand remedy for Catarrh."

Thousands of strong letters could be given like the above if necessary, but all that is required to prove the merit of Catarrhozone is a fair trial. It is sure as death to cure and if it fails your money will be refunded. Catarrhozone cured lots of cases worse than yours and can do it again.

Complete outfit costs $1.00. Small size 25c. Sold by druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

A communication was read pointing out that the Department of Agriculture was arranging for a series of dairy meetings during the winter and it was thought that some of the work might be done in connection with the cheese and butter boards. It was therefore requested that committees be appointed to act in conjunction with the officers of the Department. The latter would provide for the speakers and advertising. It was desirable that meetings be held where the patrons of three or four factories would attend.

The officers of the board were appointed a committee in the matter.

The treasurer brought to the attention of the board the necessity that there be a straightening up of outstanding dues.

Bidding opened with Mr. Whitton's offer of 10 1-2; this was raised by Mr. Wrigton to 10 3-4; Mr. Kerr 10 7-8; Mr. Fitzgerald 11; Mr. Wrighton 11 1-4; Mr. Brentenal 11 5-16.

Mr. Brentenal's bid of 11 5-16 was the highest and he bought Keene, Shearer, Fraserville, Myrtle.

Mr. Wrighton offered 11 1-4 for Dunsford, Central Smith, Peterborough and was accepted. He offered 11 1-8 for further. Mr Whitton raised to 11 3-16 and Mr. Wrighton again went 11 1-4. This time he bought Indian River, Mount Pleasant, Warsaw, Trewern. He offered 11 3-16 for further and called Villiers and Westwood.

Mr. Rollins at 11 3-16 bought Warminster, North Smith, Pine Grove, Maple Leaf, Young's Point, North Dummer, Cedardale, Stony Lake, South Burleigh, Apsley refused, while Shamrock, Dartford, Norwood, Daisy D. accepted.

Mr. Wrighton at 11 1-8 took Cavanville.

Mr. Whitton offered 11 1-16 for Fleetwood Brickley, who refused; Buckhorn would not sell to Fitzgerald at 11 cents. Mr. Rollins added Ballyduff to his selections at 11 3-16. Mr. Wrigton offered 11 1-16 for Fleetwood.

Mr Cook called 11 3-16 but Mr. Whitton went 1-16 better and bought Percy, Ormonde. He offered 1-8 for further but Mr. Cook again called 11 3-16 and bought Oakdale, Missing Link, Melrose Abbey, Lang.

Mr. Wrighton again had the call at 11 3-16 and took East Emily, Otonabee Union, Lakefield.

Mr. Cook at 11 1-16 called Brickley and Ballyduff but was refused.

Buckhorn, Brickley and Fleetwood remained unsold.

PARKS IN NEW YORK

He is Tired of Fighting and Anxious to Retire

New York, Oct. 8.—Samuel Parks, walking delegate of the Housesmiths' and Bridgemen's Union, returned yesterday from the convention of the Iron Workers' Union at Kansas City, and announced that he was for peace with the employers under an arbitration agreement, and that he had enough fighting and was ready to retire as a leader in favor of a younger and more vigorous man. He declared also that it was not true that he intended to call a strike on the East River bridge. Members of the Employers' Association, organized to promote peace agreements with unions, said they would not recognize Parks or the Housesmiths' Union; that all the trades unions were in favor of the arbitration plan, and work would be generally resumed.

POWERS STICK TO PACIFICATION PLAN

Notice to That Effect Sent to Constantinople

THE FIGHTING GOES ON

Sofia Reiterates Recent Despatch Telling of Massacres in Razlog District

Vienna, Oct. 8.—As an outcome of the conferences between the Czar and Emperor Francis Joseph at Muerzteg, the Governments of Austria and Russia have sent the following identical telegram to the ambassadors of those countries at Constantinople:

"You were recently instructed to declare that Austria-Hungary and Russia adhere to the task of pacification which they have undertaken and are resolved to proceed with the programme drawn up at the beginning of the year, notwithstanding the difficulties hitherto opposed to its execution.

"For indeed, while on the one hand the revolutionary committees have provoked disturbances, and deterred the peaceful population of the three vilayets from co-operating in the execution of the reforms, on the other hand, the reports of the Sublime Porte entrusted with their application have been generally wanting in the necessary zeal and have not been imbued with the idea which inspired those measures.

"Both powers are united in the determination to show that it is their firm resolve to insist on the execution in their entirety of those reforms which were accepted by the Porte, and which are calculated to guarantee general security. In this connection you will receive detailed instructions without delay.

"While the powers recognize to the full the Porte's right or duty to suppress the disorders fostered by the insurrectionary agitation of the Macedonian committee, they, at the same time, deplore the fact that this suppression was accompanied by excesses and cruelties, from which the peaceful inhabitants suffered. If therefore, appears to them to be their urgent duty to come to the assistance of the victims of these regrettable occurrences, and the above mentioned instructions will acquaint you with the details of the humanitarian action which they deem necessary with the object of supporting the inhabitants who have been deprived of all means of existence facilitating their repatriation, and restoring the villages, churches and schools destroyed by fire.

"The Austrian-Hungarian and Russian Governments entertain the firm hope that their continued endeavors to establish a lasting peace in the sorely tried provinces will attain their object, and they are convinced that their impartial advice will be heeded by all to whom it is addressed in their own interests."

PLANS ELABORATED.

M. Sawinsky, Foreign Minister Lamsdorff's secretary, has issued a statement regarding the result of the conference in Austria between Count Lamsdorff and Count Goluchowski, the Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister, from which it appears that they reached a determination that the two powers shall continue the Balkan policy arranged last winter. The programme for reform in Macedonia then drawn up has, however, been essentially extended and elaborated.

The secretary characterized the statement that Russia had demanded the free passage of her ships through the Dardanelles as being quite incorrect, and added that the ministers' conference included the whole area of the European near east, with the exception of old Albania, and gave repeated evidence of entire accord in the views of Count Lamsdorff and Count Goluchowski, that in consequence of the agreement the powers need not fear war between Turkey and Bulgaria, nor any great difficulty in the execution of the reforms.

STORIES OF MASSACRE.

Sofia, Oct. 8.—Courier despatches received at the Macedonian revolutionary headquarters repeat the reports of the massacre of all the Christians of the town of Razalog (Mehomin), by Turkish troops last Sunday.

According to Turkish reports the revolutionists massacred the people and burned the town of Razalog, and the Turkish population and troops departed. These reports the insurgents deny.

It is reported that 30 Turkish villages in the Razlog district have been burned. The large village of Bielisko is said to have been destroyed, and its 2,000 Turkish inhabitants killed.

Dry Placer Miner, formerly of California.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 300 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure this gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine – its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck or more of sand, either ordinary house or sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few minutes the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

Black Hills Copper Company LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000
PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - - $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jerome mineral belt of Arizona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to day.

A limited amount of the Stock is new offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

The Company is capitalized at $2,000,000, consisting of 2,000,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock.

The Property

Consists of nine patented, well developed mines and mill sites, situated in Gilpin County, Colorado. This county has already produced more than

$80,000,000 in Gold

The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk on ore to a depth of [illegible] feet, and a tunnel run a distance of [illegible] feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to [illegible] and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation

The Colorado & Southern Railroad passes directly in front of the mouth of the tunnel. All ore can be dumped therefrom directly into the cars, giving quick and cheap transportation to the mills. Large returns have been paid from the product of these mines.

Sale of Preferred Stock

The company desires to not only push its development work and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own mill site at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ores. For that purpose it now offers for sale [illegible] shares of its Preferred Treasury Stock at [illegible] cents per share reserving the right to increase the price of all unsold shares thereof at any time without notice.

The Company pledges the whole net product of its mines to pay an eight per cent annual dividend on the sum paid for such stock, before any other stock receives any dividends whatever. THE ROSE OF THE RING

There were a few breathless moments, in which Errol struggled to get possession of the knife.

He succeeded in wrenching it from her hold, and, with a shrill cry, she dropped to the floor.

He bent over his wife.

"Good God!" he gasped, "she's dead!"

He picked up the knife, which he had let fall after wrestling it from her.

There was no stain upon it—there had been no wound inflicted in the struggle, and, with a sense of relief, he replaced the weapon on the sideboard.

Then he stooped and gazed again at the beautiful face of the woman he had driven to her death.

A ghastly fear overtook him.

The lifeless lips and the wide-open eyes seemed to proclaim him her murderer.

With a shudder, he drew down the lids, and tried to shut in that accusing gaze.

But it was there still.

Those awful eyes stared through the sealed lids, and sent chill after chill through his veins.

Then came another thought: What if he should be found there, and be called upon to answer for her death?

He had watched the house long enough to know she had been alone when he had entered.

There were no traces of a struggle in the room.

* * * * * * *

Turning down the lamp-wick, he went out into the passage, and crushing his hat on his head, made his escape from the house.

The snow was falling again when Mrs. West returned.

She was much later than she had intended to be. Her son and his wife had missed their train, and had had to wait for the next, and she had waited with them.

As the landlady ascended the narrow flight of steps, she smiled to herself, thinking how Bertha's face would light up directly she heard her enter the house.

Mrs. West looked up at the window and noticed that the lamp was turned low.

"I suppose she's got tired and dozed off," she thought, opening the street-door and entering the house. "Yet I can hear the baby crying. She can't be asleep."

The room was in semi-darkness, and not seeing Bertha, her first thought was that she had gone into the bedroom:

"There, my pretty, don't cry," she said, soothingly, to the baby. "I'll take you up as soon as I get off my wet shawl. What's mamma thinking of to leave her precious pet all by itself?"

She went half-way across the room and then stopped, gazing down with wonder, not unmixed with fear, at what was lying on the floor.

She had caught sight of the motionless form on the hearthrug, and in the uncertain light, Bertha seemed asleep.

The firelight flickered over the features, giving them a life-like appearance, and only when the landlady touched one of the cold hands, did the truth begin to dawn upon her.

"Mrs. Errol!" she cried, fear sharpening her tones. "Mrs. Errol! Oh, wake up, and speak to me! Can't you hear your little baby crying."

She made a few wild efforts to rouse her, then rose, and seizing the lamp, she turned the wick up, and held it close to the dead face.

Dead, even to the gaze of Mrs. West.

With an exclamation of horror she shrank back, replacing the lamp on the table.

Then hurrying out into the snow, she went to a neighbor's house and summoned assistance.

"Come with me!" she gasped, clutching the arm of the woman who had opened the door. "Mrs. Errol's laying on the floor—dead! Oh, whatever shall I do!—whatever shall I do?"

"Perhaps she's only fainted. How long has she been like it?"

"I only just found her, just now when I came home, after seeing Jim and Polly off. If she's dead, what shall I do? It's dreadful to think of—and when I went out, she was sitting there as well as possible."

"Poor thing! what can have happened to her? I'd better call my husband, and ask him to help us. Tom's seen a good deal of illness in his time."

Tom Croft came out in answer to a shrill call from his wife. He was a 'bus-driver, and had only just settled down to his pipe and newspaper, after finishing his supper.

"What's up," he asked; "a house on fire?"

"Dead!" he echoed. "That pretty lady what holds the baby up to the window of mornings?"

"Yes. Isn't it awful! Let's come and look at her, Tom; Mrs. West may have been mistaken; perhaps the poor thing's only fainted."

"It's no use wasting time looking at her," he said, taking his hat from a peg in the wall. "You stay with Mrs. West, Sue, and I'll run for the doctor. Standing here talking and crying won't do any good."

Mrs. West had broken into a fit of sobbing; she was trembling from head to foot, and her grief was too genuine to be easily suppressed.

With faltering steps, she led the way back to the room where the ghastly form was lying, and in a few minutes Tom Croft came in, accompanied by a doctor.

"She has been dead nearly an hour," the latter said, after a brief examination. "You had better communicate at once with some of her relatives."

"I don't know that she has any," Mrs. West answered, checking her sobs. "She never spoke of them; and during all the time she's been with me, she hasn't had a single letter."

"Something must be done," the doctor resumed, gazing with interest at the pale face of the dead woman. "She was very young to have been without a friend—and that is her child?"

"Yes."

"What is to become of it?"

"I don't know," the landlady answered; then loking down at the lifeless woman, she added: "God protects the innocent and adrift."

The doctor asked a few more questions, and then listened to a detailed account of the landlady's interview with Mrs. Errol.

"She was a bit nervous of being left in the house alone; she had an idea somebody might come in. But she seemed all right when I told her how safe the place was, and she looked quite cheerful sitting here in the light."

"You say the lamp was turned down low when you returned? Had she been complaining of a headache or anything?"

Can there be any connection between the marked degeneration of Spain and the abuse of tobacco in that country? People there smoke incessantly, under all conditions, at all hours, and in all places—excepting in church. Men smoke in the railway carriages; they smoke in all the tramcars; they smoke in all the minor theaters; they smoke in all the restaurants; in the hotel dining-rooms, and, of course, in the cafes. In business offices the merchant and his clerks smoke. In shops the shopman, while trying to sell goods to a lady, will stop to roll a cigarette, which, when lighted, he will puff in her face.

You see conductors and drivers of tramcars smoking. All the cabmen smoke all the time, while even coachmen and footmen of private carriages sometimes smoke on the box. I have seen (says Jerome A. Hart) priests smoking as they crossed the cathedral yard to begin service, and I have seen altar boys standing in their surplices at the cathedral door, between responses, to smoke a cigarette. Beggars approach you, cigarette in mouth, to whine for alms. If you ask for tickets at a railway office the clerk lays down his cigarette as he hands you the dingy bits of pasteboard. The innumerable peddlers smoke cigarettes all the time.

I have seen no women of the better class smoking cigarettes in public; they may smoke, but if so I suppose they do it at home. The lower-class women, including the gypsy women, smoke freely in the streets. If the cigarette habit is universal in Spain so are its sequelae. On every hand you hear the deep, hacking, pulmonic cigarette cough. Tuberculosis is rife in Spain, and while the doctors say (but what will not the doctors say?) that excessive tobacco, qua tobacco, has nothing to do with tuberculosis, they admit that "excessive tobacco brings about a condition of diathesis constituting a favorable nidus for the growth of the bacillus of tuberculosis."

In Praise of the Dog.

United States Senator Vest once paid this eloquent tribute to a dog in a suit brought against a farmer who shot his neighbor's faithful beast in malice: "The one absolutely unselfish friend that man can have in this selfish world, the one that never deserts him, the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous, is his dog. A man's dog stands by him in prosperity and in poverty, in health and in sickness. He will sleep on the cold ground, where the wintry winds blow and the snow drives fiercely, if only he may be near his master's side. He will kiss the hand that has no food to offer; he will lick the wounds and sores that come in encounter with the roughness of the world. He guards the sleep of his pauper master as if he were a prince. When all other friends desert he remains. When riches take wings and reputation falls to pieces he is as constant in his love as the sun in its journeys through the heavens. If fortune drives the master forth an outcast in the world, friendless and homeless, the faithful dog asks no higher privilege than that of accompanying him, to guard against danger, to fight against his enemies. And when the last scene of all comes, and death takes the master in its embrace, and his body is laid away in the cold ground, no matter if all other friends pursue their way, there by the graveside will the noble dog be found, his head between his paws, his eyes sad, but open in alert watchfulness, faithful and true, even in death." On the strength of this speech, it is said, the jury was so moved that it awarded the plaintiff a verdict of five hundred dollars.

A Story about Du Chaillu.

He was a little man of great good humor, says the London "Daily Mail," but of very quick temper, and used to relate with satisfaction his first encounter with the late Duke of Argyll. When the skeleton of the first gorilla ever brought to Europe was on show in London the public were admitted on presentation of cards. The Duke wrote to Du Chaillu that on such and such a day "the Duke of Argyll proposed to visit the gorilla." Du Chaillu at once wrote back that the gorilla was to be seen every day between certain hours, and that if the Duke of Argyll presented his card he would no doubt be admitted like the rest of the public.

READ THE MORNING TIMES

HATRED OF THE PRETENDER

Muley Mohammed Annoyed at Raising of Large Foreign Loans

Paris, Oct. 4—The Figaro this morning publishes an account of the reception given to its correspondent by the Moorish pretender at the latter's camp at Wedhaddor. The reception was ceremonious, with the evident intention, says the correspondent, of impressing the pretender's followers with the idea that the journalist was an Ambassador of some European power. The pretender declared that when he had conquered Fez he would quickly establish order throughout the realm. He showed great ignorance of international matters, but manifested special hatred for the English, whom he accused of assisting the War Minister to bewitch the Sultan, whose brother Muley Mohammed represented himself [illegible] raising of foreign loans, saying that the Sultan of Morocco had never previously been reduced to the indignity of begging money from Christians. He finally insisted on the correspondent publishing all that he had seen in the French, English and Arab papers.

The correspondent states that the pretender's eyes are both perfect, whereas the true Muley Mohammed has only one eye.

Alexander and Draga.

There are always two sides to a story, and that the murdered King Alexander and Queen Draga may not have been so bad as they were painted appears from the remarks of London "Truth" on the butchery at Belgrade:

"Alexander's whole appearance betokened race degeneration. The son of a 'jouisseur,' he had an ill-conditioned mind and body. The undeveloped countenance struck one as odd. If not a baby face, it might have been the face of a boy of six who had suddenly become an adult of twenty. The mind had no grasp, and the memory could retain no lesson. His father and mother used to quarrel about him in his childhood, Milan reproaching her with inflicting such a weakling on Servia, and she saying that Alexander had only to thank his father for being so much below the average. The poor boy heard their wrangles. He longed for tenderness, but never knew what it was until he fell under the spell of Draga. She was at once a loving 'amie,' gentle counsellor, directress and adopted a maternal manner. I do not blame Alexander for marrying Queen Draga. She was not pretty, but agreeable, and if she was older than he was, that was his concern alone. The stories of her having led a disreputable life are not correct. After the death of her husband she became a lady of honor of Queen Natalie, who is herself a lady beyond reproach. Alexander was a lad, and he fell in love with his mother's lady-in-waiting. Natalie objected and turned off her lady-in-waiting. On this Alexander announced that he intended to marry her, and carried out his intention, having in the meantime provided her with the means to live, as she had nothing. According to the probabilities in such cases, had she succumbed to him before marriage, the marriage would never have taken place. Queen Draga was a clever woman and a very ambitious one. As she was not likely to have a child, she thought that her brother might as well be the heir to the crown as anyone else. There was no particular reason why he should not have been. Alexander was the great-grandson of a swineherd, and the Karageorgevitch Pretender to the throne was the grandson of a Servian peasant. The Servians, however, did not look at things in this light. The Obrenovitches and the Karageorgevitches have each their partisans Since the time that Servia became an independent principality there have been kings from one family and from the other Alexander was the sole remaining member of the Obrenovitch family, and, consequently, if he were killed, together with his wife and her family, the head of the Karageorgevitches remained the sole pretender to the throne. The gruesome extinction of the Obrenovitch dynasty has no redeeming feature. I dare say that nearly every officer and soldier who joined in the nocturnal invasion of the Konak had at some time or another been engaged in herding and sticking swine Anyone who has seen the execution of a pig must know how brutalizing it is to the executioner, unless done a la mechanique, automatically, as in Chicago The pig is shrewd, sagacious, epicurean enjoys life, and, seeming to know what designs the butcher harbors and what death means, makes a hard struggle for existence, and noisily protests against dying for the good of human beings. One finds in the whole of the palace tragedy circumstances reminding one of the porcine execution. Draga's end reminds one of Athalie's dream of Jezebel's death The dogs that devoured that seductive Semitic queen were not more ferocious than the Servian officers, who are now said to have torn Draga's flesh from her bones."

AN EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY

FOR BOTH LARGE AND SMALL INVESTORS

Owing to valuable Patents having been granted this Company, we are desirous of extending our business to the Dominion of Canada. Owing to the Customs duties, the extra cost in transportation and the numerous expenses attached, and the delays in deliveries in shipping goods from one country to another, it is absolutely necessary that we should have a factory in the Dominion, that we may be in a position to meet the immediate wants of the business.

The articles that we make from our Patent Fabric are too numerous to mention, and it is not necessary that we go into the details of the merits of our goods, as they are already in use to a large extent and have no equal. Our goods are covered by several patents, and the profit on the goods is large, averaging from 25 to 100 per cent, thus affording the company large revenue to meet all its obligations

In order to secure funds to equip a plant in the Dominion of Canada we will offer to the people of Canada $100,000 of our Bonds paying ten per cent. interest per annum.

Experience has shown that stocks based upon sound industrial enterprises have never been equalled from the standpoint of legitimate profit. For instance, a few hundred dollars invested in the Bell Telephone Company's stock in the beginning of the enterprise now commands thousands of dollars, after having yielded large dividends annually. Of course opportunities for such profitable investments do not present themselves every day, and it is also very true that a vast amount of capital has been misdirected in the endeavor to exploit inventions and enterprises which shrewd and far seeing investors should have recognized as impractical. But as regards this enterprise even the most conservative must admit it has possibilities of development which are almost incalculable and which have already been demonstrated in a practical manner. We have no speculative elements—this is a sound business proposition, and the patents which we own are worth several million dollars, as there can only be one fabric of this kind and that is ours.

All the above facts are simple statements of the truth and can be fully substantiated to the satisfaction of all investors.

The business is no experiment, the incorporators of this Company have made it their business for a great many months past and understand all the details, the prospects are therefore bright, and brighter than those of many other opportunities.

This Company is not a promotors company, every dollar goes to enhance the value of the property and business and increase the capacity. There is nothing speculative in this proposition, the enterprises are undertaken for industrial purposes only to make profits by the operation and development of the business.

Considering that the enterprise is already upon an established basis with a certainty of profitable future expansion, we feel warranted in the assertion that this is an attractive proposition to investors whether large or small.

The price of these Bonds are one dollar each, and will be issued in any number wanted. With every purchaser of each five Bonds we will give as a bonus, one share of stock of the Company, the par value of which is five dollars per share, thus assuring interest on the investment, and with the stock which is bound to increase you will have for nothing. These Bonds will be issued for five years. Persons desiring to avail themselves of this opportunity want to send their remittance at once.

First Class Mining Proposition.

The Anaconda Gold Mining Co.

Home Office: 412 Merchants Loan and Trust Bldg.
135 Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

This is one of the best propositions ever placed before the Canadian investor. The Company owns 600 acres in the celebrated Black Hills District, South Dakota, comprising 32 claims. The tract is unquestionably on the great Homestake belt, being located directly between the wonderful Homestake mine and the Clover Leaf mine. Two shafts have already been sunk, the main one being down 154 feet, with capacity of going 1000 feet. The Company has also installed an Ingersoll-Sergeant air compressor and drills, 125 horse-power boiler, steam pumps and in fact everything needed for actual operation, with the exception of its stamp mills; which will be installed at once. The vein of gold-bearing quartz traversing the Company's property is very rich. Assays have run from $3 to $54.20 per ton.

The Company has a capital of 1,500,000 shares, divided into 750,000 preferred and 750,000 common, par value $1 per share, fully paid up and non-assessable. The treasury stock has been made preferred stock to the amount of 25 cents a share. Out of the first dividends 25 cents per share will be paid to the owners of this preferred stock before holders of common stock receive any share of the profits. After the 25 cents has been paid to the shareholders of preferred stock, then all alike share in the dividends. This means nothing less than that the first investors in the enterprise will have all their money returned to them before any dividends are declared to the rank and file o investors.

A limited amount of Stock has been placed on the Canadian market. Full particulars and copy of prospectus may be obtained from MR. R. J. KIDD, or the undersigned Agent for Peterborough city

AN OPPORTUNITY

C. C. Pugh, postmaster at Adel, Dallas county, Iowa, and Dr. W. J. Williams, surgeon for the Milwaukee railroad at that place, are very successful mining men. They understand the western country and know the mines and their possibilities. They are selling Williams Fork Stock at 10 cents a share. This stock went off the market at 25 cents July 1 this year and there is none to be had of the company at any price. They guarantee this stock: it be gilt edge; $40,000 worth of ore on the dump now. If you want 1,000 shares of this stock send draft for $100 to Adel State Bank, Adel, Iowa, and they will send you your certificate for same. If you want 500 shares send draft for $50 to said bank. Pugh and Williams do their business through this large bank, hence you are safe in sending money to them. Dividends will come soon from this property and it will then go to $1.00 per share. It is in Colorado and officials of that state write that it is a magnificent property. If you know this property and the people back of it you would want this stock. For reference write Hon. Geo. W. Clarke, Adel, Iowa, member of the Legislature. He will tell you as to our reliability. If you buy 1,000 shares of this stock we send you a guarantee and you will also thank us for calling your attention to it. An honest proposition. Write immediately with draft as this stock will be offered but a few days at 10 cents. Last shipment of ore went over $120 to the ton.

STOCK MARKETS

New York, Oct. 8.—The stock market yesterday was a disappointment to bull and bear alike, and under the circumstances the trade was rather sluggish, while the movements of quotations were rather uncertain and irregular. The bears were disappointed in the first place by the failure of the steel stocks to decline, as much a surprise to them. The bulls were disappointed at the action of the general movement of the theory that the reduction of the steel dividend removed a big deal of uncertainty from the way and laid the way clear for legitimate operations on the long side of the account. There was but little fresh business yesterday and outside through commission houses proceeded very slowly in the matter of assuming new obligations. With a general lack of feeling given and with the general dividend closer observers seem to look for nothing much better than still an irregular traders market during the balance of the week. There is still considerable uncertainty with reference to the money market. The banks as a whole are acknowledged to be in a very strong position and while some interests are optimistic on this line others fail to become enthusiastic, inasmuch as they have recently had considerable worry in securing accommodations. The big borrowers generally are still trying to borrow money at low rates for four to six months, but they are not disposed to pay over 5 1-2 per cent. Very little is to be had at this figure. The crop news was favorable as regards corn and it is generally considered that the crop of corn will be much better than looked for some weeks ago.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—There was a strong feeling in the wheat pit to-day and shorts were free buyers, consequently there was an appreciable advance and the amount of selling on the better level was of limited proportions. There was a fair cash demand and the export demand seemed more inclined to buy. The clearances were light and the primary movements reflected a little accumulation. However, gossip regarding the visible supply was rather less bearish. There was some mixture of opinion on the case in that it was argued that the market had advanced enough, considering the unimportant changes which have occurred in general conditions. The market for corn was strong. There was a good demand from shorts and this, in the face of very bearish crop reports. The price current summary being more bearish than at any time this season.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—Cash business here yesterday was 5,000, number 2 hard winter wheat sold from northwest and one hundred thousand bushels corn. Seaboard reported no business on wheat or corn for export. Price currents says—Corn crop will be above the average for the recent years. Iowa conditions have improved. Omaha and Nebraska will exceed ten years average. Winter wheat seeding well advanced. Early planted wheat coming up. Wheat movement is moderate to light.

TO THE SUFFERING.

The following testimonial may be read with interest to sufferers from skin eruptions or eczema:

January, 20th, 1903.

Dear Sirs,—I notice your advt. in a paper about your wonderful eczema cure and I feel it my duty to tell you that I was induced to try it as I had been afflicted with this trouble in my hands for 11 years. I have tried several doctors and they done my no good. I only used one box of Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema. It has made a complete cure. I recommend it to all suffering from skin disease. My hand was so bad that the nails used to come off. You can use my name if you wish.

Yours truly,
MR. JOHN WOOD,
Peake Station, P.E.I.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh is also one of the best remedies on the market. We are daily in receipt of letters telling how much they have done for the afflicted. Miss Sarah Hill, 412 Front Street, Traverse City, Mich., writes: "I have been wonderfully helped by the use of your catarrh cure; send me another dollar's worth."

Peter D. McFadyen, Riverdale, P.E.I., writes: "I am very busy, but just drop a line to say I highly recommend your catarrh cure. It has done great work for me. I am so much better."

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, coughs, lame back, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years; the most stubborn cases will yield. For sale by Ormond & Walsh, Peterborough. 50c per box or 3 boxes for $1.25.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $[illegible] will be paid for any case that it will not permanently cure.

A Proposition of Special Merit to be Offered Canadian Investors

STONY PASS MINING CO.

has appointed a local Canadian Fiscal Agent, in the person of Messrs. Thomas Patterson & Son, brokers, who will make an announcement in a day or two that will interest the investors of Canada. It is proposed to send a representative from Canada to visit the mines and property of the company, and report thereon so as to prove beyond doubt its splendid worth. The proposition is one that will bear the closest investigation. The company is splendidly officered by men of honor and business integrity, known throughout the country for their high character and business ability.

A meeting is being arranged to take place at an early date, when those who propose to invest in the Company's stock will have the privilege of selecting one the number to visit the mines.

COPETE MINING CO.

27 William Street, New York

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them ar—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D. Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now clear and undisputed title to, all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

MYRA B. MARTIN, SECRETARY

Hobbled Six Years

Cured in Six Weeks of Chronic Rheumatism By Ferrozone

Hundreds, aye thousands of cures have been put on the market for Rheumatism during the past few years, but a remedy with power to cure Chronic Rheumatism, Ferrozone excepted, in the estimation of Mr. Cullen, of Sturgeon Bay, does not exist.

Mr. Cullen says: "As everyone knows I have been simply tortured for years with Muscular Rheumatism, not the ordinary kind that bothers most people, but the kind that ties one up so that they can't move.

"For six years I hobbled about like a cripple, unable to move without crutches and canes. I used quantities of medicine, special baths and so forth, but they didn't help me very much.

"On the advice of a Presbyterian minister I used Ferrozone, gave it a good trial at first and when I saw it was helping, I bought six boxes and took one tablet at the close of each meal. I am perfectly cured and am today as spry as a youngster of ten. I am convinced that my recovery is entirely due to the marvellous action of Ferrozone."

Mr. Cullen's case is a fair example of the kind of cures that Ferrozone is effecting every day. In severe cases of Neuralgia, Sciatica, Rheumatism, and Lumbago, it acts with surprising alacrity, and no case is recorded where it failed.

Ferrozone cures these diseases because it is a solvent for uric acid in the blood. It removes all traces of it and other poisons from the blood in from two to ten days. Thus it builds up and invigorates the system, and makes weak, sickly people strong and well enough to resist and ward off disease.

The best Rheumatism remedy that one can buy is Ferrozone. It relieves quickly and cures so perfectly that the disease never again returns. After all other remedies fail, it cures, and that is the sort of medicine you want. Ferrozone price 50c. per box, or three boxes for $1.25. Sent to you address by mail if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

SHOT IN THE BACK

Serious Accident to a Son of Mr. Quartermaine

A deplorable accident occurred yesterday afternoon in Ashburnham, by which the son of Mr. T. Quartermaine, was seriously injured. It appears that the lad, who is about 14 years of age, was watching the pigeon shooting contest, and in some way got within range and received a full charge in the back and legs. Dr. Young was promptly summoned and succeeded in removing a number of the grains of shot. Others were imbedded so deeply that they could not be reached.

The lad, although seriously injured will probably recover.

A MEAN ACT

Cut the Halter of a Horse and Let the Animal Loose

Some time on Wednesday night or Thursday morning some one cut the halter of a young horse in the stable of Mr. James McGiggott, ex-reeve of Douro and allowed the animal to escape. Mr. McGiggott, who was absent from home when the absence of the horse was discovered, traced the animal as far as the fingerpost near Curtis' brickyard. The halter had been cut from the horse's head and was found lying on the floor of the stable.

To the Times Mr. McGiggott said that he had spent the day trying to find the animal, without success.

We are sure the readers of The Times in Douro will assist, as far as they can. Any information as to the whereabouts of the animal will be thankfully received by Mr. McGiggott.

HAD GOOD RECEPTION

Members of Band Speak Highly of Bowmanville

The 57th Band, accompanied by Mr. Herb Morphet, returned from Bowmanville yesterday morning, where they spent a most enjoyable time.

At the concert given on Wednesday evening the band got a splendid reception, as also did Mr. Morphet, who sang in his usual good form, and was recalled after each number. The band played several descriptive selections, which fairly captivated the immense audience.

The boys put up at the Bennett House, where they were hospitably entertained by the popular proprietor, who could not do enough for them. They all speak in the highest terms of this house, and of the goodness of Mr. Macdonald, who practically gave them the house during their stay in the town.

A PAINFUL OPERATION

Son of Mr. James Bogue Had Broken Leg Reset

About three months ago the eleven-year-old son of Mr. James Bogue, the well known contractor, had the misfortune to have his leg broken at the thigh. The little fellow bore the pain of setting the injured limb manfully, and it was thought he would soon recover. However, the injured limb did not appear to heal. The splints and bandages were removed on Tuesday, and thorough examination made, when it was found that a nerve had got caught between the bones which prevented the healing process. Accordingly the bones had to be separated and reset, an operation which was extremely delicate on account of the weakened condition of the child. We are pleased to say that it was completely successful, and the little fellow is now doing as well as could be expected.

LABOR AFFECTS LUMBER

Dullness in Trade Accounted for by Strikes

A lumberman told The Times that the shipping of lumber had never been so dull. This is due to the fact that men cannot be secured to work in the lumber yards. The lumber firms have sent every spare man they could find to the woods and have left the yards short.

They in the camps they are short over twenty-five per cent. of the men they require. Log cutters are getting from $30 to $40 per month, while timber makers are being paid as high as $35 per month in some of the shanties. These wages are given along with first class board.

The labor condition the lumbermen say are worse than they have been for years. The big strikes in New York have also affected the shipment, as over $3,000,000 of contracts have been held over until next season.

The owners have joined with the contractors to fight the labor men and are going to wait for their buildings until next season.

PERSONAL MENTION

Movements of the People—What They are Doing and Saying.

—Toronto Mail and Empire:—Mr. Sanford Fleming, Miss Ethel Fleming and Miss Elsie Smith, who have been visiting in Toronto and Peterborough, have returned to Ottawa.

—Miss Alice Scott left yesterday to the mission fields of the North West. A farewell service was held in St. Luke's church, on Wednesday evening, when an eloquent and impressive service was delivered by Rev. Mr. Langfeldt.

—Miss Marguerite C. Quigley passed through Peterborough today on her way to London, where she will resume her duties on the nursing staff of St. Joseph's Hospital. Miss Quigley has been at home for some time, owing to sickness in the family. She was for a long time soloist in St. Paul's church, Lakefield, her voice being a sweet, pure contralto. Miss Quigley is a niece of Archbishop Quigley, of Chicago, and a granddaughter of the late H. Waldorf [illegible], of Adana, Russia, a Russian officer who won fame in the Crimean war, and was decorated by the Czar for his bravery.

THE VETERAN ACTOR HARRY LINDLEY TO-NIGHT

Will Give Three Performances in the New Rink

This evening inaugurates a season of legitimate comedy and although it is limited to three nights, still we expect to see large houses to greet Harry Lindley, the veteran comedian, at the new rink.

HARRY LINDLEY, COMEDIAN

Mr. Lindley, who is personally known to almost everybody, returns to Ontario from a trip to the Pacific coast, and has a powerful western company to support him. This evening the company will present "Scotch Lassie Jean," which is replete with pathos and humor, showing the elegant costumes of the company.

The company is the largest repertoire on the road and is greeted everywhere with crowded houses. As usual, Mr. Lindley has placed the admission at popular prices, 10c, 20c and 30c.

The Late Mrs. Pendry

The funeral of the late Mrs. Pendry, whose demise occurred on Sunday last in Brooklyn, N.Y., took place yesterday afternoon from the residence of Mr. R. Courtney, Ashburnham, to the Little Lake cemetery. The deceased lady was greatly beloved by those who knew her. Shortly before her death she expressed a desire to be buried in Peterborough. Dr. Pendry and his son, Capt. Bryce Pendry accompanied the remains, and speak in the highest terms of the kindness shown by friends here, including Rev. W. Langfeldt and Mr. Wise, of the cemetery.

—The ladies of All Saints' Church will hold their annual Harvest Dinner in the school room, Tuesday, November 10th.

Wanted to be Heard From!

If there is an invalid woman, suffering from female weakness, prolapsus, or falling of womb, or from leucorrhea who has used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription without complete success, the undersigned proprietors and makers of that world-famed medicine would like to hear from such person—and it will be to her advantage to write them as they offer, in perfect good faith, a reward of $500 for any case of the above maladies which they can not cure.

$3,000 FORFEIT will also be paid if they cannot show the original signature of the individual volunteering the testimonial below, and also of the writers of every testimonial among the thousands which they are constantly publishing, thus proving their genuineness.

WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Proprietors, Buffalo, N. Y.

A Massachusetts woman, Mrs. Carrie P. [illegible], of No. 6 Hale Street, Beverly, Mass., who is well known socially there, being Treasurer of the Order of the Eastern Star, wrote her experience as follows: "Your 'Favorite Prescription' is, without a doubt, the finest remedy on the market to-day for female [illegible]. I suffered for four years with pain every period, and I dreaded the approach of the time as I knew it meant two or three days' misery. Tried several different widely advertised remedies, and found that they did me no good whatever. One day a friend called who had suffered as I was suffering, and who told me that she had been cured through the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, so I purchased a bottle. I found that the real value of your medicine was greater even than my expectation, and the first month I had hardly any pain. The following month had none at all, and found that my general health was much better and new life and strength had come to me."

The Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1008 pages in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Death of Mr. John C. Clarke

Mr. John Clarke, an old and respected resident of Peterborough, passed away at Nicholls Hospital on Wednesday evening after an illness of six weeks. He came to Peterborough half a century ago, and took a position with the late Templeton Brown, with whom he afterwards formed a partnership. Mr. Brown leaving town, Mr. Clarke conducted the business by himself till [illegible] when he formed a partnership with Mr. Alex. Gibson, under the firm name of Clarke & Gibson, which was dissolved in [illegible], since then he has been living in retirement. Mr. Clarke never married. He leaves two nephews in Montreal, sons of his sister, Mrs. Graham, of that city, and several grandnephews and nieces. He never took an active part in any public or social affairs, but was highly respected by all who knew him. He was 77 years of age. The funeral will take place at 2.30 o'clock this afternoon from Nicholls Hospital and proceed to the Little Lake cemetery.

FISCAL CAMPAIGN AWAKENS SUPPORTERS HOPES.

Hon Joseph Chamberlain's Supporters Already Talk of Victory.

London, Oct. 8— Mr. Chamberlain had as fervent a reception at Greenock last night from an audience, numerically as great as he had at Glasgow the previous night. The character of the assemblage was very different, being composed mainly of workingmen, and he very cleverly addressed his remarks especially to their interests. He incidentally referred to the loss of the sugar trade, once a flourishing industry at Greenock, and he contended that in the case of all such failures of big industries, it was hopeless to expect workmen in the middle of life to become skilful in and take kindly to utterly new employments, even if such could be found. This allusion went home, and the audience roared in sympathy. He challenged the Cobden Club to explain the prosperity of the protected countries.

His campaign is being followed with the keenest interest by the whole press to the exclusion of all other topics. Even the Cabinet crisis is quite forgotten in the excitement. His speeches are reported verbatim, generally with a careful synopsis in addition, enabling the readers to rapidly seize the points and arguments, which are discussed and commented on from every standpoint. The courage he displays and the success he has already achieved at the two meetings embolden his followers in the press, who are already scenting victory, in spite of the damaging criticisms daily produced in opponent papers, which are compelled to recognize his ability, strength of character, and resolute purpose as contrasted with the vacillation displayed in other quarters.

According to authorative accounts, Mr Chamberlain himself regards the Glasgow meeting as having made the assurance of success doubly sure, the result having succeeded his utmost anticipation.

London, Oct. 8—Lord Onslow, president of the Board of Trade, speaking to the British Dairy Farmers' Association, attributed the very severe Canadian competition to the Canadians discarding old ideas, and being ready to adopt scientific methods.

London, Oct. 8—The Irish Times states that the Canadian Ministry informs Mr. Chamberlain for the second time that if there is no reciprocity by England they will reconsider their position in regard to the preference already given.

Brockville, Ont., Oct. 8—The Town Council will submit a by-law to the ratepayers for the granting of a bonus of $10,000 to aid in rebuilding the Cossitt Bros. Company foundry destroyed three years ago.

St. John, N. B., Oct. 9.—A turned switch caused a bad accident on the Intercolonial Railway at Petitcodiac, between here and Moncton, yesterday. No person was badly hurt. A freight train had been using a siding at Petitcodiac, and left the switch turned. The express from Moncton came along at a fast rate, swung from the main track into the siding. A few hundred feet in on the siding were four box cars, and into these it plunged, completely demolishing them. The engine turned over on its side, and was badly damaged. The driver and brakesman, who jumped, were badly cut but not seriously injured. None of the passengers were injured.

Montreal, Oct. 9— Mayor Cochrane of Montreal, who is a leader in the Liberal councils, says that the Dominion elections are not far off, and he should know. "There will be a general election very soon," said his Worship, this morning. When pressed to give his reasons for so thinking, the Mayor replied that he had received several letters from Ottawa, which contained sufficient to convince him that there would shortly be an appeal to the country.

Windsor, Ont., Oct. 8—United States Consul Morris was this morning visited by a man named H. Plumer, from McGregor, Essex County, who stated that a gang of counterfeiters are successfully operating near McGregor and turning out a large number of American silver dollars and fifty and twenty-five-cent pieces. Plumer says the gang also turns out Canadian coins.

Berlin, Oct. 11—Nicholas L. Pietrowski, a Polish lawyer, has just completed an exhaustive investigation of the condition of his former countrymen in Germany, Russia and Austria. He asserts that the Poles in Germany are suffering unto desperation under the Russian yoke and are preparing to revolt. He says he has reason to believe that the policy of the Kaiser's Government is bent toward that end, and that the Government would welcome a revolution as a pretext for more speedily destroying Polish nationality. Speaking to a correspondent this morning Mr. Pietrowski said: "Prussia is far the most tyrannous of the three Governments to which the Poles are obliged to own allegiance. It is almost a crime there to think in Polish. Not only is the language banished from the public schools maintained by Polish money, but even to teach it privately is a misdemeanor. Poles during compulsory army service are often forced to Germanize their names, the Polish names by which they are known being obliterated. Polish business men are even prohibited from displaying Polish signs. Revolution, the only alternative to such conditions, would be suicidal; yet the time has arrived when the words of Patrick Henry, "Give me liberty, or give me death," have the same significance in Poland they had in America.

GALWAY AS TERMINUS FOR THE FAST LINE

Mr. C. R. Devlin Waits on Ministers at Ottawa

Ottawa, October 11.—Mr. C. R. Devlin, M.P., waited upon the Prime Minister and Sir Richard Cartwright yesterday and urged the advantages of Galway as a terminus for the fast Atlantic service. He pointed out that steamships of 23 knots could make the trip from Halifax to Galway in three and a half days, which would permit of a communication between Montreal and London in something under five days.

THE JEWS IN RUSSIA

An Instance of How They Are Treated by Officials

London, October 11.—The Times recently printed an official statement communicated by M. Plehve, through Mr. Arnold White, asserting that the Jews were the aggressors at Gomel and Kishinef, and citing an alleged confirmatory incident at Pinsk, where three Jews attacked a Christian boy. Russian correspondents of The Times now give the true version. The boy had a scuffle with a Jewish boy and was wounded in the hand, but was soon well and they made friends again. The Official Messenger distorted the story as quoted by M. Plehve and the Governor with a company of soldiers descended on the town. Some days later the Christian boy's brother wired to the Official Messenger contradicting the published story and giving the true version, but the Messenger did not publish it. The Times, in an editorial on the incident, says it shows that caution is necessary in regard to the narratives circulated by a minister who is ready to doubt the accuracy of all intelligence lacking his official imprimature.

London, Oct. 8.— A. B. Aylesworth, speaking to your correspondent today, said:— "Canada, I am confident, is indifferent to Mr. Chamberlain's fad. With all due respect to Sir Charles Tupper I believe the Dominion is satisfied with things as they are. Only England cares for it. Canadians feel that Mr. Chamberlain has been a grand Colonial Secretary, but they are keenly sensitive to the unconscious condescension of Englishmen which is always shown in their dealings with Canada and especially by the fact that Americans though hostile to us have taken the British to heart."

Regarding the Alaska case we think the empire. All Canada has been for Canadians have fought the battle of months in a nervous dread lest the award go against her. I told Lord Alverstone that we Canadians of the tribunal would never sign any document giving away a single inch of territory that we considered British.

"Mr. Aylesworth declined to talk concerning the award beyond stating that the case was grandly presented by the British side, and apart from Mr Dickenson, weakly presented by American counsel.

The Americans have asked for an immediate award. Your correspondent learns from an excellent authority that the result will be a complete compromise and that Lord Alverstone will side with the Americans.

NEW COUNTY PROPOSED

Which Will Take In Country Close to Peterborough

The Bowmanville Statesman says:— In conversation with an Ontario County Councillor recently, he suggested the formation of a new Durham County to comprise Clarke, Darlington, East and West Whitby and Pickering, at the front, Manvers and Cartwright Townships in the rear—Hope and Cavan to be added to Northumberland. Ontario County could then make Beaverton or Cannington a County Town if Uxbridge and Port Perry were agreeable. We are not particular where the County Town goes. They could decide that question. We are very sure that West Durham would very gladly form a union with South Ontario and contribute a reasonable sum towards new county buildings for Ontario County—now North Ontario. Ontario County at present is over one hundred miles from north to south. The north and south portions have really very little in that County, and the people of West and East Durham are much the same. Such an adjustment would greatly improve existing conditions, in our opinion.

SCIENCE OF VITOSOPHY

Rudiments Explained Last Night by Prof Windsor

In spite of counter attractions last night a large audience assembled in the Y.M.C.A. lecture hall to hear Prof. Windsor explain the science of vitosophy which combines the principals of knowing how to live properly. The theme is very entertaining and the subject is presented in a fascinating manner. The professor claims for the new science that by following its principles men and women are better fitted to rub up against the world, or they are placed in their natural surroundings. The reason so many persons make a failure of life is because they were forced into living a wrong phase of life, unsuited to their temperament. To all who desire to make a sincere struggle to make a success of life, vitosophy will be found helpful. The solution of the whole trouble is a knowledge of character, by which it is possible to direct persons into the right channel of living, that happiness and success will follow.

Prof. Windsor will give a course of lectures each evening in the Y.M.C.A hall. His subject tonight is "How to Become Rich" and is free to all.

HARRY LINDLEY, LAST NIGHT

A Good Audience Greeted the Veteran Actor, Last Night

After a long absence, Harry Lindley and his fine Western troupe again appeared before a Peterborough audience in the Brock street rink. Despite counter attractions, a fair crowd came out to greet the veteran and were amply repaid. 'Scotch Lassie Jean' was presented with all its fine points by these clever artists and was much appreciated. Great credit is due Miss Adelaide Flint who appeared in the role of Jean Inglesides, the Scotch Lassie, her part being conducted with perfect ease and grace; Mr. J. J. Kennedy also conducted himself most admirably in the part of Geo. Leighton, the scheming lover. Much praise is also due the other actors, especially the Veteran himself in the role of Waugings, while the amusing antics of Will Phillips in the role of the Office Boy provoked the crowd to laughter.

The specialties introduced were much admired especially the singing of Little Mystic the electrical scenic effects were among the finest ever shown in Peterborough, and when used to illustrate the songs rendered by Little Mystic were highly appreciated. Charlie Dunn also provoked much mirth as the Dutch Vocalist.

This talented Company will remain in town until Monday evening; this afternoon a matinee will take place in which Little Mystic will shine, and in the evening the fine pastoral drama "How Women Love," will be presented, with a complete change of programme on Monday evening.

Blew Up a Tug

Kingston, Ont., Oct. 8.—Some evil inclined persons blew up a tug owned by Richardson Bros., of this city, at their Belgar Mines, on Thirty Mile Lake, Bedford Township. The Attorney-General has been asked to send a Provincial detective to the scene of the outrage at once.

ACCIDENT ON STURGEON LAKE

Albert Davey of Emily Creek Supposed to be Owner of Canoe Found Sunday

It is feared by the friends of Albert Davey, who resides on an island at the mouth of Emily Creek, Sturgeon Lake, that he has been drowned, as he has been missing since Friday last, and that the canoe picked up on Tuesday afternoon by the Mizpah was his.

Davey, who is a man about sixty-five years of age, was last seen on Friday afternoon. He was seen by Mrs. Walkey at Sturgeon Point, and it is said he had considerable money on his person. Davey had supper at Aldon's Hotel, Fenelon Falls, Friday evening, and those who saw him say he had been drinking. He left the Falls after supper and started down the river in his canoe. On the way down he enquired of Mr. Geo. Johnson, in charge of Rathbun's camp, if he could be accommodated over night. Mr. Johnston had no accommodation, so Davey started out for home in the canoe. Shortly after he left the camp he was heard singing some distance away. A canoe was found near the west shore of Sturgeon Lake on Sunday afternoon and beside it was found a broken mast. As Davey is accustomed to use a short lug sail, it is feared he has met a watery grave. The story of Davey having considerable money with him is confirmed by a citizen of Fenelon Falls who says that he must have had over $50. At the Falls Davey was seen in company with a pedlar and the two had been drinking. It may be possible that a foul act has been committed in order to secure his money. The finding of the canoe may be taken that he has been drowned. Perhaps the man has been brutally assaulted by some villain and left to die, the canoe having been put in the lake as a blind. Mr. McConnell's yacht, the Laura Mack, conveying a few of our citizens will leave to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock for Sturgeon Lake, where a careful search will be made for the body.—Post.

Says Canadians Wish to Paddle Their Own Canoe

New York, October 11.—The New York Sun editorially, says: "At various times during the last few months we have called attention to the growth in Canada of the spirit of nationality. Distinct emphasis is given to this point by the recent promulgation of what may be called the platform of the Canadian National League. Certain clauses of this document indicate an unquestionable growth of protectionist sentiment across the border, and with the fact that in conversation our northern neighbors are fast getting into firmly fixed habits of referring to themselves as Canadians, rather than as British, there is no question the Canadians wish to paddle their own canoe and guide it into waters of their own selection, free from any dictating or even partial control by the Mother Country. While Canada possesses and exercises a wide measure of control in the conducting of her affairs, she is by the terms of her constitution restricted in the full exercise of national powers, notably in that of treaty making and in the right to appeal, in certain cases from the Canadian Courts to the Privy Council of England. A case on point appears in the Alaska Boundary matter. It is quite certain Canada would very much rather settle that case herself with the United States, than leave it to a conference in which England and English interests may be considered in the settlement. With a rapidly increasing foreign commerce, Canada desires and needs more direct relations with her markets. She is now represented abroad only through England's consuls and other agents. These must naturally first serve the interests of England and afterwards the interests of other Colonies as well as Canada. In international relations, political and economic, Canada's independence is at hand."

MR. CHAMBERLAIN TO WORKINGMEN.

With Their Aid He Has Accomplished a Great Deal

London, Oct. 8—In the course of a short speech to the Unionists of Culpar this afternoon Mr. Joseph Chamberlain said no one more than himself had benefited by the consideration and support of the working classes of Great Birtain. Without them he could have done nothing, with them he had been able to accomplish considerable work. He hoped that the present undertaking, toward the close at any rate, of his political life, would have, from the working classes the same support and confidence he had enjoyed before. Upon the right solution of the great question he had raised depended what was, after all, the first and greatest interest of the workingman. That was the continuance of his employment. Without a change he foresaw that they would have to decide between working for insufficient wages or leaving the country for other shores.

Mr. Chamberlain left Glasgow for London this morning to confer with his campaign organizers.

GERMANY SWEPT BY BIG STORM

Tall Towers in a Suburb of Berlin Blown Down

Berlin, October 9 — A hurricane is sweeping over Germany. A portion of the tower, 180 feet high, of the new City Hall at Charlottenburg, a suburb of Berlin, has been blown down, and trees in the parks and forests have been uprooted. A wall at the new baths of Dresden was blown over, killing four workmen and injuring eight others. A mill was blown down at Lubeck, and numerous other small accidents have occurred. The large vessels left Bremen and Hamburg, but the smaller craft remained in port on account of the storm.

London, Oct. 8—The King left Balmoral for London this morning. Prime Minister Balfour started from Whittinghame for London. The King will preside at the transference of the seals of office to the members of the Cabinet to-morrow.

SMOKED CIGARETTES

Winnipeg Youth Shoots a Woman Who Remonstrated with Him

Winnipeg, Man., October 11.—Mrs. Card was seriously shot by a small boy named Graham for remonstrating with him about smoking cigarettes. When going over the Norwood Bridge she noticed a crowd of small boys smoking cigarettes. She remonstrated with them, and young Graham aimed at her when her back was turned, with a 22 calibre rifle and pulled the trigger. The bullet took effect in Mrs. Card's leg, just above the knee, and she was knocked down by the shock. Assistance arrived promptly and Mrs. Card was taken to St. Boniface Hospital and afterwards to her home.

Return to Burning Home

Sutton, Que., Oct. 8.—A terrible fatality occurred here as a result of a fire at the residence of Mr. Moise Bonneau, early Sunday morning. Fire started in the outbuildings and rapidly spread to the house, in which were residing Mr. Bonneau, his wife and two children, a little girl three years of age and a boy of five years. The father took the children from the house and placed them in the street when the house began to burn, but in some unaccountable manner the children returned into the burning building. The mother missed them and went to their rescue, but was horrified to find the little boy dead, suffocated by the smoke, and the little girl in an unconscious condition. She has not yet regained consciousness. The mother was severely burned about the head and shoulders, and it is feared that she will succumb to her injuries.

—The Chemong and Pigeon Creek bridges were inspected yesterday by the Joint Committee of the Town and County. The following gentlemen are those who went: Messrs. J. Butcher, T. A. S. Hay, Dr. Morrison, Dr. Greer, and Geo. Fitzgerald and T. J. Johnston, County Councillors.

ALVERSTONE TO SIDE WITH YANKEES COMPROMISE IN ALASKA BOUNDARY CASE

London Correspondent Learns Verdict of Commission

Alyesworth Stands for Canada to Sign the Surrender Decision.

London, Oct. 8 — When the Alaska Boundary Commission commenced its session this morning Judge J. M. Dickinson, the American counsel, summing up the case of the United States, was still speaking. On resuming his argument today he dealt with the various notices claimed to have been given by Great Britain of the British claims to the heads of the inlets, and declared that up to the year 1898 all notices were ineffective. He quoted from Herschell to Salisbury to show that the British claim was presented to the High Commission at Quebec in 1898, implying that this was the first time. He reviewed the notices seriatim, and contended that George Dawson's letters to Sir Charles Tupper and Sir A. T. Galt, in 1888 were merely informal; that Sackville West's letter the same year was fatally defective; that Lord Salisbury's protest regarding the later Schwatka reconnaissance was irrelevant, and so on.

Quoted Indians.

Judge Dickinson enumerated the acts which he claimed proved continuous occupation on the part of the United States of the head of Lynn Canal, and quoted the reports of military and naval officers in support of his argument. He read depositions from the Indians of that locality, with the object of showing that they had always considered themselves the subjects of Russia, prior to the year 1867, and to the United States since that time. He said the records of the civil authorities showed the same thing. The Customs and mining laws of the United States were enforced at these places; post-offices were established; and other acts of sovereignty performed without a single protest from anybody.

The judge said a few words as to the jurisdiction of the tribunal, and quoted from the late Lord Russell's speech before the Law Association of the United States, in which he dwelt upon the excellence of the settlement of international questions by peaceful means, such as these. He eulogized such methods, and said that looking to the magnitude of the interests involved, and the feeling aroused in both countries, the position of the tribunal is unique. He commented on the issues set for its determination, and expressed the thanks of himself and his colleagues for the patience, courtesy and impartiality with which they had been received.

President Alverstone thanked him for his brilliant and powerful argument.

Attorney-General Sir Robt. Finlay expressed pleasure at being associated in such a friendly rivalry with the eminent jurists from the United States.

General Foster, the United States agent, expressed the thanks of his government for the courtesy and general hospitality of his Majesty's Government. No word, he said, had been spoken to mar the cordial and friendly character of the proceedings, and he trusted this might by a happy augury of the tribunal's decision.

CHAMBERLAIN'S PERORATION

"I warn you, to urge you, to implore you to do nothing that will tend towards the disintegration of the Empire, not to refuse to sacrifice futile superstition, and inept prejudice, and thereby to lose the result of centuries of noble effort and patriotic endeavor."
—Extract from Chamberlain's great speech at Glasgow.

Paying off the Men

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., October 11.—It is now thought that it will be Monday or Tuesday next before all employes of the Consolidated Lake Superior Companies are paid. Although the clerks are working sometimes till 12 and 1 o'clock only about 300 men are being paid daily. It is costing the Consolidated Company nearly $150 a day to keep 35 militia, with headquarters on board the steamer Ossifrage, on duty.

TO BANISH WARFARE FOR ARBITRATION

Treaty Between Great Britain and France is Concluded

King Edward, Loubet and French Parliamentarians Effected It

Paris, Oct. 8—It was learned in authoritative quarters this evening that the terms of the general treaty of arbitration between France and Great Britain had been concluded between Foreign Minister Delcasse and the authorities in London.

All the substantial features of the treaty have now been settled. There only remain minor questions of details before the signing of the treaty. These formalities are so far advanced that the treaty is considered to be an accomplished fact today. The treaty follows the general lines of the Hay-Pauncefote Arbitration Treaty.

The officials view the negotiations as evidence of the sympathetic attitude of the United States, France, and Great Britain on the practical adoption of the theory of arbitration. The treaty is mainly significant in being the culmination of the rapprochement between France and Great Britain after centuries of warfare, the maintenance of defensive armaments and the recent animosities growing out of the Fashoda incident and the South African war. It is also significant of the tendency towards a rearrangement of the European political alliances.

The treaty is mainly the outcome of the exchange of visits between King Edward and President Loubet and the visit of Baron d'Estournelles de Constant and the French Parliamentarians to London.

Washington, Oct. 8. — The American State Department was informed today that the American-Chinese commercial treaty has been signed at Shanghai. An imperial decree by the Chinese Government has made the treaty effective so far as that Government is concerned, but it must be ratified by the Senate of the United States before ratifications can be exchanged and the treaty put in operation.

Third—Protection of patents, trade marks and copyrights.

Fourth—Mining rights.

Fifth—Opening of new localities to international trade in the part of the empire in which the United States has vast commercial interests.

THE IRISH PARTY IS NOT CONCERNED

The Fiscal Policy Receives Little Notice

The Irish Leader Expresses Opinion That Government is Doomed

London, Oct. 8.— Irish Nationalist opinion of Premier Balfour's reconstructed Cabinet is voiced in a telegram from John Redmond, the Irish leader, to the Associated Press, as follows.—

"Dublin, Oct. 8, 1903—The reconstructed Cabinet is in its personnel incomparably weaker than it was. No new man of mark has been added to it. Arnold-Foster is careful and industrious, but he is a most commonplace official.

"Austen Chamberlain's promotion to the Chancellorship would under other circumstances be denounced a job; but it is rightly regarded as an audacious characteristic manoeuvre of his father, to gain Kudos from his resignation and at the same time keep his grip on the Cabinet.

"It goes without saying that the Government cannot last. The desertion of the Duke of Devonshire gave it a knockout blow. Whether it will meet Parliament in January or not is very doubtful. But, if it does, I believe it will not last a week unless the Irish party comes to the rescue. We are not overmuch concerned in the merits of its fiscal policy. What we are concerned about is reform of the abuses in Ireland and the restoration of our national Government, and we do not very much care from which English party we obtain our rights. We stand to win however as the situation develops. From now onward I believe we shall hold the balance of power in the House of Commons.

(Signed)
"JOHN REDMOND."

Rowdyism in the Rink

The numerous patrons of Harry Lindley last night were much annoyed by the incessant noise, and other actions kept up by a crowd of boys on the side seats. 'Boys will be boys' but that is no reason why they should behave like rowdies, such as was witnessed last night. It would be well to place a man in charge and have him eject all who misbehave.

YOU PAY ONLY IF CURED.

Expects No Money Unless He Cures You—Method and Full Particulars Sent Free—Write for It This Very Day

A Detroit specialist who has fourteen certificates and diplomas from colleges and medical boards, has perfected a startling method of curing the diseases of men in their own homes, and so that there may be no doubt in the mind of any man that he has both the method and

DR. S. GOLDBERG.

The possessor of fourteen diplomas and certificates, who wants no money that he does not earn the ability to do as he says, Dr. S. Goldberg, the discoverer, will send the method entirely free to all men who send him their name and address. He wants to hear from men who have stricture that they have been unable to get cured, prostatic trouble, vital weakness, varicocele, lost vigor, blood poison, hydrocele, emaciation, impotency, etc. His wonderful method not only cures the condition itself, but likewise all the complications, such as rheumatism, bladder or kidney trouble, heart disease, etc.

The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up, so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you, and if you are cured he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It would seem, therefore, that it is to the best interest of every man who suffers in this way, to write the doctor confidentially and lay your case before him. He sends the method, as well as many booklets on the subject, including the one that contains the fourteen diplomas and certificates, entirely free. Address him simply Dr. S. Goldberg, 38 Woodward Avenue, Room [illegible], Detroit, Mich., and it will all immediately be sent you free.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 10 1903

A NEW INSURANCE POLICY

A well-known fire insurance company in Great Britain having decided to issue a policy which shall be free from the ordinary restrictions, some papers there have begun to advocate the abolition of such in all policies. The chief reason advanced for such a suggestion is apparently on the score of popularity with the masses of insurers. No doubt they certainly would be popular, though it is a question whether the final result would be equally popular. Another thing urged in favor of the cancellation or recancellation of restrictions is that they are seldom read in any case; but this, with an unsatisfactory consequence to the insured party, can hardly be laid at the door of the companies.

It must be remembered, however, that in every form of insurance very much depends upon the moral hazard, just as much probably as upon the innate dangerousness of the premises under consideration, owing to inflammability of contents, proximity to other premises of a peculiarly inflammable nature, or the risky nature of the business carried on therein. Also it is precisely a knowledge of these elements which enters into a wise placing of restrictions, or lack thereof, in any given case. And it is well to bear in mind that the very company which is referred to as having introduced conditionless policies is very careful to limit these to a few classes of risk, where certainly they are not required very imperatively. This is a very different thing from what some of the advocates of an absolutely unlimited policy are thinking of.

The fire insurance companies would, no doubt, be glad to do away with conditions, if it could be done with any degree of safety. But the very nature of the business demands them in some degree. Life insurance has now been brought to such a degree of science that it has been found possible to do away practically with all restrictions. But other forms of insurance are on a somewhat different footing. Take the casualty business, for example. If it is to be put upon a basis of value such as will appeal to the public, and offered at such price as to tempt it to purchase, limitations, and strict ones at that, are absolutely necessary. In its degree, the fire hazard is similar. Given a flat rate for all sorts of conditions, present or to appear in the future, the companies would have to make such a charge for their accommodation that the public would never be induced to insure at all. The chances for fraud are another part of the story.

THE ILLS OF WOMEN

A RELIABLE AND SAFE CURE FOR WOMANLY ILLS IS FOUND IN FERROZONE. A REMEDY THAT ALWAYS GIVES SATISFACTION AND NEVER DISAPPOINTS

If troubled with painful irregularities, dizziness, faintness, excitability, nervousness, remember there is a remedy that if regularly and persistently used, will cure all these ills. Its name is Ferrozone.

It is used by thousands of women who have experienced its great strengthening powers, and they would not be without it for ten times its price.

Ferrozone is primarily a blood maker. It drives all impurities from the crimson fluid, makes it strong and capable of supplying nourishment to the body. It quiets the nerves, banishes excitability and headache.

By taking Ferrozone regularly you can keep free from those dreadful backache, and monthly sickness will pass off regularly and without pain or distress. Being prepared in tablet form, Ferrozone is both convenient and simple to use, and no uncertainty as to the proper quantity or dose can ever arise.

A Montreal hospital nurse who has used Ferrozone herself, and has seen also the benefit that other suffering women have derived from it, writes: "I have nursed and treated all forms of female disorders, and from my personal experience, must say that Ferrozone is a remedy about which all womankind should know. It is reliable and sure, and will give prompt and satisfactory results. As a builder of muscle and tissue, I know nothing to equal Ferrozone. I have found it good to build up a weak appetite, and consider it a splendid medicine for the blood and nerves. I have no hesitancy in endorsing Ferrozone."

Don't continue to exist in a state of misery and weakness any longer. Ferrozone will make you strong and well just as it has done for thousands before you. All druggists recommend and sell Ferrozone, at 50c. a box, or 6 boxes for $2.50. Get a box to-day from your druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE MAN IN THE STREET

"The Man in the Street" takes pleasure in making his bow to the readers of The Times. It will be his endeavor each week to give a concise and careful resume of each week's doings in the Queen City. Particular attention will be given to the financial marts of the world, and more particularly as they affect Canadians. Until quite lately Torontonians have been "up to the hilt" in stocks. Unfortunately, however, the majority, if not all, have been "cleaned out." Toronto people are great, or have been great, on stocks. They are a speculative people. Fortunes have been made; but, alas! many fortunes have been lost in the market within the past six months. I know of several instances in which men a year ago who were worth all the way from $50,000 to $100,000, are today looking for a job. Lake Superior shares, for instance, which a year ago were selling around 30 are offered at 20 points less today—with no buyers. The Clergue Company last year gave a junketing excursion to the "Soo" in the interests of the company. Several of Toronto's leading bankers and brokers were among those invited. A special train, wine ad libitum, and all the delicacies of the season were served to the guests. On their return to Toronto, a good many of the poor "lambs" were induced to get "on board." Their shares cost them from 28 to 30. Without exception they have been cleaned out. A syndicate of three wealthy Torontonians is said to have underwritten 250,000 shares at 25. Fortunately for them they are all able to stand by the speculation. But other poor fellows are not in the same position and some of them are reduced to such circumstances as to necessitate them borrowing the price of a meal! poor fellows are not in the same position at present that none but a lunatic would think of touching them. The "bears" seem to get on top every time. However, such speculators as Van Horne, C. R. Hosmer, Shaughnessy, Cox, Pellatt and Jaffray are said to have cashed up enough to pay for this winter's coal.

Coal and steel stocks have been a sore disappointment to the "talent." Great things were expected of these securities, but alas! the expectations were not fired. Navigation shares were looked upon at the beginning of the season as a sure thing for a substantial rise. They have depreciated in value to the extent of from 18 to 20 points. Unfortunately for Toronto there are no "bears" on the market. Nearly every man is a "bull." Day by day the latter think the bottom has been reached, but still lower quotations rule. The market quotations, however, cannot go out of sight altogether, and no doubt we will shortly hear of fortunes being made in the markets.

Mr. Maurice E. Davis, the well known cigar manufacturer of Montreal, who is as well known throughout Ontario as he is in Quebec, spent a few hours at the Queen's Hotel, this city, during the week. Mr. Davis was on his way back from Winnipeg. The name of Davis is so well known throughout Canada, that it is almost superfluous to refer to it. Mr. Davis, although still a young man, is one of the most acute and close observers of things in general in the Dominion. Speaking of his Winnipeg trip, Mr. Davis said; "It was my first visit in fifteen years to the great Western city. I am more than ever impressed by the general prosperity prevailing throughout that Province. If there was any doubt as to the future of the Province a few years ago, in my mind, that has been dispelled. I found everything apparently in a prosperous condition, and I am convinced that in a few years' time Manitoba and the North-West will be widely known throughout the world as Britain's granary. "There are only at present," said Mr. Davis, "4,000,000 acres under cultivation of the vast total acreage." Mr. Davis is a reader of "The Times," of which paper he speaks in most glowing terms.

Mr. Davis is senior partner in the well known and old established firm of cigar manufacturers of S. Davis & Sons, of Montreal, whose goods are en evidence throughout the entire Dominion.

In connection with my newspaper work I have to make a tour of the city hotels daily. When in the Queen's yesterday I was really surprised to see three pages of names on the register for the day from Australia, India, Japan, China, and other outlandish parts of the globe. I had thought with some others that the advent of the new King Edward might affect the old hostlery somewhat, but such is not the case. There is an air of comfort one breathes in the Queen's that is not to be found elsewhere in the hotels in the city. Then again if you want an interview worth printing it is always the Queens the reporter goes to. Mr. Winnett, the genial proprietor, is ably seconded in his attention to the guests by his popular son-in-law, Mr. H. H. Thompson, one of our best liked hotel men in the city.

Among the enterprising brokers on our local Wall street may be mentioned Mr. Edward A. Laver, who has his offices in the Janes Building, corner King and Yonge streets. Mr. Laver, although a young man, has all the business instincts of a Jay Gould. Since commencing business Mr. Laver has built up a very large clientele and his advice is frequently sought on matters pertaining to Stock Exchange affairs. Just at the present time, Mr. Laver is not anxious to give an opinion on the market, but some of these days, probably in my next letter, he may unburden himself.

Return to Burning Home

[illegible], Que., Oct. [illegible].—A terrible fatality occurred here as a result of a fire at the residence of Mr. Moise Bonneau, early Sunday morning. Fire started in the outbuildings and rapidly spread to the house, in which were residing Mr. Bonneau, his wife and two children, a little girl three years of age and a boy of five years. The father took the children from the house and placed them in the street when the house began to burn, but in some unaccountable manner the children returned into the burning building. The mother missed them and went to their rescue, but was horrified to find the little boy dead, suffocated by the smoke, and the little girl in an unconscious condition. She has not yet regained consciousness. The mother was severely burned about the head and shoulders, and it is feared that she will succumb to her injuries.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 300 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure this gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine — Its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck or more of sand, either ordinary house or sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

Black Hills Copper Company LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000
PAR VALUE OF SHARES, ... $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jerome mineral belt of Arizona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to-day.

A limited amount of the Stock is new offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

GOLD——$80,000,000——GOLD

—If you want to make a GOLD DIVIDEND PAYING INVESTMENT—

Purchase the Treasury Stock of The Drake Mining Drainage and Tunnel Transportation Co. OF COLORADO

The Company is capitalized at $3,000,000, consisting of 3,000,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury block.

The Property

Consists of nine patented, well developed mines and mill sites, situated in Gilpin County, Colorado. This county has already produced more than

$80,000,000 in Gold

The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk on ore to a depth of 150 to 600 feet, and a tunnel run a distance of 2,300 feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to unwater and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation

The Colorado & Southern Railroad passes directly in front of the mouth of the tunnel. All ore can be dumped therefrom directly into the cars, giving quick and cheap transportation to the mills. Large returns have been paid from the product of these mines.

Sale of Preferred Stock

The company desires to not only push its development work and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own mill site at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ores. For that purpose it now offers for sale 200,000 shares of its Preferred Treasury Stock at 50 cents per share reserving the right to increase the price of all unsold shares thereof at any time without notice.

The Company pledges the whole net product of its mines to pay an eight per cent annual dividend on the sum paid for such stock, before any other stock receives any dividends whatever. After such dividends has been paid, the common stock shall receive a like dividend, when the surplus fund remaining shall be distributed among the common and preferred stock, share and share alike. All stock will be issued full paid and non-assessable.

THE ROSE OF THE RING

"No—nothing. It struck me as being strange when I found the room almost in darkness. I wish I hadn't gone out. I shall never leave off reproaching myself for this as long as I live."

"You have nothing with which to reproach yourself," the doctor replied, looking round the room with knit brows, as though trying to solve a problem. "Did you notice if there were any footmarks on the steps when you returned?"

"They were covered with snow—quite smooth, without a mark."

He saw the knife on the sideboard, and examined the sharp blade with interest.

There was nothing there to rouse his suspicions, and presently, with the assistance of Tom Croft and Sue, he raised the dead woman from the floor, and laid her on the bed, in the adjoining room.

"There are bruises on the wrists and arms," he remarked, looking at the white skin, as the sleeves slipped back. "They seem to be finger-marks, too."

"They were not there when I went out," Mrs. West said, looking on with awe. "Perhaps she knocked herself in falling."

"I should say there had been a struggle of some kind, and that death was occasioned through heart-disease, accelerated by undue excitement. I can say nothing more at present; but I advise you to try and clear up the mystery."

He returned to the parlor; and as he stood by the fireplace, he caught sight of something glittering on the hearthrug.

He picked it up.

It was a portion of a small locket, such as might have been suspended from a watch-chain; it had been broken off at the hinges, and as the doctor laid it on the mantel-shelf, he said—

"This seems to prove what I remarked just now. Did you notice if Mrs Errol wore this locket when you saw her alive?"

"Well, I am inclined to think that whoever possessed the other half of the locket was present at the moment of Mrs. Errol's death. It must be taken care of; there is no telling to what discovery it may lead."

Almost directly after this, the doctor took his departure, promising to look in again the next morning to see how things were getting on.

Mrs. West persuaded Sue to stay with her during the night.

The landlady was too agitated to be left in the house by herself, and there was the baby to be thought about.

"Poor orphan!" she said, gathering the child up in her arms and rocking it to sleep. "Who's to look after it now? And it's been used to so much love from its mother."

The outside was composed of rubies, finely set in gold, and on the smooth gold of the inside were the enamelled letters—"Souv—."

The remainder of the word was evidently on the other portion of the locket, and, as Mrs. West went over the letters again and again, she wondered what they spelt, and whether or no those four characters completed the word.

"'Souv—.' If that's not the whole word, what can have been the end of it?" she asked herself. "Perhaps it's a name of somebody?"

According to the doctor's instructions, she made careful researches for some clue by which she could trace Mrs. Errol's relatives.

She was unsuccessful in her task. A little velvet-covered box, with three ten-pound notes and some loose gold in it, was all she found of any consequence.

It seemed as if the velvet box contained the whole of Mrs. Errol's money—thirty-five pounds, and that she must have depended on this sum for the maintenance of herself and child for some time to come.

She could not have kept up a correspondence with anybody during her stay at Lilac Villa, for there was no letter of any description found, nor had she ever asked for the use of writing materials.

"Maybe, we shall never know her story," Mrs. West remarked, the next morning, when she turned back the white coverlet to lay a few snowdrops on the folded hands. "She looks just as if she was asleep, with her hair brushed down over her shoulders. Is it strange to think there's nobody belonging to her to care whether she's alive or dead!"

CHAPTER III.

All doubts as to the cause of Mrs. Errol's death were cleared at the inquest, which, of course, had to take place. She had died through heart failure, occasioned by over-exertion, and mental excitement. Beyond this, nothing more could be traced, and it was a sad day for Mrs. West when she turned away from the grave where they had laid the baby's mother.

Jim and Polly had read an account, in one of the daily papers, of Mrs. Errol's death and were both full of importance to think that the tragedy had taken place—as they themselves expressed it—under their very nose.

"And so there we were talking about what we'd do if the child was left, while it was all happening," Jim said, reading the account for the twentieth time, while they sat in a third-class [illegible] way to Liverpool, [illegible] been engaged to perform at [illegible] music-hall. "Well, I hope [illegible] won't have any [illegible] the matter—the Foundling [illegible] best place for them [illegible] and strays."

"It's nice to see mother's name in print," she remarked, laying her finger on the paragraph. "'Lilac Villa,' too. Who'd have thought of reading it in a newspaper? And how grand this sounds: 'The landlady, a kind-hearted, motherly person, has begged to have the care of the child until it shall be claimed by its relatives.'"

"That may be never," Jim said, his former prejudices returning. "A nice thing to have a child left on her hands all her life! Directly we get to Liverpool I'll write and put her on her guard."

All the letters Jim could have written would not have turned Mrs. West from her purpose. Her heart had warmed towards the helpless baby, and it seemed to her but right she should adopt it as her own.

She was standing by the parlor window, amusing the baby by making the tassel of the blind swing like a pendulum, when the postman brought her Jim's missive.

It was almost the first time she had received a letter from her son, and her heart sank as she looked at the address, not recognizing the handwriting.

"If it's something about baby—somebody coming to take her away from me!" she thought, holding the little one closer to her heart. "I never know how I shall part with her; she'll fret so much with strangers, who don't understand any of her ways."

When she had done so, the "Dear mother" that caught her glance, made her homely face beam with satisfaction, and she knew she was not yet to be robbed of her treasure.

POWER WILL REVOLUTIONIZE

Engines Without Boilers Promised by Indiana Man

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 9.—Scientists and engineers declare that through a wonderful invention by F. S. Smith, of South Bend, the mechanical engineering world is to be revolutionized, and that in the future engines will not require boilers to generate steam.

"Instead they will be supplied with the steam generator," an improvement over anything in its line that the world has ever seen. Smith's invention has been completed within the last two months and the United States patent office has allowed 17 out of 18 claims made by the inventor. The invention is the work of four years. Every expert who has seen the generator tested is enthusiastic in declaring the principle to be the leading mechanical discovery of the century. The greatest advantages claimed for the invention are that it is nonexploding and that it is simple to operate. In the instantaneous vaporization of water, whereby the fluid is immediately flashed into steam, the generator has decided advantages over the present steam engine.

In contrast with boilers, the invention does away with safety valves, steam gauges and waterglasses. There is no storage of steam, as every ounce is used as fast as it is generated. Another advantage over the boiler is that Smith's device is compact and requires less than half the amount of space. A great saving in the amount of fuel used is promised.

M'BRIDE TO FORM MINISTRY

Conservatives on Coast Almost Certain of Fair Majority

Vancouver, B.C., October 8—The Liberals last night conceded that the Conservatives have a lead of four seats. The latest returns show that 22 Conservatives, 15 Liberals and 2 Socialists have been elected. Several districts are still in doubt, but total returns indicate these figures. It is altogether probable that Premier McBride's administration will have a working majority.

Joseph Martin says he is sick of politics and welcomes the turndown he has received, which affords him the best excuse of hereafter attending to his own affairs, for in politics he got nothing but abuse from his opponents and no satisfaction from his own party.

W. B. McInnis was in the city yesterday. Since Joseph Martin's defeat he is said to be looked upon by Liberals here as the leader of the party.

Premier McBride announces that he hopes to secure the support of Mr. Wells, also that of Mr. Davidson, (Slocan) who was elected as a Labor-Liberal. Mr. Wells, should he join Mr. McBride, would probably become speaker of the House.

SIR HECTOR ACQUITTED

Commissioners Say He was Assassinated by Vile Tongues

Toronto, Oct. —The World is indebted to G. R. Brown, of Rosseau, for a clipping from the Weekly News of Edinburgh, giving in full the report of the commissioners appointed to investigate the charges against the late Sir Hector Macdonald. The report, issued at Colombo, Ceylon, June 2[illegible], says: "The commission unanimously and unmistakably find absolutely no reason or crime whatsoever which would create feelings such as would determine suicide, in preference to conviction of any crime affecting the moral and irreproachable character of so brave, so fearless, so glorious and unparalleled a hero; and we firmly believe the cause which gave rise to the inhuman and cruel suggestions of crime were prompted through vulgar feel[illegible] to such a high rank of distinction in the British army; and, while we have taken the most reliable and trustworthy evidence from every accessible and conceivable source have, without hesitation come to the conclusion that there is not visible the slightest particle of truth in foundation of any crime, and we find the late Sir Hector Macdonald has been cruelly assassinated by vile and slandering tongues. While honorably acquitting the late Sir Hector Macdonald of any charge whatever, we cannot but deplore the sad circumstances of the case that have fallen so disastrously on one whom we have found innocent of any crime attributed to him.

If you have transgressed against the laws of nature, you must suffer. Self abuse, later excesses and private diseases have wrecked thousands of promising lives. Treat with scientific physicians and be cured. Avoid quacks. E. A. Sidney, of Toledo, says: "At the age of 14, I learned a bad habit and at 19 contracted a serious disease. I treated with a dozen doctors, who all promised to cure me. They got my money and I still had the disease. I had given up hope when a friend advised me to consult Drs. K. & K., who had cured him. Without any confidence I called on them, and Dr. Kennedy agreed to cure me or no pay. After taking the New Method Treatment for six weeks I felt like a new man. The drains ceased, wormy veins disappeared, nerves grew stronger, hair stopped falling out, urine became clear and my sexual organs vitalized. I was entirely cured by Dr. Kennedy and recommend him from the bottom of my heart."

FOR BOTH LARGE AND SMALL INVESTORS

Owing to valuable Patents having been granted this Company, we are desirous of extending our business to the Dominion of Canada. Owing to the Customs duties, the extra cost in transportation and the numerous expenses attached, and the delays in deliveries in shipping goods from one country to another, it is absolutely necessary that we should have a factory in the Dominion, that we may be in a position to meet the immediate wants of the business.

The articles that we make from our Patent Fabric are too numerous to mention, and it is not necessary that we go into the details of the merits of our goods, as they are already in use to a large extent and have no equal. Our goods are covered by several patents, and the profit on the goods is large, averaging from 25 to 100 per cent, thus affording the company large revenue to meet all its obligations

In order to secure funds to equip a plant in the Dominion of Canada we will offer to the people of Canada $100,000 of our Bonds paying ten per cent. interest per annum.

Experience has shown that stocks based upon sound industrial enterprises have never been equalled from the standpoint of legitimate profit. For instance, a few hundred dollars invested in the Bell Telephone Company's stock in the beginning of the enterprise now commands thousands of dollars, after having yielded large dividends annually. Of course opportunities for such profitable investments do not present themselves every day, and it is also very true that a vast amount of capital has been misdirected in the endeavor to exploit inventions and enterprises which shrewd and far seeing investors should have recognized as impractical. But as regards this enterprise even the most conservative must admit it has possibilities of development which are almost incalculable and which have already been demonstrated in a practical manner. We have no speculative elements—this is a sound business proposition, and the patents which we own are worth several million dollars, as there can only be one fabric of this kind and that is ours.

All the above facts are simple statements of the truth and can be fully substantiated to the satisfaction of all investors.

The business is no experiment, the incorporators of this Company have made it their business for a great many months past and understand all the details, the prospects are therefore bright, and brighter than those of many other opportunities.

This Company is not a promotors company, every dollar goes to enhance the value of the property and business and increase the capacity. There is nothing speculative in this proposition, the enterprises are undertaken for industrial purposes only to make profits by the operation and development of the business.

Considering that the enterprise is already upon an established basis with a certainty of profitable future expansion, we feel warranted in the assertion that this is an attractive proposition to investors whether large or small.

The price of these Bonds are one dollar each, and will be issued in any number wanted. With every purchaser of each five Bonds we will give as a bonus, one share of stock of the Company, the par value of which is five dollars per share, thus assuring interest on the investment, and with the stock which is bound to increase you will have for nothing. These Bonds will be issued for five years. Persons desiring to avail themselves of this opportunity want to send their remittance at once.

STOCK MARKETS

New York, October 9.—Special pressure against steels. A. C. P. directors have not considered dividend question. 42 roads in the 4th week, September gross increase 10 per cent. Metropolitan earnings for year increased gross $618,371. Fair borrowing demand for stocks in loan crowd, with Pennsylvania specially scarce.

Chicago, October 8.—Wheat market was rather irregular today, and sentiment mixed. Prominent bull interests were buyers and shorts naturally were disposed to cover on weak spots. Primary movement smaller than last year, but there was good accumulation. The clearances were moderate. Millers bought sparingly. The south-west was moderate seller of wheat, presumably against heavy arrivals of cash wheat in the south-west from Chicago and other points of accumulation. The latter market was weak. The market for corn was nervous. The professional element was credited with working on both sides of the market, and it looked as if the big fellows were playing for a scalpers market. The statistics in the main were about as expected. On the close there was a rather mixed feeling. Market for oats was steady. Shorts were the main buyers, though longs sold a little on the advances. The market for provisions was irregular. The movement of product was fair. The cash business of unimportant proportions.

Chicago, October 9.—Wheat shows considerable firmness at the moment, though on the better longs of recent creation are taking profits. The short interest is now much smaller than it was a few days ago, while the long interests is larger. The exports this week have been small, though certain foreign houses claim to have good buying orders under consideration. The country offerings are not urgent and there is a fair cash demand. Trading in wheat generally looks as if it was to be of a scalping nature during the rest of the week. Corn is strong. On account of the heavy increase in export business 70 loads were reported sold at yesterday and 70 loads the day before. In all it is figured that nearly 300 loads have been sold this week. The indicated supply of corn in this country would suggest that there is plenty of room for an active export movement. The crop news generally however continues bearish and the Government report is expected to show some improvement.

Clings to Alliance

Rome, Oct. 8.—King Victor Emmanuel's journey to Paris has no special political significance, except that it materially demonstrates the re-establishment of good relations between France and Italy. It will have no European international consequences, it is said, for Italy has no intention to abandon the triple alliance, which has just been renewed, and which has had a beneficial effect on the maintenance of peace for more than twenty years.

It is also believed that no Mediterranean question exists, because of Italy's understanding with England and the French-Italian convention by which Italy has given up any claim to Morocco and has had her right over Tripoli recognized.

A Proposition of Special Merit to be Offered Canadian Investors

STONY PASS MINING CO.

SILVERTON, COLO.

has appointed a local Canadian Fiscal Agent, in the person of Messrs, Thomas Patterson & Son, brokers, who will make an announcement in a day or two that will interest the investors of Canada. It is proposed to send a representative from Canada to visit the mines and property of the company, and report thereon so as to prove beyond doubt its splendid worth. The proposition is one that will bear the closest investigation. The company is splendidly officered by men of honor and business integrity, known throughout the country for their high character and business ability.

A meeting being arranged to take place at an early date, when those who propose to invest in the Company's stock will have the privilege of selecting one the number to visit the mines.

COPETE MINING CO.

27 William Street, New York

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them ar—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now clear and undisputed title to, all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

First Class Mining Proposition.

The Anaconda Gold Mining Co.

Home Office: 412 Merchants Loan and Trust Bldg.
135 Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

This is one of the best propositions ever placed before the Canadian investor. The Company owns 600 acres in the celebrated Black Hills District, South Dakota, comprising 32 claims. The track is unquestionably on the great Homestake belt, being located directly between the wonderful Homestake mine and the Clover Leaf mine. Two shafts have already been sunk, the main one being down 154 feet, with capacity of going 1000 feet. The Company has also installed an Ingersoll-Sargeant air compressor and drills, 125 horse power boiler, steam pumps, and in fact everything needed for actual operation, with the exception of its stamp mills; which will be installed at once. The vein of gold-bearing quartz traversing the Company's property is very rich. Assays have run from $3 to $54.50 per ton.

The Company has a capital of 1,500,000 shares, divided into 750,000 preferred and 750,000 common, par value $1 per share, fully paid up and non-assessable. The treasury stock has been made preferred stock to the amount of 25 cents a share. Out of the first dividends 25 cents per share will be paid to the owners of this preferred stock before holders of common stock receive any share of the profits. After the 25 cents has been paid to the shareholders of preferred stock, then all alike share in the dividends. (This means nothing less than that the first investors in the enterprise will have all their money returned to them before any dividends are declared to the rank and file o investors.

A limited amount of Stock has been placed on the Canadian market. Full particulars and copy of prospectus may be obtained from MR. R. J. KIDD, or the undersigned Agent for Peterborough city

AN OPPORTUNITY

C. C. Pugh, postmaster at Adel, Dallas county, Iowa, and Dr. W. J. Williams, surgeon for the Milwaukee railroad at that place, are very successful mining men. They understand the western country and know the mines and their possibilities. They are selling Williams Fork Stock at 15 cents a share. This stock went off the market at 25 cents July 1 this year and there is none to be had of the company at any price. They guarantee this stock to be gilt edge $40,000 worth of ore on the dump now. If you want 1,000 shares of this stock send draft for $150 to Adel State Bank, Adel, Iowa, and they will send you your certificate for same. If you want 500 shares send draft for $80 to said bank. Pugh and Williams do their business through this large bank, hence you are safe in sending money to them. Dividends will come soon from this property and it will then go to $1.00 per share. It is in Colorado and officials of that state write that it is a magnificent property. If you know this property and the people back of it you would want this stock. For reference write Hon. Geo. W. Clarke, Adel, Iowa, member of the Legislature. He will tell you as to our reliability. If you buy 1,000 shares of this stock we send you a guarantee and you will also thank us for calling your attention to it. An honest proposition. Write immediately with draft as this stock will be offered but a few days at 15 cents. Last shipment of ore went over $130 to the ton.

Slowly Dying

A CASE IN POINT

Mr. Ulric Barault, a young gentleman who lived for years in Sweetsburg, Quebec, inherited Catarrh from his mother. The disease spread through his system till he was a physical wreck.

"As a child," said Mr. Barault, "I was prone to an ulceration of the mucous lining of the throat and nasal passages.

"I grew pale and emaciated, lost all desire for food, and got into such a dreadful condition that my friends said that Catarrh was fairly eating me up.

Every organ of my body seemed affected and the doctor said it was the first stage of consumption. He advised Catarrhozone, and I inhaled it ten minutes at a time every few hours, and was rewarded in a few days by a wonderful improvement.

Catarrhozone pleased me and the doctor so well that I used it continually, and took Ferrozone Tablets after each meal to build up my strength. In about three weeks I was quite recovered, and the doctor says no remedy but Catarrhozone could work such a miracle.

"Every one in town knows I was just about dead with Catarrh, and my cure is an evidence of what Catarrhozone can do. It is a pleasure to recommend Catarrhozone."

(Signed) Ulric Barault."

Catarrhozone beyond question is the proper remedy for catarrhal and bronchial troubles. The medicated air goes all through the air passages of the head, throat and lungs. It kills the germs, heals the sore spots, allays irritation and keeps the breath pure.

Headache, tired feelings across the eyes, nausea, all these well-known disagreeable symptoms are overcome by the medicated air of Catarrhozone.

Ferrozone Tablets which are used in conjunction with Catarrhozone Inhaler drive all the poisonous secretions of catarrh from the blood. One taken after each meal creates new appetite and digestion, strengthens the stomach, revitalizes and invigorates the entire system.

Catarrhozone is quite unsurpassed as a cure for Catarrh in any part of the system. It is highly recommended for Bronchitis and Asthma. Complete outfit, sufficient for two months' treatment, price $1.00; trial size 25 cts. Druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Denies That He was Within Range

Mr. T. Q. Quartermaine informed The Times yesterday that his son, who was accidentally shot in the back at the pigeon shooting contest, in Ashburnham, Thursday afternoon, denies that he was within range at the time of the accident. Both the lad and a companion assert that he was standing at the northwest of the range, which runs directly north to south, down the river.

Blanche Royal Again

Toronto Globe.—Blanche Royal, the young woman who was removed from the Osgoode Hall pharmacy to the Emergency Hospital on Wednesday night, is recovering and will be taken in charge of by Policeman Chapman of the morality department this morning. The young woman has been at the Barnardo home for several weeks, but the officials there could do nothing with her. She would at times refuse to eat or go to bed. She suffers from [illegible]. A charge of vagrancy will be preferred against her.

Two Handsome Monuments

The Times is requested to state that on Thanksgiving Day the local members of the Woodmen of the World will unveil two monuments erected to the memory of Bros. Robert Stewart and F. E. Waldon, with suitable and impressive services. The Executive Officers of the Woodmen will be represented by Mr. D. Cinnamon, of Lindsay, and J. H. McConnell, of London, and local clergymen will also take part in the ceremony. The monuments which are of a very handsome type, have been placed in position by the Moore Monumental Company. The public are invited to participate in the ceremony.

County Police Court

At the County Police Court held at the Court House on Thursday, before County Police Magistrate, John O'Brien was charged with insanity. It is learned that of late he has been drinking very heavily and on Wednesday night attacked Constable Fitzgerald, of Ashburnham, where prisoner resides, and did him considerable bodily harm. The prisoner was remanded until Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Seven Ton of Honey

Lindsay Post:—Alderman Storer is evidently the king-bee man of this locality. He had one hundred and seventy colonies, or 40,000 bees at work during the past summer, and the harvest of honey amounted to some seven tons in all. He had 12,500 pounds of white honey for the market, 3,500 pounds of which were bought by the Flavelle Co., and 1,500 pounds of the buckwheat honey. The crop is about a 75 per cent one. Mr Storer will winter 200 colonies for next year's operations. It is not difficult to handle bees when one knows how. When Mr. Storer was asked if he ever got stung, he replied: "Oh, yes; but the sting don't affect me now, the same as it did at first. I presume I have become inoculated with their poison."

Our New Power House

The Canadian Engineer, has the following description of the power equipment, at the new dam, of the plant of the hydraulic power Company:— "The Peterborough Hydraulic Power Co., of which Senator George A. Cox is president, is building a new power plant which will be equipped with a 1500 kilowatt, 2,240 volt generator, having 7,200 alternations and running at 150 revolutions per minute, to be direct coupled to water wheels; also two 125 volt D. C., direct coupled exciters of 75 kilowatts capacity each; together with a switch board consisting of a large generator panel and two exciter panels. The power house will be an unusually fine one. Power is to be furnished to the American Cereal Co., to a number of other manufactories, and to the Peterborough Light and Power Co."

Choice Rests with Council

Because of recent amendments to the municipal act, the council of any city, town or village can, on a two-thirds vote of any regular meeting of the Council, put down either plank or cement walks along a street where the same has been petitioned for. The section, as amended at the last session of Parliament; 671 —Notwithstanding anything contained in any bylaw of the municipality, the corporation of any city, town or village may construct and lay down a sidewalk of the following material, namely, plank gravel or cinders, or a combination of any one or two of such materials with tar and sand, or of cement, concrete or brick, upon or along any street, lane, alley, or other thoroughfare or park in the said city town or village as a local improvement, and the cost thereof may be assessed against the properties fronting or abutting thereon, if such sidewalk is, in the opinion of two-thirds of the members present at any regular meeting of the city, town or village council desirable in the public interest.

INCIDENTS OF THE DAY

—The Mission Band of St. Luke's church will meet this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

—At the police court yesterday Alfred Cranny who was remanded last week was allowed to go.

—Rev. J. Bastow will conduct anniversary services in the Baptist Church, Lakefield, to-morrow.

—The East Peterborough exhibition will be held at Norwood on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

—In the named race at the Napanee races on Wednesday last M. Connors' Bircher took second money in three straight heats.

—The G.T.R. have decided to build a new station at Uxbridge. About twenty-five men, under the supervision of Roadmaster Wright, started to work on the new building.

—The Belleville city council have amalgamated the offices of the city Clerk and city Solicitor. The positions hereafter will be filled by one man and his salary will be $1,600 per year.

—Mrs. Major Creighton, of Toronto, will conduct the services in the S. A. Barracks today and to-morrow at 10 and 11. These services promise to be of special interest and the public are cordially invited to attend.

—It may not be generally known in Peterborough that Mr. Will Guy, of Guy Bros' Minstrels, who appeared here on Wednesday night, has become blind through illness. He, however, still stays on the stage and does the end man act.

—The amateur hunters who never fail to make their appearance as soon as the hunting season opens, will soon swarm in our Northern woods. There is danger of the man behind the gun shooting man by mistake because they look like deer. There is sore need of instruction in that expert kind of shooting which recast an old saying, will hit it if it is a deer, and miss it if it is a man.

LAST NIGHT'S CONCERT

A Large Audience Attend the Entertainment

The concert given last night under the auspices of the Young Men's Guild of the Charlotte street Church, in the Opera House, by the Killin-Keough Concert Company, was fairly well attended.

The programme was a very select one, each number being a gem. The singing of Mr. and Mrs. Keough was, as usual, up to the standard, while Miss Terry, the talented elocutionist, was very favorably received.

EXTENDING ITS OPERATIONS

Toronto General Trusts Corporation Absorbs Ottawa Company

Mr. J. W. Langmuir, the managing director of the Toronto General Trusts Corporation, has returned home from Ottawa, where he has completed the purchase of the assets of the Ottawa Trust and Deposit Company.

A local advisory board has been formed, comprising seven members of the board of the former company, strengthened by the addition of the following gentlemen, whose services Mr. Langmuir has been able to secure: Hon. Senator Edwards, who becomes chairman of the Board; Mr. Geo. Burn general manager of the Bank of Ottawa, the late Mr. Alex. Fraser.

The entrance of this strong Toronto company into the Ottawa district has been very well received by the people there. The Company has a large and increasing business throughout the Midland District.

MARRIED IN TORONTO

Nuptials of Rev. J. N. Clarry of Millbrook and Miss McTaggart

A pretty house wedding took place Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the residence of the bride's parents, Toronto, when Miss Florence Annette McTaggart, F.C.T.M., lately a teacher in the Ontario Ladies' College Whitby, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. McTaggart, was married to the Rev. John Nelson Clarry, B.A., of Millbrook, Ont. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. N. Baker, of Broadway Tabernacle, the Wedding March being played by Miss Peelry of the O. L. C. The couple were supported by F. L. Farewell, B.A., of Toronto, as best man, and Miss Cora McTaggart, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid. The bride was daintily gowned in white silk organdie over tafetta, the bodice having a large yoke handsomely trimmed with fagot stitch. Her going-away gown was of blue camel's hair over blue tafetta, and hat with black tips. Among many and beautiful presents to the bride were a sunburst of pearls, the gift of the groom, and an elegant Gerard Heintzman piano, presented by her father. The wedding was a quiet one, only the immediate friends and relatives being present. Mr. and Mrs. Clarry purpose taking up their abode in Millbrook.

WEDDED AT MOUNT PLEASANT.

Nuptials of Miss Lillian M. Morden and Mr Jos. H. Agnew Yesterday

The Methodist church, Mount Pleasant, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Thursday last, when Miss Lillian Maud, only daughter of Mr. James Morden, Mount Pleasant, was united in marriage to Mr. Joseph H. Agnew, of Ashburnham, in the presence of a number of relatives and friends. The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. R. V. Mounteer.

The church was artistically decorated with autumn leaves and above the pulpit was a beautiful arch of leaves. The bridesmaid was Miss Carrie Sutcliffe, while the groom was supported by his brother, Mr. George Angew, while Miss Annie Thaxton filled the pleasing duties of maid of honor. The bride was bewitchingly attired in a gown of white voile with satin trimmings, and white veil. She wore a beautiful wreath of white carnations and smilax and carried a boquet of white carnations. The bridesmaid was gowned in white organdie over pink silk and carried pink carnations. The bridal couple walked down the aisle to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march.

At the home of the bride's father a sumptuous dejeuner was served. Among the many beautiful and costly presents received as evidences of the high esteem which the bride and groom enjoyed among many friends, was a handsome marble clock from the choir, of which she was a member and a beautiful family Bible from the church members.

Mr. and Mrs. Angew will reside on Munroe ave., Ashburnham, in future. The Times extends its hearty congratulations.

Growing Old

Ought not to mean growing weak and feeble. It does not mean weakness or feebleness for those who eat with good appetite and sound digestion. It is of the utmost importance that old people should retain the power to digest and assimilate food which is the sole source of physical strength. When age brings feebleness it is generally because of the failure to assimilate the nutrition contained in food.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, the perfect digestion and assimilation of food. It invigorates the liver and promotes general physical well being.

THE OLD FOLKS AT HOME

Are Never Without Peruna in the House for Catarrhal Diseases.

MR. AND MRS. J. O. ATKINSON, INDEPENDENCE, MO.

UNDER date of January 14, 1897, Dr. Hartman received the following letter:

"My wife had been suffering from a complication of diseases for the past 25 years

"Her case had baffled the skill of some of the most noted physicians. One of her worst troubles was chronic constipation of several years' standing.

"She also was passing through that most critical period in the life of a woman—change of life. In June, 1895, I wrote to you about her case. You advised a course of Peruna and Manalin, which we at once commenced, and have to say it completely cured her. She firmly believes that she would have been dead only for these wonderful remedies.

"About the same time I wrote you about my own case of catarrh, which had been of 25 years' standing. At times I was almost past going. I commenced to use Peruna according to your instructions and continued its use for about a year, and it has completely cured me.

"Your remedies do all that you claim for them, and even more. Catarrh cannot exist where Peruna is taken according to directions. Success to you and your remedies."

John O. Atkinson.

In a letter dated January 1, 1900, Mr. Atkinson says, after five years' experience with Peruna:

"I will ever continue to speak a good word for Peruna. In my rounds as a traveling man I am a walking advertisement for Peruna and have induced many people during the past year to use Peruna with the most satisfactory results. I am still cured of catarrh."

John O. Atkinson,

Box 272, Independence, Mo.

When old age comes on, catarrhal diseases come also. Systemic catarrh is almost universal in old people.

This explains why Peruna has become so indispensable to old people. Peruna is their safe-guard. Peruna is the only remedy yet devised that meets these cases exactly.

If you do not receive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

JAPAN IS READY, AND WILLING TO GRAPPLE WITH THE RUSSIAN BEAR

With Over Half a Million Soldiers and a Splendid Navy the Little Empire is Prepared for War

Japan Will Fight Her Way Into Corea

London, Oct. 12—The Eastern war cloud is growing more ominous as days go by. Russia's intention to hold Manchuria has intensified the war feeling in Japan. How is the Land of the Rising Sun prepared to grapple with her foes? She has an army at present of 600,000 men, fully equipped for service, and a population of over 40,000,000, to draw upon—a population which has been described in late despatches as "exasperated" at the menacing attitude of Russia, and "ready to fight to the death" for the Land of Morning Calm, as Corea is called. As it was the navy which won the victory over China, the spoils of that war have been expended by the Japanese in the building of new ships for war. At that time the whole fleet was of but 30,000 tons displacement; to-day the total displacement is over 254,000 tons. The need for sea power was accelerated by the actions of the Continental powers of Europe in preventing Japan from holding Port Arthur, which she had captured in the war, and which Russia has since taken by force from China. The Japanese were infuriated when they saw the barracks and other military works build by themselves in the occupation off Russian soldiers. When we hear of an "exasperated" Japan, we know that this encroachment on the part of Russia, together with the constant menace which the Russian presence at Port Arthur has over Corea, are the causes of the excitement. The movement of troops towards the Peninsula may be explained in diplomatic language by the chancelleries but no one is deceived thereby. The present popular ferment in Japan has a permanent reason and ground work and will not subside. "The people will not forget Port Arthur where the Russian flag flies, and they are determined that they shall not again be robbed without making a determined stand." The teeming millions of the islands require an outlet for colonization and it is to Corea that they look with longing eyes. Russia will not set its foot on that land of promise, as large as Great Britain, without contesting every step of the way. Of the personnel of the Japanese fleet, it is said, any nation might be proud. The ships are manned in much the same way as British or American. The admiral's quarters are not unlike those of Lord Charles Beresford of the Channel Fleet. As a matter of fact, the initial instructions in naval discipline were given under Vice-Admiral Sir Archibald Douglas, now commanding the North American squadron, who in the seventies was sent as commander of the naval mission for that purpose. The navy of Japan at present consists of the following:—Six first class battleships, one second-class battleship, two coast defence vessels, six armoured cruisers of the first-class, ten protected cruisers of the second-class, with two building, eight protected cruisers of the third class with one building, nine unprotected cruisers, one torpedo vessel, seventeen torpedo boat destroyers with two more building, and sixty-seven torpedo boats with eight more in process of building.

WAR INEVITABLE.

New York, Oct. 12—A Herald special says that war is inevitable between Russia and Japan, on account of the former's refusal to evacuate Manchuria according to agreement. Two great fleets are facing each other in Corean waters, and the conflict may begin at any moment, that may deluge the world with blood.

Vienna, Oct. 9—It is announced from Constantinople, through official channels that the Macedonian insurgents are reported to be preparing a manifesto declaring that in the expectation of Turkey ceasing her effort to suppress the rising they have decided to suspend the insurrection until the spring, in order to see whether the reforms will be applied.

All accounts are agreed in describing the Sultan as restive and inclined to protest against the proposed European control and surveillance of Turkish methods in Macedonia. It is important that Europe should not lose sight of the urgent necessity of alleviating the suffering in Macedonia and Bulgaria. The relief organized by the Turks with much blowing of trumpets is a delusion.

MISREPRESENTS CANADA'S POSITION

Section of British Press Speaks of Repudiation of Chamberlain

HE UNDERSTANDS CANADA

And will Not Ask What We Can not Grant, Says a Follower

London, October 12.—"Repudiation of Chamberlain is the flaming headline, with which a section of the British press most unfairly greets the statements of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Hon. H. H. Asquith made much the same criticism in his last night's speech of the construction which Mr. Chamberlain's opponents put upon his proposal as being that the Colonies be asked to refuse all tariff encouragement to new manufacturing industries, and leave the British manufacturer free to exploit all further development of Canadian markets.

REPUDIATED BY CHAMBERLAIN

Mr. Chamberlain repudiates any such construction, which is manifestly absurd. This contention is merely this, that the Colonies ask no favor without a fair equivalent. They have no other thought than an equitable bargain, giving Britain a preferential position over Germany and the United States in competing for the ever increasing Canadian demand for foreign manufactures.

A CHAMBERLAINITE REPLY.

When asked today for a reply to these misrepresentations, a prominent Chamberlainite said; "No, no. Let them alone. Truth cannot be tripped up in this way. Canada knows Chamberlain well enough by this time to believe he understands the Canadian industrial position and is no fool to make such a request of your Canadian Ministers, who attended the Colonial Conference. Brodrick and other British Ministers affronted them by their ignorance of Canadian facts and ideals, but not Mr. Chamberlain, he suggests nothing that Canada would not gladly give in return for a preference when the time comes for a round table conference with the Colonies."

London, October 12—Gerald Balfour, President of the Board of Trade, addressed a meeting at Leeds, re-affirmed that the Government was pledged not to give effect to the fiscal reform proposals until after an appeal to the country had been made and he intimated the possibility that after Mr. Chamberlain had concluded his mission it might be found that the taxation of food was within the range of practical politics.

SHANGHAID AT MONTREAL

A Desertion Agency Inducing Sailors to Leave Their Ships

Montreal, Oct. 9—During an investigation by the Police Committee of the arrest of ship deserters, Lieut. Poulin of the Montreal force stated that there were certain men in Montreal who made their business in life the enticing away of men from vessels arriving in port. These deserters were then kept at a house, where they were plied with all the liquor they could drink, and were finally smuggled on board other vessels. The men who performed the kidnapping received a certain amount for each sailor thus supplied.

RUSSIANS COULD AVERT A WAR.

By the Modification of Their Policy In the Far East

JAPANESE ARE GLOOMY

Russian Rights in Manchuria and Japanese Rights in Corea Involved

Tokio, October 12.—High Government officials here take the gloomiest possible view of the situation that is rapidly developing in Corea. They state that Russia's aggressive policy threatens to compel Japan to resort to war, possibly within a month, certainly before many months.

Negotiations between the two Governments thus far have been utterly disappointing. Japan demanded a clear statement of Russia's intentions in Manchuria and affirmed its own determination to carry out a corresponding policy in Corea. This is to say the Mikado's Government informed St. Petersburg that is Russia should purpose operating on the theory that Manchuria was Russian territory, Japan would be forced to adopt a similar attitude of action in Corea.

"All Russia's replies have been evasive and inconclusive, while its military proceeding in Manchuria and along the Yalu River strongly indicate it means ultimately to reject Japan's claims and to invite the Island Empire to help itself if it can.

Japanese statesmen would take a less gloomy view of the outlook, but for the fact that they believe the dominant Ministers of the Czar's Cabinet want a foreign war in order to dispel the atmosphere of insubordination that permeats all classes of the Russian people.

Japanese diplomatists are instructed to pretend that the Russo-Japanese horizon is clear, but the fact remain as stated. Only a modification of Russian policy can avert war.

Paris, October 12.—Strong evidence appears to exist that the troubles in the Algerian-Morocean border are fomented by the Sultan of Morocco, whose cousin headed the marauding band which recently attacked the French troops. If the report is true, as the as the French military and political authorities in Algiers insist, another punitive expedition with greater numbers than the Figuig expedition, will stamp out at once all border troubles.

Such are the statements made by the Foreign Office this morning. Political agents from Algiers have made M. Delcasse Foreign Minister, acquainted with the true situation. Great regret exists because the Figuig expedition was no more thorough. Instead of having given the Moroccans a salutory lesson, it seems to have convinced them that the Frenche were afraid to arouse international complications by drastic measures.

At present, however, the firmest sort of determination exists on the part of the French Government not to allow the situation to be prolonged, even if the Sultan must be called to account. The subject was discussed at this morning's Cabinet meeting. It is generally believed that the French cannon will be heard again in Morocco.

ANARCHY AND RUIN FACE MOROCCO.

Tangier, October 12.—The taxes have not been collected for two years. Europeans who have supplied the Sultan with western luxuries hold bills for large sums, which are secured by the customs revenue and hold precedence over the interest on any new loans which may be raised. The Sultan's expenses for his main army alone are estimated at £20,000 daily. The treasury cannot contain money for more than a few weeks expenditure at this rate and something like bankruptcy and anarchy appear to be inevitable unless the powers assist or France agrees to come to the Sultan's rescue in consideration of the powers acknowledging her right of surveillance over the finances and her preponderating influence in Moorish politics.

READY FOR WAR

The Japs Want War and Are Prepared to Fight

Paris, October 12.—The Patrie to-day in a special despatch from Darmstadt, gives an interview with Alexandre Savinsky, the secretary of Foreign Minister Lamsdorff, who, it is claimed, spoke on the authority of his chief upon Russo-Japanese relations. M. Savinsky is quoted as saying:

"Our agents at Tokio have informed us that Japan desires war and is prepared for it. We have enough troops in Siberia to resist all the Japanese forces."

Regarding Turkey and Bulgaria, M. Savinsky said that the accord between Russia and Austria was stronger than ever, and that he did not believe war between those countries would occur.

Has Majority of Two

Vancouver, B. C., October 12. — The steamer Danube arrived last night from the north bringing in the election returns from Bella Coola, Cassiar District. The last district is in doubt. The returns resulted in the election of Clifford, Conservative, by a 48 majority, making the definite returns, 22 Conservatives and 20 Liberals, Labor and Socialists.

POSSIBLE WINNIPEG MURDER

Two Poles Under Arrest Suspected of Killing Countryman

Winnipeg, Man., October 12.—A man found dead in the lumber yards here yesterday with a bullet hole in his throat has been identified as Ilo Selinko a Pole. The circumstances at first pointed to suicide, but the police believe the man was murdered, and arrested Wasyl Danyiuk and John Moscaluk on suspicion. It has been discovered that Danyluk and Moscaluk, together with Selinko, were paying attention to a Polish woman who lived in the same house as Selinko, and that Selinko and one of the suspects left the house together on Wednesday night, after having a quarrel over the woman, and that was the last trace of Selinko being seen alive.

FOR PEACE IN EAST TREATY THE FACROR

ATTACKS SIR WILFRED

His Answer to Mr. Monk Nettles Westminster Gazette

London, Oct. 9—Referring to Sir Wilfrid Laurier's reply to Mr. Monk, in the Canadian House of Commons, saying that he understood that Mr. Chamberlain was making an argument, not a statement, the over-optimistic Gazette says: "Sir Wilfrid Laurier's explanation neatly supplements the words of the mad hatter in a cartoon today. The Gazette says that the mad hatter contends that "proof will be found in argument not in figures. I use figures as illustrations to show what argument is."

The Westminster Gazette says that "argument is everything to Mr. Chamberlain, but nothing to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who, we suppose, attaches more importance to illustrations and figures."

Anglo-French Arbitration Pact ExPected to be Signed

Treaty will Not Positively Bind Powers

London, Oct. 9— The Anglo-French treaty of arbitration is expected to be signed by Foreign Minister Lansdowne and Ambassador Cambon at the end of next week. Lord Lansdowne is at present away from London.

The Associated Press learns that the treaty will not positively bind the two powers to arbitrate all questions arising, but provides, generally, that whenever possible, disputes shall be settled in this pacific manner, either by their submission to The Hague Arbitration Court, or their reference to a special tribunal.

The Associated Press learns that, in addition to the settlement of an Anglo-French arbitration treaty, an important understanding exists between the governments of the two countries in connection with the Far East.

The Foreign Ministers of both countries have agreed to exert the utmost possible pressure to prevent their respective far Eastern allies, Russia and Japan, from coming to hostilities. This understanding is the most important factor looking to peace in the far East, and, taken in conjunction with the Japanese assurances to Russia, with regard to the evacuation of Manchuria and the general pacific tone adopted by the Japanese Government and its representatives abroad, it goes far to explain the feeling of security exhibited in London and several other European capitals in connection with the alarming reports emanating from China and elsewhere.

THE RUSSIAN TROOPS HAVE SEIZED TOWN

The Raid was Carried on 23 of August

The Ameer Sits Idle and Watches Proceedings

London, Oct. 10—Advices from Cabul state that the Russians have taken possession of Our-Gani, a Turkoman town situated in the midst of waste lands between Herat and the Persian frontier. These waste lands are inhabited by independent tribes of Turkomans. Reports show that the Russians are extending their influence over these tribes. The Ameer has paid no attention to the reports. He maintains, however, a secret correspondence with the authorities at Herat.

A considerable number of Sepoys in the service of the Ameer, who were on the border of Kunar have gone into British territory with their arms, which they have endeavored to sell among the tribesmen. These fugitives complain that their pay, which is small, is constantly in arrear, and that they are reduced to a condition of poverty, and, further, that when some men made representations to their officers they were tortured for having rebellious intentions.

Mohammed Hussain Khan Sirtip, of Dakka, in a report to the Ameer, gave it as his opinion that the political officer of the Khaibar fostered hostile intentions towards Afghanistan and harbored refugees, whereupon the Ameer made answer that so far there had been no misunderstanding between the two kingdoms, but if things were as reported the Sirtip could repay the political officer "in his own coin." The Royal message significantly ended: "If there be anyone faithless among officers or Sepoys, send him at once to Cabul."

Carried Off Women.

The raid was made on Aug. 23, and the Afridis carried off with them five of the Shanwari women as hostages and security for the delivering up of the Afghan soldiers. The Lowargai tribes intend first of all to free these women from Bazar Tirah, where they are detained, and revenge themselves on the Zakka Kheis. Afterwards they hope to take reprisals against the Sirtip, whom they hold to be at the bottom of the affair.

The Sirtip knows this, and has sent for 150 troops to come to Dakka. It is possible that this quarrel may lead to serious trouble.

Cholera has been raging at Cabul for some time, but the epidemic was fo the moment at least, showing signs of abatement.

Rigorous measures were taken at Cabul to arrest the spread of Cholera. The troops were all kept in a camp outside the walls. By the advice of the doctors the population were forbidden to eat fruit or vegetables, and an infringement of this regulation was punishable by death.

TO HOLD THE DOGS OF WAR RUSSIA'S MILITARY PREPARATIONS

Britain and France will Hold Back Their Allies

Meanwhile Russia is Rushing Immense Preparations for the Conflict

London, Oct. 10—A cable from Tokio Japan, says:

M. Pavloff, the Russian Minister to Corea, in replying to Corea's proposal to open the port of Wijum close to Yongampho, has objected, on the ground of the entire absence of trade prospects at Wiju, compared with Pyengyang, and also that the unsettled state of Manchuria has rendered the opening of Wiju dangerous.

From Vienna comes the confirmation of the extraordinary extent of Russian military preparations for the contingency of war with Japan. A well-informed personage, lately at St. Petersburg, says that Russian military circles expect an outbreak of hostilities within the next few weeks. The whole Transcaspian district, as far as Samarkand, is seriously crippled as regards railway material for the far East.

A Pekin message says Russia remains in possession of Newchwang and the Customs revenue, of which she has already appropriated £500,000. It seems to be generally admitted that Lord Cranborne's recognition in the House of Commons on July 23 of Russia's special position in Manchuria rendered valuable encouragement to Russia at a critical time.

Did not Take Place

Yokohama, October 9—Yesterday, the day fixed for the evacuation of parts of Manchuria by the Russian troops, passed without a Russian move toward the evacuation.

Russia and Japan

London, October 11—The Kobe correspondent of the Daily Mail says that Russia through Baron de Rosen, the minister at Tokio, who has just returned from a conference at Port Arthur with Admiral Alexieff, viceroy of the Far East, has sent a note to the Japanese Government saying in effect that the [illegible] before, please mark off in days.

Shooting Season

The Grand Trunk Railway have issued a very handsome and illustrated pamphlet, entitled, "Haunts of Fish and Game," giving information regarding season for shooting Deer, Moose, Reindeer, Caribou, etc., in the 'Highlands of Ontario,' and at other points along the line of the Grand Trunk. Copies of same will be furnished on application at Grand Trunk ticket offices or to J. D. McDonald, District Passenger Agent, Toronto.

WHAT THE PREFERENCE MEANS TO THE DOMINION

British Paper Says It Will Require Loss of Colonial Fiscal Liberty, Will Cripple Our Industry.

London, Oct. 10—Referring to Mr. Chamberlain's statement that for a very moderate preference the colonies will give Great Britain a substantial advantage, the Economist says that Canada will spend money freely in bounties in order to build up her manufacturing industries, and is it likely that she would be willing to resign these aspirations. The director of the Economist cannot imagine Canada listening for one moment to such a proposal.

The Spectator says as soon as the colonies realize that Mr. Chamberlain's scheme means the Mother Country saying as regards their manufactures, "Thus far but no farther," and that they will be giving up their fiscal liberty in assenting to the preference we offer them, they will certainly regret it. Let us hope they will realize this sooner rather than later.

CANNOT BE FRIGHTENED.

London, Oct. 10—The St. James Gazette says if Mr. Ritchie desires to make the adoption of a colonial preference by Great Britain a certainty he had better repeat in every constituency in the United Kingdom his argument that the preferential treatment of Canadian corn would arouse the resentment of the United States.

COWARDLY POLICY.

London, Oct. 10.—Earl Spencer, the leader of the Opposition in the House of Lords, at a dinner last night, arraigned the Chamberlain-Balfour policy as "miserable, contemptible, and cowardly," and charged Mr. Balfour with following on the heels of Mr. Chamberlain. He pointed out that the giving of a bonus to Canadian wheat was calculated to enormously increase the emigration from the United States and Canada, and thus the bonus would go to American farmers.

The Daily Telegraph this morning says that Mr. Ritchie occupied the post of Chancellor of the Exchequer for a year by the grace of Mr. Chamberlain. It says that when Mr. Balfour reconstructed the Cabinet on Lord Salisbury's retirement he wanted Mr. Chamberlain to become Chancellor of the Exchequer. Mr. Chamberlain believed that the South African branch of his department needed his personal control, and recommended Mr. Ritchie to succeed Sir Michael Hicks-Beach.

The Daily Telegraph, which, with the Daily Mail and other papers, is excited and angry at Mr. Ritchie's references at Croydon yesterday to the United States, invites the Premier's colleague to indicate Mr. Ritchie and reveal their side of the Cabinet story.

Honorable George E. Foster, ex-Minister of Finance, who for the last two years has been living quietly in Toronto, devoting himself to various business interests, and in the undisturbed enjoyment of home life, will again enter politics, this time in Great Britain, in association with Mr. Chamberlain, who has asked for his assistance in the prosecution of his campaign.

Recently a deputation, officially from Mr. Chamberlain, as president of the British Tariff Reform League come to Canada to invite Mr. Foster to join with the League in agitating his policy from the public platform in Great Britain. Mr. Foster was in doubt for a time whether his business responsibilities would permit him to leave Canada, but has at length decided to accept the invitation, and will sail for England on the 17th inst.

It was learned by a reporter that Mr. Foster's present intention is not to remain in England longer than six weeks, though his stay may be prolonged, should it be found advisable, and it is quite possible that he will return to England again later on. Mrs. Foster will not be able to accompany him at present, owing to the serious illness of her aged mother, who is living with her in Rosedale, and requires her constant attendance.

Mr. Foster will prove an important accession to Mr. Chamberlain's party in the promulgation of a protectionist policy. He is known to be in hearty sympathy with Mr. Chamberlain's proposals, though there are certain minor planks of his platform which he will, no doubt, require to talk over with him when he arrives in England.

Coming from Canada, with his pronounced views on protection, and recognized as one of our ablest political orators, Mr. Foster should carry a great deal of weight in convincing the British public of the necessity for fiscal reform.

Mr. Foster has for many years been a great admirer of Mr. Chamberlain, with whom he has had a warm personal friendship, dating from 1844, when he met Mr. Chamberlain in Washington in connection with the negotiations for the confirmation of the Washington treaty. He has since frequently visited him in England on his several trips to the Old Country.

THE NEW TREATY ON EXTRADITION.

Secretary Hay is Preparing Fresh Agreement With England

Washington, October 12.—Mr. Secretary Hay has begun the preparation of the new extradition treaties with England and France, in which he will include bribery and boodling as extraditable offences. The purpose is to remove all obstacles to the return to this country of fugitives who are wanted in connection with the Missouri bribery cases, and who may be wanted in connection with the post office scandals.

In discussing the treaties which are now being prepared, Mr. Folk declared that they would be retroactive and in this manner be effective in the cases of Ellis Wainwright, the St. Louis millionaire wanted in St. Louis on the charge of bribery, and Daniel J. Kelly, agent for Baking Powder Trust. Wainwright is in France and Kelly is in Canada. It is declared also that the treaties would reach the cases of Gaynor and Green, now wanted by the Department of Justice, who are in Quebec.

TO THE AFFLICTED.

Dear Reader,—Are you a sufferer from any of the following ills: Lack of ambition, nervous exhaustion, ideas easily confused, irritability of temper, impairment of memory, despondency, general debility, liver not right, kidneys out of order, rheumatism, dyspepsia or indigestion, dizzy or fainting spells? Mrs. John Macdonald, Durham, N.S., writes us, "After taking two boxes of Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills for indigestion, which I had been troubled with for a number of years, I am now perfectly well. I followed the directions carefully."

To every one sending for a trial order and finding good results we ask to [illegible] our special offer enclosed with every box. Its of special interest to every one.

A BRITISH FLAG TORN INTO STRIPS.

What was Found on a New York Monument in the Cemetery

New York, October 12. — A new silk British flag, slit into ribbons, was draped around the statue of Nathan Hale, in City Hall Park, yesterday. The unusual sight attracted much attention and a crowd surrounded it for some hours until Herman, the Mayor's bootblack, officially discovered it.

A white card was attached to the flag. On the card was written;

"LEST WE FORGET."
S. A. R.

The latter initials evidently meant "Sons of the American Revolution." Herman promptly notified Captain Stephen O'Brien, of the City Hall substation, who ordered the flag hauled down and assigned detectives to make an investigation.

It is supposed that the draping of the statue was inspired by the visit of the Honorable Artillery of London to the city.

London, Oct. 10—The Broad Arrow says it is the greatest mistake to expect the colonial military authorities to slavishly copy our regular army. It is plain they will not accept the home ideas. The sooner they are encouraged to develop their special military ideas the better it will be for the federation of the Empire.

BOY STEPPED ON A NAIL

Death Ensued and His Father Sues for Damages

Ottawa, Ont., October 12.—Geo. Pelletier, a policeman of Hull, has entered an action against the E. B. Eddy Company for $1,100 damages to compensate him for the death of his 15-year old son, who died as a result of blood poisoning caused by his stepping on a projecting nail in the floor of the company's machine shop where he was employed. Plaintiff claims that previous to the accident the lad had always had the best of health.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 10 1903

THE JOY THAT KILLS

A column long, nearly, is the paean of the Journal, published at Lockport, N. Y., over the report from Washington that the army board that visited the Niagara frontier has reported in favor of Fort Niagara, on the American side.

We are told that the matter isn't settled yet, for the Secretary of War has to act upon the report and may upset it, but the Lockport paper is so enthusiastic over the prospect of getting protection from a Canadian invasion that it takes liberties with the current tongue. It announces that "the Governor," will not abandon Fort Niagara, probably meaning the government. Further on it says "there has been no supposition to Fort Niagara," perhaps thinking of opposition. But these are but slips of speech. When it declares that "for more than 200 years" the post has been "the guardian of the Niagara frontier," it shows the fatal habit of exaggeration which has been in and under all the down-the-river frothing about the 200 acres that would "go to weeds" if the Government did not take it, and which leads to the hasty conclusion that the choice is settled because the visitors are reported, through a "leak," to have preferred that place in a preliminary report.

The Journal should interview the shade of Father Hennepin by wireless and see if the fort was guarding the frontier when he discovered the falls—and it should also avoid the exuberance that intoxicates. There is a joy that kills.

THE LABOR VOTE

At a recent meeting of the Toronto Trades and Labor Council it was announced that at the next meeting of the Congress of Labor, to be held at Brockville, Ont., special provision would be made for combatting the growing hostility of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association and the Employers' Association. It was also announced that arrangements had been made for a meeting of organized labor in Toronto for the selection of candidates for the coming municipal elections.

With regard to the Brockville convention we are told that "with the Farmers' Associations and the labor organizations pledged to co-operate with each other on a political platform embracing public ownership of public utilities, the merit system in reforming the public service, and direct legislation through the initiative and referendum, the old-time political parties will have to shift their sails considerably to make the old ports."

Labor organizations imagine that is what is to be; and that because they include a very considerable portion of the voting strength, it is possible for them to carry elections and elect their own candidates. Such results may be judged by past occurrences. As officially reported by Mr. McMakin, Labor Commissioner for the State of New York, the total number of labor unions in that state on March 31, 1903, was 2,165, having an aggregate membership of 357,231. There was, he states, between September 30, 1902, and March 30, 1903, a net increase of 136 in the number of these unions, with a net gain of about 26,000 in membership.

The New York Commercial analizing the labor vote in that state, showing why in the last presidential election, it amounted to practically nothing, says:

We hear a great deal about the "labor vote" in these times—more especially when labor-unionists are making "demands" on their employers just prior to national, state, or municipal elections, or when they are trying to enforce boycotts on individuals, firms or companies that insist on doing business in their own way. What relation does this vote—if there is any such thing as a "labor vote"—bear to the whole mass of voters? To what extent is it a vote en masse? In other words, how far must it be reckoned with, in a general way, in getting at the possible or probable result of a popular election here in New York? Let us take the presidential election of 1900 as presenting the latest instance of an occasion that brings out generally the largest number of voters;

McKinley received 821,992 votes in this state at that election; Bryan 678,386, Wooley 22,043, Debs 12,869, Malloney 12,622—a total of 1,547,913 votes. There were not, of course, as many labor-unionists in the autumn of 1900 as there are now. But suppose there were as many? And suppose, also, that they were all duly registered voters, and that all of them actually went to the polls and voted? In that event they cast only about [illegible] per cent, of all the votes polled. The great bulk of them must have voted for either Bryan or McKinley, for Debs, the candidate of the so-called Social Democrats, got only 12,869 votes, and Malloney, the candidate of the Socialist Labor party, even less—only 12,622. The two candidates who stood more closely for labor "principles" got about 25,000 votes between them—almost exactly 1 per cent. of the liberally conceded "labor vote," and less than 2 per cent. on the entire vote cast! As a matter of fact, the "labor" candidates in 1900 received only about 1 per cent. of the entire vote thrown.

Really, there is no such thing as the "labor vote." Labor-unionists, as a general thing, vote for one or another of the leading political candidates. Their votes are not thrown in bulk. It is only on the very rarest occasions that they can influence the result of an election. And yet candidates for office stand in fear of that mythical "labor vote" and perform all sorts of political contortions in order not to "offend" it! And men in business are sometimes seen supporting this or that candidate because he is said to be acceptable to "labor."

Breaches of trust by women in responsible positions are as rare as white blackbirds—but a few of such rarities exist. A New York woman bookkeeper backed the board of trade with no more judgment than a mere man and is short $[illegible].

Mayor Muddell, of Oxford, Ohio, where the college is, actually threatens to send a lot of students to the workhouse because they paraded the streets in their "nighties." Some of these hardheaded, selfmade men have no sympathy whatever with the struggles of our sons to and get a higher education.

Russia and Japan

THE ANAEMIC YOUNG GIRL

Perhaps she is sixteen. Suddenly she seems to lose strength. Her beauty fades because her vitality is steadily decreasing. Dark circles appear under the eyes which become lustreless and dull. Her spirits droop, for no girl can be contented and happy in such condition.

This may be quickly corrected by taking Ferrozone. It supplies what is lacking in the blood, purifies and strengthens it, and keeps it in perfect order. Ferrozone makes plenty of red corpuscles that manifest themselves in a healthy ruddy complexion. It aids the stomach to do all its work, and creates a natural healthy relish for food.

Every organ of the body is benefited by Ferrozone. It rebuilds the entire system, makes new tissue, strengthens weak flabby muscles, makes thin people fat and sick people well.

No case of Anaemia is too chronic for Ferrozone. It may take time, but if persistently used will cure in the end. It will give you a well developed form, clear complexion, pure breath and will restore the bloom to faded cheeks and color to the lips more quickly than any other remedy.

Every woman who desires a vigorous constitution, and the good looks that come with good health, should take Ferrozone after each meal regularly. It is a wonderful tonic for the brain, the nerves and the blood, and acts also as an efficient but harmless regulator of the menstrual flow. In fact for all diseases peculiar to women and growing girls, Ferrozone has no equal as your druggist can tell you.

Three weeks treatment costs 50c., or three boxes for $1.25. Sold by druggists and dealers in medicine everywhere, or sent by mail if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

ATTACKS SIR WILFRED

His Answer to Mr. Monk Settles Westminster G[illegible]

London, Oct. 9—Referring to Sir Wilfrid Laurier's reply to Mr. Monk, in the Canadian House of Commons, saying that he understood that Mr. Chamberlain was making an argument, not a statement, the over-optimistic Gazette says "Sir Wilfrid Laurier's explanation neatly supplements the words of the mad hatter in a cartoon today. The Gazette says that the mad hatter contends that 'proof will be found in argument not in figures. I use figures as illustrations to show what argument is'."

The Westminster Gazette says that "argument is everything to Mr. Chamberlain, but nothing to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who, we suppose, attaches more importance to illustrations and figures."

RELY ON THE POWERS

Macedonians Call Off their Revolutions till Spring

Vienna, Oct. 9—It is announced from Constantinople, through official channels that the Macedonian insurgents are reported to be preparing a manifesto declaring that in the expectation of Turkey ceasing her effort to suppress the rising they have decided to suspend the insurrection until the spring, in order to see whether the reforms will be applied.

All accounts are agreed in describing the Sultan as restive and inclined to protest against the proposed European control and surveillance of Turkish methods in Macedonia. It is important that Europe should not lost sight of the urgent necessity of alleviating the suffering in Macedonia and Bulgaria. The relief organized by the Turks with much blowing of trumpets is a delusion.

Anecdotal.

A secretary of a fire insurance company tells of an old woman who called on an agent to arrange for insurance on her house and furniture. "We haven't had no insurance for five years," she explained; "we hev jes' been dependin' on the Lord; but I says to my old man, I says, thet it's terrible risky, I says."

Anna, a Southern beauty of four years, had a decided aversion to her morning bath. One evening her nurse was telling her of God's goodness and His willingness to wash away her sins, when she suddenly set up a lusty howl, exclaiming: "Oh, don't let Him wash them away! Don't let Him wash them! Tell Him to pick them off!"

When Henry Irving was rehearsing for his production of "Faust," he experienced much difficulty in restraining the exuberance of the supers, who persisted in being light-hearted, even in Hades. Sir Henry is proverbially long-suffering about such matters, but his patience finally gave out, and he thundered: "Kindly remember that you are supposed to be in hell, not picnicking at Hampstead heath."

Senators Blackburn and Lindsay of Kentucky were once traveling together through the Alleghany Mountains. Blackburn went into the smoking-room and returned in a few minutes looking so much depressed that Lindsay asked: "What's the matter, Joe?" "Why, I've," said Blackburn, in heartbroken tones, "lost the better part of my luggage." "Was it stolen or did you leave it behind?" "Worse than either—the cork came out."

Charles Dudley Warner, who was editor of the Hartford "Press" in the sixties, was one day confronted by a compositor, who said: "Well, Mr. Warner, I've decided to enlist in the army." The editor was pleased, and replied that he was glad to see the man felt the call of duty and was hastening to serve his country in its troublous time. "Oh, it ain't that," remarked the printer, "but I'd rather be shot than try to set any more of your d——d copy."

A North Missouri editor received a note the other day telling him that one of his subscribers was dead, and asking that his paper be discontinued. A few days later the editor met the "deceased" subscriber on the street, and told him about the note. "I wrote that note myself," returned the subscriber. "What for?" asked the editor. "Well, I wanted to stop yer paper," said the subscriber, candidly, "an' knowin' how bad you need the money I didn't have the heart to come right out an' do it. So I jes' wrote you the note about bein' dead."

The story is told of a Scotch preacher who gave his people long, strong sermons and delivered them in a remarkably deliberate manner. One Sunday he asked a friend who was visiting him to occupy his pulpit in the morning. "An' were you satisfied wi' my preaching?" asked his friend, as they walked home from the kirk. "Weel," said his host, slowly, "it was a fair discourse, Will'm, a fair discourse; but it pained me at the last to see the folk looking sae fresh and wide awake. I mistrust 'twasna sae long nor sae sound as it should hae been."

Count Guardabassi, the baritone, who earlier in life achieved no little reputation as a portrait painter, once painted a portrait of Leo XIII. His Holiness scrutinized it carefully. "The lips and cheeks are too bloodless," he said. "You must put a little more color into them." After his Holiness had departed, Count Guardabassi touched the lips and cheeks with rouge. The next day the picture was again inspected by the Pope, who expressing himself as highly pleased with it, gave the young artist his approbation in writing. After the portrait had been removed from the Vatican the artist carefully wiped off the rouge.

A Desertion Agency Inducing Sailors to Leave their Ships

Montreal, Oct. 9—During an investigation by the Police Committee of the arrest of ship deserters, Lieut. Poulin of the Montreal force stated that there were certain men in Montreal who made their business in life the enticing away of men from vessels arriving in port. These deserters were then kept at a home, where they were plied with all the liquor they could drink, and were finally smuggled on board other vessels. The man who performed the kidnapping received a certain amount for each sailor thus supplied.

Dry placer Miner, formerly of California.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 300 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure this gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine — Its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck or more of sand, either ordinary house or sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

Black Hills Copper Company
LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000
PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - - $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jerome mineral belt of Arizona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to day.

A limited amount of the Stock is new offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

OF COLORADO

The Company is capitalized at $2,000,000, consisting of 2,000,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock.

The Property

Consists of nine patented, well developed mines and mill sites, situated in Gilpin County, Colorado. This county has already produced more than

$80,000,000 in Gold

The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk on ore to a depth of 100 to 400 feet, and a tunnel run a distance of 2,300 feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to unwater and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation

The Colorado & Southern Railroad passes directly in front of the mouth of the tunnel. All ore can be dumped therefrom directly into the cars, giving quick and cheap transportation to the mills. Large returns have been paid from the product of these mines.

Sale of Preferred Stock

The company desires to not only push its development work and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own mill site at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ores. For that purpose it now offers for sale 250,000 shares of its Preferred Treasury Stock at 50 cents per share reserving the right to increase the price of all unsold shares thereof at any time without notice.

The Company pledges the whole net product of its mines to pay an eight per cent annual dividend on the sum paid for such stock, before any other stock receives any dividends whatever. After such dividends has been paid, the common stock shall receive a like dividend, when the surplus fund remaining shall be distributed among the common and preferred stock, share and share alike. All stock will be issued full paid and non-assessable.

THE ROSE OF THE RING

"She won't make the difference of a pinch of salt to me," she muttered, when she had come to the end of Jim's letter; "and even if she did, wouldn't I share my last crust with her? No, Jim, my lad, I know my own mind, and I'm not going to be talked out of it. I've got the baby, and with me she'll stay till someone better comes to claim her."

As Jim had prophesied, nobody came forward to claim the child, and Mrs. West reared it, with as much tenderness as if it had been her own.

When she could toddle about the floor, her frocks were as daintily made as the one Mrs. Errol had stitched a few hours before she died; and nowhere was there to be found so pretty a child as the one that played under the lilac-bush in the narrow front garden.

"She shall be brought up like a lady—just as if her own mother was alive," Mrs. West would say to her neighbors, when speaking of Rosalie. "I'm not going to bring her down to my level—she shall always know her mother was a true lady, and that she's something different to the children that play about the streets."

Mrs. West kept to her word.

Had Rosalie been a princess she could not have had more attention bestowed upon her.

And it seemed that she was not to be without friends.

Soon after Mrs. Errol's death the rooms had been let to a gentleman and his wife, both whom were devoted to the child.

They had no children of their own, and would willingly have adopted Rosalie, if Mrs. West could have been prevailed upon to relinquish her charge.

As it was, while the husband was engaged with business in the city during the day, the wife made the child her constant companion.

And from her Rosalie learned to read and write, to pick out the first notes on the jingling piano, and to recite little poems, of which keen Mrs. West more than suspected her lodger to be the author.

She was sitting with Mrs. Dellington, one wintry evening, waiting for Mr. Dellington to return from his office, when she noticed an unusual look of sadness on the wife's pale face.

The lamp had not yet been lighted, but the fire was blazing cheerily, filling the room with a ruddy glow and making the teacups shine on the snowy cloth.

Rosalie had brought in everything for the tea-table, and was now sitting on the hearth-rug, toasting muffins, burning up her pretty soft cheeks, without any thought of complexion spoiling.

"Are you unhappy?" she asked, suddenly forgetting the muffin she was engaged upon, and letting it rest against the bars.

"What makes you think so?' Mrs. Dellington replied, giving a deep sigh as she spoke.

"For that reason—because you keep sighing and looking into the fire, as though you could see all sorts of sad pictures there. Just now I thought there were tears in your eyes."

"Were you watching me all the time, Rosy? I fancied you were attending to the muffins."

A faint smile had come to Mrs. Dellington's lips, but Rosy saw tears glistening in the tender eyes, and dropping the toasting-fork, she sprang to her feet and put her arms round the neck of her patroness.

"Something is grieving you," she said, laying her hot face against Mrs. Dellington's. "You were only crying in your heart when first I spoke, but now you are crying with your eyes. Oh, what can I do to make you happy again? What can I do to make you laugh?"

Mrs. Dellington drew the child to her bosom and kissed the velvety cheeks.

"I am very foolish, Rosy," she said; "I had a bad dream last night, and it has been troubling me all through the day. I am glad you let me see my dream was on my face; I should not like Mr. Dellington to know I have been anxious. I shall be glad when he comes in."

"Was your dream about Mr. Dellington?" Rosy asked, wondering what kind of a dream could have been. "I wish you would tell me what it was. I might be able to help you to forget it."

Mrs. Dellington looked sadly into the sweet, young face, and then, seeing the wistfulness in the large eyes, said:

"It was a horrible dream. I thought I saw my darling husband lying dead, and when I touched him he was like ice, and a sudden darkness swept up between us and hid him from me. I have not been able to get it out of my mind all day. It would be worse than death to contemplate such a loss as that."

Mrs. Dellington got up and went over to the window.

She had a struggle to keep back her tears; but Rosy was near, comforting her with bright words and warm kisses, like a gleam of sunshine dispersing the gathering clouds.

"It was only a dream!" she exclaimed, with a burst of rippling laughter. "How can you care about a dream, they never come true—they always go by opposites. Here comes Mr. Dellington. I'll run and open the door."

As the child broke away, Mrs. Dellington caught her hand and held her.

"Don't tell him my dream," she whispered. "You must dance to us to-night, Rosy, and we'll all see how merry we can be."

Rosy pressed a hurried kiss on the detaining hand, then ran out into the hall and opened the door.

Mr. Dellington came up the steps slowly, wearily, it seemed.

"Well," he said at last, laying his hand on her hair, "what has my little [illegible] been doing to give her such a [illegible]"

"Toasting muffins. I shouldn't be half so cheerful if I didn't scratch up my [illegible] properly. There's to be a surprise for you to-night. What do you think it is to be?"

"If I were to guess aright, it wouldn't be a surprise," Mr. Dellington answered, with a smile; "and when the surprise is to be a pleasant one, it is a pity to spoil it."

He was in the room by this time; he put his arm round his wife and kissed her, as she wheeled his arm-chair near the fire.

"You must be bitterly cold," she said, looking anxiously into his face. "I wish you had not to go out in these penetrating winds."

He leaned back in the chair and gazed into the fire, without answering. Rosy was busy unlacing his boots and warming his slippers.

He had been like a father to her—the only father she had ever known, and these little tasks she performed lovingly, just as she had performed them in the days when she had stood no higher than his knee.

Mrs. Dellington poured out the tea, and Rosy handed up the muffins.

She had had her own tea an hour earlier, but just to keep away the shadow of that dream she took her place at the table and watched for the old, gentle smile to come to Mr. Dellington's face.

He was suffering from a bad cold—a cough which had troubled him all the winter, and to-night it seemed much worse.

Bulwer Lytton's Centenary.

The centenary of Emerson's birthday was also that of Lord Lytton, who is better known to-day by "The Last Days of Pompeii," perhaps, than any of his twenty-seven novels. That this remarkably versatile writer was also poet, playwright, social critic, journalist, essayist, editor, orator, statesman, pamphleteer, is well-nigh forgotten. It is safe to say that he has never been regarded seriously as a literary force. In his own day he was subjected to criticism that was undisguisedly savage. One of the worst offenders was Thackeray, who poked fun most unmercifully at "Sawedwadgeorgeearllittabulwig." The "English Men of Letters" and "Great Writers" series omit Lord Lytton, and he has been steadily ignored by the essayists and critics. Only one other writer of equal pretensions has been so relentlessly neglected, the author of "Vivian Grey" and "Endymion" and other portentously political and social novels of English life. Mr. Lewis Melville, in an article in "Temple Bar" for May, wrestles vigorously with Lytton's case to raise him out of this unseemly obloquy, but the task is beyond him. We know of two prominent magazines, whose editors were approached some time ago with memorial papers on the novelist's centennial, who promptly refused to give them a place in their pages. Yet it is claimed that Lytton's novels are read by hundreds of thousands, and rival those of Dickens in popularity.

Mr. Melville lays his finger almost unwittingly on the chief defect of Lord Lytton's work. "A work of imagination may be fantastic," he says, "but if it deals with life it must necessarily be true or untrue to life, and if it is untrue it cannot be accepted as a work of art." The worst kind of immorality in fiction is the falsification of facts, the perversion of truth. Lord Lytton began by infusing into his early novels an extravagance of pseudo sentiment and faulty psychology which created a false sympathy for the vicious and criminal. So warped and twisted was his view of life, so confused his understanding of right and wrong, so lacking in moral insight and clear-eyed apprehension of motive and emotion, that he actually defended his "honesty of purpose," and claimed "sincere and distinct views of promoting truth and administering to knowledge"—a claim wholly unwarranted by the facts. What would seem to be the cankerworm in Lord Lytton's character led to the cardinal fault in his work, the insincerity of the man. One of his contemporaries who discovered a goodness of heart in the novelist, for which few who knew him even well gave him credit, deplored his fondness for personal metamorphoses, so to speak. "One day," it is related of him, "he would appear in black from top to toe, with a dark-complexioned visage to match. Another day he would be all brown, and on a third he would be all in white, with blond hair and a fair complexion lighted up by rouge!" Carlyle, who derided the dandiacal Pelham in "Sartor Resartus," always spoke with contempt of its author; the sad, earnest eyes of the seer saw through the pitiful humbug—"a poor fribble," was Carlyle's epithet. Mrs. Carlyle, more plain-spoken, and a champion of the novelist's wife in her marital grievances, called him "a lanthern-jawed quack!" All this is not to say that Bulwer Lytton did not do good work and that he had no remarkable gifts. Especially in his later novels, there are passages and characterization that reach a high level. But the acid of insincerity and flamboyancy bit into the fibre of his work and made it meretricious as literature and worthless as art.

A Union-Made Calendar.

The office boys' union had adjourned from labor to luncheon, when the walking delegate, after examining the union label on a doughnut, asked: "Has youse kids seen de new calendars?"

"Dat's all right; but has yer read 'em?"

A prolonged yell went up at the idea of reading a calendar.

"I tell yer dis year nineteen-t'ree is the bulliest year yet. Yer see dem red figgers wot shows de Sundays and der hollidays—dis time dey comes in pairs. Dere's Washington's birthday—dat comes on Sunday, and we got two easy ones a-runnin'. Den dey put five Sundays in March dis year. See? Decoration day is a Saturday, and we gits two a-runnin'; der Fourt' er July is put down for a Saturday, and we skips de ranch for two days. Labor day is a Monday, makin' two again. Next Christmas comes on Friday; and sure dere's nuthin' doin' for t'ree [illegible]"

"[illegible] makes de calendar?"

"Why, de printer, [illegible] mutt. Don't yer see [illegible] union label? Dat's what organized labor is doing for us poor workin'-men."—"Dry Goods Guide."

Crow's Nest Life.

I often wonder if the crow is an altruist. The farmers would never call him by so flattering a name. But surely he must feel more or less benevolent when engaged in building a nest that, before it finally falls to pieces, will probably be the home of many and various birds and beasts.

And is it because the crow is a generous bird, willing to provide apartments for his woodland neighbors, that he builds false nests also? Perhaps not, for the crow is a wise bird, too; and although it is not quite certain what purpose these false nests serve, they may be designed to draw the attention of the irate man who shoulders a gun when he finds the crows have been at work in his corn-piece.

But although the false nest is less carefully built than the nest the crows really occupy, and although it is generally placed in a more exposed position, it is as sure to find a tenant as is a nest in which crows have lived.

A deserted crows' nest less than a mile from my house has been occupied alternately by hawks and squirrels for the last five or six years. After the crows left it, a pair of red-shouldered hawks took possession. During the season one of the hawks was killed and the eggs were broken, and for a few months the nest lay idle.

In the autumn some red squirrels raised a roof of bark and pine-needles over the hollow of the nest, filled it with soft grass, and made it their home for the winter. They would doubtless have continued to dwell there had not a couple of Cooper's hawks decided the next spring that the tenement suited them. After ousting the squirrels, perhaps by killing and devouring them, they went to work to fix it up.

But the squirrels had done too thorough a job for the hawks to undo easily, and after several futile attempts at tearing it to pieces, they were forced to content themselves with constructing a new nest on the "top floor," the roof the squirrels had raised. So the nest has gone on being serviceable, sheltering a long succession of tenants.

In another nest in my neighborhood long-eared owls succeeded the crows, and sparrow-hawks followed the owls.

I have known still another nest to serve as nursery for two families in the same season: the great horned owls, which lay their eggs in the latter part of winter, having succeeded in teaching their young ones to fly before the chicken-hawks—which breed later than any other species—were prepared to undertake the care of a family.

Wild ducks, sea-gulls, and even partridges, whose habit is to nest on the ground, have been known to make use of abandoned crows' nests. In winter various kinds of owls borrow them to sleep in, and the pine-marten, or sable is said to have the same habit.

To be sure, almost every new tenant remodels a nest to suit his own fancy, and after it has been occupied by three or four families it would hardly be recognized by the crow that built it. Probably that ingenious architect is not sensitive about such alterations. It is glory enough for him that the other birds approve his general design; and very likely when he leaves a nest to an owl or a hawk or a gull it is stipulated between them that repairs shall not be at the landlord's expense.

Women Who Insure.

According to a successful woman insurance agent of Chicago, more and more insurance is being taken out by women every year. "They are now considered good risks" she says "whereas formerly a woman had to pay an extra premium to secure insurance. About six years ago that hindrance was removed, and now nearly all of the life insurance companies accept them on the same basis as men. One of the old conservative companies just yielded the point a few weeks ago, but still makes an exception to married women, as several of the other companies do. The mortality among women is no greater than among men, and their liability to accident is not so great. As for the class of women that take out insurance, I suppose that trained nurses and women physicians have a larger percentage than have other professions. After that come the teachers in schools, then dressmakers, milliners, cashiers, clerks in department stores, and others, but very few stenographers. It is a singular thing that we always find it difficult to convince a stenographer of the value of life insurance. Professional women are more apt to insure than others, and insurance has recently become popular among actresses. They are taking out twenty-year endowment policies as investments for old age. As a rule, actresses do not save their money, and do not have anything left after their popularity has passed. We insure a good many women in private life also. It is becoming quite common, and very soon as many women as men will take out policies upon their lives, particularly those who have others dependent upon them."

Mrs. Leland Stanford, it is said, carries a larger amount of insurance than any other woman in the world. Her policies amount to more than a million dollars. Mrs. Frank O. Lowden of Chicago carries $250,000, probably more than any other woman in the West, and Mrs. McReynolds carries $200,000. Helen Gould and one of her sisters have $100,000 each. Anna Held carries $100,000; Mrs. Leslie Carter, $50,000; Nordica, $50,000; Maud Adams, $25,000; Blanche Walsh, $10,000; Katherine Grey, $10,000; Blanche Bates, $10,000; Maxine Elliott, $10,000; Lulu Glaser, $10,000; Pauline Hall $10,000; Laura Joyce, $10,000; and others similar amounts.

Science and Religion.

The last word from science is that each of us normally contains both good and bad microbes, and that the two parties are constantly at war. This seems, says New York "Life," to bear out Dr. Lyman Abbott, who maintains that hell is within us.

Very Forgetful.

Spoon—That family next door is the limit for borrowing things.

Macon—What have they been after now?

AN EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY
FOR BOTH LARGE AND SMALL INVESTORS

Owing to valuable Patents having been granted this Company, we are desirous of extending our business to the Dominion of Canada. Owing to the Customs duties, the extra cost in transportation and the numerous expenses attached, and the delays in deliveries in shipping goods from one country to another, it is absolutely necessary that we should have a factory in the Dominion, that we may be in a position to meet the immediate wants of the business.

The articles that we make from our Patent Fabric are too numerous to mention, and it is not necessary that we go into the details of the merits of our goods, as they are already in use to a large extent and have no equal. Our goods are covered by several patents, and the profit on the goods is large, averaging from 25 to 100 per cent, thus affording the company large revenue to meet all its obligations

In order to secure funds to equip a plant in the Dominion of Canada we will offer to the people of Canada $100,000 of our Bonds paying ten per cent. interest per annum.

Experience has shown that stocks based upon sound industrial enterprises have never been equalled from the standpoint of legitimate profit. For instance, a few hundred dollars invested in the Bell Telephone Company's stock in the beginning of the enterprise now commands thousands of dollars, after having yielded large dividends annually. Of course opportunities for such profitable investments do not present themselves every day, and it is also very true that a vast amount of capital has been misdirected in the endeavor to exploit inventions and enterprises which shrewd and far seeing investors should have recognized as impractical. But as regards this enterprise even the most conservative must admit it has possibilities of development which are almost incalculable and which have already been demonstrated in a practical manner. We have no speculative elements—this is a sound business proposition, and the patents which we own are worth several million dollars, as there can only be one fabric of this kind and that is ours.

All the above facts are simple statements of the truth and can be fully substantiated to the satisfaction of all investors.

The business is no experiment, the incorporators of this Company have made it their business for a great many months past and understand all the details, the prospects are therefore bright, and brighter than those of many other opportunities.

This Company is not a promotors company, every dollar goes to enhance the value of the property and business and increase the capacity. There is nothing speculative in this proposition, the enterprises are undertaken for industrial purposes only to make profits by the operation and development of the business.

Considering that the enterprise is already upon an established basis with a certainty of profitable future expansion, we feel warranted in the assertion that this is an attractive proposition to investors whether large or small.

The price of these Bonds are one dollar each, and will be issued in any number wanted. With every purchaser of each five Bonds we will give as a bonus, one share of stock of the Company, the par value of which is five dollars per share, thus assuring interest on the investment, and with the stock which is bound to increase you will have for nothing. These Bonds will be issued for five years. Persons desiring to avail themselves of this opportunity want to send their remittance at once.

Attention Investors

FROM THE PLACERS OF THE BOISE BASIN, IDAHO, FOUR HUNDRED MILLIONS OF DOLLARS IN GOLD HAVE BEEN TAKEN.

We are now developing the ledges that fed those placers in the ages past.

The Pearl Gold Mining Co. of Idaho owns seven groups of mines—thirty-seven mining claims and is now working in ore in three of its mines.

The Treasury Stock is offered at a price that will unquestionably make money for those who invest. The Stock is non-assessable—no debts—all clear titles—safe, experienced and conservative management.

First Class Mining Proposition.

The Anaconda Gold Mining Co.

This is one of the best propositions ever placed before the Canadian investor. The Company owns 600 acres in the celebrated Black Hills District, South Dakota, comprising 32 claims. The track is unquestionably on the great Homestake belt, being located directly between the wonderful Homestake mine and the Clover Leaf mine. Two shafts have already been sunk, the main one being down 154 feet, with capacity of going 1000 feet. The Company has also installed an Ingersoll-Sargeant air compressor and drills, 125 horse power boiler, steam pumps, and in fact everything needed for actual operation, with the exception of its stamp mills; which will be installed at once. The vein of gold-bearing quartz traversing the Company's property is very rich. Assays have run from $3 to $54.25 per ton.

The Company has a capital of 1,500,000 shares, divided into 750,000 preferred and 750,000 common, par value $1 per share, fully paid up and non-assessable. The treasury stock has been made preferred stock to the amount of 25 cents a share. Out of the first dividends 25 cents per share will be paid to the owners of this preferred stock before holders of common stock receive any share of the profits. After the 25 cents has been paid to the shareholders of preferred stock, then all alike share in the dividends. (This means nothing less than that the first investors in the enterprise will have all their money returned to them before any dividends are declared to the rank and file of investors.

A limited amount of Stock has been placed on the Canadian market. Full particulars and copy of prospectus may be obtained from MR. R. J. KIDD, or the undersigned Agent for Peterborough city

AN OPPORTUNITY

C. C. Pugh, postmaster at Adel, Dallas county, Iowa, and Dr. W. J. Williams, surgeon for the Milwaukee railroad at that place, are very successful mining men. They understand the western country and know the mines and their possibilities. They are selling Williams Fork Stock at 10 cents a share. This stock went off the market at 25 cents July 1 this year and there is none to be had of the company at any price. They guarantee this stock to be gilt edge $10,000 worth of ore on the dump now. If you want 1,000 shares of this stock send draft for $100 to Adel State Bank, Adel, Iowa, and they will send you your certificate for same. If you want 500 shares send draft for $50 to said bank. Pugh and Williams do their business through this large bank, hence you are safe in sending money to them. Dividends will come soon from this property and it will then go to $1.00 per share. It is in Colorado and officials of that state write that it is a magnificent property. If you know this property and the people back of it you would want this stock. For reference write Hon. Geo. W. Clarke, Adel, Iowa, member of the Legislature. He will tell you as to our reliability. If you buy 1,000 shares of this stock we send you a guarantee and you will also thank us for calling your attention to it. An honest proposition. Write immediately with draft as this stock will be offered but a few days at 10 cents. Last shipment of ore went over $120 to the ton.

A GREAT ENTERPRISE

Drake Mining, Drainage and Tunnel Transportation Co

(Ores and Metals.)

This is decidedly the most important tunnel enterprise originating in Gilpin county. The company was recently organized by St. Louis and Denver people with a capital of $2,000,000, the officers of which are; H. D. MacKay, St. Louis, president; Jesse French, St. Louis, treasurer; Wm. J. Kreybill, St. Louis, secretary; John MacMillan, Denver, general manager; John Ogden, Denver, metallurgist. H. M. Orahood, general counsel, who, with Mr. John Dooley, M.D., of St. Louis, constitute the board of directors.

The company owns fifteen claims starting on the railroad about three quarters of a mile from Black Hawk depot, and extending for a distance of two miles to Russell gulch and going through the very cream of Gilpin county. In running the two miles the tunnel will gain a depth of 1,700 feet.

In addition to this main adit tunnel (which is a tunnel run on the vein) the company will run a "crosscut" tunnel under Gregory-Bobtail hill, which in running a distance of a mile or mile and a half will cut hundreds of great veins, and prove an enormous source of revenue to the company from drainage and transportation of ore for other mines.

The adit tunnel is now in a distance of upwards of 1,300 feet and work is going on uninterruptedly all the time. The ore shoot already exposed in the Mary Miller is over 500 feet long and there remains in the stopes in this claim 32,000 tons of ore that will average about $10 per ton. The Mary Miller has produced in the past upwards of $300,000, and the 32,000 tons left standing in the mine, already broken and ready to stup, were too low-grade ten or twelve years ago to bear treatment and transportation charges, but can to-day be shipped at a profit of probably $150,000. In addition to the Mary Miller shoot there are ten other ore shoots in the properties, ranging in length from 200 to 800 feet.

The group comprises such producers as the Williams, Washington Extension, Washington, Justice, etc., which have produced from $50,000 to $500,000 each from the shafts, and when the tunnel cuts them at a great depth there will be many million dollars' worth of ore opened up in the properties which belong solely to the company.

The "crosscut" tunnel starting from a point about 3,000 feet from the portal of the main tunnel will cut such well-known properties as the Gregory, which has already produced upwards of $20,000,000; the Bobtail, which has produced upwards of $8,000,000; the Fisk, Carr, and others of lesser importance.

The plans of the company contemplate a large mill or smelter of their own at the mouth of the tunnel to treat not only their own ores, but ores from the other mines, through which the crosscut tunnel will pass.

The Chicago Record-Herald.

As one would expect of a great metropolitan newspaper having the facilities of The Chicago Record-Herald, that paper always covers the markets and financial and commercial intelligence generally on a scale of exceptional fullness, covering two entire pages of each issue. The quotations on live stock, grain and provisions, stocks and bonds, and in fact every commercial and financial market in which the people of the Northwest are interested, are thoroughly complete and satisfactory.

Special cables tell the story of finance abroad. The "Speculative Gossip," "Wall Street Talks" and "LaSalle street Notes" are features of The Record-Herald market page that interest speculators from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast. They tell of the undercurrents in the grain and security markets. They relate personal gossip of the pits, in its way as important as the humdrum and routine part of the day's story of speculation. The Wall street letter of John Chambers summarizes the daily history of Gotham's money market in a most entertaining and instructive fashion. Examine the market page of any issue and see for yourself.

Order Early.

A United States undertaker advertises: "Why live and be miserable, when you can be comfortably buried for twenty dollars?" We shall expect something of the kind over here soon. Don't be surprised when you take up your morning paper if you read this sort of thing: "Billy Morgan looked down the barrel of his daddy's gun to see where the bullet went to when it went off. The funeral was handsomely conducted by Smith & Co., who have always a large staff on hand, and are open to bury the whole neighborhood at twenty-four hours' notice. A pound of tea given away with every coffin. Order early to avoid disappointment!"

He was Useful.

"Do you think your sister likes to have me come here, Jamey?"

"You bet. You take her to the theater and bring her candies."

"I'm glad I can make her happy."

"Yes; and the young feller she's engaged to don't mind it, either, for it saves him that much money toward going to housekeeping."—"Pick-Me-Up."

A Satisfactory Reason.

First picket—What's this strike about, anyway—more pay, less work? What's it for? Second picket—Nah! The boss didn't take his hat off or take his cig' outen his mouth when de walkin' delegate went in for see him.—"Judge."

A Proposition of Special Merit to be Offered Canadian Investors

STONY PASS MINING CO.
SILVERTON, COLO.

has appointed a local Canadian Fiscal Agent, in the person of Messrs. Thomas Patterson & Son, brokers, who will make an announcement in a day or two that will interest the investors of Canada. It is proposed to send a representative from Canada to visit the mines and property of the company, and report thereon so as to prove beyond doubt its splendid worth. The proposition is one that will bear the closest investigation. The company is splendidly officered by men of honor and business integrity, known throughout the country for their high character and business ability.

A meeting is being arranged to take place at an early date, when those who propose to invest in the Company's stock will have the privilege of selecting one the number to visit the mines.

COPETE MINING CO.

27 William Street, New York

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them ar—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now clear and undisputed title to, all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

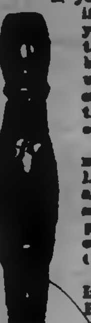
Lung Trouble

Promptly relieved and permanently cured by inhaling Catarrhozone

Mrs. Bey Brown of Tenecape, N.S., was cured by Catarrhozone of lung trouble and catarrh after hundreds of other remedies failed



If your lungs are weak, if there is consumption in your family; if Colds, Catarrh and Bronchitis bother you, be sure to use Catarrhozone. It is especially adapted for these diseases and cures every time.

Mrs. Brown took cough mixtures, but they made her sick. Then she used an atomizer, but after resorting without benefit to poultices and numerous other remedies, she tried Catarrhozone.

"I used Catarrhozone Inhaler," writes Mrs. Brown, "five minutes every hour, and soon recognized that it was going to cure me. I could feel the soothing medicated air spreading through the air passages of the throat, and it touched the sore spots in the lungs that other remedies failed to reach. Catarrhozone seemed to go just where it was needed most, and soon put a stop to my cough. It restored me to perfect health, and I am convinced that no cough, cold or catarrh can exist if Catarrhozone is used."

No treatment is so clean, so pleasant, so certain to cure as Catarrhozone. By means of this Inhaler the local symptoms such as coughing, inflammation and congestion are speedily corrected. Ferrozone tablets which are taken after each meal purify and cleanse the blood of all poisons and build up and strengthen the system.

This local and constitutional treatment is always effective, and cures cases that have been given up as hopeless. Money can't buy or produce anything better, and to get cured it is absolutely necessary to use Catarrhozone.

The Building Question

The house-building question is being quietly discussed by many in town. This and that class is declared responsible for the shortage of houses in town. One man places the onus on the land owner who holds his vacant lots too high. Another blames the contractor without sufficient financial resources to branch out in a wholesale way; and thus split his profits in two, which he cannot do with the few jobs he now leisurely carries through in a building season. The canny investor declares rents too low; while the artizan maintains that a high assessment has served notice upon him to give up all ideas of providing a home for himself. Then materials and labor are regarded as too high to encourage housebuilding—and so the reasons for the shortage run. And yet the only way to get what we want—and want badly—is to build houses.

A Fine One

Bobcaygeon Independent: The fish in these lakes positively cannot be kept out of harms way. The mill flumes will have to be protected with fine screens, for the quantity of fish that get into makes the raceway to the waterwheels a sort of fish sausage machine. On Wednesday a whopping big maskinonge got fooling around the flume of the Little Bob Mill, and once into it he struck his finish. He made a game struggle to get out, but it was no go, and the mill-hands lifted him out. His weight was 21 1-2 lbs length 44 inches, width of back 4 inches, girth 19 inches, spread of jaws 7 inches. His general make up places him in the first row of big ones for the season, and his spread of jaw makes him the equal of anything in the Ottawa Commons. It was shipped to Mr. Ryder, Grand Trunk ticket office, Toronto, to be placed on exhibition, as a sample of the Bobcaygeon fish that frequent the waters of our Kawartha lakes.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT HAVELOCK

Henry Wese Crushed to Death Saturday Morning

A fatal accident occurred at Havelock on Saturday morning, whereby Henry Wesse, a car-repairer, lost his life. It seems that Wesse, with a man named Falkener were making repairs underneath a car at the rear of a string of fifteen cars. On the same track, A few yards away stood a shunting engine, attached to which were six cars. The driver of the shunting engine, not being aware that anyone was working under the cars, connected his six cars with the others, with the result that Wesse was knocked over and fell on one of the rails, and two trucks passed over his body, causing instant death. The body was almost cut in two at the centre, (while his left leg was nearly severed at the knee. Falkener had a marvellous escape, but was uninjured.

The deceased man was about forty-five years of age and leaves a wife and twelve children to mourn his death. He had lived in Havelock for a number of years, and was well and favorably known.

JUST ONE A DAY

How the Coffee Crank Compromises His Health

Some people say; "Coffee don't hurt me" and then add; "Anyway I only drink one cup a day."

If coffee really don't hurt why not drink more? There is but one answer and that is coffee does hurt them and they know it. When they drink it once a day they compromise with their enemy. There are people whom one cup of coffee a day will put in bed, if the habit be continued.

"Although warned by physicians to let coffee alone I have always been so fond of it that I continued to use it;" confesses an Ohio lady. "I compromised with myself and drank just one cup every morning until about six weeks ago.

"All the time I was drinking coffee I had heart trouble that grew steadily worse and finally I had such alarming sensations in my head (sometimes causing me to fall down) that I at last took my doctor's advice and quit coffee and began to use Postum Coffee in its place.

"The results have been all that the doctor hoped, for I have not only lost my craving for coffee and enjoy my good Postum, just as well, but my heart trouble has ceased and I have no more dizzy spells in my head. I feel better in every way and consider myself a very fortunate woman to have found the truth about Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

IRELAND'S PROBLEM

(London Times, Sept. 14.)

Captain Shawe-Taylor's proposal for a conference of religious parties in Ireland does not seem to find any responsive echo in Belfast, where it is regarded by both Protestants and Roman Catholics alike as altogether Utopian. A leader of the Roman Catholic Association who has been interviewed on the subject says:—"Such a course was all very well on the land question, because in that instance both landlord, and tenants had something to gain, from a third party—the British Government. Therefore they could afford to sink their differences for the nonce and join forces to get as much as possible. But this is a different matter. The education question is one upon which we are exceedingly sensitive, and upon which Catholics and Orangemen are likely to have few ideas in common—that is, so far as administration is concerned. I should say that the Catholics of Belfast and the North would not regard the proposal with favor, though I am sure everyone would be willing to give Captain Shawe-Taylor who showed an excellent spirit in promoting the Land Conference, credit for the very best intention in the matter."

Mr. Robert Simpson, grand secretary, of the Belfast Orangemen, who was also questioned as to his views on the subject, was even more decisive, and explicit to the same effect. "To my mind," he said, "there is absolutely no hope of a settlement by such means of political and religious differences, that exist in Ulster. So long as Roman Catholics demand endowments for Roman Catholic education establishments and so long as they want Home Rule or a separate Government for this country, in no conceivable circumstances would our people ever consent to any terms being submitted to a conference unless there is a distinct understanding that such questions as these are eliminated altogether. Regarding the educational question for Ireland one idea is that there should be one great national university for the whole country where all classes and creeds would stand upon an equal footing. This, indeed, seems to be the result so devoutly wished for by Captain Shawe-Taylor. As to religious differences, I do not enter into the merits of Roman Catholicism at all. The Orange Society offers a common platform to Protestants of all denominations, and we only seek to promote those things which we believe will be to the welfare of our common Protestantism and common country. Speaking for myself as a private individual, I do not believe that our Grand Lodge of Belfast would entertain any proposals to send representatives to such a conference as suggested by Captain Shawe-Taylor, who does not, as far as we know, appreciate the difficulties of Protestantism in Ulster, and in point of fact does not understand the question. I do not think, in short, that the proposal is one which can be put into practice with any good result.

The Start

In married life is generally made on an equal footing of health in man and wife. But how soon, in many cases, the wife loses the start and fades in face and fails in flesh, while her husband grows even more rugged and robust.

There is one chief cause for this wifely failure and that is, the failure of the womanly health. When there is irregularity or an unhealthy drain, inflammation, ulceration or female weakness, the general health is soon impaired.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures womanly diseases. It establishes regularity, dries unhealthy drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"A little over a year ago I wrote to you for advice," says Mrs. Elizabeth J. Fisher, of Diana, W. Va. "You advised me to use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' which I did, and with the most happy result. I was troubled with female weakness and bearing-down pains. Had a very bad pain nearly all the time in my left side, nervousness and headache. Was so weak I could hardly walk across my room. Could not sit up only just a little while at a time. My husband got me some of Dr. Pierce's medicine and I began its use. Before I had taken two bottles I was able to help do my work. I used three bottles in all and it cured me. Now I do all my housework. It is the best medicine I ever used."

The Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

TO THE SUFFERING.

The following testimonial may be read with interest to sufferers from skin eruptions or eczema:

January, 20th, 1903.

Dear Sirs,—I notice your advt. in a paper about your wonderful eczema cure and I feel it my duty to tell you that I was induced to try it as I had been afflicted with skin trouble in my hands for 11 years. I have tried several doctors and they done me no good. I only used one box of Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema. It has made a complete cure. I recommend it to all suffering from skin disease. My hand was so bad that the nails used to come off. You can use my name if you wish.

Hostilities Expected Between Russia and Japan, When Ultimatum Expires

THE SITUATION VERY GRAVE

The Island Kingdom Has Decided to Commence Hostilities To-day

London, October 12—The correspondent of The Morning Post at Chefoo, telegraphing Oct. 10, says:— "It is stated that the Japanese have decided to declare hostilities to-morrow on the expiration of their ultimatum to Russia. The Russian fleet has cleared from Port Arthur. It is reported that the Japanese are landing troops at Masampho, Corea. There are strong indications that Germany favors hostilities on the ground that it would enable her to extend her sphere of influence in China.

"A number of field guns were embarked at Port Arthur yesterday for an unknown destination. All the available force of workmen is employed on the fortifications."

Another despatch to The Morning Post from Chefoo, dated Oct. 11, 8.5 p.m. says:— "The situation is unchanged; all is quiet at Port Arthur. Hostilities are believed to be imminent. It is asserted that the Russians have fixed Friday next for the commencement."

Yokohama, Oct. 11—M. Lessar, Russian Minister to China, has announced that the Manchurian convention has lapsed.

The Manchurian convention between Russia and China was signed April 8 1902, and, according to it, the evacuation of the three Manchurian provinces was to be carried out in three successive periods of six months from the signing of the convention. A note from M. Lessar was appended to the convention, declaring that "If the China Government, notwithstanding the assurance given it, violates any provision of the convention, the Russian Government will not hold itself bound either by the terms of the Manchurian agreement, or by the declarations previously made in connection with the matter, and will be compelled to repudiate any responsibility and consequences that might result therefrom."

China was to be permitted to maintain whatever force she thought necessary in Manchuria after the evacuation of that territory. Russia also agreed if Tientsin was restored to the Chinese within the first six months to evacuate Newchwang at the time this restoration was made. The Allies turned over Tientsin to the Chinese Aug. 15 last year. The convention was to have been ratified within three months but this was not done. Last month M. Lessar in his note to the Chinese Foreign Board promised to begin the evacuation of Manchuria, October 8 provided China accepted several new conditions, which China has refused to do, under pressure principally from Japan and Great Britain.

London, Oct. 10. — The Morning Post's correspondent at Chefoo, China telegraphs "Rumors are current here that Japan has sent an ultimatum to Russia on the subject of the evacuation of Manchuria, the ultimatum expiring two or three days hence."

Chefoo, October 10—The Russian fleet left Port Arthur Thursday with sealed orders. Its destination is supposed to be Corea. It is at present rumored that the Japanese are landing men there.

Russian Fleet Under Sealed Orders.

Che Foo, October 12. — The Russian fleet left Port Arthur Thursday with sealed orders. Its destination is supposed to be Corea. It is at present rumored that the Japanese are landing men there.

New York, October 11—The Herald to day has the following from London The Globe says. —"Even the most cheerful optimist must recognise, when piecing together the latest news from the far east, that the political situation there has become extremely grave. Instead of carrying out its solemn undertaking to begin the evacuation of Manchuria last Thursday, the St. Petersburg Government is making every effort to strengthen its grip on three provinces. While strong reinforcements are being hurried along the Siberian railway to supplement the Russian land forces in northern China, Admiral Alexieff, the newly appointed Viceroy, deems the moment opportune for a great naval demonstration off Port Arthur. This display of maritime fighting force is chiefly intended, it may be suspected, to frighten the Tokio Government into submission on the Corea question. Negotiations for an amicable arrangement, have, it appears, come to an abrupt halt, owing to M. Pavloff's refusal to withdraw from Yongampho and be content with the opening of Wiju, at the mouth of the Yalu Russia and Japan have thus come to close quarters, and unless one or the other gives way war appears to be inevitable."

London, October 12.—A despatch to the Morning Post from Chefoo says it is persistently rumored that Japan has sent an ultimatum to Russia in reference to the evacuation of Manchuria.

The Russians at Chefoo have armed themselves, fearing that trouble may be incited by the preponderating Japanese element there.

The correspondent believes that the situation is grave.

Tokio, October 12.— The Russo-Japanese negotiations are now proceeding at Tokio and the details are absolutely secret.

M. Pavloff, the Russian Minister to Corea, replying to Corea's proposals to open the port of Wiju close to Yungampho, has objected, on the ground of the entire absence of trade prospects at Wiju, compared with Pyongyang, and also that the unsettled state of Manchuria has rendered the opening of Wiju dangerous.

RUSSIA'S PREPARATIONS.

Vienna, October 12.—Information from two excellent sources confirms the extraordinary extent of Russian military preparations for the contingency of war with Japan. A well-informed personage lately at St. Petersburg, says the Russian military circles expect an outbreak of hostilities within the next few weeks. The whole transcaspian district, as far as Samarkland, is seriously crippled as regards railway material for the far east. The Russian military authorities of the Transcaspian are embittered in consequence of the manner in which their province is being neglected in favor of Manchuria.

RUSSIA IN POSSESION.

Pekin, October 12.—Russia remains in possession of New Chwang, and the customs revenue of which she has already appropriated £550,000. It seems borne's recognition in the House of to be generally admitted that Lord Cranbourne's of July 22, of Russia's special position in Manchuria rendered valuable encouragement to Russia at a critical time.

Scarlet Fever at Cornwall

Cornwall, Ont., October 12—The school on the west front, just above the town, has been closed for a week owing to the presence of scarlet fever. No new cases are reported, and it is expected that the disease will be entirely stamped out in a few days.

A Pair of Moose

Eganville, Ont., Oct. 10.—A pair of moose in Ross Township, and the most improved part of the township at that, is a circumstance which has not occurred in years till a few days ago, when a bull and a cow moose were seen by several farmers along the Queen's line and the side lines in that district. The first animal to be sighted was the cow, standing leisurely gazing about her in a field near the north end of Queen's line. She was frightened from here, and started south-eastward. The bull was also seen in the southern part of the township. The last seen of them was when they took to the woods at the lower end of the line.

NEW ERA OPENS FOR SPANISH KINGDOM

The New Premier Puts Country on Sound Financial Basis

NEW NAVY PLANS DROPPED

Lowers Gold Premium—Encourages Irrigation and Plans Alliance with France

Madrid, October 13. — When Silvela, finding the country opposed to his plans for the reconstruction of the Spanish navy, and disgusted at the numerous triumphs of the republicans at the recent general elections, thought fit to resign the premiership, the King went for Senor Villaverde, Minister of Finance, in the Silvela Cabinet. The appointment of Villaverdo to the premiership caused much excitement throughout the country, as this is the first time for thirty years that a Ministry has been presided over by the acknowledged leader of the party it represents. Villaverde is an authority on finance, and holds pronounced opinions regarding political economy.

CONSERVATIVES BACK HIM.

Silvela himself was pleased with Villaverde's appointment and assured him that he would support him in his policy. The new Minister is thus backed by the Parliamentary majority of the Conservatives and his plans for financing the country meet the approval of the public. The Cabinet has wisely decided to drop the ill-advised plan for re-building the navy and will proceed to reform the Navy Department and to improve the Government dockyards. There will also be purchased or built abroad five training ships for the purpose of teaching officers and seamen the intricacies of their calling.

ARMY AND IRRIGATION PLANS.

Meanwhile the Government has decided to raise the necessary means for putting the army on an efficient basis. The Ministry also intends to spend considerable sums on the construction and enlargement of various important harbors.

Agriculture is also occupying its attention, and a large sum is destined to be spent in building eighteen reservoirs in different parts of the country for irrigation purposes. Besides this, the Cabinet has materially reduced expenditures in the various ministerial departments. In short, so excellent is the economy practiced everywhere that the budget will show a surplus of 50,000,000 pesetas ($9,650,000).

REGULATES PRICE OF GOLD.

In order to lower the premium on gold, which at present fluctuates between 27 and 35 per cent., the Government proposes to arrange a loan of 94,000,000 pesetas ($18,142,000), on the security of the quick-silver mines of Almaden. With this money at its command the Government will create an exchange office and will regulate the price of gold in all Spanish markets, thereby benefiting the state as well as private individuals.

Another sum of 70,000,000 pesetas ($135,100,000) guaranteed with the income of the custom houses will be borrowed to pay the Bank of Spain 660,000,000 pesetas ($122,170,000), the balance still owed by the treasury of the many thousand million pesetas advanced by the bank for the expense of the Cuban and Philippine wars.

These excellent measures introduced by the Villaverde ministry are likely to give the Conservatives a long lease of power and to add still further to the disorganization of the Liberals. Since the death of Sagasta the Liberal party has been able neither to find a leader nor fix a policy.

LOOKS FOR FRENCH ALLIANCE.

Lately there have been persistent rumors of an alliance between France and Spain. Color has been lent to these reports by the frequent conferences between the Premier, the Ambassador of France in Spain and Spain's Ambassador in France. However, it is certain that these deliberations have been for the purpose of negotiating a commercial treaty between France and Spain. When that treaty has been signed it is likely that France and Spain will proceed to negotiate an alliance. When King Alfonso visits President Loubet in Paris next spring it is believed the basis of this second treaty will be settled.

A LARGE INDUSTRY

Canadian Westinghouse Company is Organized with Capital of $2,500,000

Hamilton, Ont., October 11.—The organization meeting of the Canadian Westinghouse Company, Limited, took place here today.

The company is incorporated under the Companies Act of Canada, with a capital of $2,500,000.

The works are situated in this city, and will embrace the manufacture of Westinghouse electrical apparatus and Westinghouse air brakes. The works will be the largest and most modern in Canada, and will have all the advantages of affiliation with the largest Westinghouse industries of the United States. These comprise the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, the Westinghouse Air Brake Company, the Westinghouse Machine Company, the Union Switch and Signal Company, Sawyer-Man Lamp Company, Nernst Lamp Company, and the Engineering firm of Westinghouse, Church, Kerr & Company.

The meeting today arranged to take over the Westinghouse Air Brake Company.

The legal formalities of the company were in the charge of Mr. R. D. McGibbon, K.C., of Montreal, who was in attendance at the meeting.

BABY BORN WITH TEETH

Dentist Extracts Double Set from Infant a Week Old

Kokomo Ind., Oct 12.—Dr. Cook, a local dentist extracted a double set of fully matured teeth today from the week-old baby of Charles and Mrs. Fuller. The teeth were fully developed at birth. The teeth cut and mangled the infant's tongue, making extraction imperative. The baby will recover from the operation.

KILLED HIS CHILD

Father Shot His Daughter who Died in his Arms

Victoria, B.C., October 12.—A terrible accident occurred at Cumberland yesterday. Ex-Mayor Carthew went hunting for grouse, accompanied by his son and an 8-year-old daughter. He was about to fire and turned towards the boy when the gun was discharged, striking his daughter full in the face and breast. She died in his arms before he could reach home. The family is very widely known and respected. Mr. Carthew is almost demented over the occurrence.

HEIRESS WEDS KIN OF KINGS

Bridegroom Related to Servian Royalty, is Only a Gripman

San Francisco, Cal., October 12.—Miss Harry A. L. Floyd, sole heiress to a $100,000 estate, secretly became the bride of B. M. Gogchevitch, a gripman on the Sacramento street cable line, who claims to be a Servian nobleman, yesterday. Miss Floyd was the daughter of the late Captain Richard S. Floyd, a retired naval officer, and was introduced to the Servian several years ago.

The bridegroom is a member of the royal house of Obrenovitch. The murdered King Alexander was a member of this house.

Making a Holy War

Cairo, Oct. 10—Col. Mahon, the reliever of Mafeking, has just nipped in the bud an attempt at making a holy war on the part of some fanatics.

A member of the Senussi sect had crossed from the Sahara into the Soudan, where he proclaimed himself the Mahdi, and gathered around him a respectable horde. Col. Mahon set out from Khartoum with 1,500 cavalry, and coming on the fanatics, scattered them and took many of the leaders prisoners.

Sensational Story from Calgary, Murders Rancher

Calgary, Oct. 12—A murder trial more interesting than any that has ever been before a judge and jury in the North-West Territories, and one of the most interesting which has ever been tried in Canada, will be begun in Calgary to-morrow. It is the trial of a young man, not yet of age, clever, active, and shrewd, one of the large class of American invaders, as they are called in the West, for the murder of Isaac Rufus Belt, a rancher and farmer of the Red Deer district, who had been in this district but a couple of years. The case is a mysterious one, the evidence entirely circumstantial, the detective work excellent, and all the details interesting.

In September, 1903, Ernest Cashel, a young man living with his parents near Ponoka, a town about 120 miles north of here, came to the city for a day's outing. He spent the day in Calgary and before he returned found that his money had run short, and that he had not had half the good time expected. He therefore forged a check, presented it to a local merchant who cashed it. The young man took the money spent it, and went back to Ponoka.

Escaped from Custody.

When the crime had been discovered, the guilt was soon placed at this man's door, and Chief English, of Calgary, went north and arrested Cashel at his own home. When the journey to Calgary had been half completed, and the train was at full speed, Cashel, without coat or vest, ran across the train and jumped head first, and escaped.

For the next five months Cashel was a fugitive from justice. In that time, according to his own statement, he was a bandit, a desperado, a highwayman. When he escaped from Chief English, he immediately struck north. At one o'clock on the following morning he knocked at the door of a rancher named Amasa Driggs. During the day he must have made over 40 miles. He told Driggs he was lost, and just about perished, as the night was bitterly cold, and he was without coat and vest. On the following morning he borrowed a horse, saddle, bridle, a coat and vest and departed. He never came back with any of the things.

At Rufus Belt's Home.

He was next seen on October 21, which would be the following day, heading for the lonely home of Rufus Belt. Harry Thomas, a nephew of Belt's, living a few miles away, visited his uncle on the following Sunday. Cashel was there. He called himself Ellsworth. He was living with Belt. During Thomas' visit, Belt showed his nephew a $50 bill which he had in his possession. Cashel told Thomas that the gun which he carried was a 44 calibre revolver. Belt was never seen alive again by any person except Cashel.

Belt Missing.

On the Sunday following, young Thomas came again to visit his uncle. He noticed as he was about to enter the shack that, there were no footprints in the snow that had fallen a couple of days previous. On entering the shack no person was to be seen.

The Crown maintain that at that moment Belt's dead body was at the bottom of the Red Deer river; that he had been the victim of a bullet directed by Ernest Cashel.

In the meantime, Cashel was in flight. He had previously sold the horse which he had stolen from Driggs. He rode south a buckskin pony, which men now swear belonged to Rufus Belt.

Arrest of Cashel.

He finally left for the West. At Kananaskis, a point on the C. P. R. about 70 miles west of Calgary, he stole a diamond ring from a C. P. R. section foreman. He hurriedly passed on West. At Anthracite, a point about 20 miles further on, he went into a hotel and attempted to sell the stolen ring. He was arrested and brought back to Calgary. He was tried on two charges of stealing—a horse and a ring. He pleaded guilty to both charges and was sentenced to two years imprisonment in the Stoney Mountain Penitentiary.

In the meantime, no trace was to be found of Belt. The police offered rewards for the discovery of the man, dead or alive. They searched the district from end to end. But late last June a rancher named Watson, while herding cattle, saw a dead body in a stream, a branch of the Red Deer River. He gave the alarm, and after the ordinary preliminaries a coroner's inquest was held. The body was in a very bad state of decomposition and the features quite past recognition. On a more careful examination, a bullet dropped out of the body. The Crown and the police believe that the body was that of Rufus Belt.

REORGANIZATION PLANS

Proposed to Change Name of Consolidated Lake Superior Co

New York, October 12.—The details of the reorganization plans for the Consolidated Lake Superior Company proposed by the Philadelphia stockholders' committee, and dependent upon the completion of some arrangement with the Speyer syndicate whereby the sale of properties may be obviated, were made public yesterday. The plan will place the company under the new name of the Lake Superior Corporation and provides for the issue of $40,000,000 new stock and the issue of $10,000,000 bonds, of which $2,857,000 will be retained in the treasury. The stock division is as follows:

Fourteen million dollars exchangeable for $27,000,000 preferred of the present company with 2 dollar assessments; $8,000,000 exchangeable for $72,000,000 common of the present company with three dollar assessments; $5,857,000 to go as bonus to the underwriting syndicate and $2,143,000 being 30 per cent. of the amount of bonds issued, a bonus accompanying those securities. It is proposed that the underwriting syndicate in which stockholders are invited to participate is to pay $3,000,000 for stock in the new company, and $5,000,000 for 7,143,000 bonds at seventy. After the underwriting is completed the bonds will be offered to stockholders on the same terms.

ONCE MORE ELIXIR OF LIFE

Indiana Doctor Still Holds that He Has Invented It

Anderson, Ind., October 12.—Dr. Charles W. Littlefield still insists that life can be restored in a dead organism and that it can be prolonged by the use of an elixir that a man can carry in a vial in his vest pocket.

The doctor has been challenged by many doctors and scientists. So positive is he of the merits of his discovery in restoring or prolonging life that he is going to demonstrate it further, he said today, by bottling up his elixir of life and offering it to any who may desire to test it. Disease of any kind, he says, is simply a loss of vitality in certain functions or tissues and the restoration to their normal state of the affected organs or tissues is all that is necessary to eradicate disease. So when he finds disease he concludes a loss of vitality is existing and by the use of his compound he goes after vitality.

Common salt, pure water, 9 per cent. alcohol and aqua ammonia are the chemicals that enter into the compound which Dr. Littlefield asserts generates germs of life or trilobites, and by the use of the powder from this compound, he asserts, has restored life to persons declared dead from drowning and from chloroform narcosis. He is now bottling up his liquid to prove on various persons and conditions of life that his compound will do as he declares it will.

"No, I do not intend to apply for a patent on my fluid discovery," said Dr. Littlefield, "for I have permitted it to be known to the world, and although it is a simple compound I do not believe that I shall lose by not having my compound patented, although it would be eligible. My desire is to have it tried by all classes of people."

Hunting Season

The Grand Trunk Railway have issued a very handsome and illustrated pamphlet, entitled, "Haunts of Fish and Game," giving information regarding season for shooting Deer, Moose, Reindeer, Caribou, etc., in the 'Highlands of Ontario,' and at other points along the line of the Grand Trunk. Copies of same will be furnished on application at Grand Trunk ticket offices or to J. D. McDonald, District Passenger Agent, Toronto.

Weather Notes

Tuesday—No change.

TURKISH-BULGARIAN RELATIONS AGAIN STRAINED

Bulgaria will Not be Allowed to Settle Her Difficulties with Turkey Either by War or Peace

Sofia, Oct. 11—A less hopeful view now prevails regarding the results of Natchovitch's mission to Constantinople, which does not appear likely to achieve more than the grant of some paper concessions, which may help the Government through the elections, and even these seem most problematical. In view of the probable opposition of the Austrian and Russian Embassies, Bulgaria, it is almost certain, will not be allowed to settle her differences with Turkey either by war or peace. If she dares to fight on behalf of her oppressed kindred she will be exposed, in the words of the Austro-Russian warning, to the "cruelest disasters." If she is able to conclude a pacific arrangement, in which is recognized Turkey's suzerainty over Macedonia, it will be annulled. Natchovitch has always been persona non grata to Russia, and even an apparent success of his mission might lead to unpleasantness.

Leopold and Francis Joseph.

Vienna, Oct. 11.—The King of the Belgians' visit to Emperor Francis Joseph on Saturday next will outwardly denote the re-establishment of normal relations between Vienna and Brussels. It is not expected that family questions will be arranged. The Countess Lonyay will not return to Vienna for the occasion, nor has any meeting between father and daughter been planned. King Leopold's visit will be devoted principally, perhaps exclusively, to the British indictment of Congo State methods.

Anarchy in Morocco.

Tangier, Oct. 11—n escort of native mounted soldiers, which accompanied a party of Europeans from Fez, was attacked when returning, forty miles from Tangier, and robbed of everything, two of them being wounded. Five Moorish soldiers were murdered last week by tribesmen between Tetuan and Tnagier. The fighting between the Gharb and the Beni Hassan tribes has completely devasted the whole of the former's district.

Parnell Procession a Fiasco.

Dublin, Oct. 11— The annual procession today to Glasnevin Cemetery, in memory of the death of Parnell, was a most dismal fiasco, consisting of two or three bands, three or four dozen "National Foresters," and less than one hundred little boys and girls. There were no members of Parliament nor of the Dublin Corporation present. Apparently the memory of Parnell has ceased to be honored by the Dublin Nationalists.

Japan Secures Concessions.

Tokio, Oct. 11—It is generally asserted that Japan has obtained the concession for the Seoul to Kaisang section of the Seoul to Wiju Railway, also for the Masampho branch.

Chinese View of Trade Treaties.

Shanghai, Oct. 10— The local press displays little interest in the United States and Japanese treaties with China. The native merchants, who were hopeful when the British treaty negotiations began, do not expect any practical benefits from the divided efforts of the foreign powers to effect radical reform in the inland taxation of trade. As regards the opening of places of trade in Manchuria, the generally expressed opinion in native circles is that so long as the Russian occupation is maintained the word 'opening' is meaningless, and it is unlikely that Chinese or American trade will derive any substantial advantages from this diplomatic victory, an opinion which the recent history of the treaty port of Newchwang fully justifies.

THE AMERICANS HAVE SWELLING CHESTS.

Are Very Confident of Favorable Verdict by Alaska Boundary Commission, Held a Secret Session

London, Oct. 12—The last stage of the Alaska boundary arbitration began this morning at the Foreign Office, when the commissioners met in secret session to consider their verdict. United States Senator Lodge and Prof. Sir Louis Jette, one of the Canadian commissioners, were early on hand, and War Secretary Root and Senator Turner followed them into the Cabinet room, where the deliberations are being held. Then there was a long delay, with some forebodings, as Canada, had not appeared. Finally Chief Commissioner Aylesworth, of Toronto, Justice Alverstone asked one of the secretaries to telephone to Commissioner Aylesworth's hotel. The tension was relieved by the receipt of the news that the Canadian commissioner had just returned from the country and was starting for the Foreign Office. Mr. Aylesworth arrived at 11.40 a.m. and the secret session commenced. No decision is expected today.

The commissioners will sit daily from 11 a.m. until 1.30 p.m., when they will adjourn for luncheon, and will resume their deliberations at 2 p.m. adjourning for the day at 4 p.m., until a decision is reached.

While nothing can be known definitely, a very hopeful feeling prevails in American circles. A significant reflex of this appears in to-day's Times. Dealing with the difficulties encountered in the selection of a new British Ambassador to Canada and the United States if the Alaska tribunal broke up with a disagreement, the Times says:

"We rejoice to say that there is believed to be something more than a possibility; or, rather, that the seven questions may be so answered as to end the matter."

JAPANS IMPERIAL POLICY IN EAST

She is Determined To Keep Russia Out if Possible

London, Oct. 12.—The importance of the crisis in the Far East, with the navies of Russia and Japan facing each other before Korea, arises from the fact that Japan is madly ambitious to rule the eastern seas. This aim for the past dozen years she has not lost sight of for a moment, but has bent every circumstance toward it. She had an alliance with England because England shows her the strongest example of what a naval power can be, and because their interests are in common. There is very little sentiment in it. The time will come when Japan and China will, between them, dominate the East. It will take a long time for Japan to educate her ponderous neighbor to the realization of his own strength, but it is the task she has to set about, and the lines of that education will be anti-Russian. For the time being, and while the new order of things are in preparation, it is the wiser part of England to be a sleeping partner. She will remain in that character so long as there is no serious turn of events. But a great war would inevitably lead to her influence being used for one side or the other. Japan has had to choose one or two positions, either a China largely absorbed and dominated by Russia, or a modern China which will be at odds with Russia. She has chosen the latter. And the time has come for her to act. The question at issue in Manchuria gives an opportunity which may not occur again very soon. She has as her ally the nation most calculated to thwart Russia and oppose Chinese dismemberment, and on which she can most trustingly rely in the part she means to play. Even the moral support of England is a factor which vastly strengthens her hands. What if in educating China, Japan should raise a dangerous enemy against herself? In that case the present happy understanding with England would be indefinitely prolonged. Her safety would then consist in doing as England has always done, and as European powers always do, playing one nation off against another. Japan's great naval programme, of which previous mention has been made here, has its basis in three propositions—(1) to secure her own independence, (2) to protect her commerce, and (3) to enable her with China, if need be, to manage Far Eastern affairs without Western interference. That is the imperial policy of our friends the Japs. That is why she is at present on the qui vive to prevent Russia from maintaining her foothold in Manchuria, or of extending it to the Korean peninsula. Should Russia get possession of that kingdom, or presume upon its having for ages acknowledged the suzerainty of China to establish her influence there, Japan foresees that her ambition as a predominating power in the Eastern seas would vanish forever. Russia would proceed to create on the southern coast another Sebastopol commanding the narrow strait which separates Korea from Japan, and there would be an end of the Japanese dream of Empire. That, we take it, is the meaning to a large extent of the present navies fronting each other. The Bear may retire to bide his time, but the fiery-tempered Jap feels ready to put his fortune to the test, to lose or win, and a spark may set the blaze.

Rich Gold Strike

Silver City, N. M., Oct. 11 —There is a great deal of excitement in Silver City and the surrounding country over a phenomenal gold strike at Gold Gulch, ten miles north-east of here. The ore is of a peculiar quality and has not yet been classified, although some experienced miners maintain it is telluride. Assays as high as $6,000 per ton are reported.

HAVE YOU CHRONIC AILMENT?

In the course of his practice as specialist in the treatment of chronic ailments, Dr. Goldberg has evolved a system of his own, which is a positive cure. His method differs widely from the old fashioned system as taught in colleges, and yet is along the strictest scientific principles, with this exception, that where the old methods took months and sometimes years to bring about a cure, his latest method does it in a few weeks and cures are thorough, permanent and reliable. The curing of chronic diseases has been his specialty for years.

He will cure you quicker than any other specialist in the world. There are thousands in this broad land today who are healthy and happy, who once suffered as you perhaps now suffer, and who owe their present well-being to Dr. Goldberg's Latest Method Treatment. If you are sick it is only natural for you to want to be well. Before you decide definitely on the doctor to intrust your case call or write to Dr. Goldberg and find out all about his Latest Method of curing chronic diseases without pain and permanently. It will cost you nothing to learn the particulars and it will in no way put you under obligations to him.

Recognized as the oldest established and most reliable specialist.

If it is inconvenient for you to call in person write the doctor and he will explain his method to you just the same, free. Do not delay; promptness is certainty.

Each Time You Call You See Dr. Goldberg Personally

or each time you write it receives his personal attention, and remember he is the only specialist who allows the patient to pay when cured. You need pay nothing until a complete cure has been made.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 13 1903

MILITIA REFORM

Profiting by the lessons of the Boer War, Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Militia, has set about a plan for making our citizen soldiery more useful. Canada, we hope, will never become a "military" nation, in the professional sense of the word. But it is well that we should maintain an efficient force of volunteer militia, and that it should be so organized and trained as to be instantly available in case of need, and to form the nucleus of what could speedily be made a great defensive army of patriotic citizens. Sir Frederick's plan contemplates an increase of the force to 44,000 men; the augmentation of the stock of modern rifles to 100,000; the better equipment of the artillery arm of the service; the increase of mounted corps, and a great central training camp. It is also proposed to train in the use of the rifle a reserve of 60,000, and generally to make the militia more efficient for real field duty, should such unfortunately be set before them.

The move is in the right direction. We spend a large sum on the militia, and in the past too much of the money has been for show rather than for use. A reform that will bring the force up to modern standards will be welcomed. The proposed increase in numbers may furnish an opportunity to permit our 57th to be enlarged to a full regiment. Col. Miller will do well to move early to take advantage of the situation.

EDISON'S LATEST

Mr. Thomas A. Edison has just consented to thrill the public once more by announcing the perfection of an invention which will not only put the horse out of business, but which will bring the gas companies down with a sickening crash. In an interview with a representative of the Philadelphia North American the Wizard of Menlo Park declared the other day that he had just perfected an electrical generator which derives its power from a "fuel" of marvelous potency and which will make it possible for the day laborer, as well as the multimillionaire, to light his home with electricity and have an automobile. For a few cents a day light and power may be produced in sufficient quantities to supply the needs of any family, and the generator is so simple, according to the inventor, that any person of ordinary intelligence can act as engineer. Referring to his invention, Mr. Edison said ;

You can wire your house for electric bells, telephones from room to room, or for anything that electricity will do, and the battery in your automobile will operate them. The cost? It is so trifling after you are provided with your plant that it is not worth mentioning. We will use the word fuel for want of a better term just at present, to apply to the means by which it is operated. The fuel used in this machine is one that has never been used for fuel under these conditions.

We can assure Mr. Edison that if his invention will, as he says elsewhere in his interview, solve the storage battery question, provide a reliable power for vehicles without being cumbersome or weighty and at the same time enable the owner of a [illegible] generator—he says the cost will be materially reduced as much as proper facilities for manufacturing the generators can be had—to quit paying gas bills, he will have little trouble in getting himself accepted as the greatest public benefactor of the age.

But Mr. Edison has unfortunately done a good deal of talking lately without producing the goods.

CANADA'S TURN NOW

The Americans are becoming alarmed at Canada's prosperity and the effect it is having upon some branches of traffic in the United States. Buffalo is especially perturbed at the loss of her grain trade, which for some years has been rapidly declining. Only a few years ago Buffalo's wharves teemed with a bustling crowd of men engaged in loading and unloading the grain which poured in from the Canadian and American West.

But now a change has come. The enlargement and deepening of Canada's waterways has turned the stream of grain export into its natural channel and Buffalo is inconsolable.

The Buffalo Times, in referring to this matter says ; "Every bushel of grain that goes through the canals of Canada means a loss to Buffalo in more ways than one, but the chief loss is that it takes away employment from Buffalo workingmen."

That loss, as the Hamilton Times points out, will be greater in the future. Canada has no antipathy to Buffalo. At one time Buffalo was a great live stock and barley market for Canadian farmers, but our neighbors, rather than have us share in the profits of such a trade, cut it off by a tariff wall, built avowedly for the purpose. Canada for years refused to believe that her neighbor had deliberately adopted a policy of non-intercourse, but it was at last driven upon her by sneers, insults and jeers—by threats of destroying her nationality—that the door was shut upon her trade. Then Canada began to plan a trade and traffic without regard to Buffalo. It cost money, but she had it. Buffalo. It cost money, but she had it. But only the beginning. In the years to come Canada's grain traffic and live stock traffic will grow, as Buffalo's decline. Our neighbors sang a jolly, if somewhat insulting, song for many years as they pointed the finger of scorn at Canada's efforts. They never missed the grain till the elevators began to run empty, and then they opened their eyes in wonder as they gazed at our loaded trains and fleets of vessels carrying the product through Canada to the seaboard. They woke too late, the harm is done. In the abandoned and sunken canal boats at Black Rock they have Canada's answer to the insulting words with which for many years they repelled Canadian efforts to secure fair trade arrangements.

Attacked by Turks

Kostendil, Bulgaria, Oct. 9—A battalion of Turkish troops occupying a post at Karamaniaza yesterday crossed the Bulgarian frontier and attacked a Bulgarian blockhouse. In consequence of the Turkish superiority in numbers the Bulgarian detachment retired, firing on the invaders.

The Turks subsequently attacked the village of Guvenpvo, and looted a number of houses, but, on the approach of Bulgarian reinforcements retired. Three Turks were killed.

A Curse, Not a Blessing.

There is something in the saying of a medical journal that if a certain treatment for consumption had turned out to be the magic cure that was anticipated, it would have proved a curse to the race. The explanation is that the causes of the disease are known and preventable, and that to dodge the penalty and permit the causes still to operate would be to do a degrading thing, one certain to result in the deterioration of character. The moral way to abolish infectious diseases is to remove disease-breeding conditions, and that is also generally the speediest and safest method.

Plants that Produce Insanity.

The Department of Agriculture at Washington is at present investigating the curious behavior of certain plants growing on the Western prairies which are known as loco weeds. "Loco" in Spanish signifies crazy. Cattle and other animals feeding upon loco-weeds suffer a derangement of the brain that prevents co-ordinating movements. Several weeds belonging to the bean family are included in this poisonous category. It has been asserted that a single dose of some of these weeds will cause insanity; but Mr. V. K. Chesnut of the Department of Agriculture expresses the belief that several days of feeding are required to produce a bad effect.

TO THE ARCTIC CIRCLE

An American Orator Describes Peaceful Invasion of Canada

Chicago, Oct. 10—Chicago Day was celebrated last night with banquets by the Marquette and Lakeside Clubs, at which prominent members from various parts of the country were present. At the Marquette Club, amongst the principal speakers was Governor Van Sandt, of Minnesota, who spoke, in part, as follows, his topic being "The Great Northwest." "Thousands of American farmers are making homes in Canada, filled with love for our republican form of government. Conversely, multitudes of Canadians are achieving comfort and affluence in the border States. The interchange of commodities correspondingly multiplies. Canadians and Americans are every day becoming more intimate in manifold ways. Every national policy and every public and private act should have appropriate regard for the increase of the most cordial friendliness of relations and mutual good-will between the United States and the Dominion. Who knows but the inauguration of so wise a policy, together with the peaceful invasion of Canada by the American farmer, may not bring about a consummation devoutly to be wished, with universal amity and the Stars and Stripes floating over all lands from the Gulf of Mexico to the Arctic Circle?"

ANECDOTAL.

A Canadian university man was touring in Scotland last summer. One Sunday morning he put his little hammer in his pocket (for he is an amateur geologist), and, strolling out upon the hills he began to chip off such specimens of rock as interested him. A native happened along as the man was thus engaged. The native looked on with a frown for a moment. Then he said: "Sir, do ye ken yer breakin' more than stones there?" "Breakin' the Sabbath, eh?" said the young Canadian with a laugh, and, to appease the Scot, he put away the hammer and walked onward a little way with him. A turn of the road revealed the ruins of a castle. "What castle is that?" said the stranger. The Scot frowned. "It's noo' the day," he said, severely, "to be speirin' sic things."

At a certain London church the collection used to be made in nicely embroidered bags, but so many old buttons and stale pieces of chocolate being put in, it was decided to try "plates" instead. The first Sunday the usual number of coppers and three-penny pieces were put in, but among them a bright yellow shining piece was observable. On Monday morning there were more callers than usual at the vestry, some of them with the same application. After a short interval another came with the same, "Oh, I am so sorry, but I put a sovereign into the plate yesterday by mistake. Could I have it, as I really cannot afford it?" "What?" said the vicar; "you are the fifth that has been to see me this morning with the same application, but the church warden has just told me that the supposed sovereign is only a gilded shilling!"

Gregarious Reading of Poetry.

Andrew Lang has lately been taking a fall out of the Browning and other poet societies, as did Stedman long ago. In an article on "Poet and Public," in the London "Morning Post," the genial Scotsman writes:

It may also be noted that many people who certainly read poetry seem to feel timid, lonely and deserted, so that they flock together into little mobs for mutual protection, Wordsworth societies, Browning societies, reading societies of all kinds. Now, I would as lief fish at Loch Leven in a fishing competition—men in boats shouting to each other and breaking the silence round Queen Mary's island prison, whiskey going, every kind of gregarious horror—as read poetry in a society. It is in solitude, "in a nook with a book," that poetry is to be tasted. But we hear of a society for reading Mr. Meredith among the Northumbrian miners—one might as well read Euclid in a society. These studies demand lonely application. A dozen decent bodies met to dig the meaning out of "In Memoriam" is a spectacle comic and mournful, and one that would have consternated the poet. It takes a dozen men and women to understand him—and then they don't.

OSHAWA'S POPULATION

Growing Well and Would be Larger if There Were Houses

Oshawa, Oct. 10—The Reformer says: The census of the town, just completed by Mr. Mackie, the assessor, shows a gain for the past year of something more than 5 per cent. in our population. This is so far satisfactory but it is apparent to us all that but for a lack of dwellings in which to house the families of numbers of men presently employed in our various industries, a much larger gain would have been recorded. During the year quite a number of fine residences have been erected, but there is an urgent need for at least 100 additional houses which could be available at a rental of $7 to $12 per month.

May Disband Troops

Sofia, Oct. 10—It has been decided to disband the tenth class reserves, about 20,000, but no further demobilization will take place till it is seen if Turkey fulfills her agreement to disband 40,000 of her reserves.

UNDER HORSES FEET

Peculiar Runaway Accident in which Several Ladies are Involved

Chatham, Oct. 10—A peculiar runaway accident occurred up the river in Harwich. A couple of Hebrews were buying poultry at John Reade's, River road, Harwich. Their team became frightened and ran away. The kingbolt broke, and the horses, freed from the wagon, ran down the road. Mrs. McKerracher and niece, of this city, were driving to Thamesville. The horses overtook them, and rushed one on either side of the buggy, the result being that the buggy was smashed, and the two women fell among the horses' feet. Mrs. McKerracher had two ribs broken, but the niece escaped without injury. The buggy belonged to Alex Jamieson, this city. It was a complete wreck.

Glut of Apples

London, Oct. 10—Government Commercial Agent Ball advises that Canadian apple shippers be careful at present not to send too large quantities as there is a glut at present, but he predicts that matters will come right gradually. He says that shippers will make better prices if they send small quantities and weekly to interior towns, instead of all through Liverpool, London and Bristol.

BRAIN POWER

HOW IT MAY BE STRENGTHENED AND INCREASED

The brain is a great nerve battery that presides over all the powers and impulses of the human body.

Very frequently as a result of poor blood, it becomes enfeebled, and a general weakness of the entire system follows.

No remedy possesses the marvelous brain strengthening power that Ferrozone has demonstrated in thousands of cases.

It contains an abundance of phosphates and iron which are essential in the formation of red, vitalizing blood, and in this way supplies the brain with extra power to perform its numerous and important duties.

Ferrozone is the best preparation for brain workers, and those inclined to a sedentary life. It improves the appetite, insures good digestion, regulates the bowels, and helps the stomach to do its work.

Lawyers, ministers, and those whose occupation entails much thinking and brain labor, will find Ferrozone of immense value, because of its power to stimulate mental activity. Students who take Ferrozone regularly, find it not only clears the brain and makes it more receptive, but makes them strong in body as well as mind.

A medical student of Toronto University, who has proved the good qualities of Ferrozone says: "On my study table there is always a place for Ferrozone. I find by keeping my digestion in perfect order, and maintaining a splendid appetite, it enables me to accomplish a great deal of hard work. I consider Ferrozone at the same time food for the brain, the blood and the nerves and can highly recommend it."

Very few are so strong and healthy that a course of Ferrozone would not benefit. It is good for the young and old alike, and is prepared in convenient tablet form, price per box 50cts., sold by all druggists and N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Dry Placer Miner, formerly of California.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 300 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure this gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine — Its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a jack or more of sand, either ordinary house or sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to-day.

A limited amount of the Stock is now offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

THE ROSE OR THE RING

His chest was in a continuous state of irritation and his voice so hoarse that he could hardly make his words distinct.

"You shall see something presently," Rosy said, when tea was cleared away, and he was reclining languidly in his chair. "I won't keep you waiting long."

She pushed the table up in a corner and then hurried out of the room, singing as she went.

Mrs. Dellington went to the piano and played the tune the child was singing.

Guessing what was to come she turned up the lamp, and lighted the four wax candles on the mantelshelf.

"Rosy grows prettier every day," Mr. Dellington said, speaking while his wife played softly, bringing forth strains of sweetness from the dull old instrument. "She will be a lovely woman."

"I shall be jealous of her then," Mrs. Dellington answered. "You are so fond of her, Ned."

"She is like our own child. I wish—"

"What, dear?" his wife questioned, as he broke off, with a sigh.

"I wish you and Rosy could be together always. It would be sad for you, or for her, ever to be alone."

Mrs. Dellington felt a tightening at her heart.

The next moment she had crushed back the half-formed fear.

There was a jingling of bells outside the door; a merry laugh, and Rosy bounded into the room—almost taking Mr. Dellington's breath away with her beauty.

She had taken off her dark serge frock, and had dressed herself up in whatever bit of finery she had come across.

Her arms and shoulders were bare, and her long, fair hair waved back from her face in a glorious mass of natural curls.

"Behold the Fairy Queen!" she said, bowing low, with her beautiful arms outstretched; then, throwing back her head, she made a frame of her arms, and glided into a graceful dance.

There are forms made for dancing, and Rosalie's was one of them.

She was tall for her age, yet exquisitely proportioned, from the delicate arch of her little feet to the crown of her well-poised head.

Mrs. Dellington ceased playing, that she might watch the alluring movements of the beautiful dancer, and Rosy timed her steps to the silvery tune of her bells, now swaying like a willow wand, now leaping so lightly through the air that her feet scarcely seemed to touch the floor.

She was unconscious of any fatigue; she danced like one possessed, her eyes shining, her smiling lips parted over her pearly teeth, her white arms arched above her head, her hair floating behind her in a golden cloud.

"Rosalie—stop!" he exclaimed. "Why do you dance like this?"

She looked up at him with the laughter still in her eyes and on her lips.

"Because I want to be a professional," she said. "Oh, it must be so lovely to be a real fairy-queen, with footlights and music, and glittering dresses! I should be so happy then, and people would crowd to look at me—"

She stopped, silenced by his tightened hold upon her.

"Rosalie, you must never dance again—do you hear, Rosalie?—you must never, never dance again!"

"Why not?" she asked, startled. "Didn't I do it well enough? I thought I was looking pretty all the while—that I was making you pleased."

"No," he said; "no, you must never dance again. Promise me, Rosalie. My mind will not be at peace until you have given me your word."

"Oh, but I love dancing!" she cried, clasping her hands against her breast, and looking pitifully into his eyes. "It will be so hard to give it up."

"There may be something still harder for you to give up, Rosalie. You do not understand—how should you, little one? You are too pretty, and you dance too well, that is all. Will you give me the promise, Rosalie?"

He was asking so much.

She gazed at him appealingly.

She knew this sacrifice was demanded of her in earnest—that she must give the promise he craved.

The color left her face, her head dropped, and she broke into a fit of passionate weeping.

"Not to dance!" she cried. "It will be like having the sight taken out of my eyes. Is there nothing else I can give up instead—nothing?"

"You will forget it in time," he said, unmoved by her grief. "Dry your eyes, dear. It is the only thing I have ever asked you for, Rosalie; it may be the last thing I shall ever ask you for."

"Very well," she sobbed, dashing the tears from her eyes, "I will do whatever you tell me; but it is very, very cruel."

He bent down and kissed her brow.

"Thank you, darling," he said, "I know your word will be sacred—that you will never need to be reminded of the promise you have made to-night."

He kissed her again; and Rosalie, ashamed and mortified, went upstairs to her own room and tore off the finery.

She cried bitterly, as she dressed herself once more in her dark serge frock and her pink cotton pinafore.

It did not occur to her that she could ever go from her word.

She had given the promise, and, not even to save her life, would she have broken it.

It was this knowledge that made her sorrow so intense.

She would not have gone downstairs again that night, if Mrs. Dellington had not called her.

Rosy gave her eyes a vigorous rub with her handkerchief, and, pushing her hair behind her shoulders, ran down in obedience to the call.

She found Mrs. Dellington alone.

"Mr. Dellington has gone to bed," she explained. "His cold seems so much worse that I have persuaded him to see a doctor."

"Can I do anything for him?" Rosy asked. "I did not know he was so ill."

The doctor, coming out of the bedroom just then, drew Mrs. Dellington aside.

"I fear your husband is in a very bad state," he said, speaking in an undertone. "He ought to have had medical advice sooner. However, I hope, with care, we shall be able to pull him through the attack."

When he returned he knew that nothing could save Mr. Dellington.

Two days from the night on which Rosalie had made that promise, he breathed his last.

Directly she realized the truth, the child abandoned herself to the wildest grief.

He had asked for her at the last, and she had put her arm around his neck, and, of her own accord, repeated the promise—

"I will not dance again. I will remember always what you told me, and never do anything you wished me not to."

He had smiled, and, with that smile, his life had passed away.

CHAPTER IV.

Three years, and half another, passed, without any great event taking place in Rosalie's life.

Mrs. Dellington had left her plenty of books, all more or less of an instructive character, and with these the girl had been able to continue her studies.

She had not forgotten the music she had been taught; she could play well enough to accompany herself at the piano, and she sang with a voice as sweet as that which had echoed from the house on the night Felix Errol came in search of his wife.

Women at Table.

I have recently amused myself by studying the way women eat their food in the various smart restaurants, writes "Rita" in a London paper. The facial expression and varied actions which enlivened the process quite reconciled me to the opinion of the poet who wished the woman he loved would always dine alone.

Some of the prettiest women look ugly while eating, as, per contra, some of the ugliest look quite charming. Now as all sensible (and a few silly) women desire to look charming on all occasions, it would be as well if they remembered that in public resorts they themselves attract quite as much notice as their gowns and jewels.

Yet there are women who lean their elbows on the table and talk across it to an opposite neighbor, taking sips of wine, or stuffing bread into their mouths at intervals. There are others who absolutely throw fragments of their dinner rolls into their mouth as if they were enjoying a game of cup and ball! There is the woman who does not eat her roll at all, but has an irritating knack of crumbling it up into a heap of fragments, making an untidy and most unpicturesque litter beside her plate. Possibly not one of the women thinks of the effect of her methods on an onlooker. Not one imagines she is an object offensive and offending against a standard of good manners.

There are various methods of taking soup, though the wise woman is the one who does not take it at all. It is a very bad foundation for a series of courses. And not only calculated to render digestion more difficult, but to afford quite unbecoming importance to a certain feature of the face.

I have seen delicate cheeks flush to rustic ruddiness; noses—Grecian, tiptilted, or otherwise admirable in shape and contour—absolutely swell and redden beneath the influence of consomme asperges or potage tortue. The difficulty of eating (or sipping) soup becomingly is drawback sufficient without the risk of unbecoming consequences. Some women take it in tiny sips, some gulp it; some ladle it into their mouths; some seem bent on "taking in" the spoon as well as its contents, others make the process audible. Some gurgle it down in conversational interludes, accompanied by the cup and ball trick I have already mentioned. But rarely have I seen one sip, drink or partake of it in a graceful manner.

The way women ply knife and fork is also an interesting study. I have seen them cut up what is on their plate into a little heap, lay down the knife, and proceed to convey the food to its natural receptacle by the fork! I have seen others throw in huge mouthfuls at a time and spoil the contour of the cheek, the expression of the mouth, and even the deliency of the throat by emulating the methods of the boa-constrictor.

There is likewise the "snapper" of food, the slow masticator, and the "bolter." The first opens her mouth as a sort of trap. It opens and shuts like a thing on springs. Hey, presto! The trick is done. The slow process is an annoying one to watch, though doubtless beneficial to the digestion of the exponent. Let her, however, rehearse the process before a looking-glass at home ere she treats the public to a facial pantomime.

The "bolter," in contradistinction to the other varieties, is an object of some terror as well as of absorbing interest. In goes the morsel, a gulp, and then another follows, and yet another. This specimen of food consumer is generally a great talker. Therefore "gobbling" and conversation run a close race. I wish her no worse thing than to behold herself as others behold her!

Given a pretty mouth and pretty teeth a woman might surely learn to eat prettily and daintily—at least in public—to regulate the speed with which she empties her plate, to take moderate mouthfuls, and, above all, to follow the old-time maxim of childhood, "never to speak with the mouth full." This, however, is a very common offence. Probably because women have all so much to say nowadays and so little time to say it!

The handling of knife and fork might be made an action of grace. But it rather resembles the seizure of some offending obstacle. They are taken up, used, and laid down with a business-like force and clatter from which all grace is absent. Following on the "laying down," comes that planting of elbows on the table, that loud chatter, and incessant laughter to which I have before alluded.

Joaquin Miller on "Race Suicide."

President Roosevelt in swaddling clothes, suspended by ribbons from the bill of a stork, furnishes the illustration for the cover of a new poem, in ten cantos by Joaquin Miller, entitled "As It Was in the Beginning." In the "prefatory postscript" the poet writes:

"When, like a sentinel on his watch-tower, the President, with his divine audacity and San Juan valor, voiced the real heart of the Americans against 'race suicide,' I hastened to do my part in my own way, ill or well, in holding up his hands on the firing line. . . . I venture this new book with confidence, not only because it is right, proper, clean, courageous, but now seems opportune. 'Let the galled jade wince!' I give no quarter and ask none, except pardon for errors incident to great haste. I cry aloud from my mountain top, as a seer, and say: The cherry-blossom bird of Nippon must be more with us, else another century and prolific Canada, like another Germany from the North, may descend upon us and take back train loads of tribute. We are coming to be too entirely Frenchified."

That the poem is truly Rooseveltian in its strenuousness may be gleaned from these stirring stanzas of canto IX.:

God's pity for the breasts that bear
A little babe, then banish it
To stranger hands, to alien care,
To live or die as chance sees fit.
Poor, helpless hands reached anywhere,
As God gave them to reach and reach,
With only helplessness in each!
Poor little hands, pushed here, pushed there,
And all night long for mother's breast.
Poor, restless hands that will not rest
And gather strength to reach out strong
To mother in the rosy morn!
Nay, nay, they gather scorn for scorn
And hate for hate the lorn night long—
Poor dying babe! to reach about
In blackness, as a thing cast out!

God's pity for the thing of lust
That bears a frail babe to be thrust
Forth from her arms to alien thrall,
As shutting out the light of day,
As shutting off God's very breath!
But thrice God's pity, let us pray,
For her who bears no babe at all,
But gayly leads up Fashion's Hall
And grinning leads the dance of death.
That sexless, steel-braced breast of bone
Is like to some assassin cell,
A whited sepulchre of stone,
A graveyard at the gates of hell,
A mart where motherhood is sold,
A house of murders manifold!

A few stanzas further on the poet says:

And oh, for prophet's tongue or pen
To scourge, not only, and accuse
The childless mother, but such men
As know their wives but to abuse!
Give me the brave, child-loving Jew,
The full-sexed Jew of either sex,
Who loves, brings forth and nothing recks
Of care or cost, as Christians do—
Dulled souls who will not hear or see
How Christ once raised his lowly head
And, as rebuking, gently said,
The while He took them tenderly,
"Let little children come to me." . . . .

Hear me this prophecy and heed
Except we cleanse us kirk and creed,
Except we wash us word and deed
The Jew shall rule us, reign the Jew.
And just because the Jew is true,
Is true to nature, true to truth;
Is clean, is chaste, as trustful Ruth
Who bore us David, Solomon—
The Babe, that far, first Christmas dawn.

The poem is dedicated to "The Mothers of Men."

A Sad Mistake.

"My dear," said the stork, emphatically, "I never was so embarrassed in my life as I was to-day. I made a fearful blunder, fearful."

"Indeed?" chirped the swallow, eagerly. "What was it, my dear?"

"Why, you know I am now filling my next year's engagement book," explained the stork, disconsolately, "and in making my round of calls I chanced into a suite of rooms in one of these monstrous apartment houses, as I think they are called. They were charming rooms, and the young woman I found there was no less charming. Of course, I knew she must be a bride right off, so I explained who I was and the purpose for which I'd called. She didn't blush nor seem at all confused or bashful, as so many of my clients do at first, and I was just congratulating myself on having secured a really sensible woman for my list, when she shook her head and said she really didn't have any use for my services.

"'Oh, but think, my dear,' I urged, for I wasn't going to let her slip if I could help it, 'how sweet and charming and lovely a dear little baby is.'

"'Yes, they are nice,' she replied, with what I thought was almost criminal indifference, 'but you must not bring one here. I positively cannot allow it.'

"'Oh, but you must have one at least,' I insisted, hoping that all she needed after all was a little persuasion. 'Don't you know how much more all your friends and relatives will think of you if you have one?'

"'I hardly believe they would enjoy it as much as you think; though I understand some of them have prophesied pretty much that,' she said, with a queer kind of smile.

"'And your husband, too,' I went on, like a fool. 'Where he loves you now he would worship and adore you then.'

"'But I haven't any,' she said, and actually laughed in my face.

"'What?' I almost shrieked, glancing curiously around the rooms.

"'Oh, yes,' she said, dryly, 'these are my rooms, but I am a bachelor maid.'

"My dear," concluded the stork, pathetically, "I blushed so hard I must have looked like a flamingo. And I do wish these modern girls wouldn't be so independent; I'm afraid now to call at any strange place for fear of repeating the blunder."—Town Topics."

It Made a Difference.

Lady of the House—Rosa, who is that Sergeant you had in here yesterday?

Servant—Ach! that was my sweetheart, but I shan't have anything more to do with him, because he is always making remarks about everybody. Only yesterday he said: "Rosa, your mistress is the handsomest lady I ever saw." What business has he to talk about you in that fashion?

Lady—Still, he seemed a very decent sort of man, and I do not see why you should jilt him.—"Pick-Me-Up."

AN EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY

FOR BOTH LARGE AND SMALL INVESTORS

Owing to valuable Patents having been granted this Company, we are desirous of extending our business to the Dominion of Canada. Owing to the Customs duties, the extra cost in transportation and the numerous expenses attached, and the delays in deliveries in shipping goods from one country to another, it is absolutely necessary that we should have a factory in the Dominion, that we may be in a position to meet the immediate wants of the business.

The articles that we make from our Patent Fabric are too numerous to mention, and it is not necessary that we go into the details of the merits of our goods, as they are already in use to a large extent and have no equal. Our goods are covered by several patents, and the profit on the goods is large, averaging from 25 to 100 per cent, thus affording the company large revenue to meet all its obligations

In order to secure funds to equip a plant in the Dominion of Canada we will offer to the people of Canada $100,000 of our Bonds paying ten per cent. interest per annum.

Experience has shown that stocks based upon sound industrial enterprises have never been equalled from the standpoint of legitimate profit. For instance, a few hundred dollars invested in the Bell Telephone Company's stock in the beginning of the enterprise now commands thousands of dollars, after having yielded large dividends annually. Of course opportunities for such profitable investments do not present themselves every day, and it is also very true that a vast amount of capital has been misdirected in the endeavor to exploit inventions and enterprises which shrewd and far seeing investors should have recognized as impractical. But as regards this enterprise even the most conservative must admit it has possibilities of development which are almost incalculable and which have already been demonstrated in a practical manner. We have no speculative elements—this is a sound business proposition, and the patents which we own are worth several million dollars, as there can only be one fabric of this kind and that is ours.

All the above facts are simple statements of the truth and can be fully substantiated to the satisfaction of all investors.

The business is no experiment, the incorporators of this Company have made it their business for a great many months past and understand all the details, the prospects are therefore bright, and brighter than those of many other opportunities.

This Company is not a promotors company, every dollar goes to enhance the value of the property and business and increase the capacity. There is nothing speculative in this proposition, the enterprises are undertaken for industrial purposes only to make profits by the operation and development of the business.

Considering that the enterprise is already upon an established basis with a certainty of profitable future expansion, we feel warranted in the assertion that this is an attractive proposition to investors whether large or small.

The price of these Bonds are one dollar each, and will be issued in any number wanted. With every purchaser of each five Bonds we will give as a bonus, one share of stock of the Company, the par value of which is five dollars per share, thus assuring interest on the investment, and with the stock which is bound to increase you will have for nothing. These Bonds will be issued for five years. Persons desiring to avail themselves of this opportunity want to send their remittance at once.

First Class Mining Proposition.

The Anaconda Gold Mining Co.

Home Office: 412 Merchants Loan and Trust Bldg.
135 Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

This is one of the best propositions ever placed before the Canadian investor. The Company owns 600 acres in the celebrated Black Hills District, South Dakota, comprising 22 claims. The tract is unquestionably on the great Homestake belt, being located directly between the wonderful Homestake mine and the Clover Leaf mine. Two shafts have already been sunk, the main one being down 154 feet, with capacity of going 1000 feet. The Company has also installed an Ingersoll-Sargeant air compressor and drills, 125 horse power boiler, steam pumps, and in fact everything needed for actual operation, with the exception of its stamp mills; which will be installed at once. The vein of gold-bearing quartz traversing the Company's property is very rich. Assays have run from $8 to $54.80 per ton.

The Company has a capital of 1,500,000 shares, divided into 750,000 preferred and 750,000 common, par value $1 per share, fully paid up and non-assessable. The treasury stock has been made preferred stock to the amount of 25 cents a share. Out of the first dividends 25 cents per share will be paid to the owners of this preferred stock before holders of common stock receive any share of the profits. After the 25 cents has been paid to the shareholders of preferred stock, then all alike share in the dividends. (This means nothing less than that the first investors in the enterprise will have all their money returned to them before any dividends are declared to the rank and file o investors.

A limited amount of Stock has been placed on the Canadian market. Full particulars and copy of prospectus may be obtained from MR. R. J. KIDD, or the undersigned Agent for Peterborough city

AN OPPORTUNITY

C. C. Pugh, postmaster at Adel, Dallas county, Iowa, and Dr. W. J. Williams, surgeon for the Milwaukee railroad at that place, are very successful mining men. They understand the western country and know the mines and their possibilities. They are selling Williams Fork Stock at 15 cents a share. This stock went off the market at 25 cents July 1 this year and there is none to be had of the company at any price. They guarantee this stock to be gilt edge $40,000 worth of ore on the dump now. If you want 1,000 shares of this stock send draft for $150 to Adel State Bank, Adel, Iowa, and they will send you your certificate for same. If you want 500 shares send draft for $50 to said bank. Pugh and Williams do their business through this large bank, hence you are safe in sending money to them. Dividends will come soon from this property and it will then go to $1.00 per share. It is in Colorado and officials of that state write that it is a magnificent property. If you knew this property and the people back of it you would want this stock. For reference write Hon. Geo. W. Clarke, Adel, Iowa, member of the Legislature. He will tell you as to our reliability. If you buy 1,000 shares of this stock we send you a guarantee and you will also thank us for calling your attention to it. An honest proposition. Write immediately with draft as this stock will be offered but a few days at 15 cents. Last shipment of ore went over $130 to the ton.

STOCK MARKETS

New York, October 12.—The bank statement Saturday was encouraging, showing a complete justification for the claims of leading bankers that the general monetary situation is stronger than suggested by surface conditions. There was a substantial gain in cash holding for the week. Stocks are so low now that it hardly seems likely that there will be much further depression. The bears have hammered everything "ad nauseam," and I believe they have about reached their limit. There are a few spots, but the latter will eventually disappear. The London element sold stocks during the past week, but the foreign element has been more or less forced, and on any betterment the European crowd will take back its stocks.

Chicago, October 12.—The government crop report attracted the bulk of attention in the grain market today. The general opinion was that the figures indicating yield were quite satisfactory. The trade in wheat was rather slow. The primary movement reflected accumulation and the clearances were small. There was an increase in the visible supply, but this was expected, as were also the liberal worlds shipments. The south-west sold a little wheat. The late market was nervous and on the close there was a mixed feeling. The government crop report on corn was full up to the expectations. Shorts added to their lines, but on the dips some of the bears rushed for cover. The statistics generally were a little bullish. The primary movement was made up of very heavy shipments again, and while the clearances were smaller, on the close there was a mixed feeling and many interests were inclined to look for narrow and scalping markets.

A Frenchman's View of our Girls.

In his volume "Business and Love," based on his observations during his recent visit to the United States and Canada, Hugues Le Roux, the distinguished French critic, wholly disapproves of university education for girls and still more emphatically of female teachers for boys. He says: "Men should no more learn to think as women do, than women should mould their thoughts and their natures after the pattern of the masculine temperament." The sort of woman which the colleges turn out here he dubs the "third sex," and he includes in this category the "American business woman," for whom he has a special dread. He descants on the frequency of unhappy marriages in the United States, and says: "Almost always it is the woman who is responsible for the bankruptcy." He thinks that co-education is largely responsible for ill-fitted matches and for the disillusionment that follows. About the American girl he says: "The absolute joy she brings into the family simply because she has taken the trouble to be born is keener in America than anywhere else in the world." Then he describes how she is spoiled by everybody, how no duties, only privileges, are imposed upon her, how she becomes utterly selfish and never loves, but only graciously permits others to love her. "This worship of self, raised to the standard of a moral principle, is the outcome of the absolute independence wherein the American girl is brought up by her family." Le Roux considers the circumstances surrounding the society debut of our girls shameful and in wretched taste. He says: "The American girl, face to face with her conscience, does not recognize any very pressing duty except toward herself." He thinks, however, she is better educated and the intellectual superior of the American man, owing to a longer intellectual training and to favoring outward circumstances, and thinks this deplorable for the whole country. He discusses at length her disinclination to marry, and draws very far-reaching conclusions. He says: "Is motherhood a bondage or a joy for woman? Does the individual owe more to society or to himself? History answers: To society. The third sex answers: To one's self." He goes somewhat extensively into the question of the increasing sterility of the American woman, and says: "Such is the moral ruin to which is condemned any society wherein woman has usurped the place that belongs to man." And he says Americans of the older stock are "deluded as to the destiny of their race," and that "all the great qualities handed down to us from the past are being wiped out mercilessly under the torrent of gold, the burden of feminine pride, and feminine selfishness." The female reporter he holds in special dread and thinks she is a "blackmailer" if she has the chance. To the "Restless Woman" he devotes a whole chapter. He says: "Wherever fate gives the weak a chance to rule, they take unfair advantage." After fashioning Man in the United States to suit herself precisely Woman is still unsatisfied, and does not like her handiwork. That is why she prefers foreigners for husbands, they being "more romantic." The men, too, Le Roux claims he found all discontented with their wives and with the position of women here. But he is sure there will be soon a dreadful awakening for both, and another "great revolution," to set matters right, with Man re-established the undoubted master of Woman.

COPETE MINING CO.

27 William Street, New York

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them are—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now clear and undisputed title to all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

The Trade Has Improved

The Auburn Woollen Mills are gradually resuming operations, after, having been partially closed for some weeks, because of the lack of orders. It is learned that the trade has improved somewhat, and about two-thirds of the staff will now be employed. It is hoped that a further improvement will be experienced so that the works will soon be running in their full capacity.

Lindsay's Lighting Contract

In view of the statement repeatedly made by certain people in town that electric street lights cannot be furnished at less than $50 per lamp in Peterborough, it will be interesting to learn that Lindsay has secured a ten years' contract for 70 lights of 1500 candle power each at this price. When it is remembered that the current has to be generated at Fenelon Falls, some eighteen miles distant and also that no competition exists in the electric light field in Lindsay, Peterborough tax payers will come to regard $35 per light (at which the Otonabee Power Co. offer to supply them) as not too cheap.

THE LIFT LOCK

Scientific American Publishes Some Interesting Views of the Lock

Last week's Scientific American contains four views of the lift lock, together with a descriptive article on the lock, which concludes as follows.

"There is only one other such lock in the world, and that is a much smaller one located in Germany. The Canadian lock has been built upon a similar plan, with, of course, many modern improvements incorporated. Its total cost is just one million dollars."

A FINED IMPOSED

A Dead Set Made on Mr. Geo. Stevens' Fertilizer Works

Yesterday Mr. George Stevens who has the enterprise to create a large industry in the shape of a manufactory of a soil fertilizer, was fined $15 at the County Police Court.

The information was laid by Dr. Greer, Medical Health Officer, of North Monaghan. Dr. Bryce, of Toronto, was one of the witnesses, as was also several local medical men. Mr. Stevens, for whom there is much sympathy, will, we understand, take steps to avoid any unpleasant odors escaping.

A NEW SCHEME

House-to-House Visitation in the Interest of Sabbath Schools

It is proposed to make a house to house canvass in order to build up and increase the membership of the Sabbath schools of the Town and Ashburnham.

All denominations will co-operate in the undertaking. The town is to be divided into districts, which will be allotted to a certain number of canvassers. At each house an enquiry will be made as to the number in the family, not including boarders and domestic help, etc., the number attending church and the number attending Sabbath schools, in each case over 18 years of age, under eighteen years and over four, and under four years, also as to denominational preference, the number of resident boarders and servants. The information thus acquired will be formed into a report, and Sabbath school workers will find it of value in the solution of the non-attendance problem.

THE 57TH BAND

Programmes Rendered in Bowmanville Were Highly Satisfactory

Mr. M. A. James, Secretary-Treasurer of the West Durham Agricultural Society, has written Mr. Rupert Gliddon, bandmaster of the 57th, as follows.

"The directors are exceedingly well pleased with the programme you rendered. You have proved a splendid attraction, as is shown by our receipts, they being more than double of last year's gate money. Your concert gave us great satisfaction, and we doubt if a better pleased audience ever left the drill hall. We are all very glad we engaged the noble 57th band.

"We were highly pleased with the behaviour of your members, and request you to convey to them at your next meeting our high appreciation of their services, and best wishes for the future success of yourself and the boys of the 57th Regiment Band.

"Yours sincerely,

"M. A. JAMES, Sec.-Treas."

BOARD OF HEALTH

Held a short Session Yesterday — Business Transacted

A meeting of the local Board of Health was held yesterday morning. There were present, Messrs. W. Eyres, G. Schneider, A. Parker, Dr. Burnham and Mayor Roger.

In the absence of the chairman Mr. Eyres was appointed chairman pro tem.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

A communication was received from W. J. Howden and others, asking that a lane at the rear of their premises, east of George street and north of Hunter street be drained as its present condition was not in a good sanitary condition.—Referred to the Board of Works.

Reference was made to the letters which had been received from the hospitals regarding their refusal to take infectious diseased patients after November 1st. Mr. Eyres pointed out the necessity of taking action in the matter as soon as possible as it was certain that there would be cases to be dealt with this fall. The Mayor stated that a committee from the council were giving this matter consideration and consequently the matter was laid over.

An account from the St. Joseph's Hospital was read and a report from Dr. Bingham concerning it. The matter was referred to the same special committee which was appointed to deal with the Nicholls Hospital accounts.

Mr. Eyres said that he had been informed regarding certain houses on London and George streets. The sewer pipes connected with these houses were inadequate, inasmuch as the odor from the sewers was carried back into the houses. It was decided to ask the plumbing inspector to look into the matter and report.

The Board adjourned for two weeks.

MR. HUMPHRIES HONORED

Employees of the Lock Works Make Him Handsome Present

At noon yesterday Mr. J. H. Humphries, who for two and a half years held a responsible position with the Peterborough Lock Company, was presented with the following address, accompanied by a very handsome gentleman's companion, on the occasion of leaving the employ of the company, and accepting a position in the C. P. R. freight office here:

Dear Jack,—We have asked you to meet us on this occasion, so that we might have an opportunity to express to you our regret at your departure from among us, while at the same time we are pleased to know that the change is for you, in the nature of a promotion.

As you have been faithful in the discharge of your duties while connected with the Lock Company, during the past two and a half years, we feel that you will be as faithful in your new position, and we hope and trust, that you will, by your diligence, and close application to duty, through time, earn a well merited promotion, as an employee of that great railway corporation, the C.P.R. as your predecessor, who is also a graduate of this office, has done.

In your intercourse with us as employees, we have always found you courteous and obliging, willing at all time to do what you could to promote a feeling of harmony and good will, that should always exist between employees.

As a slight memento of our appreciation and esteem, we ask you to accept this gentleman's companion; and we trust that by it, you will ever be reminded of your friends at the Lock Shop. We wish you every success in your new position.

Signed on behalf of the Peterborough Lock Company employees,

A. C. CORCORAN,
E. MORENCY,
E. TAYLOR.

The address was made by Mr. E. Taylor and the presentation by Mr. E. Morency. Mr. Humphries made a suitable reply.

Water Very Low

Water in the river and lakes never was so low as it is at present. The greatest difficulty is experienced by steamboat men in navigating. The floating wharves of the Stony Lake cottages are, in many cases, stranded and badly injured. The low water is due to the large number of saw log drives which have passed through, and which takes thousands of tons of extra water at each lock to run them over.

A Liquor Raid

On Saturday evening License Inspector G. Cochrane and Chief Rossel, made a raid on the house of Joseph Oleteresioe, an Italian residing near the Electrical Co's new dam, when eight full kegs of lager, one partly full, twenty-one bottles of lager, seven bottles of brandy, and two cases of brandy, full, were captured, and are now tranquilly reposing in a cell in the police station. Joseph will toe the scratch before Police Magistrate Dumble this morning.

A Great Sunday Magazine

Not only is the news of the whole world covered with unexampled fullness in the Sunday issues of The Chicago Record-Herald, but every edition embraces also an exceedingly choice assortment of illustrated special articles ranking with the highest products of our best magazines. Such well-known and popular writers as William E. Curtis and Walter Wellman and Frank G. Carpenter are regular contributors to The Chicago Sunday Record-Herald. There are many special articles in each issue of particular interest to women, including the latest fashions, household economy, art, music and the drama, etc. There is a beautiful illustrated special sporting section, which not only covers all the news of the sporting world with a thoroughness that satisfies to the utmost but includes also entertaining departments by such sporting experts as Tim Murnane, who writes of baseball matters; Malachy Hogan, noted for his "Talks on Pugilism," and J. L. Hervey, who conducts the department of "harness horses." The comic section and other entertaining departments round out this mammoth Sunday magazine to the entire satisfaction of its readers.

HANDICAPPED.

The man who started to run a race in chains and fetters would be visibly handicapped. No one would expect him to succeed. The man who runs the race of life when his digestive and nutritive organs are diseased is equally handicapped. In the one case his strength is overweighted, in the other it is undermined. Success demands above all else a sound stomach.

$3,000 FORFEIT will be paid by WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Proprietors, Buffalo, N. Y., if they cannot show the original signature of the individual volunteering the testimonial below, and also of the writers of every testimonial among the thousands which they are constantly publishing, thus proving their genuineness.

"The praise I would like to give your 'Golden Medical Discovery' I cannot utter in words or describe with pen," writes James B. Ambrose, Esq., of 1205½ Mifflin Street, Huntingdon, Pa. "I was taken with what our physicians here said was indigestion. I doctored with the best around here and found no relief. I wrote to you and you sent me a question blank to fill out, and I did so, and you then advised me to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took three bottles and I felt so good that I stopped, being cured. I have no symptoms of gastric trouble or indigestion now."

OUR INCREASED ASSESSMENT

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir,—I desire to call your readers' attention to the unbusinesslike conduct of the majority of our present Council. To-day they are engaged in a law suit to test whether or not they can pay to the Peterborough Light & Power Company the sum of $14,000 more for our street lighting than the Otonabee Power Company are willing to supply the same light for. I should have thought that there were any favors going they would have been given to the Otonabee Power Company as they have been the means of reducing the cost of domestic lighting over one half of what it was before they entered the field. Instead of being favored in any way, the Council seems to be willing to pay the Peterborough Light and Power Company anything they may choose to ask.

From this unbusinesslike conduct, it is quite easy to see why the assessment of our property is being increased over $300,000.00 this year. That means that the taxes of every property holder in Town will be increased. I would suggest that a property holders' association should be formed to enquire into the administration of the affairs of the Town during this last few years and that a report be made to the ratepayers before the next municipal election takes place. I am satisfied that the investigation will prove that the majority of our Council are incompetent to fill the positions they occupy. We can surely find thirteen men in Town who will know that light at $35.00 per lamp is cheaper than light at $50.00 per lamp.

Yours, etc.,

WM. SNOWDEN.

October 12th, 1903.

EMPLOYERS OF LABOUR FORM A HUGE UNION.

Manufacturers of United States and Canada Decide to Organize

BILLIONS OF DOLLARS WILL BE REPRESENTED.

Employers from British Columbia to Massachusetts and from Winnipeg to the Gulf will be Represented

Chicago, October 14.—Employers of labor representing organized manufacturers and captains of industry from British Columbia to Massachusetts and from Winnipeg to the gulf are preparing to gather in Chicago Oct. 29 and 30 to form an international federation of employers that will astonish unorganized capital of the United States with the revelation of the astounding spread of organization among the employers during the last year.

Associations of manufacturers and employers from Victoria and Vancouver in British Columbia, from points in Ontario and Quebec, from the farthermost points of the United States, and representing all the principal cities and towns of the country, will attend the conference, which is destined to mark an epoch in the industrial history of the country.

FORMAL CALL IS ISSUED.

The formal call for this great gathering has just been issued and thousands of invitations are being extended to alliances, employers and manufacturers' associations and trade organizations. The call for the convention is as follows;

To the Officers and Members of Employers Associations and Citizens' Alliances—Gentlemen: On the 29th of September an informal conference was held in Chicago, at which the following representatives of associations were in attendance;

J. Kirby, Jr., president Employers association, Dayton, O.

Marshal Cushing, secretary National Association of Manufacturers.

E. G. Hornbrook, secretary Employers association, Kansas City, Mo.

Frederick W. Job, secretary Chicago Employers association.

D. M. Parry, president National Association of Manufacturers.

J. C. Craig, president Citizens alliance, Denver, Col.

Colonel J. W. Goodwin, secretary Citizens alliance, Sedalia, Mo.

J. P. Druckemiller, secretary Employers association, Akron, O.

E. F. Du Brul, commissioner National Metal Trades association.

A. D. Meeker, secretary Employers association, Marshalltown, Iowa.

John M. Maxwell, National Association of Manufacturers.

P. O. Geier, National Metal Trades association.

As a result of careful consideration by those present of the advisability of forming a national association of Employers association it was deemed advisable to have a conference in Chicago on the 29th and 30th of October of the representative of all employers associations, citizens alliances and other local organizations of employers and also of state and national trade organizations of employers.

The undersigned were appointed a committee to issue this call, and accordingly you are hereby invited to send one or more representatives from your association (president, secretary or other officers preferred) to this meeting.

The headquarters will be at the Auditorium Annex and an informal meeting for the registration of delegates will occur at 10 a.m. Oct. 29.

Please have your representatives come with authority from your association to organize a national federation and advise A. C. Marshall, Dayton, O., of the number and names of your representatives as quickly as possible.

FREDERICK W. JOB, secretary Chicago Employers association.

E. G. HORNBROOK, secretary Employers association, Kansas City, Mo.

A. C. MARSHALL, secretary Employers association, Dayton, O.

"Ever since the employers who have been battling with labor for years single handed determined to form an organization," said Frederick W. Job, secretary of the Chicago Employers association, yesterday, "it has taken wings in its rapid flight over the continent. The rise of organized labor is insignificant when compared to the rapid organization of manufacturers and employers. This movement has been going on comparatively unnoticed so far as its collective strength is concerned. Even the men interested in various local movements were astonished to hear of its growth until recently it dawned upon us that so many associations have been formed that national federation is now necessary to the cause."

MANY CONCERNS REPRESENTED.

The following is a list of some of the associations of employers in towns and cities that will be represented in the coming Chicago convention.

GOT UPROARIOUSLY DRUNK

Wheat Soaked in Cider Fed with Bad Effect on an Ohio Farm

Springfield, Ohio, October 13.—A farmer living east of this city placed a half-bushel of wheat in a barrel of cider to keep the cider from turning hard. After the barrel had been emptied of the cider he dumped the soaked wheat out to his hogs. The porkers seemed to enjoy it and ate freely, but soon after partaking of the fomented grain they became uproariously drunk.

ARRAYED AGAINST CATHOLICS

Feature of Discussion at Northwest Iowa Methodist Conference

Sioux City, Iowa, October 13.—The feature of today's session of the northwest Iowa Methodist conference was a discussion of the alleged encroachments of the Roman Catholic church, during which a proposition for national organized resistance was advocated. The members of the conference were emphatic in their declarations, and the sentiment was decidedly in favor of resistance and opposition to the Roman church. Among the speakers were Rev. Dr. Robert Smylie, president of the conference; Dr. D. D. Thompson, of Chicago, editor of the Northwestern Christian Advocate, and Rev. Dr. W. P. Thirkield, of Cincinnati.

MRS. STERNAMAN WINS

The Fourth Trial of Famous Insurance Case Ends

Buffalo, N.Y., October 14.—Olive A. Sternaman got a verdict of $1,431.66 in the Supreme Court this morning in her suit against the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company to recover on a policy on the death of her husband. The verdict is for $1,000, the amount of the policy and interest. With costs, the verdict will amount to $2,500. This was the fourth trial of the suit.

The Insurance Company made its defence against paying the policy, on the ground that Sternaman was murdered. Mrs. Sternaman was once convicted in Canada of murdering her husband. On the night before she was to be hanged she obtained a reprieve, and on the new trial she was acquitted. Then she sued for the insurance on her husband's life.

WAR IS NOT YET DECLARED BETWEEN JAPAN AND RUSSIA, TROOPS READY

Czar's Postponement of His Visit to Rome Taken as an Ominous Sign.

Russian Troops will Remain in Southern Manchuria for an Indefinite Period

London, Oct. 13—A despatch to The Daily Mail from Kobe, Oct. 12, reports that the situation is somewhat easier, but that the tone of the press is distinctly bellicose, while the same papers correspondent at Geneva says that several Russian officers there have been suddenly recalled to rejoin their regiments.

Other special despatches describe Russian war preparations, etc., and the newspapers are already publishing maps and estimates of the naval and military forces of the prospective belligerent. The greatest attention is paid to the changed tone of Baron Hayashi, the Japan Minister in London, who is much less confident that peace will be preserved than he was a week ago.

It is noteworthy that the King has just approved the appointment of Vice-Admiral Sir Gerard Noel as commander-in-chief of the China station. Vice-Admiral Noel is an officer of great energy and decision. It was he who cleared the Turkish troops out of Crete because of an insult to the British flag.

The peculiar official explanation of the postponement of the Czar's visit to Rome, "owing to circumstances over which he has no control," is interpreted in some quarters to mean that the threatening outlook in Far Eastern affairs calls for the Emperor's presence in Russia. There is no confirmation of the alarmist rumors.

RUSSIAN TROOPS MOVE.

London, Oct. 13—A despatch from Moscow to The Times, dated Oct. 10, states that a large force of Russian troops under orders for the Far East are now on their way thither by rail from Kharkoff. The Russian correspondents of the same paper send quotations from newspaper articles, pointing to Russia's intention to remain in occupation of Manchuria, and add that it is reported from Vladivostock that as a result of the famine in China, roving bands of Chinese have crossed into Manchuria, where their presence constitutes a danger to the Manchurian railway, and that this necessitates keeping Russian troops in Southern Manchuria for an indefinite period.

PREPARED FOR WAR.

Yokohama, Oct. 13—The announcement of M. Lessar, the Russian Minister to China, that the Manchurian convention between Russia and China has lapsed is received here with ridicule.

Gen. Kodama, the Japanese Home Minister, has been appointed chief assistant to the military staff. The Premier will assume Gen. Kodama's portfolio.

The Premier and the ministers for War, Navy and Foreign Affairs had a simultaneous audience of the Emperor today. Baron Von Rosen, the Russian Minister, and Baron Komura, the Japanese Foreign Minister, have not yet had a conference.

PUBLIC OPINION EXCITED.

London, Oct. 12.—It was announced at the Foreign Office today, relative to the situation in the Far East, that the powers having treaty rights with China will require such rights to be maintained unimpaired, whatever arrangement Russia makes with China. If these rights are respected the British officials consider it improbable that either Japan or any other power will do anything which may threaten peace in the Far East.

In spite of the reassuring statements of the Foreign Office and Baron Hayashi, the frequent iteration that hostilities between Russia and Japan are imminent, the mysterious movements of the Russian and Japanese fleets and the excited state of public opinion in Japan are beginning to cause disquiet in Great Britain. Only the most sanguine persons believe that in the event of hostilities they could be kept within the limits which free Great Britain from her obligation to support her Japanese ally.

Baron Hayashi is not so optimistic today. Indirectly he admits the possibility of war by expressing the hope that in the event of a crisis Japan will have the active sympathy of Great Britain. Baron Hayashi admitted the diplomatic situation had changed since Oct. 8.

THE AWARD IS LIKELY TO BE UNANIMOUS ONE

An Inspired Letter in the Times Lends Colour to This View, Americans are Well Pleased with Proceedings

London, October 14.—There seems reason to anticipate that the Alaskan tribunal will not close without some sort of unanimous award.

"An American in London," to whose letters the Times gives prominence is probably well informed when he declares to-day: "I rejoice to say there is believed to be something more than a possibility that an award will be agreed on or rather that the seven questions will be so answered as to end the matter."

Anglo-Canadian comment upon this is that if "American" rejoices Canada knows what to expect. The "American" quotes the Alaskan question as "one of a dozen open issues between Canada and the United States, the delicacy of which demand the greatest care in the selection as the new British ambassador at Washington of a man of wise and generous impulses, a messenger of peace."

THE SESSION WAS DELAYED.

London, October 14.—The last stage of the Alaskan boundary arbitration began this morning at the Foreign Office, when the commissioners met in secret session to consider their verdict. United States Senator Lodge and Sir Louis Jette, one of the Canadian commissioners, were early on hand and War Secretary Root and Senator Turner followed them into the Cabinet room, where the deliberations are being held. Then there was a long delay, with some forebodings, as Commissioner Aylesworth, of Canada, had not appeared. With any one of the commissioners absent, no verdict could be rendered. Finally Chief Justice Alverstone asked one of the secretaries, who sit in an outer room, to telephone to Commissioner Aylesworth's hotel and find out the cause of his non-appearance. The tension was relieved by the receipt of the news that the Canadian commissioner had just returned from the country and was starting for the Foreign Office. Mr. Aylesworth arrived at 11.40 a.m., and the secret session commenced. No decision is expected today.

The commissioners will sit daily from 11 a.m. until 1.30 p.m., when they will adjourn for lunch, and will resume their deliberations at 2 p.m., adjourning for the day at 4 p.m., until a decision is reached.

London, Oct. 13—The Standard, referring to the Alaska Boundary Commission, says .."Here in London we are content to wait for publication of the judgment, whereas in Ottawa and New York a lively game of speculation is going on as to its tenor and probable consequences. On both sides of the Atlantic there is absolute confidence in the capacity of Lord Alverstone and his British colleagues to give the fullest consideration and assign just weight to every feature of the Canadian contention. It would be lamentable if the award when known should fail to command itself to the unreserved assent of the two communities primarly concerned. The decision will lose much of its value if it is received with distrust by either of the affected parties. The award of the majority, according to the treaty, is to be binding. The supreme interest lying at stake is outside the strict pale of judicial interpretation.

"No fact in recent history is more striking than the close and warm affection which has grown up between the island home of the Angl-Saxon race and our numerous kinsmen in the United States, but the cause of sympathy with America operates with even greater force in the case of the hopes and wishes of our Canadian fellow-citizens. The Canadian Government and people regard with national pride their splendid and as yet imperfectly developed domain in the Yukon. It is easy, therefore, to understand and impossible not to sympathize with their anxiety that the award should not deprive them of access from the Pacific Ocean."

London, Oct. 14—The Alaskan boundary tribunal held another secret session this morning and adjourned for lunch at 1.30 p.m. Nothing of a public nature developed, except that when Lord Chief Alverstone came out of the conference room he asked Secretary Tower to ascertain whether the original treaty was signed both in French and English. No explanation was given of the reason for this question.

The commission adjourned until tomorrow, without reaching a decision.

Lord Alverstone has telegraphed to Premier Laurier a formal denial of a newspaper statement, mentioned in the Dominion Parliament yesterday, to the effect that he (Lord Alverstone) had said that the United States had the stronger case in the Alaska boundary question. The Lord Chief Justice says the report is "a complete fabrication."

DENIAL AT OTTAWA.

Ottawa, Oct. 13—Logan, of Cumberland having read a statement in a Montreal newspaper that a prominent Quebec Conservative had been offered a judgeship by the Federal Government, Sir Wilfrid took occasion to deny the report.

London, Oct. 13—"There is not the slightest foundation for the statement attributed to me in a Reuter telegram from Ottawa, dated October 12, as to a question in the House of Commons on that date. I have made no communication of any kind to any diplomats or colonial officials, or to any person respecting the case. The report is an absolute fabrication. (signed) Alverstone."

The statement to which Lord Alverstone refers was that, according to the newspaper report, he held in diplomatic and official circles that the United States had the better case and that he was going to decide against Canada.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 13 1903

SIR HECTOR MACDONALD'S VINDICATION

The Commission appointed to investigate the charges or insinuations against the moral character of the late Sir Hector Macdonald reports that after a minute and exhaustive enquiry, it finds no stain upon his character. The Commissioners add: "We find the late Sir Hector Macdonald has been cruelly assassinated by vile and slandering tongues."

Vile and slandering tongues and pens, are the curse of the age. One of the greatest and most popular heroes in the British Army is formally declared to have been done to death by slander, animated by jealousy. There is nothing astonishing about the fact, revolting as it unquestionably is. No man and no woman is exempt. Success in any career is a direct challenge to vile and slandering tongues and pens. In political life it seems to be assumed that the most infamous charges may be made or insinuated against an opponent utterly regardless of truth or probability. You cannot open certain newspapers scarcely for a single day without finding the foulest direct lies and the most cowardly insinuations against successful competitors. The animus is revealed by the fact, that the same persons are generally selected as targets for the filth of the vile and slandering pen. The first requisite of public life is an absolute indifference to calumny. Poor Hector Macdonald was too sensitive. He could face the bullets of the Queen's enemies, but he fell before the lies of his personal foes. How intense was the jealousy and how deep the hatred is shown by the fact that the vile and slandering tongues continued to wag after the heroe's death and prevented the nation from giving him a hero's funeral. A post-mortem vindication is better than none, but it is poor compensation for such an injury.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

It is seldom that the Sick Man of Europe feels too "poorly" to sit up and smile at the powers.

Mr. Balfour seems to have as much trouble in corralling members for his cabinet as the people of Peterborough have in landing a candidate for the vice presidency.

The Berliner Tageblatt says that Japan has placed large orders for locomotives in Germany at prices 300 marks less per locomotive than those quoted by British firms. A mark, Herapath's Railway Journal comments, is a very important coin in the Fatherland—much more important than the "saxpence" in Scotland, but a ten-pound note should not have made much difference in the price of such an expensive article as a locomotive. The Japs are smart, but are likely to pay dearly for their experience.

The United States commercial treaty with China signed on Thursday last maintains the "open door" for the Republic in the far east. Article 4 is the most important of the treaty. By it the Chinese Government, recognizing that the present system of levying dues upon goods in transit, and especially the system of taxation known as likin, impedes the free circulation of commodities to the general injury of trade, undertakes, after the ratification of the treaty and at a date to be mutually agreed upon, to abandon the levy of likin and other transit dues throughout the empire, and to abolish all the barriers and tax stations maintained for their collection.

WADED INTO RIVER

Strange Woman Blindfolds Herself and Commits Suicide

Sarnia, Oct. 12—An Indian from the Sarnia reserve reported to Chief of Police Jarvis on Saturday that a white woman had been found drowned in the river a couple of miles below Sarnia. Chief Jarvis and Coroner Hayes viewed the body as it lay on the river bank. It was clearly a case of suicide, as the young woman had taken off her underskirt, filled it with stones, and tied it together at the top and bottom and then tied it to her waist. She also had tied a handkerchief around her head, covering her mouth, and then waded into the river into deep water, and was drowned.

The body is that of a young woman of medium build, about 5 feet 6 inches tall, aged about 25 years. She was dressed in a brown cloth dress, the waist having a plaid silk front with small gilt buttons for trimming, black underskirt, black stockings, and high laced shoes.

The same young woman was in Sarnia on Friday. During her stay she called at the House of Refuge and had a talk with Mr. Kelly, the manager, enquiring if any help was needed. To Mr. Kelly she gave the name of Ella Hubbell and said she had escaped from an asylum. On being questioned by Mr. Kelly, she suddenly became uncommunicative and left the place.

THE IRISH PARTY

It is Probable That Ireland May Gain Some Concessions

Dublin, October 13.—It is whispered that the Government is coquetting with the Irish Nationalist party for their support in their fiscal policy—the policy of retaliation. It is not unlikely that some understanding will be come to, but the Irishmen are certain to obtain some important concessions. One thing which would be insisted on would be the establishment of a Roman Catholic College in Dublin in the lines suggested by the recent Royal Commission on university education. Ulster, too, would have to be squared, and this might be done by giving the Queen's College, Belfast, and the Magee College, Londonderry, additional endowment and greater powers, but how far this would mollify the Protestant opposition in the north of Ireland remains to be seen.

RAILWAYS DISCHARGING MEN

New York Central Railway Cutting Down Expenses.

New York, October 14.—Orders were issued on Saturday from New York whereby 15 per cent. of the employes in the car shops, repair shops and round houses of the entire Vanderbilt railway system will be informed today that their services are no longer needed. One thousand five hundred men will be thrown out of employment with hardly a minute's notice, and a saving of nearly $3,000 a day will be affected.

"The action just taken by the Vanderbilt system of railroads, is due to two things," said a high official of the New York Central Railway. "First, that the outlook at the present time demanded that retrenchment be made, and second, that the condition of the rolling stock of the company is such that it can be made in the department which has charge of that with the least damage to effectiveness."

The same official said the order will affect the single men first.

H. F. for Ireland

Dublin, October 14.—There are many sensible long-headed men here in Ireland who consider that the only thing which will ever do us any good, is a protective system. They hold that free trade has completely killed this country, and that the only thing to make us prosperous again is protection. They would tax nearly all goods imported into this island—from England just the same as from other places. They say that if flour was taxed, but grain allowed to come in free, an active milling industry would again spring up here.

Tristan d'Acunha.

A Blue Book has just been issued, containing "Further correspondence relating to the Island of Tristan d'Acunha." The present publication completes the series formerly brought down to February, 1897. It contains a number of notes and reports on the island, compiled by the captains of passing vessels, the latest of which, by Lieutenant Watts-Jones, commanding H.M.S. Thrush, bears date January, 1903. The question of removing the community from Tristan d'Acunha to Cape Colony, and of abandoning the island, has been under the consideration of the Colonial Office for some time. From some points of view the existence of a population in this lone spot has its advantages, as wrecks are not infrequent, and the islanders invariably render every aid in their power to shipwrecked sailors. But, on the other hand, the responsibility of safeguarding the future of the people is considerable, and it may not always be possible in future to tell off a man-of-war for the purpose of visiting the island annually. The subject of removal was broached to the people themselves, and the great majority expressed their willingness to go, only one man and two elderly women demurring. The islanders stipulated, however, that they should receive compensation for their cattle and sheep—a matter of a few hundreds of pounds altogether. The island, indeed, seems to be quite an Arcadia, and as there is no cable and no postoffice it might easily be regarded as an ideal holiday resort.

THE TREATY OF PEACE

Arbitration Agreement is Ready to be Signed

King Edward was Active in Promoting Harmony of Negotiations

Paris October 14.—The despatches from New York summarizing the announcement made in despatches from Paris Thursday last, of the practical conclusion of a treaty of arbitration between France and Great Britain, occupy the most prominent place in the newspapers of this city. The Matin gives the announcement a national prominence, with portraits of Foreign Minister Delcasse and Foreign Secretary Lansdowne. After quoting the despatch, as cabled from New York, the Matin adds:

"We are in a position to say that the news contained in this important despatch is correct in its general lines, and that one of the most interesting diplomatic instruments that international history has brought forth is on its way to conclusion between France and England. The bonds of the treaty which is about to be signed and which, perhaps, would already have been signed if the British Ministerial crisis had not occurred, consists in this;

"By common accord the two powers decide to submit for the future the greater part of the differences arising between them, either commercial or political, to arbitration.

"The diplomatists engaged in the negotiations have arranged the manner for conducting this arbitration and the nature of the future litigations which shall be submitted.

"We understand that they have agreed to exclude past causes of difference from those questions, like the Egyptian question, which have an international character, but, so far as practicable, all differences of the future French and English diplomatists will now formally submit to settlement by arbitration.

THE KING ACTIVE.

The Matin then sets forth the importance of the exchange of visits between King Edward and President Loubet in bringing about the treaty, and continues as follows;

"These pourparlers, which we repeat, within a few days will reach a tangible and immediate conclusion, have been conducted mainly by M. Paul Cambon and Lord Lansdowne, and have been characterized by a most conciliating and amiable spirit.

"We are able to state that King Edward insisted upon being kept au courant regarding the progress of the negotiations, and that while remaining strictly within his constitutional limits, he has manifested his personal pleasure in seeing their successful conclusion.

"The signing of the treaty will occur when certain details of a secondary character are arranged, and the treaty will then be submitted for ratification to the French and English Parliaments. We have no doubt of its speedy ratification, and the French and English diplomatists thus have the honor of having first introduced into actual international relations that exalted principle of public order—that differences shall be regulated by a tribunal of justice and not by force."

Other newspapers comment on the treaty in similar general strains; but the Matin presents the most circumstantial details of the agreement.

Appeals to Britain

London, Oct. 12.—M. Yovitchitch, the Servian Charge d'Affaires, is still unrecognized officially by the British Government, which suspended diplomatic relations when King Alexander was murdered.

On Thursday he made a direct appeal, saying: "Every other nation in Europe has recognized Servia. Here however, I am living the life of a hermit. We are a young and rising nation, and feel freedom now for the first time. This surely entitles us to sympathy."

And the Empress

Pekin, Oct. 12—The Dowager Empress gave her first reception of the season to the women of the Legations at the Summer Palace on Saturday. Following the example of Sir Ernest Satow, the British Minister, who refused to attend Friday's reception to the Diplomatic Corps, the women of the British Legation declined to attend. This action was taken as a protest against the crimes of the throne towards reformers. Up to the present England alone has taken cognizance of these crimes.

A Woman's Friend

It's Because Ferrozone Brings Good Health That it Brings Good Looks and is counted an invaluable Friend by Millions of Women on this Account

Many women look old and lose their beauty, not through age, but through disease, ill health and sufferings.

If you don't feel your best, of course you won't look your best and as long as your blood remains impure, your nerves unsteady, don't expect to feel tip-top.

If you have no appetite, poor digestion, are bilious and constipated, your skin will be sallow and pimply with an unnatural pallor about the cheeks.

Women without number who have suffered the mortifications of this run down condition, have made themselves healthy and well by taking Ferrozone. It is a wonderful remedy for the blood and nerves, and brings good looks because it brings good health.

Take Ferrozone for your beauty. It is a wonderful restorative, and strengthener for weak women, purifies and enriches the blood, and sends it circulating to all parts of the body. Thus it builds up muscle and tissue puts on fat and makes the action of the heart regular and strong.

Nothing can possibly do you so much lasting good as Ferrozone. It will enable you to go through life with pleasure and assurance, free from sickness and worry. We are quite sure you need Ferrozone, and know it will do you immeasurable good.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 300 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure this gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine — Its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck or more of sand, either ordinary house or sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand test of a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

Their Marriage Day

By Mayne Lindsay

THE train flew past the suburbs swaying by deserts of yellow brick, jolting over the points, rattling — faster faster—to the open country. The afternoon sun dropped down a June sky; the shadows of the hedgerows lengthened; villas gave place to sedgy meadows and cool covert-sides. A fresh country breeze buzzed at the carriage window, scattering the scent of meadowsweet, and ripe grass, and open pastures. A bee hummed inside the pane, and escaped again to the gorse and the foxgloves of a cutting. It was, as many unoriginal people had remarked, a perfect day for a wedding.

The bridegroom, who was settled in the farthest corner to that which his three hours' wife had chosen, a stretch of buff and gold upholstery between them, was properly grateful that the ordeal was over, even though the more prolonged one of a honeymoon (Heaven save the mark!) were whirling rapidly towards him. The bride was pale, as a bride should be; she had lost, as he guessed by the trembling fingers, ever busy at disentangling rice grains, the self-possession which had long commanded his respect. She was still aloof but she was agitated; she was uncertain of herself, and he had not expected this.

There had been some talk of community of interests between them; they had stood upon a common ground of well-wishing; there had been no mention of love. This was a business transaction, a union of interests in which, he assured himself drearily, he was lucky to receive courtesy and to be able to return it with esteem. He was to give her his name—it was an honorable name, and he wished that he could have more worthily upheld it—and the protection of which a rich, lonely woman found crying need. That was for happiness, since happiness could not be found in the inheritance of great fortune and in youth and independence. She gave him, in return, as much of the despised hoards as he cared to finger, prosperity in place of an incongruous poverty, a helping hand to pull him out of pecuniary deep waters. The place to which he was born—his birthright—was handed back to him for benefits received. There—it was a simple bargain.

The solemn echoes of the marriage service tingled in his ears. He had not been given to thinking upon serious things. He had taken life as it came and done his best, even under difficulties, to enjoy it; he winced as he wondered how the words he had spoken felt to men to whom they brought rapture and fulfilment; to whom women such as she gave themselves, not their chattels only; to whom marriage was a door that opened upon love and loyalty, not upon a barter of gold. She had been till that day—she was now—a thing incomprehensible, lofty, apart; it was not until their hands touched as man and wife that he understood that they were linked together, a gulf between them of their own digging and yet they two alone, the rest of the world a world away from them. He had not thought of this. He had thought too little of the less obvious aspects of their action. Now they intruded themselves; they humiliated him, and he could not escape them. It was not all desire for the name that brought her to him; she wanted protection—a friend. Good heavens! Was this the way to establish friendship? He had lost his confidence; he was ashamed, childishly afraid to look her in the face.

Lord Alresford coughed and fidgeted. Her agitation, the restlessness of those beautiful fingers, meant emotion, and questions were barred. Did she feel compunction, too? Had she forebodings? She was surely above these things as she was above him. But he could do his part in smoothing the stony road they had elected to travel together. His impulse was generous; his words tumbled out awkwardly.

"I'm awfully glad it's over; ain't you?"

Lady Alresford started out of her thoughts. She looked up with eyes from which the tears were not far distant; and she found something to relieve her in the sight of the young man, with his curiously English air of sportsman, soldier, and well-groomed schoolboy.

"Yes."

"I never did see any fun in a wedding," Alresford went on, desperately gabbling nonsense because her monosyllable had been tremulous. "Just silly rot—old asses making speeches an' fellows tryin' to be funny, and always hot. Never knew a wedding that wasn't hot. And, 'gad, what a mob of women!"

"I thought it was very kind of some of them to speak as they did, considering how little they knew of me. They were your friends, you know. And your sisters were very nice."

"Isabel is a jolly good sort," Alresford said. "Kathleen is rather inclined to put on side since she married, though what there is to brag about in buttons—"

He stopped dead and flushed under the brown. He could have bitten out his reckless tongue, for between buttons and the cotton-spinning source of his bride's fortune there was nothing, in his mind, to choose. It was curious that he persistently lost, in conversation with her, the remembrance of the ruck of stuffy Midland respectability from which cotton—and a few other things—had lifted her. He spoke to her as to one of his kind, admitting her unconsciously to the freemasonry of the inner circle. He pulled up now and floundered dumbly.

Lady Alresford came to the rescue.

"I thought Kathleen was particularly pleasant," she said. "And who was the pretty woman in silver grey—dark, bright color—who was so very gracious? She seemed to assume a—well, I suppose I must call it a patronizing attitude, but it was not offensive."

"Mrs. Arlington? Did she? Oh, that's very good." Alresford recovered himself and laughed. "Very good. You see, the point lies in the position of the man with her."

"And he?"

"He is Smith-Earlham, my colonel. Mrs. Arlington is runnin' him at present, and so—you see. Fancy her patronizing you! It's so sublimely impudent that one can afford to laugh at it."

"He is not married, then?"

"Oh, yes, he is; but Mrs. Earlham is taken up with good works. I believe she is going round with the hat for charity just at present. It's her fault. There isn't a bit of real vice in Earlham, and he is a splendid fellow; but, of course, if a man is left to himself . . ."

Lady Alresford looked thoughtful. As usual, the young man spoke without premeditation, and, as frequently happened, his careless words struck home. She was thinking of the wife who had pushed her husband into temptation, and reflecting upon the unreasoning pang that another woman's possession of Alresford would give her. . . . Yet why should it matter to her?

"What will happen when he goes to India?"

"His wife won't go, I know that. Dare say Mrs. Arlington will run out to see what Anglo-Indian life is like. . . . And that reminds me, it's the 'Camptona,' not the 'Punjab,' we're goin' in. The chief told me so this afternoon."

"A fortnight earlier! In a month!"

"Yes. So you see"—he looked at her with deprecation—"we sha'n't have to keep it up for long. Only a month, and then you can work out all your own plans without having to consider this dual arrangement. I—I wanted to tell you. I feel a brute about it. But I won't bother you. I'll keep out of your way as much as I can."

It was the bride's turn to flush. She did so delicately.

"You hurt me when you speak like that."

Alresford stared.

"I—hurt you! Why?"

"You seem to think you are—obnoxious. We were to be friends, weren't we? Is it good fellowship to say that I dislike you?"

"No; but—it was your—plan, you know, as well as mine. We agreed—"

"That you should go to India and I stop at home. Of course. But why should I be so anxious for you to go? You know, it seems absurd to say it to—to one's husband, but then we are not an ordinary married pair—I like your friendship and your company. You are one of the very few men I have known who gave me that friendship in all honesty, without afterthought. It was because of that I suggested to you what followed."

The bridegroom looked at her in astonishment. Had there been no contempt, then, in her mind when he agreed—call it, rather, fell into temptation?

"I take all the responsibility," the bride went on. "You were too——" —she was going to say "simple-minded," but checked herself—"[illegible] to suggest the thing. I wanted a haven away from the difficulties that beset me, handicapped by a woman's weakness and this—money, and beset on all sides by people who might have made me doubt all the world. But I found you, the only single-minded one among them all. And so I came to you to shelter me. Do you think you do not stand out in my mind as my best friend? And is one so anxious to lose one's only friend?"

An odd thing befell Lord Alresford. His imagination began to work, and to see visions far beyond the level plains to which he had limited himself. There was a sensation of straining to a discovery, a commotion of rising and falling hopes. What was it that threw open the door of his inner heart and cried? The echo of her last word pushed it back again. Thoughts tumbled through his mind. He was anxious to tell her that he was glad to be a friend to her, and yet a second thought shouted that he was not glad. He felt a sudden mad desire to get up and trample upon her graciousness, to cast back her money at her and tell her he would go his way alone, to——

A tunnel blotted out the light. It made him sit back, breathing heavily, and remember that ten minutes was all that remained beyond it of the journey, seeing that it cut under his own property. Then he jumped to his feet, and the blow of concussion threw him back again. The roar of the tunnel swelled with crashes and thunder sounds and the hiss of steam, and with a frantic, dislocating jar the train came to a standstill.

He exclaimed that it was an accident; but his voice was lost in the rattle of falling stones and the hubbub of voices and wounded machinery. He shouted:—

"Doris! are you there?"

"I am not in the least hurt," said the bride's voice out of the blackness. "Something dreadful has happened outside; I can hear groans. Let me—let us go and help. . . . I cannot find the door handle."

"Stay where you are," he commanded. "You are not hurt?"

"I am absolutely uninjured. But—listen—let me go."

Lord Alresford groped his way to her end of the carriage, and for answer clicked the spring lock, swung himself into the unseen, and snapped the door upon her.

"You must not move. Promise me you will not move!"

"Someone is wounded—needs help. Will you let me——"

"No! I am going myself now to see. There's a lantern. Hey, guard!"

He snatched at the arm of a man who raced past. The man, who had a lamp in his hand, swore at him.

"Let me pass. There's the deuce to pay up yonder. Jim! Thank heaven, is that you?"

"Aye, it's me." The lantern shone on a grimy fireman. "She's off the rails, and the two thirds are head over heels. Don't know how or why, but there's awful trouble—the carriages swung off the line and were battered agin the stonework. Come on."

"I'm coming to give a hand," said Alresford.

"Who's that?" snapped the fireman. "The place is alive with steam and splinters. Don't want no amateurs. Second carriage is atop of the other, and it's not a good balance, either."

"All right," Alresford said, cheerfully. "That'll just suit me. I suppose this lady is safe here?"

"Yes. Well, if you will, come on!"

The glimmer of the lantern swung forward into the blackness and was swallowed up. The two men vanished. Alresford hung back a moment to throw a few words of encouragement into the carriage window; and then he, too, was gone.

The time that followed seemed ages long to the bride. She strained her ears to catch the strange, muffled sounds with which the tunnel was filled; the gruff shouts of the rescuers; the cries and sobs of wounded and startled people; the noise of shifting rubbish and the hiss of steam. She wanted to be beside Alresford and help him; it was sickening work to sit there in the idle darkness.

He was a man. The discovery had been made long before in the worst place in the world for such revelation—a London drawing-room; here, in the groaning night of the tunnel, the fact flashed out with amazing vividness. He was her man, too, by right of handfasting and their compact; she was proud of the thought, even in the shame of her other recollections. . . . The simple soul! He went to danger as other men tripped in to dinner.

Waiting became intolerable. Something fresh was happening in front; the jarring noises were louder; voices spun back on the thick air. She laid her hand upon the door and then drew back again, mindful of her husband's words.

If he went to India! What would happen then? The future became suddenly dark to Lady Alresford; her thoughts were wordless, but their tenor was towards a numbness of depression and a jealousy towards potential Mrs. Arlingtons, who should, perhaps—some time, and because he had a wife who was no wife—ensnare an honest man and make him no better than the rest. It had been a vague possibility twenty minutes ago in the daylight; in the tunnel it became a menace and a threat.

That was the future. The present contained the fact that the tangled noises ahead were swelling, and that they were drumming danger into listening ears. She opened the carriage door, catching her breath at the audacity; then gathered boldness with anxiety, and, seeing a pin-point of light before, stumbled along the sleepers till it grew again into the guard's lantern.

A knot of men were busy upon a dark mass of wreckage. The steam was blowing off still, with a piercing hiss that made other sounds difficult to hear; but the chorus could be distinguished, and there were groans in it. The lantern, as Lady Alresford saw when she came to it, shone upon a rear-guard of outstretched figures, banked by the wreck of the derailed carriages and ministered to by a doctor, who was laboring among them as if he were in an hospital ward. He was heedless of everything but his patients, and when the woman appeared at his elbow he jumped.

"No place for you," he shouted.

"Nurse, eh? Don't look like it. Well, come on. First woman I've seen not in hysterics. Tear up this shirt for bandages."

She obeyed, and she knelt on the ground beside him while he bandaged a bloody knee and held the limb for him. She longed to go on where Alresford was, but this duty had intruded to bar the way, and its call was imperious.

"There; that's the last, they say," the doctor said presently as he stood up from a figure that two of the rescuers had laid down shortly after Lady Alresford's appearance. "Now to get 'em into fresh air. . . . I say, you're a brick."

How like——! This was another man. After all, the world must have no lack of them; else how had these poor, bruised, broken passengers been dragged out of jeopardy? The steam was turned off at last, and she could hear.

The volunteers clustered round the wounded; many of them were injured themselves by their burrowings among the debris. One of them was stark amongst the grave cases, whose removal the doctor superintended vigilantly.

"Give me that one, doctor," said Alresford's voice. "I can let him have an arm, and his understandings seem all right."

The bride shrank back into the shadow. The bridegroom was within three feet of her, and—and—was that blood upon his forehead? She stifled a cry.

"You've injured yourself," the surgeon said.

"Only a splinter. The last carriage bristled with 'em. Come on, my son."

"That's a fine fellow," he said to Lady Alresford. "He climbed on the second carriage where it trembled on the roof of the first one, and he handed the people out to the men down below. And if the lower structure had given—mark you! Oh, a fine fellow! I doubt he's got a nasty cut, though. Here, your work's done now. Run after them with this flask, and give them both a nip when you get outside, please."

There was an abiding joy in the bride's heart as she sped past the train upon her mission. The bridegroom was safe; he was also, as her heart had cried to her could not be otherwise, the bravest of these brave men. She heard some others talking of the incident as she hovered waiting to dart by a bandy chair that they made for an injured ankle: they spoke gravely of the danger that had been incurred. A first volunteer it seemed, had climbed up and had been injured by a fall. Alresford had been the second. She went out into the daylight exultant, more thankful for his escape than she dared to think.

Local help had arrived; the patients were being stacked into a trolley, and Alresford was piloting his charge across the rails towards it. Someone else stepped up, anticipating the doctor's orders, and offered brandy. Alresford administered it to his man, saw him into the truck, took a drop himself, returned the flask, and in so doing found his wife behind him.

"It's only a scratch," he said, reading her eyes, and pulling down his shirt-cuffs in some embarrassment. Then his tone changed and he sprang forward.

"Good Heaven! Your sleeve is soaked with blood; the laces are crimson on your dress. . . And I stayed up there with them! . . . . Tell me where you are hurt."

"I have not been touched. It was only—I disobeyed your orders, and went up to help after all, and so, I suppose, the stains came about. Oh, Dick, I am so glad you are safe!"

Lord Alresford looked at her with varying emotions plain to see in his eager face. He glanced round, and saw that the tunnel-folk were emerging and that he was about to become the center of interest to those that knew of his enterprise, and those that were even now hearing of it.

"It scared me," he said, "but I thank heaven you're all right. Lucky escape for the back of the train, wasn't it? I looked up the servants, and left 'em digging for our baggage in the van. They have instructions to get it taken on somehow. Do you know we are near home? Confound—here come those asses. Let's scramble up the cutting and get away."

They climbed the chalk, to the obvious astonishment of the growing crowd. At the top Lord Alresford helped his wife over the railing, and the pause was filled by a ringing cheer from below, which the doctor led boisterously. As an explanatory bellow left no doubt as to its meaning, Alresford lifted his hat and bowed gravely above the rail, and then they moved away and were swallowed up in corn and poppies, and the railway accident became, suddenly, a matter of history.

The field shimmered golden. Far away beyond it, behind the sparkling parkland, a mansion turned a solemn grey eye upon the landscape. The cirrus clouds floated in the summer sky, and a lark soared from under their feet with its song of thanksgiving.

"There's the old place," Alresford said. "Queer we should be shot here, isn't it? It is—home."

"Our home," said the bride.

The bridegroom stopped, and the red swept into his face again. He tried for words, but there were none; and the bride, pitying his confusion, put a hand into his as she faced him.

"Choose, Dick," she said. "If you stay—oh, my dear, will you care if I tell you? I would not keep you. . . . . Only—"

"You—you—you!" stammered Alresford. "Miles—oh, miles above me! I never dared to think—how could I? Why, to stay with you would be heaven, if only I could hope."

"Hope!" she said. "You dear, brave, manly thing, do you want to be told in so many words when a woman—loves you?"

There was a long silence, and the discreet lark sang itself away out of sight. Then as they turned again homewards, hand in hand, the bride gave a little wondering laugh that yet had a note of awed amazement in it.

"Dick!" she said. "Do you know, I had quite forgotten we are married!"—"Strand Magazine."

KILLED HIS CHILD

Father Shot His Daughter who Died in his Arms

Victoria, B.C., October 13.—A terrible accident occurred at Cumberland yesterday. Ex-Mayor Carthew went hunting for grouse, accompanied by his son and an 8-year-old daughter. He was about to fire and turned towards the boy when the gun was discharged, striking his daughter full in the face and breast. She died in his arms before he could reach home. The family is very widely known and respected. Mr. Carthew is almost demented over the occurrence.

Making a Holy War

Cairo, Oct. 10—Col. Mahon, the reliever of Mafeking, has just nipped in the bud an attempt at making a holy war on the part of some fanatics.

A member of the Senussi sect had crossed from the Sahara into the Soudan, where he proclaimed himself the Mahdi, and gathered around him a respectable horde. Col. Mahon set out from Khartoum with 1,500 cavalry, and coming on the fanatics, scattered them and took many of the leaders prisoners.

Russian Fleet

Paris, October 12—Official information received here shows that a formidable Russian fleet, comprising ninety warships of all classes, has left Port Arthur and has arrived at Ma San Pho, south of Corea, where the Japanese fleet has already arrived. The Russian ships have anchored within the Ma San Pho harbour, alongside the Japanese ships.

Several brigades of Russian troops have been moved forward to the Corean boundary and are now encamped on the border.

TO THE SUFFERING.

The following testimonial may be read with interest to sufferers from skin eruptions or eczema:

January, [illegible]

Dear Sirs,—I notice your advt. in a paper about your wonderful eczema cure and I feel it my duty to tell you that I was induced to try it as I had been afflicted with skin trouble in my hands for 11 years. I have tried several doctors and they done my no good. I only used one box of Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema. It has made a complete cure. I recommend it to all suffering from skin disease. My hand was so bad that the nails used to come off. You can use my name if you wish.

Yours truly,
MR. JOHN WOOD,
Peake Station, P.E.I.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh is also one of the best remedies on the market. We are daily in receipt of letters telling how much they have done for the afflicted. Miss Sarah Hill, 413 Front Street, Traverse City, Mich., writes: "I have been wonderfully helped by the use of your catarrh cure; send me another dollar's worth."

Peter D. McFadyen, Riverdale, P.E.I., writes: "I am very busy, but just drop a line to say I highly recommend your catarrh cure, it has done grand work for me, I am so much better."

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, coughs, lame back, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have bee standing for many years; the most stubborn cases will yield. For sale by Ormond & Walsh, Peterborough. 50c per box or 3 boxes for $1.25.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $500 will be paid for any case that it will not permanently cure.

Black Hills Copper Company LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000
PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - - $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jerome mineral belt of Arizona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to day.

A limited amount of the Stock is new offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

OF COLORADO

The Company is capitalized at $2,010,000, consisting of 2,010,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock.

The Property

Consists of nine patented, well developed mines and mill sites, situated in Gilpin County, Colorado. This county has already produced more than

$80,000,000 in Gold

The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk on ore to a depth of 150 to 400 feet, and a tunnel run a distance of 2,300 feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to un-water and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation

The Colorado & Southern Railroad passes directly in front of the mouth of the tunnel. All ore can be dumped therefrom directly into the cars, giving quick and cheap transportation to the mills. Large returns have been paid from the product of these mines.

—Sale of Preferred Stock

The company desires to not only push its development work and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own mill site at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ore. For that purpose it now offers for sale 200,000 shares of its Preferred Treasury Stock at 50 cents per share reserving the right to increase the price of all unsold shares thereof at any time without notice.

The Company pledges the whole net product of its mines to pay an eight per cent annual dividend on the sum paid for such stock, before any other stock receives any dividends whatever. After such dividends has been paid, the common stock shall receive a like dividend, when the surplus fund remaining shall be distributed among the common and preferred stock, share and share alike. All stock will be issued full paid and non-assessable.

THE ROSE OF THE RING

Rosalie had inherited her mother's beautiful voice.

Sometimes homely Mrs. West would stop at her work and listen, her mind going to those days when she had heard the young mother singing to her babe.

"She's like her in face, only prettier," she would say. "And with a heart as pure as gold. She's been a blessing to me sure, sure enough—the life and sunshine of the house. Many's the day I don't know what I should have done without her."

It was summer-time, and Lilac Villa presented a more cheerful appearance than when Bertha Errol had sought refuge there.

Everywhere there were signs of a young girl's graceful presence.

The white muslin window-curtains were daintily frilled, and tied back with rose-colored ribbons; mignonette and lobelia blossomed in boxes on the window sills, and the little front garden was full of creepers and flowers.

Rosalie was fond of everything that was bright and pretty, and the house, with its shabby carpets and worn furniture, had a few artistic touches about it which redeemed it from common-place.

Mrs. West had laid enough money by not to depend entirely on letting her rooms; just now she was without a lodger, and, after filling all the vases with flowers from the garden, and opening the windows to let in the summer air, Rosalie had gone out to enjoy a long walk in the sunshine.

There was a prettily-laid-out park about a mile from Lilac Villa, and in the summer-time she often sat under the trees there and read.

She had taken a book with her this morning, and she walked along with a light heart, listening to the birds singing, and watching the fleecy clouds across the deep blue of the sky.

She had been giving way to all sorts of day-dreams, letting odd fancies creep into her brain as she walked along.

By the time she reached the park, she discovered that she had let her book slip from under her arm, and, annoyed at her carelessness, she retraced her steps, eagerly scanning the dusty road for some sign of the volume.

"I wouldn't lose it for anything," she thought, her brow puckered up into a frown. "I wonder where I dropped it?

She stood looking about her hopelessly.

Evidently somebody had passed by and had picked up the book, or she would have found it before this.

She glanced up from the ground, hoping to see someone in possession of the volume.

At the same moment the sound of a voice made her start, and she encountered the gaze of a pair of handsome dark eyes.

"Are you looking for this book?" the stranger asked. "I found it just now, and I think it must belong to you."

There was something very attractive about the humorous eyes, and the lips, smiling under the dark moustache.

She liked both his face and his voice, and the frown faded from her brow, as she glanced down and saw her book in his hand.

"Yes, that is it!" she exclaimed. "I am so glad it is found. I value it very much—besides, I had made up my mind to spend all the morning in reading."

He looked at her with some surprise, as he opened the volume.

"You read Latin?" he said, half quizzically. "I should have expected it to be a fairy story."

"Latin?" she echoed. "I do not know a word of that language. Whatever made you think of such a thing?"

"Why, this book. It is in Latin, and one of ten volumes. I suppose it is my mistake. I inferred, from what you said, that you meant to read this work."

"How stupid of me!" she exclaimed. "I never thought of looking at more than the cover, when I took it from the book-case."

He gave an amused laugh.

This little maiden, with her violet eyes, and her golden hair, struck him as being very original.

There was no reason why he should not have given her back the book; but he was conscious of a desire to retain possession of it as long as possible, and he turned over the leaves, glancing at some of them.

"I am sorry you will have nothing to read," he remarked. "Before you brought it out what a pity you did not look inside, as well as at the cover."

"It does not matter," she replied, philosophically. "I like the book just as much—it will always have a story all its own for me."

She held out her hand for the volume, and he could not well keep it any longer.

"I am, at least, pleased to have had the pleasure of restoring it to you," he said. "I hope it will not be the last service I shall be permitted to render you."

"I daresay it will," Rosy said, smiling up into his face. "We are only strangers—probably we shall never meet again."

"Do you come this way often?" she asked, looking at him with perfect concern.

"Yes—that is, I have not been here before; but in future I shall be a frequent visitor to this spot."

"Then I daresay we shall see each other again. I should know your face anywhere. Would you mine?"

"I am not likely to forget it. I shall picture it to myself very often, when I am unable to see you."

"Is an artist one who takes photographs?" she asked, commencing to walk along slowly by his side.

"I wish you would," she said. "I should so much like to see a picture painted."

"Of yourself?"

"I shouldn't care who it was, if I might look at you doing it. It wouldn't be the picture I should think about—there are plenty of those to be seen everywhere—but I should like to watch it being made."

"So you shall," he answered, admiring the lovely little profile turned towards him. "What shall we call it—'A Dead Language'?"

"No, nothing dead," she replied, not understanding the meaning of his words. "Everything dead is so sad."

The brightness had gone out of her voice and a mist of tears came to her eyes.

Afraid lest the stranger should see them, she turned away from him at the park gates, and the next moment he had lost sight of her among the trees.

He strolled about for a short time, hoping to see her again.

Finding she was nowhere visible, he gave up the search, trusting to some future chance to bring her again in his path.

Fate brought them together in a manner he had not anticipated.

"The rooms are taken!" she exclaimed. "And to such a nice-spoken young gentleman! He took a fancy to the house—the flowers covering the front seemed to please him, and he's coming in this evening."

Rosy was too occupied with thoughts of the handsome stranger she had met during her walk, to evince much interest in the expected arrival, and when, later in the afternoon, Mrs. West told her to make herself as nice as she could, to receive the new-comer, the girl gave a scornful smile.

"First Aid for the Injured."

We met in Kensington High street, and Hilda informed me that she was on her way home from an ambulance class that was held every week at Lady MacGregor's.

"Every woman ought to know how to render first aid to the injured," she said, with gentle decision.

I assented warmly, and asked for particulars as to the method of procedure at these valuable gatherings.

"First, of course, we have tea," said Hilda, "and then we all go into the library and sit round the table, with the doctor at the head and the skeleton at the side."

"And can you see the skeleton from your seat?" I enquired.

"Quite as much as I want to!" replied Hilda, firmly. "We were a little late in beginning to-day," she went on, "as Mrs. De Winton had forgotten the time of the class, and of course we could not begin till she had had her tea."

"And what was the subject this afternoon?" I enquired.

Hilda turned reluctantly from the shop window she was contemplating.

"Fractures!" she said, importantly. "There are eight signs and symptoms of fractures. I can only remember one—crep—crep—it sounds something like crepe, because when the doctor mentioned it I remarked to Gertrude how strange it was that one saw so little crepe de chine this season, when it was all the rage last year. Oh! I know—crepitus! And that," she added thoughtfully, "is the one thing you are not to try and discover for yourself. It is very important to remember this."

"And what is the treatment to be?" I ventured, much impressed.

"Keep the poor dear warm and comfortable till the doctor comes!" she said, evidently quoting from a little manual she was holding in her hand. "You see, it isn't likely you would be carrying splints and bandages about with you, to say nothing of the book, and it is really safer not to attempt too much! Though of course we have all learnt to bandage. We have a boy on purpose at 6d an hour."

"Wee MacGreegor?" I suggested.

"No," said Hilda, seriously, "Ronald wouldn't stand still long enough. We have a little fellow from the Boys' Home."

"And when is the next class held?" I asked.

"Well," said Hilda, puckering her forehead, "that is rather a difficult thing to settle. You see there is always someone away, and the best thing to do is to arrange to have the classes when as few as possible are absent. This afternoon, while we were at tea, Lady MacGregor had a telegram from two of the members to say that they had been kept so long at Liberty's that they were positively obliged to have tea at Fuller's, and they didn't see how they could possibly be in time, and it would be such a pity to disturb the class."

"And what about the examination?" I asked, sternly. "What will you all do when the time of reckoning comes?"

"Oh, well," explained Hilda, "if you are absent more than once from the lectures you are not eligible for examination. There have been two lectures so far, and we have all been absent once, and I really don't see how we are to avoid being absent again. So we shall none of us be eligible for examination," she concluded cheerfully. "However, we shall have the knowledge, and that is worth more than any amount of certificates, isn't it?"—"Punch."

Reasons Why.

A correspondence has been taking place in an exchange with regard to the reason why men don't go to church, and as we know something about it, we beg to offer the following additional reasons:

Because the church won't come to them.

Because the missus goes there.

Because they want to smoke.

Because they are not allowed to show their new hats.

Because they cannot stand a man having all the conversation to himself.

Because they want exercise.

Circumstances alter cases:—"The boys are throwing stones at a poor peddler." "Outrageous." "That's what I think." "Whose boys are they?" "Yours." "Oh, well, boys will be boys. Let the children play."—Chicago "Post."

Editor—You wish position as proofreader? Applicant—Yes, sir. "Do you understand the requirements of that responsible position?" "Perfectly, sir. Whenever you make any mistakes in the paper, just blame 'em on me, and I'll never say a word."—New York "Weekly."

Anecdotal.

It is related that Sainte-Beuve detested rain. On one occasion, when he had to fight a duel, he appeared with a pistol in one hand and an umbrella in the other. "I am willing to be shot," he exclaimed, "but not to get wet."

George Meredith, the eminent novelist, is as alert and witty in his casual talk as he is in his fiction. Not long ago, in conversation with a friend, Mr. Meredith was asked his opinion of a certain obnoxious person who had lately settled in the neighborhood. "He seems to me," replied the author of "Diana of the Crossways," "to be one of the least of God's mercies."

A characteristic story of the late Sir Hector Macdonald has just reached us. Always a man of few words, when sending his only son to a public school for the first time, he addressed the following brief note to the headmaster: "Herewith boy Hector, to be made a man of"—a sentence worthy of being handed down to posterity as a remarkable example of brevity and sterling common sense.

An Englishman of somewhat questionable reputation, who was criticizing the American way of spelling, once turned to Maurice Barrymore, the actor, and said: "I'll leave it to Mr. Barrymore. Is it right to leave out the 'u' in such words as harbor, neighbor, honor, candor, etc?" "Well, about harbor and neighbor I am not sure," replied Barrymore, "but when it comes to honor and candor I leave you out."

The story is told of a Scotch preacher who gave his people long, strong sermons, and delivered them in a remarkably deliberate manner. One Sunday he asked a friend who was visiting him to occupy his pulpit in the morning. "An' were you satisfied wi' my preaching?" asked his friend, as they walked home from the kirk. "Weel," said his host, slowly, "it was a fair discourse, Will'm, a fair discourse; but it pained me at the last to see the folk looking sae fresh and wide awake. I mistrust 'twasna sae long nor sae sound as it should hae been."

When Booker T. Washington was asked by a Southerner recently to prove to a Northern audience that that section was really responsible for the introduction of slavery into the American colonies, Mr. Washington said he was reminded of the story of an old colored man who had a pig, which he sold one morning to a white man for three dollars. The white man drove off with his purchase, but on the road the pig escaped, and found its way back to Uncle Zeke's cabin. A little later, another white man came along, and Uncle Zeke sold him the same pig for another three dollars. On his way home with the pig the second purchaser encountered the first returning in search of the escaped animal. After some wrangling they decided to go back and refer the question to the old darkey. "Uncle Zeke" said number one, "didn't you sell me this pig at nine o'clock this morning?" "Sho' I did, massa." "But, Uncle Zeke," said number two, "didn't I pay you three dollars for this pig at twelve o'clock?" "Sho' you did, massa." "Well, then, who does the pig belong to?" "Sakes alive," said Uncle Zeke, "can't you white folks settle dat question between yo'selves?"

Like many Frenchmen, especially those hailing from the south of France, President Loubet is very fond of those national dishes in which garlic forms an important ingredient. Once, in his lawyer days, when he was pleading in court after having partaken of some such dish, his democratic tastes in this respect placed him in a somewhat embarrassing position. The presiding judge happened to be a man of aristocratic origin and breeding, to whom the odor of garlic was absolutely intolerable. M. Loubet rose and began his argument. He had not proceeded very far when the judge was observed to sniff rather uncomfortably and to take out a perfumed handkerchief, reinforcing it a few moments later with a smelling-bottle. These measures, however, proved of no avail as a protection from the pungent and penetrating effluvium which emanated from the future President of the republic. At last, his olfactory sense rising in open rebellion, the indignant judge shouted: "Usher, open the windows; open the doors. For heaven's sake, let out this abominable smell!" Since then M. Loubet, it is said, though he still preserves his simplicity of life, has eliminated garlic from his articles of diet.

The Value of A Character.

The captain of a large steamer was once filling up his crew for a long voyage, when a seaman came up and said:

"I want to sail wid you, sir."

"All right, my man," replied the captain. "On what line have you sailed before?"

"P. and O., sir."

"What countryman?"

"An Oirishman," was the reply.

"Well, you must get a character."

The character was obtained, and as the Irishman was presenting it another seaman came up and said he wished to join.

"What line were you on before?" asked the captain.

"Cunard, sir."

"What countryman?"

"English, your honor."

"All right. Go forward."

Shortly afterwards, as the two were swilling the decks in a heavy sea, the Englishman was swept overboard, bucket and all. Unmoved, Paddy finished his job and then went to the captain's cabin.

"Come in," responded the officer to his rap. "What's up now?"

"Do you remember Bill Smith, the Englishman and Cunarder?" queried Pat.

"Certainly, my man."

"You took him without a character?"

"I believe so; what of that?"

"He's gone overboard wid your bucket."

His Excuse.

"You can't go inside," said the doorkeeper of the village theater, wherein a certain "Uncle Tom's Cabin" aggregation were holding forth. "You are drunk."

"Drunk!" echoed the applicant for admission, who was lavishly and luridly lighted up inside. "Courseh I'm—hic—drunk! Why — goodgosh'mighty!—do you s'pose I'd—hic—wanta see your darned old show if I wasn't—hic—drunk?"—"Smart Set."

Teacher (to pupil, whom he has caught mimicking him)—Tom Jones, if you do not stop acting like a fool, I shall send you from the class.

THE STERLING OIL CO.

brought in on Monday the 20th of July one of the biggest gushers in Sour Lake It is situated in the Wirt-Davis tract and has been producing oil continuously since it came in, the Spindletop Power Company taking the entire output from the well. Besides owning this the Company owns two other valuable pieces of Oil Land at [illegible] Lake, where they have just let a contract for drilling a second [illegible] in the gusher district. The Company has acquired a twelfth interest in 87 acres of land near Saratoga and a well will soon be drilled on this land, the indications are that fine gushers will be developed in this territory. The Company also owns property in Beaumont, Texas where there are two wells.

All who purchase the stock prior to September 15th. will participate in the September dividend. The price of the stock is 20 cents per share. No orders accepted for less than 50 shares.

COPETE MINING CO.

27 William Street, New York

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them are—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now clear and undisputed title to all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

STOCK MARKETS

The following advices were received by Mr. J. Cummings & Co., 166 Simcoe street, over their private wire—

New York, October 13.—Insiders say regular dividend A. C. P. be declared today. Railroad will assuredly do better. Dividend action on Reading today tomorrow will draw attention again to the fact that prosperity is not mythical. Erie first and common, and S. P. yield by 5.93 to 6.46 on the investment. The opportunities are golden. The continued decline in Denver preferred, a 5 per cent. stock would otherwise be ominous, but Geo. J. Gould never protects anything. Keep tabs on Pennsylvania. It promises to go better. Bears trying to dislodge sugar predicting par.

New York, October 13.—There was some rallying power to the stock market late yesterday, but at its best it was rather feeble and the views of the bulls this morning are rather lacking in confidence. There is a wide difference of opinion among the traders. Some say that stocks are a scale, and others that stocks are a buy, and thus the trader is confronted with two sides and very little to prompt him to jump in either direction. Randolph says stocks must go lower, while Macdonald says stocks should be bought. Dick says there is little support at present prices, while Harriman takes the stand that stocks must take their course. There are favorable factors as well as unfavorable influence at present. The news is scattered. It is a question which is the stronger, the bull or the bear side. The bears had the great success of late. The money market promises to be better. It is pointed out that big commission houses are all loaded up with time money. The business outlook is being judged largely by the condition of the stock market, and under the circumstances the general ruling at the moment is bearish. The iron and steel industrials is bearish in the extreme.

Chicago, October 13.—The movement in wheat market today was rather irregular. The feeling was mixed. The primary movement reflected some accumulation and the clearances in addition to the world's visible supply served to create some uneasiness among holders on the outside and commission houses sold considerable stuff. On the other hand shorts were nervous and covered on all declines. The crop news was mixed and the advices from the North-west were conflicting. On the close there was a mixed feeling. The market for corn was rather steady. The crop news was bearish, but the foreign advices favored the bulls. The statistics in the most instances were about as expected. The cash demand was fair. On the close feeling was rather mixed. Oats were steady. The statistics in the main were about as expected. Provisions showed the effects of good buying on the dips. The movement of hogs was moderate; there was a fair cash demand and the shipments were fair.

Curious Bits of News.

Paper clothes are the latest novelty, according to the "World's Paper Trade Review." This journal tells us that a Berlin tailoring-house is now offering complete paper suits for $2.50. The prospectus gives full instructions for measuring oneself, and the firm also advertises in foreign journals, evidently expecting to do an export business. The material is woven and pressed, of a dull cream color, and apparently not very light.

Boston has recently added an automobile policeman to its police department. He is expected to arrest automobilists who run their cars too fast. Every large city has had bicycle policemen for a long time, to keep the wheelmen in order, and officers on horseback are common in the parks and public drives where men are tempted to speed their horses. The next thing to come will be flying-machine policemen, to keep the people sailing in the air from violating the speed ordinances.

An eminent London doctor, whose nervous system had suffered severely through overwork, recently took a trip from Staines to Oxford, having himself towed all the way. He is now advising every patient whose nerves are unstrung to undergo "the towing cure." The quiet there is in a boat which is being slowly towed, the gentle ripple which follows the boat, and the soothing motion, together with the fresh air, are said to have a wonderful effect upon the nerves.

President Loubet, in calling on the Duke of Cambridge, held converse with a prince who remembers the days of Louis XVIII. and Charles X., knew Louis Philippe and Napoleon III. and has twice seen a republic as the ruling factor in France. Moreover, the Duke of Cambridge fought alongside the French troops in the Crimea, and is the only survivor of that campaign who held a brigade command. Napoleon Bonaparte died when the Duke of Cambridge was two years old, and the transference of the body of the Emperor from St. Helena to the Invalides was undertaken when the duke had completed his majority. Four revolutions in France have occurred during the duke's lifetime.

Bulgaria Calls Reserves

Sofia, Bulgaria, October 13.—The War Office today ordered the complete mobilization of the first and second classes of reserves resident in the Kostendil district and of the Thirteenth Macedonian Infantry. This step, it is understood, was taken as a precautionary measure in view of the repeated provocative acts of the Turks on the frontier.

A Proposition of Special Merit to be Offered Canadian Investors

STONY PASS MINING CO.
SILVERTON, COLO.

has appointed a local Canadian Fiscal Agent, in the person of Messrs. Thomas Patterson & Son, brokers, who will make an announcement in a day or two that will interest the investors of Canada. It is proposed to send a representative from Canada to visit the mines and property of the company, and report thereon so as to prove beyond doubt its splendid worth. The proposition is one that will bear the closest investigation. The company is splendidly officered by men of honor and business integrity, known throughout the country for their high character and business ability.

A meeting is being arranged to take place at an early date, when those who propose to invest in the Company's stock will have the privilege of selecting one of the number to visit the mines.

AN EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY

FOR BOTH LARGE AND SMALL INVESTORS

Owing to valuable Patents having been granted this Company, we are desirous of extending our business to the Dominion of Canada. Owing to the Customs duties, the extra cost in transportation and the numerous expenses attached, and the delays in deliveries in shipping goods from one country to another, it is absolutely necessary that we should have a factory in the Dominion, that we may be in a position to meet the immediate wants of the business.

The articles that we make from our Patent Fabric are too numerous to mention, and it is not necessary that we go into the details of the merits of our goods, as they are already in use to a large extent and have no equal. Our goods are covered by several patents, and the profit on the goods is large, averaging from 25 to 100 per cent, thus affording the company large revenue to meet all its obligations

In order to secure funds to equip a plant in the Dominion of Canada we will offer to the people of Canada $100,000 of our Bonds paying ten per cent. interest per annum.

Experience has shown that stocks based upon sound industrial enterprises have never been equalled from the standpoint of legitimate profit. For instance, a few hundred dollars invested in the Bell Telephone Company's stock in the beginning of the enterprise now commands thousands of dollars, after having yielded large dividends annually. Of course opportunities for such profitable investments do not present themselves every day, and it is also very true that a vast amount of capital has been misdirected in the endeavor to exploit inventions and enterprises which shrewd and far seeing investors should have recognized as impractical. But as regards this enterprise even the most conservative must admit it has possibilities of development which are almost incalculable and which have already been demonstrated in a practical manner. We have no speculative elements—this is a sound business proposition, and the patents which we own are worth several million dollars, as there can only be one fabric of this kind and that is ours.

All the above facts are simple statements of the truth and can be fully substantiated to the satisfaction of all investors.

The business is no experiment, the incorporators of this Company have made it their business for a great many months past and understand all the details, the prospects are therefore bright, and brighter than those of many other opportunities.

This Company is not a promotors company, every dollar goes to enhance the value of the property and business and increase the capacity. There is nothing speculative in this proposition, the enterprises are undertaken for industrial purposes only to make profits by the operation and development of the business.

Considering that the enterprise is already upon an established basis with a certainty of profitable future expansion, we feel warranted in the assertion that this is an attractive proposition to investors whether large or small.

The price of these Bonds are one dollar each, and will be issued in any number wanted. With every purchaser of each five Bonds we will give as a bonus, one share of stock of the Company, the par value of which is five dollars per share, thus assuring interest on the investment, and with the stock which is bound to increase you will have for nothing. These Bonds will be issued for five years. Persons desiring to avail themselves of this opportunity want to send their remittance at once.

First Class Mining Proposition.

The Anaconda Gold Mining Co.

Home Office: 412 Merchants Loan and Trust Bldg.
135 Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

This is one of the best propositions ever placed before the Canadian investor. The Company owns 600 acres in the celebrated Black Hills District, South Dakota, comprising 32 claims. The track is unquestionably on the great Homestake belt, being located directly between the wonderful Homestake mine and the Clover Leaf mine. Two shafts have already been sunk, the main one being down 154 feet, with capacity of going 1000 feet. The Company has also installed an Ingersoll-Sargeant air compressor and drills, 125 horse power boiler, steam pumps, and in fact everything needed for actual operation, with the exception of its stamp mills; which will be installed at once. The vein of gold-bearing quartz traversing the Company's property is very rich. Assays have run from $3 to $54.33 per ton.

The Company has a capital of 1,500,000 shares, divided into 750,000 preferred and 750,000 common, par value $1 per share, fully paid up and non-assessable. The treasury stock has been made preferred stock to the amount of 25 cents a share. Out of the first dividends 25 cents per share will be paid to the owners of this preferred stock before holders of common stock receive any share of the profits. After the 25 cents has been paid to the shareholders of preferred stock, then all alike share in the dividends. This means nothing less than that the first investors in the enterprise will have all their money returned to them before any dividends are declared to the rank and file o investors.

A limited amount of Stock has been placed on the Canadian market. Full particulars and copy of prospectus may be obtained from MR. R. J. KIDD, or the undersigned Agent for Peterborough city

AN OPPORTUNITY

C. C. Pugh, postmaster at Adel, Dallas county, Iowa, and Dr. W. J. Williams, surgeon for the Milwaukee railroad at that place, are very successful mining men. They understand the western country and know the mines and their possibilities. They are selling Williams Fork Stock at 10 cents a share. This stock went off the market at 25 cents July 1 this year and there is none to be had of the company at any price. They guarantee this stock to be gilt edge $40,000 worth of ore on the dump now. If you want 1,000 shares of this stock send draft for $100 to Adel State Bank, Adel, Iowa, and they will send you your certificate for same. If you want 500 shares send draft for $50 to said bank. Pugh and Williams do their business through this large bank, hence you are safe in sending money to them. Dividends will come soon from this property and it will then go to $1.00 per share. It is in Colorado and officials of that state write that it is a magnificent property. If you know this property and the people back of it you would want this stock. For reference write Hon. Geo. W. Clarke, Adel, Iowa, member of the Legislature. He will tell you as to our reliability. If you buy 1,000 shares of this stock we send you a guarantee and you will also thank us for calling your attention to it. An honest proposition. Write immediately with draft as this stock will be offered but a few days at 10 cents. Last shipment of ore went over $120 to the ton.

A Successful Entertainment

The concert given in connection with the Riverdale Sunday School on Monday evening was a success. A choice programme was rendered, and a very pleasant and profitable evening was spent.

St. Luke's Church

The Mothers' Meeting will be held this afternoon at three o'clock. Remember the illustrated lecture on "Ben Hur" in St. Luke's Sunday School on Monday, October 19th at eight o'clock. Rev. H. C. Dixon will give the lecture.

Unveiling the Monuments

Members of the local camps of the Woodmen of the World are reminded of the ceremony to take place to-morrow, when the monuments of Brothers Stewart and Waldon are to be unveiled. A full attendance of members is requested.

Barnardo Home Girls

Yesterday twenty-eight children left the Peterborough Barnardo home in charge of Miss Gibbs, for Ontario County, where they will all be placed in comfortable homes. They are all under eleven years of age. A number of boys from the Toronto branch have been applied for by residents here. The supply, however, is not equal to the demand.

Davey's Body Found

Lindsay Post: The body of Albert Davey, who was drowned in Sturgeon Lake a week ago Saturday, was recovered yesterday afternoon by a party patrolling the lake in Mr. Brown's yacht. It was found near Graham's landing, and in his pockets was found fifteen cents, tobacco and pipe. Dr. Burrows, coroner, was notified. An inquest was held at Sturgeon Point today.

Attorney-General Joins

Globe: The Attorney-General has consented to become a party to the suit brought by the Trent Valley Woollen Manufacturing Company to prevent William Wynne, of Campbellford, from filling in the Trent River. Mr. Wynne has been making new land by dumping earth into the river to the detriment of the mills. As it is a waterway, the Attorney-General joins in the suit.

Should Observe the Law

The attention of The Times has been called to the habit bicycle riders have of taking the wrong side of the road. They probably do not know that there is a stringent law regulating bicycling. A few days ago a wheelman was very nearly run down by a rig on George street and because the driver did not turn to the wrong side, he became abusive. The police would do well to make an example of one or two of such people.

Central Milling Company

The second annual meeting of the shareholders of the Central Milling Company was held yesterday in the Foresters' Hall. The reports showed the company to be in a flourishing condition financially. The following directors were elected: D. Carlow, president; G. F. Warde, secretary-treasurer; J. Stoddard, G. Taylor, W. Hall, J. W. Lucas, J. Madill. The shareholders include many of the most prosperous farmers in Peterborough county.

To Visit Their Cottages

Yesterday a number of Stony Lake cottagers went up the lake to take a last look at their cottages and fix up for the winter. The low water has, it is feared, played havoc with some of the floating wharves, which are left stranded and badly twisted. Amongst those who went up yesterday are Mr. and Mrs. Moldrum and Mr. and Mrs. Nugent. They took the train to Lakefield, and the Alert to the lake, and will return on Friday.

Y. W. C. A. Convention

Plans are being completed for the national convention of the Young Women's Christian Associations of Canada, which is to be held in Toronto October 29th to November 1st in the hall of the Young Women's Christian Guild, McGill street, and Association Hall. Rev. Dr. Elmore Harris, the President of the Toronto Bible Training School, will conduct a Bible study course, Friday and Saturday mornings, October 30th and 31st, at 10.30, and will also speak on Sunday evening, November 1st. His Honor, the Lieutenant-Governor has consented to preside on Friday evening, October 30th, at Association Hall at the meeting at which Mr. John R. Mott will speak on the world's Student Christian Federation. Mrs. Margaret E. Sangster will also speak on that evening.

PERSONAL MENTION

Movements of the People—What They are Doing and Saying.

—Ven. Archdeacon Casey, of Lindsay, was in town yesterday.

—Mr. George A. Jordan, Lindsay, was in town yesterday a guest at the Snowden House.

—Miss Barclay and Miss Stephenson, of Whitby, are the guests of their cousin, Mrs. Crane, Water street.

—Miss McWilliams, of Brooklyn, N.Y., is home on a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John McWilliams, Ashburnham.

—Toronto News—Mrs. W. Claude Fox, of Brunswick avenue, has been visiting Mrs. J. R. Stratton, of Peterborough, for the past ten days. She will return home this week.

—Mr. W. Dunton, the genial ticket agent of the Grand Trunk Railway, has been elected a member of the Canadian Ticket Agents' Association at the annual meeting, which is being held in Halifax, N.S.

—Mr. J. H. McClellan returned yesterday from Wellington, where he has been for a week with his son, Mr. W. G. McClellan, manager Metropolitan Bank, who, we regret to say, has been very ill. His many friends in town will be pleased to learn that Mr. McClellan is recovering. He was to have been married to Miss MacAlpine, daughter of Dr. MacAlpine, Lindsay, on Thursday next, but the wedding has of course been postponed.

Is Little Guarded

Berlin October 13.—The Czar has made a pleasant impression on the townspeople during his stay at Darmstadt. He walks tranquilly about the streets, attended by one or two adjutants, looks in the shop windows, buys anything he fancies and often stands at a ground-floor window of the Old Palace smoking cigarettes and looking out at the people passing in the street. The guardians of his person are rarely visible and the Czar seems to be without any nervousness.

—The Y.M.C.A. is making a heroic effort to get clear of debt. It is a worthy object and should be supported.

HOT BEVERAGES

What to Use in Place of Tea and Coffee

Many drink tea and coffee against their better judgement because they require a hot drink at meal time.

They know that by the use of tea and coffee they are only drugging themselves but they struggle along and continue to use one or the other. To these people Postum Cereal Coffee is a great help for many people find well boiled Postum superior in flavor to coffee to say nothing of its great health restoring qualities.

The effect upon those who leave off tea and coffee and take on Postum is very marked for the old time coffee ails such as heart trouble, kidney disease, nervousness and other ills soon disappear as if by magic. The Postum makes new red blood and this is shown in the rosy cheeks and clear complexion that replace the blotched sallow skin of the coffee drinker. A young school miss of Alva, Okla., says of Postum: "I have used it now for over a year and my complexion and general health show the change. Before that time I drank tea and coffee and my complexion was sallow and muddy. I also had almost constant dull headaches. I realized that I must give up tea and coffee but hung onto them because I felt the need of a hot drink at meal times.

"One day I heard Postum so well spoken of I decided to try it and I bless the day I did so. I dropped coffee and took up Postum and now my dull headaches have disappeared, my complexion is fresh and rosy, eyes bright and mind clear. I sleep well now and I owe it all to using Postum in place of coffee.

"The matron of the Young Ladies' Boarding House at the Alva Normal School has adopted Postum as a standard drink, as she is positive the students study and get along better on Postum than on any other drink.

"A lady friend of mine had a son who was a nervous wreck, due, so his doctor said, to coffee. The lady tried Postum and the young man relished it so he drank it in preference to coffee and in a few weeks he was like an entirely new person. I know of lots more cases too." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

AN INQUEST ORDERED

The Death of Henry Weese to be Investigated

Some additional light has been thrown on the death of Henry Weese, who was killed at Havelock a few days ago.

Yesterday, Dr. McWilliams, coroner, visited Havelock, and on his return had a conference with County Crown Attorney Wood, the outcome being that an inquest will be held.

KILLED AT HAVELOCK

An Engineer Named Bryant Killed Yesterday

Another sad fatality occurred at Havelock yesterday when Engineer Bryant lost his life. It appears that Bryant's engine was standing on a siding, and was struck by some box cars and wrecked. The escaping steam scalded him so badly that he died on his way to Toronto, where he was being hurried for treatment.

Bryant belongs to North Bay and is a married man with a family.

REGIMENTAL MATCHES

They are to be Held at the Ranges on Thanksgiving Day

Headquarters, Peterborough,
Oct. 12th, 1903.

The Regiment will parade in drill order at the Rifle Ranges, on Thursday, Oct. 15th, at 8.30 a.m., for the purpose of participating in the annual Regimental Rifle Matches.

By order.
D. WALKER, captain
Adjutant.

BULLET IN HIS TEMPLE

Suicide of a Former Resident of Norwood Village

William S. Russell, who formerly lived in Norwood, who had been for twenty years in the employ of James Coristine & Co., of Montreal, was found almost dead at his desk in the company's warehouse this morning shortly after he had begun his work for the day. A revolver shot summoned the other employees, and when they reached the spot they found the man unconscious, with a bullet wound in the head and a smoking revolver lying close at hand. A removal was quickly made to the General Hospital, where death followed at 6 o'clock this evening. No reason can be given for the man's action, except that despondency had been noticed of late. Russell came originally from Norwood, where his relatives still reside.

THE FORTNIGHTLY CLUB

Annual Meeting and Election of Officers Yesterday Afternoon

The annual meeting of the Fortnightly Club was held yesterday afternoon in the Y.M.C.A. parlour. Amongst those present were: Mrs. Macfarlane Wilson, Mrs. Boucher, Mrs. Eardley-Wilmot, Mrs. W. H. Moore, Mrs. R. F. McWilliams and Messrs. Eardley-Wilmot, W. Salisbury, E. J. Toker, D. Hughes-Charles, J. H. Burnham, R. H. R. Kenner, J. Jeffires, R. F. McWilliams, Joseph Garvin, Sheriff Hall and Dr. McNulty.

After routine, the election of officers took place, with the following results:

President—Rev. J. C. Davidson.

Vice-President—J. H. Burnham.

Sec.-Treas.—Joseph Garvin.

Executive Committee: Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Eardley-Wilmot, Mrs. Boucher, and Messrs. Kenner, Hughes-Charles, Sheriff Hall and Dr. McNulty.

The executive committee will meet in a few days to arrange the programme for the season.

THE NEW CAPITAL

Tumut is Finally Selected as Capital of Australia

Melbourne, October 14.—The federal House of Representatives has by ballot selected Tumut for the federal capital. The New South Wales members wanted Lyndhurst, while the Victorians were divided between Bombala and Tumut. When Bombala was rejected, all the Victorians supported Tumut, which is nearest to Melbourne. The House decided that an area comprising 1,000 square miles shall constitute the federal territory, which will make the Murray River the southern boundary and Murrumbidgee the northern boundary.

The people of New South Wales object to surrendering so large an area, which will make the territory adjoin Victoria, and it is probable that the Government of New South Wales will withhold its consent.

REAL ESTATE SALES

Messrs J. T. O'Connell & Co. Have a Good September Record

Messrs. J. T. O'Connell & Co., the enterprising real estate brokers, have handed the Times the following list of transactions made through their office during the month of September. It shows that real estate business in town is quite active:

Mr. A. Fairbairn's house and lot 11 Bonacord street, to Mr. Ed. Hickey.

Mr. Saml. Stewart, house and lot, 306 Dublin street, John Fowler.

Tangney Estate, house and lot, 100 Victoria Ave., to F. B. Duck.

Mrs. McLennan's, house and lot, 22 Elm street, to Edward Barrett.

J. M. Donivan's house and lot 22 Gilmour street, to A. K. Richardson.

Jas. Irvine's house and lot, 348 McDonnel street to J. M. Donivan.

Ed. Barrett's, house and lot, 167, McDonnel street, to Mrs. McLennan.

Wm. Bogart's house and lot, Munroe, ave., Ashburnham, to Henry Fox.

Mrs. M. A. Wood's, house and lot, Stewart street, to D. Hunter.

Jas. Lewis, building lot, Aylmer st., to A. A. McIntyre.

R. Revington's farm, Monaghan, to R. H. Leary.

T. J. Perdue's farm, Ennismore, 100 acres, to P. Duffy.

Geo. Taylor's farm, Otonabee, 103 acres, to Thos. G. Gibbs.

Andrew Knox's farm, Asphodel, 200 acres, to Fred. Kincaid.

The total amount of the sales is $45,330.

"I wrote to Dr. Pierce for advice though I thought surely I would die."

"After my baby came in January, [illegible]," writes Mrs. Nancy Abeir, of St. Paul, Ark., "I suffered severely from all sorts of aches and pains, until the following May, when I read one of your pamphlets treating on female diseases. I wrote to Dr. Pierce for advice, although I thought surely I would die, as our physician told me I was more liable to die than to get well; your fatherly advice caused my health to be restored. I took five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, three of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and three vials of 'Pellets,' together with your other remedies, and I am now able to do all my work."

Weak and sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free, and so obtain without charge or fee the advice of a specialist upon diseases peculiar to women. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

The invitation to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free, is not to be confused with offers of "free medical advice" made by irresponsible persons who are not physicians and are professionally and legally disqualified for the practice of medicine.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a safe and reliable remedy for the cure of womanly ills. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

FREE. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 50 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

—The ladies' gymnasium class, in connection with the Y.W.C.A. will not meet on to-morrow evening, on account of Thanksgiving, but will meet next Thursday. Those who intend to join should do so at this meeting.

The Flood at Patterson

Paterson N.J., October 14. — This morning thousands of men women and children, employed in mills and factories could not go to work on account of the mills and factories being shut down. The heaviest damage in Paterson was to the manufacturers. Conservative estimates place the loss at two millions. Police and firemen have been rescuing families from upper floors or roofs since Saturday. The water continues to fall.

The House Will Not Dissolve for Present

Not Until War Office is Fixed Up, Lord Stanley Speaks

London, Oct. 14—Mr. Chamberlain is now resting at his residence in Birmingham, and is not engaged to speak for another fortnight. He will utilize the interval to elaborate his scheme and prepare a reply to the objections raised by his opponents. Meanwhile the fiscal campaign is being vigorously pursued in the country. Speeches will be delivered daily by political leaders, particularly of the Liberal party.

Tin Plate Industry.

Mr. Chamberlain's reference to the condition of the tin plate industry has been strongly criticized, the experts pointing out that, though the trade with the United States has decreased, yet there is a great increase in the number of mills working in Great Britain, and the trade is flourishing.

Sir John Jenkins, formerly Liberal-Unionist member of Parliament for Carmarthen, and chairman of Swansea Metal Exchange, speaking before the Swansea Harbor Trust tonight, said that the alarmist reports as to the condition of the tin trade were unwarranted. The first nine months of the present year compared with two years ago showed an increase of 18,000 tons. No tin plate bars had been imported since early in 1901, proving that Wales was able to compete satisfactorily with the world, and was able to supply bars at a rate which gave no encouragement to American "dumping."

Ridiculed Chamberlain.

Sir Henry Fowler, Liberal, addressed an enthusiastic meeting to-night in Glasgow. He declared the country was stronger financially than ever before. He ridiculed Mr. Chamberlain's contention of declining trade, and said that the colonies needed no bribe to keep within the empire. Where one door was shut on a British industry another was opened. The country was well able to hold its own in the present commercial struggle.

Austen Chamberlain, the new Chancellor of the Exchequer, replying to a vote of congratulation at Acock's Green, Worcestershire, his parliamentary constituency, tonight, said that he regretted that the new issues had cost the government some valued supporters, and declared himself in entire harmony with Mr. Balfour's program as outlined at Sheffield.

Policy Needs Revision.

There was a great danger, he said, in complacently assuming that Great Britain's fiscal policy needed no revision. He declared that it was against all the canons of sound finance that the income tax, the nation's first reserve in time of war, should stand at eleven pence in time of peace.

Mr. Chamberlain announced that the Government would not dissolve until the lessons of the South African War Commission report had been applied and the War Office reorganized.

The foregoing interesting announcement confirms the general impression that it is the government's intention to meet parliament and proceed with business leaving the fiscal problem as far as any attempt at legislation is concerned.

Lord Stanley, the new Postmaster-General, in a speech at Bolton, declared himself in favor of Mr. Balfour's Sheffield program, but opposed to Mr. Chamberlain's food taxing project.

London, Oct. 13—Referring to the proposal that Canada should form a military camp similar to the British institution at Aldershot, the Liverpool Mercury says that a highly trained and thoroughly efficient military force might be constituted in Canada were such a plan followed, and the Dominion would then feel that it could look to its own defence, without imposing any extra burden on the military resources of the Mother Country.

London, Oct. 12—The Post's special correspondent in Canada writes:—"French Canadians generally are convinced that Mr. Chamberlain's scheme includes compulsory military service."

He says that an Ottawa Minister probably the next Premier, told him that he would be ready to go to the country on Chamberlain's scheme and carry the election, provided that no rider were tacked on about any contribution for Imperial defence.

London, October 13.—The Financial News says:—"The Tariff Reform League has secured a valuable asset in the person of the Hon. George Foster, who is generally recognized as one of the ablest of Canadian statesmen. The Liberals cannot reply by getting the present Liberal Finance Minister, of Canada as a counterblast, for both parties in the Dominion are as one on this question."

Successfully Rescued

Mr. Harry Gibson of Kingston, was rescued from an enemy that relentlessly pursued him for years

Mr. Gibson was born and brought up in Kingston. By profession he is a school teacher. He received his training in Queen's University, where he took a course in arts and medicine that well befits him to talk on almost any subject.

The enemy that for 25 years relentlessly pursued Mr. Gibson is a menace to our entire population—it is the demon, Catarrh.

Mr. Gibson says:—"For years I was never free from Catarrh of the nose and throat. It bothered me winter and summer and kept me so continually coughing and hawking that I found it a great impediment to the proper performance of my duties at school. I used every available means of obtaining a cure, took bottle after bottle of medicine prescribed by local doctors, but never got more than temporary relief. I consulted a well-known specialist in the States, but after spending a considerable amount of money with him to no advantage, was forced to look elsewhere for relief, which I first received from Catarrhozone.

I consider Catarrhozone a genuine cure for Catarrh. It drove the loathsome disease completely out of my system, and to-day I am as well as if I never knew what the word Catarrh implied."

A straightforward proof of cure, coming from a well known gentleman like Mr. Gibson carries conviction of the fact with it that Catarrhozone does all that is claimed for it. As a cure for Catarrh and Bronchitis it positively has no equal. All druggists, price $1.00; small size, 25 cents. By mail from Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

DISQUIET IN GREAT BRITAIN PREVAILS OVER SERIOUS SITUATION IN EAST

Russian Troops are Being Rushed By Rail to the Frontier, Japan Ready

Mysterious Movements of the Fleets of Both Powers

London, October 15.—The alarming reports from the far east are causing serious uneasiness among British officials, in spite of reassuring statements emanating from St. Petersburg it is believed that hostilities between Russia and Japan cannot be long delayed and a few believe that in the event of war it could be made to take such a course that Great Britain would be freed from obligation to support Japan.

It is in this fear that Great Britain may become involved with Russia that is disturbing Mr. Balfour's cabinet and the high officials of the army and navy. Should hostilities once break out no one can see where they would end.

CZAR'S JOURNEY POSTPONED.

The peculiar official explanation of the postponement of the Czar's visit to Rome, "owing to circumstances over which he has no control," is interpreted in some quarters to mean that the threatening outlook in far eastern affairs calls for the Emperor's presence in Russia.

A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Kobe, Oct. 12, reports that the situation is somewhat easier, but that the tone of the press is distinctly bellicose, while the same paper's correspondent at Genzan says that several Russian officers who have been suddenly recalled to join their regiments.

Other special dispatches describe Russian war preparations, etc., and the newspapers, which are intensely interested in the development owing to the Anglo-Japanese alliance, are already publishing maps and estimates of the naval and military forces of the prospective belligerents.

TAKES LESS HOPEFUL VIEW.

Even Baron Hayashi, who heretofore has ridiculed all suggestions of war, was not so optimistic last night. Indirectly he admits the possibility of war by expressing the hope that in the event of a crisis Japan will have the active sympathy of its ally Great Britain.

While refusing to credit the reports of an ultimatum having been delivered, Baron Hayashi admitted that the diplomatic situation had changed since Oct. 8.

Che-Foo, the source of the latest alarming news, is several hundred miles from Ma-San-Pho, so the reports of Japanese military movements there are likely to be a repitition of similar stories circulated last week, which later accounts minimized. The Foreign Office says it has no confirmation of the reports of the Japanese military movements at Ma-San-Pho.

NO NEWS OF AN ULTIMATUM.

Deprecating the rumors of a Japanese ultimatum to Russia, Baron Hayashi said he had no information of such a character, adding that had Japan taken this action "the Anglo-Japanese treaty would have necessitated my being immediately notified," so that he might inform the British Government.

It was announced at the Foreign Office this afternoon in regard to the general situation in the far east and the position created by the continued presence of the Russian forces in Manchuria with the powers having treaty rights with China affecting their position and that of their subjects in the Chinese Empire, including Manchuria, would require that such rights be maintained, whatever arrangement Russia makes with China. If these rights are respected the British officials consider it improbable that either Japan or any power will be disposed to thwart Russia's desire to safeguard her special interests in Manchuria or do anything which may threaten the peace in the far east.

RIDICULE RUSSIA'S CONTENTION.

Yokohama, October 15.—The announcement by M. Lessar, the Russian minister to China, that the Manchurian convention between Russia and China had lapsed is received here with ridicule.

Dispatches from Chee-Foo report that a Russian warship and a transport with [illegible] troops left Port Arthur Oct 4 for Corea. Sixty Japanese civilians left Port Arthur Oct. 10 for Nagasaki. The Russian forces at New Chwang are reported to have been increased.

General Kodama, the Japanese Home Minister, has been appointed chief assistant to the military staff. The premier and the ministers for war, navy and foreign affairs had a simultaneous audience of the Emperor today.

JAPAN MUST HAVE HELP.

Paris, October 15.—Speaking of the Russo-Japanese situation today M. Flourens, the former Foreign Minister of France, said: "Japan must have another power behind her or else she will not take the offensive."

An attache of the Foreign Office declared that he did not think Russia would draw France into a conflict at present. He added that the cabinets at St. Petersburg and Paris were in complete accord and expressed the opinion that the postponement of the Czar's visit to Rome was not due to the attitude of the socialists, but to the situation in the far east.

RUSSIAN WARSHIPS ON THE WAY.

Port Said, Egypt, October 15.—The Russian battleship Czarevitch and the Russian armored cruiser Bayan arrived here today, bound for Chinese waters. The Czarevitch proceeded today.

Port Arthur, Oct. 12.—The Tokio correspondent of the newspaper Novoi Krai today sends his paper a most warlike despatch. He says the Japanese press is pointing out that if Japan engages in war with Russia it will not be on account of the latter Government's occupation of Manchuria, but in order to establish Japan among the Continental powers. The correspondent adds:

"Japan's preparations are more active than ever. The war party, led by Minister of War Terauchi and Foreign Minister Komura, has received many mighty accessions. It transpires that during the negotiations with Russia, Japan, on September 4th, threatened serious measures unless a definite reply was received within three weeks to her demand for the evacuation of Manchuria.

"Under the influence of Marquis Ito, however, Japan subsequently decided not to take definite steps toward war until the termination of the period Russia fixed for the evacuation of Manchuria, namely, October 8th.

"Meanwhile preparations for hostilities are proceeding. Part of the reserves have been called out. The Mikado has sent his personal adjutant, Major Ro, to Northern China, to inspect places suitable for Japanese bases, and also to ascertain if China will co-operate with Japan against Russia, pointing out that Japan's object is to secure the return of Manchuria to the original sceptre, provide for a colonization field, and open trading for herself.

"Japan has organized a huge spy system, embracing merchants, workmen and photographers, to watch the Russians. The Japanese staff already have accurate maps of Manchuria, and the Amur region."

DESIRE PEACE AT SOFIA

Details of the Austro-Russian Reform Scheme Awaited

Sofia, Bulgaria, October 14.—The details of the new Austro-Russian reform scheme are awaited here with the greatest interest. A dispatch from Constantinople says that the Austrian and Russian ambassadors presented their proposals to the Porte today.

The government here is taking the strictest precautions to prevent insurgents from crossing the frontier. One band is reported to have been fired on by Bulgarian troops near Rila today while trying to assist a crowd of fugitives who were being pursued by the Turks. This incident is considered to be evidence of the government's correct intention.

Desperate fighting is reported to have taken place at [illegible], in the district of Dibra, Oct. 8. Three bands engaged a body of [illegible] Turks and lost twenty-five men. After several hours fighting Boris Sarafoff, with reinforcements of [illegible] insurgents, arrived on the scene and killed all save forty of the Turks.

MR. FIELDING'S STATEMENT

Its Words in an Interview with a Correspondent of a London Paper

London, October 14.—Sir Percy Girouard, speaking to the Canadian Press said: "South Africa offers a fine field to Canadian engineers. The labor troubles there are the chief difficulty. When these are settled general prosperity will set in. There is no bad feeling between the Boers and the British in the cities. In Johannesburg mining is nearly as good as before the war. I will remain in South Africa as long as I can assist Lord Milner, but will probably visit Canada in the spring."

CANADA SHOULD COPY.

Col. Otter, who is the guest of the Imperial Government at the military manoeuvres said yesterday: "I was greatly impressed with the fine marching of the infantry, which is the best marching, on the whole in the world. Another striking point is the ability of the British private soldier to work for himself since the war and the realistic way the manoeuvres are now carried out. I would like to see the British equipment adopted in Canada. The outfit is ten pounds lighter and much cheaper." Col. Otter said he was royally treated by Sir John French and his staff. He will sail for Canada on the 16th.

A VALUABLE ASSET.

YOUTH ADMITS HIS CRIME

Earl Ellsworth of Woodstock Confesses to Killing Father and Mother

Woodstock, Ill., October 14.—Earl Ellsworth, of Woodstock, Ill., is said to have made a full confession to the police of a conspiracy through which he and his two companions expected to obtain $7,000 life insurance money and the mystery surrounding the murder eighteen months ago of his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Ellsworth, and Amos Anderson, a boarder at the Ellsworth home, is cleared. Ellsworth, who is 25 years old, admitted to the officials late Saturday night that he fired several shots, and he says his companions did the same. From whose revolver the bullets which resulted in the death were fired he does not know.

The elder Ellsworth, a wagon manufacturer, Mrs. Ellsworth and Anderson were found dead in an upper room of the Ellsworth home. At first it was supposed that Ellsworth in a jealous rage resulting from his belief that his wife was receiving the attentions of the boarder, and killed her and Anderson and then ended his own life. The insurance companies however abandoned this theory and since have been making an investigation. At their instigation the younger Ellsworth was arrested and locked up at the Woodstock jail.

Some time ago, having gained the confidence of the jailer there, he is said to have obtained permission to leave the lockup for a time, and he disappeared and was traced to Chicago. The youth thought Detective Gallagher was an old acquaintance and his "friend" appeared to know much of the circumstances connected with the crime. After a short talk with the youth, the policeman says, he obtained a confession from him while other policemen were standing behind a portiere in the office. Detective Gallagher says he has the names of Ellsworth's confederates and will soon have them under arrest.

WILL SUE FOR A CENT

Cleveland Principal Ready to Spend $1000 to Get the Penny

Cleveland, October 15.—Principal E. L. Harris, of the Central High school, is about to sue the board of education for 1 cent. He says he will collect it if he is obliged to spend $1,000 to do it. Members of the board of education say they will resist the payment of the penny if it costs the city all the money there is in the school fund.

The school year is divided into nine months of four week each, and 10 days additional. For the year's work, under the division, Harris received $3,450.93. His contract calls for a salary of $3,500 a year.

The principal says he is fighting for the principle and not for the money.

The school board admits it owes the penny, but says it will not pay it because the members do not feel well disposed toward Harris for making a fuss over such a small matter.

ROSEBERY AT SHEFFIELD LAUGHS AT CHAMBERLAIN

Declares Retaliation would Land Empire in Contest with Every Civilized Nation Colonies Would Not Consent

London, October 13—Lord Rosebery spoke to-night at Sheffield, whither he went in order to definitely record his opposition to Mr. Chamberlain's fiscal policy. The Earl said he doubted if there had ever been any fiscal inquiry. The Ministry had probably investigated not the nation's commerce, but the constituencies. He deprecated a policy of retaliation which would land the empire in a contest with every nation in the civilized world. He held that free trade had been a great success. The new policy instead of solidifying would tend to dislocate and probably dissolve the empire. Protection once established, could not be uprooted, and would bring in its train trusts, monopolies and probably corruption.

Ridiculed the Idea.

He ridiculed the idea that the colonies would consent not to establish new industries for the benefit of the United Kingdom. A fair and practical imperial tariff could not be devised, and heaven protect them from the bad blood and jealousies that such an attempt would engender. What Mr. Chamberlain's friends ignored was that everything in the empire had been strong and successful, but it was free and spontaneous. Lord Rosebery quoted Sir Wilfrid Laurier to the effect that not restricted trade but only the most absolute freedom, political and commercial would succeed in building up the empire.

Could Not Risk It.

In conclusion His Lordship said he could not forget the long agony with which the nation had passed from the protective system, which had brought the country from the verge of famine and ruin into the better and freer conditions now prevailing. They could not risk this splendid result on a hazard of the political die.

A storm of cheers greeted the Earl's closing remarks.

Lord Rosebery made no attempt to refute Mr. Chamberlain's contentions by argument, statistics, or a detailed examination of his proposals. He evoked applause by describing Mr. Chamberlain as the real head of the present government.

In reference to Mr. Balfour's attempts to gag parliamentary discussion of the fiscal problem, he said: "You cannot prevent a storm by sitting on the barometer."

His Lordship was loudly cheered when he declared that the prospect of worse relations with the United States, Germany, Russia and France was not alluring to him.

London, October 14—The Standard agrees with Lord Rosebery that the preferential policy should be launched only after mature and independent inquiry and careful consultation with the colonial governments. "To restore even united, the monopoly which the colonial markets enjoyed under the old preferential system, is no longer feasible. There is danger of an upheaval among the English working classes if it be felt that they are unfairly taxed for the benefit of Canadian wheat growers and Australian sheep farmers."

The Daily Express says: "Mr. Ritchie's fears that the United States will punish Canada if a preferential system be adopted is too tame for Lord Rosebery. If Mr. Chamberlain's reforms were carried Lord Rosebery has a lugubrious vision of not only the United States, Russia and Germany being annoyed, but of the unfortunate empire plunged into a battle, compared with which Armageddon was a jest."

The Daily Mail says: "Lord Rosebery has no idea of the rapid strides that foreign competitors made under protection. A certain amount of protection is not a curse since it has not prevented foreign countries from achieving far greater progress than England."

The Morning Post says, "Lord Rosebery's speech leaves the impression that he is still open to the conviction of business men here, and in the colonies, in favor of Chamberlain's scheme."

The News says: "We do not believe that the cabinet or the public is really concerned about a Canadian preference at all, beyond the phantom army that may arise in very substantial figures of the landlord craving his higher protected rent and the manufacturer looking for state help."

Following is the text of that portion of Mr. Balfour's recent speech at Sheffield with regard to Britain's relation to her colonies

I have brought before your attention two separate aspects of one great problem. I have pointed out to you that we have allowed, so to speak, the world to slide into this system of high protective duties against this country without effort and without remonstrance, but that the world is so active partly consists of our own colonies, our own self-governing dependencies, who have fiscal, and must always retain fiscal, autonomy—(hear, hear)—and partly it consists of foreign nations, properly so called. And the problem connected with the two is individually a distinct problem, though it arises from the difficulty and springs from the same root, and as regards the first of these, our relations with our colonies, let me say that I think we have in this country been strangely blind—(hear, hear)—and strangely dull, to the abnormal and anomalous situation in which the British Empire is placed in these fiscal matters. You will find many cases in which fiscal union has been the prelude to that closer and more intimate union which is the badge of national strength—(hear, hear.) I may mention as a Scotchman—(laughter)—the case of England and Scotland. If any of you will consult your history you will see that what reconciled the smaller kingdom to union with the greater kingdom was no love of being under a British parliament, but the sense that it was absolutely necessary for national existence, or, at all events, for national prosperity, that England and Scotland should be fiscally one—(cheers)—and that that union which should stand merely, so to speak, on a fiscal basis, has grown, as we all know, in a manner which has welded the two people together in an inseparable unit, which it will not be possible for any hostile force to divorce.

And if I wish to load my speech with historical allusions, I might, of course point to the case of Germany, in many respects resembling the case of Scotland in this respect, that fiscal union began before that political union which has been the greatest incident in modern European history. Well, we have been content, apparently, as far as our Empire is concerned, to see divisions, fiscal divisions, growing with our strength, and at the very moment the population and wealth of our colonies is increasing, and in other respects the sentiment of common interest, common blood, and common institutions is gaining strength. We see these fiscal divisions growing up of which no man can prophesy the ultimate result, and which I venture to say no man of sober judgment or any knowledge of history can contemplate without disquiet. (Cheers) Well, that is the first branch of the problem. I am disposed to say that in many respects it is the most important branch—(hear, hear)—and I have sorrowfully to admit that it is also the most difficult branch, and for this reason The evil has been allowed to grow both by us and by our colonies to a point in which it is probably incapable of any complete solution, and in which even an attempted solution, so far as I am able to see, would involve the taxation of food in this country. I do not think that public opinion is ripe in this country for the taxation of food. (Hear, hear) I have given the matter my most earnest consideration, and that is the conclu-

ACCUSED OF MURDER OF STEP-DAUGHTER.

Napoleon Fouquette is Under Arrest

Child Beaten to Death, Confessed to Constable. The Inquest

Sherbrooke, October 14.—Late on Monday a report reached the city that a foul murder had been committed at La Patrie, forty miles from here. It was said that a father had killed his son. High Constable Moe and Deputy Coroner Gadbois left for the scene of the tragedy and returned this morning.

The original report as to the crime was not correct. The facts of the case are that Napoleon Fouquette, a well-to-do farmer, is held on the charge of murdering his two-year-old step-daughter. Evidence produced at the coroner's inquest ends to show that the prisoner while intoxicated, beat the child with a bottle in revenge, because her mother had taken another of the children to the hospital here, after he had been ill-treated by his step-daughter.

THE INQUEST.

Deputy Coroner Gadbois held an inquest at La Patrie last night. The jury, after hearing a number of witnesses, returned a verdict which finds Fouquette responsible for the death of the child. The evidence of the servant girl and of the constable tell the story of the crime. Marie Drouin, the servant girl, said: "When I got up Monday Napoleon Fouquette called me into the hallway and told me that the little girl was dead, and that he had abused her too much. I followed him to the room where the little girl was. He laid back the bed clothes and showed me the little girl all bruised. He told me he had given her some liquor and had pounded her and had thrown her on the floor, and he then said, 'I am done, my life is at an end and I am going to be hanged.' He was a little under the influence of liquor, but had his senses. He continued to drink heavily all day Monday. He used to be very cross when in liquor. It is not the first time he has abused the children. Last Friday when he was sober, he abused another child and the mother took it Saturday to the hospital in Sherbrooke. He abused his wife's children. I never saw him abuse his own child."

"Monday afternoon Nap. Fouquette called me to him and said, 'I am going to tell you everything as it happened. I ordered a bottle of liquor Saturday. The blue marks on the child's face were caused by me. I struck her with my fist, then I dropped her on the floor, but I did not think the blows would be fatal. I was doing that to punish my wife because she leaves me often without notifying me. Again on Saturday she left me to place a child in the hospital without notifying me. I did that to punish her. Do with me as you please. I confess that I am guilty and I want to be punished for what I have done."

Fouquette is about 28 years of age and a well-to-do farmer. He has but one child of his own and five or six step-children. He resides on one of the finest farms at La Patrie, which he owns, having purchased it a few months ago. It is said he formerly lived at St. Paul de Chester, near Arthabaska.

EAGERLY WATCHING FOR THE ALASKAN AWARD.

Much Interest in London as to the Coming Decision, Lord Alverstone is very Angry

London, Oct. 14—The decision of the Alaskan Boundary Tribunal is looked for with a great deal of interest by the British public. The proceedings of the commission have been followed with much greater interest than is usually given to questions of this nature, in consequence of the prominent position which Canada now occupies in the discussion of Imperial questions in the United Kingdom. Students of Canadian affairs here do not hesitate to express the opinion that in the preparation and presentation of the Canadian case, all the details of which received the continuous personal supervision of Hon. Clifford Sifton, no point was left unguarded. At the conclusion of the argument it was the concensus of opinion that nothing had been left undone to make the Canadian case one of the most complete and convincing ever presented to an international tribunal. No matter what the decision of the Tribunal may be, Canadians can feel assured that their interests have been well attended to. Mr Sifton has been ably assisted by the Canadian counsel, all of whom have worked exceedingly hard since their arrival here.

A Banquet at the Mansion House.

The members of the counsel and attaches of the Tribunal were entertained by the Lord Mayor of London, Sir Marcus Samuel, at a banquet at the Mansion House last night. Attorney-General Finlay and Sir Edward Carson were notable absentees, but most of the others associated with the case were present. United States Ambassador Choate and Lord Strathcona, Canadian High Commissioner in London, were among the guests.

The Lord Mayor proposed the health of President Roosevelt, while the Band played the "Star Spangled Banner." Then his Lordship proposed the toast of the "Alaska Boundary Tribunal." He declared that the present method of the submission to a tribunal of a dangerous dispute between two great nations would be a lasting lesson of peace to the world.

Lord Alverstone Speaks Out.

Lord Chief Justice Alverstone, replying to the toast, said that, though the Tribunal was not an illustration of arbitration, it was "an honest and patriotic attempt to solve by mutual discussion subjects which might become serious. I have no fault to find with anything that has been said and done. We have proceeded with great unanimity, and I only wish that those who do not understand the motives of the Tribunal would abstain from attributing motives to its members which do not exist."

This open reference to Canadian and United States criticism of Lord Alverstone's supposed pre-disposition towards the American case caused no little sensation. It was followed by Lord Alverstone somewhat passionately declaring that in a long public career he had never objected to criticism after he had taken a certain course of action, but he did bitterly resent criticism beforehand.

Other Commissioners Talk.

Secretary Root followed with a brilliant speech. "Some thought," he said in part, "that the Americans and Canadians came to London because Alaska was a wonderland of claimants, but the greatest object-lesson of the whole proceeding was that the United States had such trust in Great Britain that she was willing to meet and discuss a question vital to her, not in a neutral capital, but in a capital belonging to one party to the controversy. Nothing could more emphasize the absolute confidence of all parties in the good faith generous hospitality and fair play of the English people. I am sure that the utmost open-mindedness prevails with a strong desire that a just and fair conclusion shall be reached."

Sir Louis Jette echoed the sentiments expressed by Mr. Root on behalf of Canada, and Senator Lodge declared that the rapidity of the proceedings was a lesson to nations who avoided such a pacific method of settlement on the ground of prolonged procedure.

THE NEW COLONIAL SECRETARY SPEAKS

Declares Himself in Favor of Policy of the Preference

BALFOUR AND CHAMBERLAIN

Are Both Advocates of the Same Policy, Says Hon. Alfred Lyttleton

London, October 14.—Though the Canadian Government has made no formal declaration regarding Mr. Chamberlain's proposals, Mr. Fielding is today reported in the Morning Post as emphatically pledging the ministry to support Mr. Chamberlain on one condition. Arthur Gill, a correspondent of The Post, declares that the minister who will probably be the next Liberal leader, that is, presumably Mr. Fielding, expressed himself thus verbatim:

"We are ready to go to the country in support of what I understand to be Mr. Chamberlain's scheme and carry the election on that platform, provided no rider is tacked on to it about a contribution to Imperial defence. With such a rider added we could not defend it successfully."

"I understand Mr. Chamberlain would have no difficulty in giving such a pledge when the time came, though what his supporters here cannot understand is against whom in Canada would the Cabinet Ministers fight upon such issue, unless it be Mr. Bourassa.

Mr Gill indicates that it is the quite unfounded fears that Chamberlainism means compulsory military service for Canadians and Canadian taxation for imperial militarism, which alone makes the French-Canadians hesitate to support Mr. Chamberlain.

CANADA MIGHT WELL LEARN OF BRITAIN

Col. Otter Says British Soldiers Equipment is Much Better

CHANCES FOR ENGINEERS.

Sir Percy Girouard Speaks of the Opportunities in South Africa

London, October 14.—Colonial Secretary Lyttleton issued an election address to his constituents at Warwick, Leamington this morning, in which he says he is [illegible] with the fiscal change "which Mr. Balfour and Mr. Chamberlain together advocate." Mr. Lyttleton holds that the Government should be enabled to mitigate the inequality of foreign competition and to negotiate effectively for a reduction of foreign tariffs on British goods by having the power to impose taxation on foreign manufactures.

The Colonial Secretary is convinced the Empire should be further knit together by strengthening the commercial ties of its various parts by preferential tariffs. To secure closer ties with the Colonies, involved a readjustment of the taxes on food, peculiarly affecting the poorer classes, who should therefore have a full opportunity to minutely and deliberately consider the matter. It should, therefore, be distinctly understood that there is no proposal to impose preferential tariffs for the Colonies without further reference to the electorate.

THE BRANTFORD MURDER

Preliminary Hearing of Kennedy Adjourned

Brantford, October 14—The preliminary hearing of Joseph Kennedy, charged with the murder of Irene Cole, was resumed this morning before Police Magistrate Woodyatt. Kennedy appeared to be in good health.

Alberta Potter repeated the story told at the inquest of seeing Kennedy on the dyke motioning to some one in Peter Cole's yard.

Mrs. Potter testified to calling her children to go to school at 1.15. She saw Kennedy on the dyke. She denied that her daughter had been "primed" in regard to evidence she should give.

Loaned Kennedy a Gun.

Fred Biggs swore that he had seen the prisoner on the Saturday before Labor Day in "The Willows" just below the tail race. Witness had a gun with him. He gave the gun to Kennedy to shoot at a turtle on a rock and he had knocked it off.

Robert Waunch told of seeing Kennedy in "The Willows" on the day of the murder, between 3 and 4 o'clock, but on being closely questioned by Mr. Livingstone, counsel for the prisoner, he said he would not swear that the man was Kennedy. The prisoner was asked to stand up, and put on his hat, and Waunch said he could hardly swear to Kennedy, but he could to the hat.

Before the noon adjournment Ernest Burtch and Ernest Berry also gave evidence, which was identically the same as that adduced at the inquest.

In the afternoon several witnesses were examined touching the finding of a chicken and a bag near the spot where Irene Cole was murdered. Mrs. Chaundell said Kennedy was at her house to buy a chicken. She would not sell him one, and he asked her to sell him something that would amuse a little girl. Mrs. Campbell gave similar testimony, and Mrs. Howe told of selling a chicken to the prisoner. She identified the chicken found in the swamp as the one she had sold Kennedy, and the bag as the one Kennedy used to take away the chicken in.

Prof. Ellis' Analysis.

The report of Prof. Ellis, the provincial analyist, was not read. It is in the hands of Dr. Ashton, and it will depend on the remainder of the evidence to be put in whether it will be reserved until the trial of the prisoner in the spring. Though it is not stated what the report will say, it is generally believed that it will be a strong card of the prosecution in fixing the crime on Kennedy.

The investigation was adjourned till Friday, and it may require two more sittings to get all the evidence in.

HAVE YOU CHRONIC AILMENT?

Recognized as the oldest established and most reliable specialist.

In the course of his practice as specialist in the treatment of chronic ailments, Dr. Goldberg has evolved a system of his own, which is a positive cure. His method differs widely from the old fashioned system as taught in colleges, and yet is along the strictest scientific principles, with this exception, that where the old methods took months and sometimes years to bring about a cure, his latest method does it in a few weeks and cures are thorough, permanent and reliable. The curing of chronic diseases has been his specialty for years.

He will cure you quicker than any other specialist in the world. There are thousands in this broad land today who are healthy and happy, who once suffered as you perhaps now suffer, and who owe their present well-being to Dr. Goldberg's Latest Method Treatment. If you are sick it is only natural for you to want to be well. Before you decide definitely on the doctor to intrust your case call or write to Dr. Goldberg and find out all about his Latest Method of curing chronic diseases without pain and permanently. It will cost you nothing to learn the particulars and it will in no way put you under obligations to him.

If it is inconvenient for you to call in person write the doctor and he will explain his method to you just the same, free. Do not delay; promptness is certainty.

Each Time You Call You See Dr. Goldberg Personally

or each time you write it receives his personal attention, and remember he is the only specialist who allows the patient to pay when cured. You need pay nothing until a complete cure has been made.

UNION LABEL

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 13 1903

MR. CHAMBERLAIN'S GREAT IDEA

The strong man of the United Kingdom, Joseph Chamberlain, has gone out of office, deliberately, of his own choice, that he may devote the whole of his tremendous energies and unequalled personal influence to the solidification of a United Empire. Out of office, but by no means out of power, for Mr. Chamberlain is still the greater single force in British politics; and all the greater for his courageous determination to wean the nation from a cherished but ruinous fiscal superstition. He stands today the apostle of a great idea · the idea of a United Empire with four hundred millions of people united in the lasting bonds not only of a common allegiance, but of common material interests. He recognizes, as perhaps no British statesman of the first rank has hitherto recognized, the immense possibilities for advancement presented by such a union.

What is aimed at is not a fiscal union; which would involve the surrender by the colonies of some part of their fiscal independence; but a fiscal federation, each colony preserving the most absolute control of its own tariff; but each making voluntary concessions for the advantage of all.

A commercial confederation so vast could dictate terms to the world. There is nothing unfriendly to foreign nations involved in this great idea. It is simply a measure of self-defence against a system of tariffs confessedly hostile to the British Empire. It is a policy which in the long run must do much to break down the existing barriers between the nations; because every nation will think twice before definitely committing itself to a trade policy which will tend to exclude it from, or to handicap it in, a market of over four hundred millions of consumers.

By adopting Mr. Chamberlain's policy we assert the doctrine of equality of fiscal rights. At present it is almost claimed by foreign nations and almost tacitly admitted by ourselves that we occupy a position of inferiority to other nations in the matter of fiscal rights; that the United States has the right to make an almost prohibitive tariff against Canada, but that Canada has no right to make an equal tariff against the United States; that the United States may levy exhorbitant duties upon English manufactures, but, according to the New York Sun, that England may not levy any duties at all upon American manufactures without giving offence to the American people. The adoption of the policy of imperial preferential trade will put every part of the Empire in a position to demand fair play from every nation on earth, as a condition of access to British markets.

Canada has everything to gain and nothing to lose by entering this great fiscal federation. Its farmers stand to gain by a substantial preference in the markets of the United Kingdom for their wheat, meat, dairy produce and fruit. Its manufactures stand to gain by the growth of the home market which must follow the boom in Canadian agriculture and by the exclusion of foreign competition in the Canadian market.

The first step to be taken in Canada is to raise the Canadian tariff against the world in general as high as that of the United States. The next step is to increase the Canadian preference in favor of Great Britain to fifty per cent. By this means the only competition the Canadian manufacturer will have to meet in the Dominion will be British and against that he will have a moderate and reasonable amount of protection. On the other hand Great Britain will practically enjoy exclusive access to the Canadian market from outside.

JAPAN AS A NAVAL POWER

Japan made her bow to the world as a naval power when she fought and conquered China. Her fleet then had a few vessels of much fighting value, and not a single modern armored ship. If she goes to war with Russia today it will be with a first-class modern navy, not as large, indeed, as the navies of the great European powers, but every whit their equal in character of the vessels and the fighting ability of officers and men.

The story of the growth of Japan as a naval power is told in the current North American Review by Archibald S. Hurd. As soon as the war with China was over the Japanese Government decided upon a great programme has now been completed, and the Japanese fleet has an aggregate displacement of over 256,000 tons, as against 30,000 tons at the time of war. Moreover a new six-year programme has been adopted.

The navy consists of six first-class battle ships, one second-class battle ship, six armored cruisers of the first class, two coast defense vessels, ten protected cruisers of the second class, eight protected cruisers of the third class, nine unprotected cruisers, one torpedo vessel, seventeen torpedo boat destroyers and sixty-seven torpedo boats. These ships are not scattered over many seas, as are those of other powers, but are kept together, so that when the time of war comes the entire navy can strike as with one blow.

Mr. Hurd praises highly the Japanese naval officers and sailors. The men are furnished from a fishing population of 1,000,000 men, and are not only excellent material to begin with, but very quickly acquire the necessary mechanical skill. They are brave, contented and patriotic. If their spirit today is akin to the spirit which, the dispatches tells us, the entire Japanese populace is showing, they will like nothing better than to be ordered to battle with Russia.

LOST HIS FORTUNE

And Died in the Poorhouse — Was Worth $750,000

Lockport, N.Y., October 12—With not a penny left of his once great fortune, and not one relative or friend to care for him at his deathbed, Samuel Ostrander died at the Niagara County Poor House this morning.

He was one of the best known boatmen who travelled the Erie Canal in its palmy days, and at one time his wealth was rated at $750,000. He made his fortune following the canal, and lost it in the same way. Thirty years ago he had the largest fleet of canal boats then owned by a single individual. His were the first steel boats launched for canal service, and he was one of the first canallers to realize the possibilities of towing by a tug.

His reverses came about twenty years ago. His entire fleet was tied up in the slip known as the Basin slip, in the East River, New York. A drunken sailor set fire to the boats and he lost every one of them. Then he started drinking, became a mule driver instead of a captain, gradually losing all of his money in one way or another.

It took him ten years to land [illegible] high and dry financially. Since then he has been buffeted from pillar to post throughout the state. He has spent some time in nearly every almshouse in New York State. The few relatives he had died years ago. He will be buried in the potter's field.

Hobbled Six Years

Cured in Six Weeks of Chronic Rheumatism By Ferrozone

Hundreds, aye thousands of cures have been put on the market for Rheumatism during the past few years, but a remedy with power to cure Chronic Rheumatism, Ferrozone excepted, in the estimation of Mr. Cullan, of Sturgeon Bay, does not exist.

Mr. Cullan says: "As everyone knows I have been simply tortured for years with Muscular Rheumatism, not the ordinary kind that bothers most people, but the kind that ties one up so that they can't move.

"For six years I hobbled about like a cripple, unable to move without crutches and canes. I used quantities of medicine, special baths and so forth, but they didn't help me very much.

"On the advice of a Presbyterian minister I used Ferrozone, gave it a good trial at first and when I saw it was helping, I bought six boxes and took one tablet at the close of each meal. I am perfectly cured and am today as spry as a youngster of ten. I am convinced that my recovery is entirely due to the marvellous action of Ferrozone."

Mr. Cullan's case is a fair example of the kind of cures that Ferrozone is effecting every day. In severe cases of Neuralgia, Sciatica, Rheumatism, and Lumbago, it acts with surprising alacrity, and no case is recorded where it failed.

Ferrozone cures these diseases because it is a solvent for uric acid in the blood. It removes all traces of it and other poisons from the blood in from two to ten days. Then it builds up and invigorates the system, and makes weak, sickly people strong and well enough to resist and ward off disease.

The best Rheumatism remedy that one can buy is Ferrozone. It relieves quickly and cures so perfectly that the disease never again returns. After all other remedies fail, it cures, and that is the sort of medicine you want. Ferrozone price 50c. per box, or three boxes for $1.25. Sent to your address by mail if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

SPOTS ON THE SUN

Also a Magnificent Halo Around Old Sol

London, Oct. 13—There was a heavy rainfall here yesterday, the precipitation amounting to over an inch. In connection with the recent deluge there has not only been a magnificent halo around the sun for some days past, but large spots have been discovered on the disc. These have interested astronomers and meteorologists as being the most prominent that have been seen in five years. On Friday the disturbance extended about 130,000 miles on the solar surface. One eminent meteorologist, discussing the phenomena, said he believed that bad weather would characterize the next ten years.

New York, Oct. 13— A despatch to the Herald from Pittsburg, Pa., says: One of the largest spots that have appeared on the sun in recent years has just been discovered by John A. Brashear, Chancellor of the Western University of Pennsylvania. Its area is so great that it can be seen with the naked eye if smoked glass is used. "We call the comparatively dark area 'spots'" said Prof. Brashear today, "but some of them have many times the area of the of the earth. In square miles this newly discovered spot is twelve times the area of the earth. The spots on the sun indicate great solar storms. The present spot is probably the largest that has been seen for many years."

Gen. Hamilton at Gettysburg.

Washington, Oct. 13—Gen. Ian Hamilton, the distinguished British officer, who is visiting this city, left last night with a party of officials for Gettysburg, Pa., where they are to attend the dedication of the Ohio Monument. General Oliver, the Acting Secretary of War, was in the party.

TO DISALOW IT

Rumored Reason for Premier Ross' Trip to Ottawa

Ottawa, October 14—It is said that while he was in the Capital Hon. G. W. Ross had a talk with the Premier in regard to the bill incorporating the City of Niagara Falls, which Mr. Gross, M.L.A., alleges Hon. Mr. Harcourt had altered in the third reading stage in the legislature so as to save the American Company that is developing power at that point the trifle of $13,400 a year in taxation for twenty years. As Mr. Gross is a commotion, coming as it does on top of the Stratton affair, Premier Ross it is said, arranged with Sir Wilfrid Laurier to have the tinkered bill disallowed by the Federal authority on the ground that the intention of the promition of the bill was thwarted by a clerical error.

Czar's Visit to Rome

Rome, Oct. 14—Relative to a despatch to a London news agency from Vienna saying it was announced there that the Czar had abandoned his proposed visit to Rome the Le Petit Parisian correspondent explains that a fear that the Zahardelli cabinet would not be able to guarantee the saftey of Emperor Nicholas is responsible for His Majesty's proposed visit to Rome.

Rome, October 13—Neither the Italian Government nor the Russian Chancellory doubt that the visit of the Czar to Rome will take place in spite of the reports published abroad to the contrary, although it is admitted that the visit may be postponed for a few days.

White Man Lynched

Chicago, Oct. 14—A despatch from Starke, Florida, says: Samuel Williams a young white man, was lynched at Lawiry, near here, by a mob of citizens who were searching for Alta Williams, an older brother, who is accused of maltreating two girls. Samuel Williams refused to divulge the whereabouts of his brother, and was strung up by the mob.

Shipping Transferred

London, Oct. 13—It is officially announced that the Dominion Line business has been transferred to the White Star and American Lines. The latter will manage the Canadian business, and the Dominion offices will be occupied by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company.

Items of Interest.

Nature's infinite variety is well illustrated in the collection of photographs of snow crystals made during the past 20 years by Mr. W. A. Bentley of Vermont. He has now more than 1,000 photographs of individual crystals, and among them no two are alike.

It will be good news to humanitarians who have been protesting against the feeding of snakes on live animals to learn that the authorities at the Zoological Gardens in London are now carrying out a suggestion recently made in the press, and are feeding the larger serpents with newly-killed rabbits and poultry instead of with live ones.

Trees are now to be felled by electricity. The modus operandi is as follows: A platinum wire, having been stretched out between two poles, is heated until it becomes incandescent. It is then drawn tight against the tree, through which it immediately proceeds to burn its way. It is said that a tree can by this process be felled in about one-eighth of the time it would take to saw it down.

Some time ago, according to a story in the Jewish "Chronicle," the Hungarian Jews in Chicago wrote to the chief rabbi of Pressburg, in Hungary, asking him to recommend an orthodox rabbi able to preach in their native language. Pressburg is a long way from Chicago, and it was too much to expect that a rabbi could drop across for a Sabbath to preach a trial sermon. That was where the phonograph showed its use. The recommended candidate spoke his best sermons, in his best German and Hungarian, into the instrument, and when the records were reproduced in Chicago they gave such delight that the preacher was elected at a handsome salary.

The little-grains-of-sand business has a commercial exemplification. English "drummers" do not take their meals with ordinary travelers at the hotels, but dine together in the "commercial room." The first-comer acts as president of the table. With the dessert, according to the "World's Work," a waiter passes around a plate on which each diner puts one penny—no more—for the support of the Orphans' School of the Travelers' Association. The money collected is counted by the president of the table, who enters the amount in a book kept for the purpose, and the innkeeper holds the collection until the proper official makes his quarterly visit. As the collection is taken up every day, in the commercial room of every hotel patronized by drummers the amount received in a year is large.

MRS. STERNAMAN WINS

Buffalo, N.Y., October 14.—Olive A. Sternaman got a verdict of $1,431.66 in the Supreme Court this morning in her suit against the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company to recover on a policy on the death of her husband. The verdict is for $1,000, the amount of the policy and interest. With costs, the verdict will amount to $2,500. This was the fourth trial of the suit.

The Insurance Company made its defence against paying the policy, on the ground that Sternaman was murdered. Mrs. Sternaman was once convicted in Canada of murdering her husband. On the night before she was to be hanged she obtained a reprieve, and on the new trial she was acquitted. Then she sued for the insurance on her husband's life.

Robbery in a Church

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 14.—While the congregation at St. Charles Roman Catholic Church, Twentieth and Christian streets, was receiving holy communion at 6 o'clock this morning a daring thief picked up one collection basket and ran from the church. The solemn service was brought to an abrupt close and a majority of the worshippers took part in the chase that led to the thief's capture. The robber gave his name as John Hire, 20 years old, of 415 South Vangelt street. An hour after the capture he was on his way to Moyamensing prison to serve a year's sentence. The collection had just been taken when the members of the congregation pressed forward to the altar railing to receive communion. Hire mingled with the people and as all bowed in prayer he seized one of the baskets, emptied the coins into his pockets, and dashed from the church.

Ontario By-Elections.

Toronto, October 14—Although no tour has been arranged, yet it is understood that Premier Ross, and perhaps some of the other Ministers, will address a few meetings in Muskoka and the "Soo" in the bye-elections that are now going on. The meetings will likely be confined to the main towns in Muskoka, and to the city of Sault Ste. Marie.

Dry Placer Miner, formerly of California.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use this new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do.

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 95 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 200 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure this gold only those placer lands could be worked which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense ledges of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions of gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine—Its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intelligent investor can operate it instantly. He can take a sack or more of sand, either ordinary house or sea sand, or take a sack of the sand in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 95 to 100 per cent of the gold. This is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet, or 10 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, and the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

One Result of the Martinique Disaster.

BY DOROTHY CANFIELD.

"MY dear young lady," remonstrated the colonel. "My dear young lady! Did anyone ever hear a more unreasonable request!" He sank into the steamer chair beside me and rolled himself comfortably in the rug. "It is so unreasonable that you must be forced to confess that you have not the slightest idea that it will be granted. Preposterous! As if one could say anything interesting on shipboard—much less tell a whole story!"

"This is a very good prologue," said I.

The colonel did not smile. He was contemplating the line of the horizon with a far-away look in his eyes.

"You see, people's ideas of what is interesting are so different. Now there is a story that I might tell—but whether it would interest a young lady, that is the question. It is a rather odd experience of mine that happened several years ago. It is about the curious way I first heard of a great change in the state of things, with which you are so familiar as doubtless to have forgotten that it is a change."

I settled back contentedly in my chair

The colonel smiled a little and began.

"I said that it happened several years ago, but that was an old man's way of speaking. I dare say you would call it many years ago, as you were probably a baby at the time, if, indeed, you had appeared at all.

"It was a year of great disasters of various kinds, natural, political and social; and I embarked on a fast liner for Liverpool with the gloomy feeling that some new horror would probably greet my eyes on landing.

"We had a prosperous journey, until what I suppose was the most important happening of my life occurred. I had a headache!"

"Why, colonel," said I, "I thought you told me the other day that you never had headaches!"

The colonel looked at me reproachfully. "I had a headache," he continued "and the most severe one I have ever experienced, although I have from childhood been subject to them." He emphasized the words. "It lasted two days and on the third, unable to endure the pain, I sent for the ship's doctor. He gave me an opiate of some kind, and told me to be careful in using it, as it was very strong. The pain continued, and finally, driven almost insane by it, I raised the glass to my lips and drank of all of the drug which the doctor had left."

"I have never known nor been able to conjecture how long I lay in the heavy stupor that immediately followed this reckless act. When I became again dimly conscious of my surroundings, the first feeling that assailed me was an overpowering hunger. I pressed the electric call impatiently. No one answered. I rang again, and shouted 'Steward! Steward!' at the top of my voice; but there was absolute silence when my cries ceased echoing. Then it occurred to me that the ship was perfectly still. There was no throbbing motion of the screw nor any pitching and tossing. She lay as still as though she were in drydock. I remember thinking in my half-dazed condition that perhaps she was in drydock and that I had slept through all the noise and bustle of the disembarking. The silence grew oppressive. I sprang out of bed to turn on the electric light. The key snapped, but no light came, and at the same instant I felt the sudden piercing breath of the most intense cold I have ever experienced. Ah, I grew accustomed to that cold later! I groped about for my cap and overcoat, and rushed out of the cabin. I made for the stairway, filled with a great horror of the dark and cold and silence. I found the stairs, and as I hurriedly ascended them it began to grow lighter. It was daytime then. I called aloud again and again as I rushed along the hall leading to the deck door, but there was no answer. Everything looked about as usual, however, and there was nothing to prepare my mind for the astounding spectacle that met my eyes as I threw open the door.

"I am not an eloquent man and I cannot describe to you the tremendous rush of emotions which almost turned me faint as I realized my situation. I can only tell you what it was, and you can imagine for yourself. Far, far below me lay the sea. It was as though I were looking down from a cliff, but this cliff was all of sparkling, dazzling ice. Yes, I was on an iceberg. I turned to look down the deck, and saw, to my horror, that about fifteen feet from me it ceased. Running to the rail, I looked about me. Only one-third of the ship was left. The rest had disappeared completely. This mutilated third was lodged securely between two tall needles of ice, and lay as snugly in her icy bed as though in the drydock.

"You will laugh when I tell you what I did upon discovering the astonishing and alarming position in which I was placed. I did not rave and curse at Fate, nor did I down on my marrow-bones to thank heaven. I exclaimed, 'By Jove! I don't believe I was ever so hungry in my life!' and went below to forage. I found the provision-room without much difficulty. There was plenty there, and although everything freezable was frozen to a bricklike consistency, I found enough hardtack to stop the violent craving which prevented any connected thought on my part."

The colonel was silent for some time.

"I would like nothing better than to describe to you the life I led on board that strange craft, half boat and half iceberg. In looking back on it now, it seems one of the most delightful periods of my life. Of course, much that was then hard and desolate seems now stirring and bracing. But with all allowances made for the mellowing effect of retrospection, I still insist that I was far from unhappy during the five years that I spent in my odd eyrie. Don't look surprised. I stayed there for five years!

"There was enough food on board to last a small army for years, and the pastry-cook's kitchen was in that part of the vessel, so that I could keep reasonably warm. I was fully occupied, for I had a definite routine that I forced myself to carry out. First of all I prepared a raft, so that if I should see land I might have some means of reaching it. As I am a thorough landsman, that took me a long, long time. Then I equipped it with everything that I thought I could possibly need if I should land on an uninhabited shore. I recalled tales of wonderful sea-happenings, and thought that if ever I reached land again I would have a new one to tell. I wish I had the time to fully describe the charms of a sojourn on an iceberg, but the point of my tale is concerned with later events. I will leave my Robinson Crusoe years for some other time, and go on with my story.

"There had been the most severe and long-continued fogs that I had yet experienced, for at least a week. One morning, as I was pacing up and down the section of deck that was my tiny kingdom, the fog lifted and disclosed to my amazed eyes a high chalk cliff within a short distance.

"This was the moment for which I had waited all these years. I hastily gathered together the few things necessary to complete the outfit of my raft. Cutting the rope, I beheld myself floating from my icy prison with feelings of unmixed delight.

"My sail worked well, and late in the afternoon I effected a landing. I felt with an ecstasy hard to describe the stones and gravel grate under my feet. I drew my raft well up on the beach and made it fast to a ridge of rock so that no wave could wash it out to sea. Packing my knapsack with an abundance of provisions and shouldering my blanket like an old soldier, I set off up the slight slope of the beach. It was quite dark, but in my eagerness I could not wait for daylight before exploring the country.

"All at once, to my intense surprise, I found myself on a well-made road. I thought that I must be near a settlement of some kind. Pushing briskly forward, I indulged in the liveliest anticipations of once again seeing and speaking to one of my own kind.

"I stepped briskly along through the darkness, turning my lantern first to one side and then to the other, expecting every moment to come across a hut or skin tent that would announce the presence of humanity. But the yellow light showed me nothing but barren, flat land, with little or no vegetation.

"As the first streaks of light were seen I looked about me with much interest to get my first view of the land; but at the same moment a thick creeping mist arose. This shut me in far more impenetrably than the night had done, for my lantern could make no headway in it. I was tired, and this fresh misfortune quite discouraged me. I sat down on a stone beside the road to rest and reflect. Deciding that part of my despondency came from hunger, I opened my knapsack and made a hearty lunch. After this I felt more hopeful. 'There is no such thing as a road that leads nowhere,' I said to myself. 'If I keep right on, I must come to something and somebody.' So on I pushed through the fog, doggedly determined that I would not lose courage.

"I think I must have gone on several days. I rolled myself in my blanket and slept when I needed rest, and ate my biscuit and dried meat, and drank my wine. Occasionally I came across a thread of a brook beside the road, and breaking the ice, I sucked the pieces. My plan was to go ahead till I had used up half of the provision I had with me, and then to about face and make for the raft. That despised craft began to seem a haven of rest in this empty desolation.

"Suddenly one day—or perhaps night, for the fog continued so dense that I could make no difference—my foot struck something hard, and in an instant my steps were ringing on what sounded exactly like a city pavement. I thought of my former drydock theory and smiled, for this was quite as absurd; but when I bent over to feel what it was, I was thunderstruck. For it was a city pavement! I stood still in utter amazement. I stamped to make sure it was real. It rang under my foot with convincing firmness. I ran to one side and my foot encountered a curbstone. This was too much! 'I have gone mad,' I thought. 'The dark and loneliness have driven me mad.'

"I sank down, and held my head between my hands. Then I thought that if there was a street and a curbstone there must be a house, and springing up, I went to the other side of the sidewalk. There was nothing there, and I walked right into gravel. In a second I was seized with the wildest panic. It was the first time that I had ventured out of the road, and I was in deadly fear of not being able to find my way back again. For a moment of unutterable horror I ran furiously about on the gravel. When I struck the pavement again the revulsion of feeling was exhausting. I sat down on the curbstone and tried to calm my wildly beating heart. That moment of blind chaos when all form or solidity of things had been blotted out, and when I saw before me an eternity of frantic and fruitless groping in the black, had taught me a lesson. I would not venture again out of touch of the road.

"I went on down the street. My footsteps echoed in the silence. The pavement seemed interminable. After walking an hour or two, I again felt my way to the edge of the sidewalk. My groping hands encountered a wall—a brick wall. I stood a moment, reflecting. All capacity for astonishment seemed to have been exhausted by the amazing events of the past few hours. I reasoned as calmly as I should now. 'There can be no danger of being lost by following along the wall if I don't allow my feet to leave the sidewalk,' I thought; and proceeded at once to step along beside the wall. Shortly I encountered a flight of stone steps. I mounted these and found myself before a locked door. I felt mechanically for the door-bell, and, pulling it, heard the familiar tinkle at the rear of the house. There was no answer and I rang again. The tinkle died away in the silence. I tried the door and found it was impossible to stir it, and descended the steps as though I had received the message, 'The ladies are not at home.'

"I sat down on the bottom step to think, but the more I thought, the less I could make out of it all. Was it possible that there was a city in Greenland with paved streets and brick houses? And if so, where were the inhabitants?

"I went along the street and found other steps, and mounted them and rang other bells, as though I had been a book agent 'doing' the town. But the deadliest silence reigned. I tried again and again to break into one of the doors, but could not succeed; finally, exhausted, puzzled, baffled, and discouraged, I rolled myself in my blanket before the door of one of the houses to try to rest.

"I had not supposed that I could sleep, but I must have done so, for I was suddenly awakened by the sun shining in my eyes. Springing eagerly to my feet, I looked about me with the greatest curiosity. I was in a city street. Rows of respectable brick houses stretched away on either side of me, and an asphalt pavement lay beneath my feet. You can imagine the extraordinary mixture of emotions that filled me. It looked exactly as a city street does early in the morning, when no one is astir. I rushed up the steps of the nearest house and pounded furiously on the door. Receiving no answer, I ran down to the area and broke open a window. Entering, I called and shouted and ran about the empty rooms in a perfect passion of expectancy, which soon turned to a hopeless disappointment. I ran out again and rushed hallooing up the street like a madman. 'There must be some one in all these houses,' I exclaimed. I ran, turning corners and dashing along, hoping every moment to see or hear some one, until I was quite exhausted. Then, sinking down on some steps, I wept the first tears that the whole extraordinary experience had wrung from me.

"Reproaching myself for my weakness, I rose and walked on. I soon saw a large opening in front of me, and upon coming up to it I perceived that I was in a public square. Business buildings rose all about it, and there were a number of signs in English over the doors. I read 'Haberdasher to his Majesty,' with the English coat-of-arms above it. In another window was pasted, 'Removed to 221 Baden-Powell street, Pretoria.' This sign, with its cool, matter-of-fact announcement of a business change, bewildered me still more. I began to think seriously that I was dreaming. I walked on. Another shop gave its new address as 546 Kitchener Avenue, also in Pretoria.

"It would take too long to tell you how it was gradually forced upon me that I was in London. I doubted my senses, I called myself mad, but London it certainly was. But what a London! Day in and day out I wandered among the deserted houses in a state of wonder that was almost idiotic, so profound was it. Where was London? Had some vast cataclysm sent England flying towards the north pole?

"One day I was wandering through Trafalgar Square. I was more than usually forlorn. I decided to go into the National Museum. I had found an entrance through one of the windows and I usually slept in an empty room. I went upstairs and wandered aimlessly about in the echoing galleries until, going idly up to a window, I stood transfixed by a sudden new element in the desolate landscape of silent roofs. Far, far away in another part of the city there arose a thin column of smoke! If heaven had opened its doors and a choir of angels had descended to rescue me, I do not think I could have felt wilder amazement or profounder thanksgiving.

"Descending the stairs three at a time, I rushed out into the street. There it was still mounting delicately up into the clear air. How I ever reached the house from whose chimney the smoke ascended I do not know. The first thing I remember is battering wildly on the door, which was opened by a very surprised man clad in a fur suit.

"The rest of my story you can easily imagine, except that it would be hard for you to understand the astonishment caused by the news which the party of hunters told me. It is so old a story to young people of your generation that you fail to realize how amazing it still is to us old fellows."

I was staring at the colonel in bewilderment. He glanced at my perplexed face.

"I don't believe I mentioned—did I?—that the year I was cast away was the year of the great Martinique disaster. The final disappearance of that whole series of islands happened during our ill fated voyage. The tidal wave that came after that last eruption and that caused such widespread havoc all over the world (you must have read about it in old papers) lifted our ship to the dizzy height where my fragment hung. Of course you very well know that that was the time when the course of the Gulf Stream changed and when England was frozen up.

"The hunters who told me all this news always go to the icy fastnesses of England during the bright season, when the heavy fogs that hang over the island during the rest of the year are dissipated. They could scarcely be convinced of my ignorance of what was so well known to them. Was it possible that I did not know that Great Britain was deserted on account of the cold, and that the newly-acquired territory of the Boers had served as a fresh center for English powers? They listened with astonishment to my exclamations of surprise as they told me of Europe, shocked and enfeebled by the sudden cold, succumbing to the might of the Russians. 'With Yankees in the Western Hemisphere, and Europe and Asia belonging to Russia, it's little enough that's left for poor old John Bull,' they said dolefully. Australia had become an independent power during this time, and Canada had been annexed to the United States. Africa was all that was left to the once so powerful England."

I had been looking at the colonel in more and more amazement. At this I exclaimed: "Well, upon my word, I never knew anyone with so vivid and so gruesome an imagination! It's awful! Why, suppose that all that should actually come true!"

The lunch bell rang. I rose hastily.

"Thank you very much, colonel, for your imaginative yarn. You'll pardon me if I hurry away, won't you? There is such an inconsiderate woman next me at table. If I'm not there the very first thing, she gets the only eatable pieces of everything!"—"Harper's Bazar."

What House?

He was a commercial traveler of the more flashy type, and had just finished telling a startling story to his newly-made acquaintance in the railway carriage.

"That reminds me of one of Munchausen's yarns," remarked the victim, for want of something better to say.

"Munchausen! Who is he?"

"Why, don't you know about him? He is the most colossal example of mendacity that civilization has produced."

A brief, painful silence ensued, which was broken by the traveler, in a tone that was almost timid

"Excuse me, my friend," he said, "if I seem inquisitive, but would you mind telling me what house he travels for?"

Abolition of Hell.

Says the New York "Sun;" "Practically, the Presbyterian churches and the other churches, which draw their system of doctrine from the Westminster Confession and similar standards of faith, have abandoned the doctrine of hell. At the bottom they are all Universalists, whatever their creeds may say."

Enjoying Himself.

William's table manners were notoriously bad—so bad that he was facetiously accused of spoiling the manners of a pet coon chained in the back yard. He gripped his fork as though afraid it was going to get away from him, and he used it like a hay-fork. Reproaches and entreaties were in vain. His big sister's pleading, "Please, William, don't eat like a pig," made no impression upon him.

One day William and his bosom friend, a small neighbor, dined alone, and William was heard to say in a tone of great satisfaction as he planted both elbows on the table, "Say, Harry, they's nobody here but us. Let's eat like hogs and enjoy ourselves."—Caroline Lockhart in "Lippincott's."

ARRAYED AGAINST CATHOLICS

Feature of Discussion at Northwest Iowa Methodist Conference

Sioux City, Iowa, October 14.—The feature of today's session of the northwest Iowa Methodist conference was a discussion of the alleged encroachments of the Roman Catholic church, during which a proposition for national organized resistance was advocated. The members of the conference were emphatic in their declarations, and the sentiment was decidedly in favor of resistance and opposition to the Roman church. Among the speakers were Rev. Dr. Robert Smylie, president of the conference, Dr. D. C. Thompson, of Chicago, editor of the Northwestern Christian Advocate, and Rev. Dr. W. P. Thirkield, of Cincinnati.

GOT UPROARIOUSLY DRUNK

Wheat Soaked in Cider Fed with Bad Effect on an Ohio Farm

Springfield, Ohio, October 13.—A farmer living east of this city placed a half-bushel of wheat in a barrel of cider to keep the cider from turning hard. After the barrel had been emptied of the cider he dumped the soaked wheat out to his hogs. The porkers seemed to enjoy it and ate freely, but soon after partaking of the fermented grain they became uproariously drunk.

THE IRISH PARTY

It Is Probable That Ireland May Gain Some Concessions

Dublin, October 13.—It is whispered that the Government is coquetting with the Irish Nationalist party for their support in their fiscal policy—the policy of retaliation. It is not unlikely that some understanding will be come to, but the Irishmen are certain to obtain some important concessions. One thing which would be insisted on would be the establishment of a Roman Catholic College in Dublin in the lines suggested by the recent Royal Commission on university education. Ulster, too, would have to be assured, and this might be done by giving the Queen's College, Belfast, and the Magee College, Londonderry, additional endowment and greater powers, but how far this would mollify the Protestant opposition in the north of Ireland remains to be seen.

TO THE SUFFERING.

The following testimonial may be read with interest to sufferers from skin eruptions or eczema:

January, 20th, 1903.

Dear Sirs,—I notice your advt. in a paper about your wonderful eczema cure and I feel it my duty to tell you that I was induced to try it as I had been afflicted with skin trouble in my hands for 11 years. I have tried several doctors and they done my no good. I only used one box of Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema. It has made a complete cure. I recommend it to all suffering from skin disease. My hand was so bad that the nails used to come off. You can use my name if you wish.

Yours truly,
MR. JOHN WOOD,
Peake Station, P.E.I.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh is also one of the best remedies on the market. We are daily in receipt of letters telling how much they have done for the afflicted. Miss Sarah Hill, 412 Front Street, Traverse City, Mich., writes: "I have been wonderfully helped by the use of your catarrh cure; send me another dollar's worth."

Peter D. McFadyen, Riverdale, P.E.I., writes: "I am very busy, but just drop a line to say I highly recommend your catarrh cure. It has done grand work for me. I am so much better."

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, coughs, lame back, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even where the diseases have been standing for many years; the most stubborn cases will yield. For sale by Ormond & Walsh, Peterborough. 50c per box or 6 boxes for $1.00.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $500 will be paid for any case that it will not permanently cure.

Black Hills Copper Company
LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000
PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jerome mineral belt of Arizona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to day.

A limited amount of the Stock is now offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

The Company is capitalized at $2,110,000, consisting of 2,110,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock.

The Property

Consists of nine patented, well developed mines and mill sites, situated in Gilpin County, Colorado. This county has already produced more than

$[illegible] in Gold

The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk on ore to a depth of [illegible] to [illegible] feet, and a tunnel run a distance of [illegible] feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to unwater and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation

The Colorado & Southern Railroad passes directly in front of the mouth of the tunnel. All ore can be dumped therefrom directly into the cars, giving quick and cheap transportation to the mills. Large returns have been paid from the product of these mines.

Sale of Preferred Stock

The company desires to not only push its development work and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own mill site at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ores. For that purpose it now offers for sale [illegible] shares of its Preferred Treasury Stock at [illegible] cents per share reserving the right to increase the price of all unsold shares thereof at any time without notice.

The Company pledges the whole net product of its mines to pay an eight per cent annual dividend on the sum paid for such stock, before any other stock receives any dividends whatever. THE ROSE OF THE RING

"I looked good enough for him," she reflected, recalling the stranger's deferential tone and glances of deep admiration. "Why should I try to seem better for anybody else?"

However, she put on a fresh white dress, and brushed her hair into a burnished mass at the back of her head; then, gathering a little bunch of pea-blossom from the window-creepers, she fastened it at her waist, and looked as sweet as a white June rose.

As she came downstairs she caught sight of a visiting-card lying on the hall-table.

She read the name, and repeated it once or twice to herself—"Marc Wilberforce."

"I wonder what he is like!" she thought. "I wish—I wish he could have been—somebody else."

Her mind was full of the stranger she had met that morning, and she longed to see him again—to make him more surely her friend.

"I told him we might meet again," she said, speaking half aloud. "But how can we, unless some kind fate brings us together? How handsome he was. And he had such a sweet smile—such a kind, manly voice."

She flung the card impatiently back on the table.

"Who cares about Marc Wilberforce? If he expects I am going to be civil to him, he is mistaken. I wish I had not put all those fresh flowers in the room; they are too good for him, ever so much!"

With an air of disgust she turned towards the little sitting-room Mrs. West always reserved for her own use.

In answer to a jerk at the bell-wire—the bell was out of order—she opened the door, and there stood Mr. Wilberforce.

The evening was drawing in, and where he stood, his back was to the light, so that she could not distinguish his features.

But who else could it have been, if not Marc Wilberforce?

She did not even question herself as to his identity.

Scarcely giving a second glance at him, she drew aside to let him pass.

"Mrs. West is expecting you," she said, quietly. "I will tell her you are here."

There was a moment's silence, during which Rosy felt his eyes were upon her, and that he was waiting for her to look again at him.

"I am sorry—pray do not let me give you the trouble," he answered, stepping on to the mat, hat in hand.

At the sound of his voice, she started, and cast a swift glance into his face.

It was the voice of the stranger she had met that morning.

The color leaped into her cheeks.

"Oh, it is you!" she exclaimed, a mingling of surprise and gladness in her tones. "I thought it was somebody else—I did not see your face at first."

"You said Mrs. West was expecting me."

Rosy broke into a bright laugh, and took up the card she had flung on the table a few minutes since.

"Yes; that was when I mistook you for Mr. Marc Wilberforce."

He looked gravely at the card.

"There was no mistake as to my name," he replied. "I left this card this morning, after a very satisfactory interview with Mrs. West."

"Then you are Mr. Marc Wilberforce?"

"I have the honor to present myself to you under that name."

"And are you coming here to live?"

"I hope so, if Mrs. West will fulfill her part of the morning's contract."

"I am so glad," she said. "Do you know I was wishing you would come, instead of the Marc Wilberforce I expected. It has all turned out like a fairy-tale—and you are the prince?"

"Very much in disguise, I am afraid," he replied, thinking how winsome the young face was, with the soft, happy flush suffusing it. "And now, my little friend, since I have placed so much confidence in you, may I ask how it is I find you under the roof that is to be my home?"

She looked up at him with surprise, wondering why he had not understood all this before.

"I live here," she answered, closing the door, as he stepped further into the hall. "This is my home. You cannot think how glad I am to think it is to be yours, too. I hope you will never leave us—it is so horrible when strangers come whom I cannot like."

"So you think you will be able to like me?"

"I liked you the moment you spoke to me this morning. Do come into the room; you look hot and dusty, as though you had been walking a long way. You will find it cooler inside, near the window."

Marc followed her into the room, and, standing with his hand on the back of the chair she had put forward for him, watched her, as she flitted away in search of Mrs. West.

"What a charming little creature!" was his inward comment. "I am fortunate in the choice of my lodgings. Such a winsome face, and such pretty ways—is it possible she can be related to the old woman I saw this morning?"

He thrust the idea from his mind, as an insult to Rosy.

There was an air of breeding about her that was unmistakable.

Yet, had she not called this her home?

He sat down on the chair, and pulled meditatively at his moustache.

He was trying not to connect Rosy with Mrs. West.

It was absurd—the girl was too refined, [illegible] cultured, to be related to the old woman.

His reflections were interrupted by the entrance of Mrs. West, puffing and blowing, in her stiffly starched cotton gown.

"I'm sorry I didn't hear you come," she said, courtesying, and smoothing down her apron with both hands. "If Miss Rosalie hadn't let you in, you might have stood out there forever, my hearing's getting so bad lately, and the bell's broke."

"I must see if I can't mend it," Marc replied, contemplating his hostess with as grave a countenance as he could command. "I am an adept at mending broken bells—not that I should feel the want of it if Miss Rosalie would always let me in."

Mrs. West smiled, beamingly.

It pleased her to hear her darling's name repeated, and she was not too deaf to notice the compliment conveyed in Marc's words.

"I think I ought to tell you about her, sir," she said; "in case, being here with me, she should get placed in a false light. Miss Rosalie's been adopted by me since she was a baby; but she's a lady, bred and born, and I like her to be treated as such, no matter how humble her position."

"I must compliment you on the way you have brought your charge up," Marc observed, his interest at once awakened. "I wish you would tell me more of Miss Rosalie. Is she an orphan?"

"She was; but I never let her feel the loss of a mother; she's like my own child; only, I've never forgot she was born a lady. I don't know what I

Too Much Success.

The way of the philanthropist, of whom the author of "A Third Pot Pourri" tells, seems unduly hard. The philanthropist, who was a gentle old lady of Exeter, Eng., got hold of a maimed sailor, who moved her to great pity. To help him along she purchased a tray on which he was to expose gingerbread for sale.

She gave him a start in gingerbread, also the privilege of standing before her most respectable residence to cry his wares. In addition, she composed and taught him the following words to repeat at intervals:

"Will any good, kind Christian buy some fine spicy gingerbread of a poor afflicted old man?"

The first morning the sailor sold a shilling's worth of gingerbread in a short time, and his success went to his head. Pretty soon, from his station on the pavement in front of the gentle old lady's house, his voice floated in to her in this appeal:

"Will any poor, afflicted Christian buy some good, kind gingerbread of a fine, spicy old man?"

Despite this sadly mixed cry, trade became very good—so good, indeed, that when the philanthropist again heard her words they ran:

"Will any fine, spicy Christian buy some poor, afflicted gingerbread of a good, kind old man?"

Davey's Body Found

It was found near Graham's landing, and in his pockets was found fifteen cents, tobacco and pipe. Dr. Burrows, coroner, was notified. An in-

Travelling Incog.

Apropos of the Dutch Queen mother's visit to Villiers-la-Ville, Belgium, an amusing story is going the rounds, according to The Paris Daily Messenger. Her Majesty, accompanied by Mlle. van de Poll, the lady in waiting, and Baron van den Berg, decided to go to one of the chief establishments in the vicinity for refreshments after visiting the Abbey. As soon as coffee had been served the proprietor came to inquire if his guests were satisfied, and on the Queen replying in the affirmative, the jovial host crossed his arms and said with a smiling countenance, "You appear to me to be a brave petite maman, Madame, and it strikes me that I have had the pleasure of seeing you before." "You are right," replied the amused Queen, "I have been here before, for the country is very beautiful, and it gives me much pleasure to visit it again."

The Baron then asked if it were possible to procure a conveyance of any kind for a drive in the surrounding country, but, although horse and trap were available, there was no one to drive them, the coachman being on leave in Brussels. The host evidently approved of the appearance of his customers, and at last offered to trust them with his precious turnout if one of them would act as Jehu, declaring that he was sure they were "tres braves gens," the responsibility, however, was declined, and the host, in an access of obligingness, declared that he would actually drive them himself. No sooner offered than accepted, and off the party started. He proved a most entertaining character, and kept them all in bursts of laughter over his quaint and original remarks. When they returned her Majesty felt rather cold, and Baron van den Berg ordered some hot wine, which mine host, now thoroughly at ease with his pleasing guests, served himself. On paying the bill Baron van den Berg gave a note for a much larger amount, and the landlord was going off to get change when he was asked to accept the difference, as he had been so extremely attentive and amusing. This unexpected piece of luck caused the good man to think even more of the party than before, and nothing would content him but to drive them himself to the station, where the "tourists" all shook hands with him most heartily, the Queen especially thanking him for all his courteous attention. Mine host's surprise and bewilderment can be imagined the next morning when he took up a paper in which it was mentioned that the Dutch Queen and suite had spent the previous day at Villers-la-Ville. He rushed off to the station to obtain information, but no one there was better informed than himself, so he took the first train to Brussels, where he learned that his "brave gens," his "brave petite maman," were no less personages than the Dutch Queen and her attendants. It is said that the worthy man is more than anxious to offer his excuses to her Majesty, or rather to find a channel through which he can do so, but in his case no excuses are necessary. Her Majesty was travelling incognito, and was lucky enough to meet on her travels with a host whose object in life seems to be to tender a genial welcome to his clients be they simple or gentle, and the gentle Queen, whose tact and charm of manner are so well known, would be one of the first to assure him that no offence could have been taken even by a woman of her exalted position.

Strength of Metals.

The Literary Digest has the following: —Changes in hardness, strength or elasticity in certain metals may be due to conditions analogous to disease in organic tissues, according to some German metallurgists. According to The American Inventor, the theory of the disease of metals has been so far accepted in Germany that the Imperial navy yard at Wilhelmshafen sends metals regularly to the "Autopsy room and dissecting tables" of Prof. Heyn, one of the leaders in the new investigation. That paper goes on to say:—

"'Who knows,' asked Dr. Bechhold in summing up his studies, 'if metallurgy will not soon create a new and vastly important branch for itself—the branch of producing inoculating material for metals, which will change their temper and form swiftly instead of waiting for the slow processes of forging and tempering that obtain to-day?' Prof. Heyn has been studying the changes in iron under all grades of temperature, and he holds that the metal passes through various stages of disease that produce structural changes just as cells change in form, size, and position in the forms commonly called organic. He heated copper in order to find why the metal suffers from overheating, and his conclusion is that it becomes poisoned with copper protoxid, which so sickens it that its structure changes and partially breaks down. The metallurgists have joined the chemists in erasing the line which divides all substances into organic and inorganic—just as the line between animal and plant life has been expunged. The German metallurgists have come to speak as a matter of course of the life that unfolds itself in steel under various temperatures that are applied to it in working it. Poison this steel with hydrogen or hydrogenous matter and you sicken it so decidedly that it gets into a condition where it is as brittle as if it had been ruined in tempering. Pure glycerine cannot be frozen by ordinary means, even if they produce a temperature as low as 30 degrees below zero, until a bit of glycerine that has already been frozen is introduced. But as soon as this crystal of frozen glycerine is in, the rest of the glycerine begins to freeze. This process is nothing more or less than inoculating an inorganic substance with crystals in order to breed in it the condition of crystallization. Prof. Bredig found the point of infection in the crumbling tin roof of the Council House at Rothenburg, and that the disease, now known as tin pest, had spread to a nearby roof. If some of the grey powder of tin that has happened to disintegrate should attach itself to the sound tin, the disease then communicates itself to all parts of the metal.'"

Major Pond and Mark Twain.

The New York Journal in a long appreciation of Major Pond, the well-known manager of lecturers, who died recently, had the following:—

Of Mark Twain he always had delightful reminiscences. He had pushed the humorist in a wheelbarrow when the latter insisted that his contract with Major Pond expressly stipulated that he be "kept moving."

"At a little town in Minnesota we had been waiting since 4 o'clock in the morning," said Major Pond, "and Mark got uneasy. He said, 'I am tired of this business. Pond contracted with me to travel, and here I am waiting for late trains that never arrive.'

"Mrs. Clemens said, 'My dear, are you not making a fool of yourself?' 'No, I am not,' Twain replied. 'I contracted to travel, and I insist upon his keeping the contract.' So he sat down in a wheelbarrow and I pushed it.

"We went up to Vancouver next. Mark went to bed and stayed there four days. In fact, he never puts on his clothes unless he is obliged to. Nearly all his books are written in this position. When the reporters called I had to see that the bed was all right and send them up for their interviews."

And he paid this tribute to Mark Twain:—

"Mark Twain is to-day the most popular writer in the English language. Few men have ever written whose humor has so many sides, such breadth or reach."

J. Elbert Cutler, a post-graduate student at Yale, has just completed an exhaustive investigation into lynchings in the United States for the last twenty-one years. He finds that the total for this period is 3,[illegible], of whom 1,672 were negroes and 1,2[illegible] were whites. There were sixty-one women lynched in that period, twenty-three of them white women, of whom nine were lynched for murder. In the South 1,[illegible] negroes and [illegible] whites were lynched. Statistics can not be made to show more than thirty-five per cent. of negroes lynched for crimes against women.

COPETE MINING CO.

27 William Street, New York

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $160,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them ar—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now clear and undisputed title to all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

STOCK MARKETS

New York, October 14.—London 1-8 to [illegible] higher. The builders' strike is on the verge of collapse. Industrials may temporarily keep the market in check, but with the removal of selling pressure in this direction railroad issues under the leader Atchison, U. P., Erie and Reading will do better. A. C. P. is a good speculative purchase around [illegible]. The capitalization of T. C. I. is now represented by $6,000,000. There is a chance for the Hanover bank friends of the company. Traders are conservatively bearish, but they will play for a rally if they see signs of support. Philadelphia will give the cue today though dividend on Reading 2nd preferred. Buy Erie, good around 65 1-2. Hold Atchison.

New York, October 14.—For the past three days rumors are circulated relative to Canadian trouble. Brokers of the stock exchange come to our 'phone on the flood, and ask all sorts of idle questions relative to reports from Europe which infer Canadian trouble. The variety of these remarks justify the thought that they are largely professional and circulated for a purpose of manipulation. Those making enquiries gives various points as to the origin of the information. Last week they said London was selling Canadian securities in anticipation of trouble. I simply send you this information that you may see how things are working down here and it was when those reports were in free circulation this morning that the drives were made against Canadian securities. When these measures are so resorted to it begins to look as though the bears were getting rather short of ammunition.

Chicago, October 14.—Closed strong. Lights 580 and 610. Mixed 540 and 610. Heavy 540 and 600.

Snake Stories.

"Big Jake" Larue, who lives southwest of Auxvasse, near Bynum, N.Y was hoeing his corn the other day when he almost stepped on a rattlesnake. "The snake struck at him," as the Auxvasse "Review" relates, "but he luckily thrust his hoe to the front, and the snake's fangs were imbedded for half an inch into the hoe handle. Larue killed the snake and went on working his weedy corn. Shortly after he noticed that there was something wrong with the hoe handle. He glanced down, and was surprised to find that the handle had begun to swell. In half an hour it was as large as a man's leg. Then Jake took a drink and the swell subsided. 'Well, now, don't that beat H——ock,' said Jake."

The Cottonwood Springs correspondent of the Mexico, N.Y., "Ledger," seeing this truthful tale, thought to go it one better by the following:—"The other day while Jay Bennett was hoeing out his pomegranate patch he had a similar experience to that of Mr. Larue, only that the reptile that Jay killed resembled a boa constrictor more than it did a rattlesnake. He applied cottonwood water to the hoe handle and the swelling went down almost as rapidly as it came up. Later on in the day Jay feared that gangrene might set in, and he had the handle amputated to 'save' the hoe He gave the snake to his friend, Everett Goodrich, who will 'stuff and fix it up in shape,' and it will be placed in the Cottonwood Springs building at the World's Fair."

Leo XIII.'s Love Affairs.

London "Truth."

Of Leo's freedom from carnal frailties I have spoken. No scandal ever tarnished his life. But I am not sure that there were times when he would not have gladly brought a woman into his life. He undoubtedly came under the spell of Mme. Rattazzi's grace and beauty. She had the palace of her grandfather, Lucien Bonaparte, at Viterbo, which Leo often visited, and received him there in her delicious manner. Mme. Rattazzi would be true grande dame, and blended as hostess of the Bishop of Perugia that character with that of an amiable coquette. But the grand souvenir of the late Pope's life was of Judith, the French actress. He saw her in Paris in 1846; thought she would be an ideal model for a Notre Dame de Carmel, and indirectly got Antoine, a Belgian painter, to do a portrait of her in that character. When first asked to sit, she objected, saying, "You know I am a Jewess." This did not matter. Were not the Virgin Mary and the Apostles Jewish also? And so she posed. In his last illness Leo ordered the painting of Notre Dame de Carmel to be taken from his oratory and hung before his bed. He hoped to die on her feste—July 16. His last conscious look was at that pictorial image!

From the people in the car the cry went up: "A woman has fallen in a faint!" The conductor paled. "Heavens!" he exclaimed; "what will the company say when they learn she had room to fall?" Then he burst into tears, for he had a family to keep and sorely needed his job.—"Life."

Bulgaria Calls Reserves

Sofia, Bulgaria, October 14.—The War Office today ordered the complete mobilization of the first and second classes of reserves resident in the Kostendil district and of the Thirteenth Macedonian Infantry. This step, it is understood, was taken as a precautionary measure in view of the repeated provocative acts of the Turks on the frontier.

Reasons Why.

A correspondence has been taking place in an exchange with regard to the reason why men don't go to church, and as we know something about it, we beg to offer the following additional reasons:

Because the church won't come to them.

Because the missus goes there.

Because they want to smoke.

Because they are not allowed to show their new hats.

Because they cannot stand a man having all the conversation to himself.

Because they want exercise.

Because they want rest.

An Excessively Literary Bit of Literature

The poet and Penelope were playing under the rose, tossing the filigree ball; both were children of destiny, born in the house on the Hudson, near the house opposite, adjacent to our neighbors close to an East Side family. Those delightful Americans were like pigs in clover until a tar heel baron, the master of millions, espied through the gap in the garden the siege of youth; this man in the gray cloak, who figured among the middle-aged lovers, and possessed the sins of a saint, and who had been the lightning conductor and the talk of the town in Piccadilly as well as a regular typhoon along the Roman road, was no hero when he entered the circle at the time appointed, where the spinners of life—one, the blue goose, and the other, one of the deep-sea vagabonds—were enjoying the price of freedom. However, taking the main chance to overcome the modern obstacle of trees, shrubs and vines, this gold wolf cracked one of earth's enigmas and dashed like a detached pirate upon wild life near home; say, Marty, who had been abroad with the Jimmies in the kindred of the wild, and the lions of the Lord, didn't do a thing but lift the log of a cowboy grown in the mountains of California, and standing 'twixt God and mammon, saying: "You are the under dog." Lovey Mary, alias Penelope, whose mother was a Virginian girl in the Civil War, jumped upon the intruder and said: "I am a girl of ideas of the better sort, also a daughter of Thespis; you are the spoilsmen set; scat! get you to walks in New England. You are only Perkins the fakeer." And he got.—Horace Seymour Keeler in New York "Sun."

AN EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY

FOR BOTH LARGE AND SMALL INVESTORS

Owing to valuable Patents having been granted this Company, we are desirous of extending our business to the Dominion of Canada. Owing to the Customs duties, the extra cost in transportation and the numerous expenses attached, and the delays in deliveries in shipping goods from one country to another, it is absolutely necessary that we should have a factory in the Dominion, that we may be in a position to meet the immediate wants of the business.

The articles that we make from our Patent Fabric are too numerous to mention, and it is not necessary that we go into the details of the merits of our goods, as they are already in use to a large extent and have no equal. Our goods are covered by several patents, and the profit on the goods is large, averaging from 25 to 100 per cent, thus affording the company large revenue to meet all its obligations

In order to secure funds to equip a plant in the Dominion of Canada we will offer to the people of Canada $100,000 of our Bonds paying ten per cent. interest per annum.

Experience has shown that stocks based upon sound industrial enterprises have never been equalled from the standpoint of legitimate profit. For instance, a few hundred dollars invested in the Bell Telephone Company's stock in the beginning of the enterprise now commands thousands of dollars, after having yielded large dividends annually. Of course opportunities for such profitable investments do not present themselves every day, and it is also very true that a vast amount of capital has been misdirected in the endeavor to exploit inventions and enterprises which shrewd and far seeing investors should have recognized as impractical. But as regards this enterprise even the most conservative must admit it has possibilities of development which are almost incalculable and which have already been demonstrated in a practical manner. We have no speculative elements—this is a sound business proposition, and the patents which we own are worth several million dollars, as there can only be one fabric of this kind and that is ours.

All the above facts are simple statements of the truth and can be fully substantiated to the satisfaction of all investors.

The business is no experiment, the incorporators of this Company have made it their business for a great many months past and understand all the details, the prospects are therefore bright, and brighter than those of many other opportunities.

This Company is not a promotors company, every dollar goes to enhance the value of the property and business and increase the capacity. There is nothing speculative in this proposition, the enterprises are undertaken for industrial purposes only to make profits by the operation and development of the business.

Considering that the enterprise is already upon an established basis with a certainty of profitable future expansion, we feel warranted in the assertion that this is an attractive proposition to investors whether large or small.

The price of these Bonds are one dollar each, and will be issued in any number wanted. With every purchaser of each five Bonds we will give as a bonus, one share of stock of the Company, the par value of which is five dollars per share, thus assuring interest on the investment, and with the stock which is bound to increase you will have for nothing. These Bonds will be issued for five years. Persons desiring to avail themselves of this opportunity want to send their remittance at once.

Attention Investors

FROM THE PLACERS OF THE BOISE BASIN, IDAHO, FOUR HUNDRED MILLIONS OF DOLLARS IN GOLD HAVE BEEN TAKEN.

We are now developing the ledges that fed those placers in the ages past.

The Pearl Gold Mining Co. of Idaho owns seven groups of mines—thirty-seven mining claims and is now working in ore in three of its mines.

The Treasury Stock is offered at a price that will unquestionably make money for those who invest. The Stock is non-assessable—no debts—all clear titles—safe, experienced and conservative management.

First Class Mining Proposition.

The Anaconda Gold Mining Co.

Home Office: 412 Merchants Loan and Trust Bldg.
135 Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

This is one of the best propositions ever placed before the Canadian investor. The Company owns 660 acres in the celebrated Black Hills District, South Dakota, comprising 33 claims. The tract is unquestionably on the great Homestake belt, being located directly between the wonderful Homestake mine and the Clover Leaf mine. Two shafts have already been sunk, the main one being down 154 feet, with capacity of going 1000 feet. The Company has also installed an Ingersoll-Sargeant air compressor and drills, 125 horse power boiler, steam pumps, and in fact everything needed for actual operation, with the exception of its stamp mills; which will be installed at once. The vein of gold-bearing quartz traversing the Company's property is very rich. Assays have run from $3 to $64.80 per ton.

The Company has a capital of 1,500,000 shares, divided into 750,000 preferred and 750,000 common, par value $1 per share, fully paid up and non-assessable. The treasury stock has been made preferred stock to the amount of 25 cents a share. Out of the first dividends 25 cents per share will be paid to the owners of this preferred stock before holders of common stock receive any share of the profits. After the 25 cents has been paid to the shareholders of preferred stock, then all alike share in the dividends. This means nothing less than that the first investors in the enterprise will have all their money returned to them before any dividends are declared to the rank and file o investors.

A limited amount of Stock has been placed on the Canadian market. Full particulars and copy of prospectus may be obtained from MR. R. J. KIDD, or the undersigned Agent for Peterborough city

This stock went off the market at 25 cents July 1 this year and there is none to be had of the company at any price. They guarantee this stock to be gilt edge. $40,000 worth of ore on the dump now. If you want 1,000 shares of this stock send draft for $100 to Adel State Bank, Adel, Iowa, and they will send you your certificate for same. If you want 500 shares send draft for $50 to said bank. Pugh and Williams do their business through this large bank, hence you are safe in sending money to them. Dividends will come soon from this property and it will then go to $1.00 per share. It is in Colorado and officials of that state write that it is a magnificent property. If you know this property and the people back of it you would want this stock. For reference write Hon. Geo. W. Clarke, Adel, Iowa, member of the Legislature. He will tell you as to our reliability. If you buy 1,000 shares of this stock we send you a guarantee and you will also thank us for calling your attention to it. An honest proposition. Write immediately with draft as this stock will be offered but a few days at 10 cents. Last shipment of ore went over $120 to the ton.

CURED

In a Few Minutes

COLDS
that make you snuffle and sneeze

COUGHS
That inflame and irritate the bronchial tubes and the throat

CATARRH
That makes your head ache, causes deafness and dyspepsia

BY SIMPLY INHALING

CATARRHOZONE

This simple inhaler is a wonderful cure for coughs, cold in the head, catarrh and lung trouble. The agreeable penetrating vapor traverses every air cell and passage of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs. In one breath it carries death to the million of germs infesting the respiratory organs, and breaks up a cold in ten minutes.

A trial will convince you that Catarrhozone is the most potent, pleasant and satisfactory remedy. The inhaler can be conveniently carried in the vest pocket and is suitable to use in church, in the street car, theatre, at work—any place—at any time of day or night.

Catarrhozone is a new scientific method of cure that is endorsed by ministers, doctors and thousands it has benefited. Complete outfit, consisting of a beautifully polished hard rubber inhaler, and sufficient liquid for recharging to last two months, costs one dollar. Small trial size 25c. Sold by all druggists, or sent safely to your address by mail if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Manufacturing Chemists, Kingston.

Morning Times

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 15 1903

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS

DASHES HERE AND THERE BY TIMES' REPORTERS

No Paper To-morrow

There will be no issue of The Times to-morrow on account of this being Thanksgiving Day.

November Numbers

Gold Watch Lost

On Monday last between St. Peter's Cathedral and Louis street, a gold watch. Finder will be suitably rewarded by leaving it at The Times Bookstore.

The New Dam

The Cereal Company's dam is rapidly approaching completion. It will cost when completed, together with the power house, in the neighborhood of a quarter of a million dollars.

Nails and Paint Go Up

It will be interesting to painters and carpenters to learn that the price of paint and nails is to be advanced. This action has been taken at a meeting held in Montreal yesterday.

Band to Norwood

The 57th Band went to Norwood on the local last night, and gave a concert. There was a large and delighted audience present. They returned at midnight by special train.

All Saint's Church

There will be service at All Saints church this morning at eleven o'clock, when there will be a special offertory for Diocesan Missions. Rev. E. R. James, Hastings, will preach on Sunday evening. Rev. H. C. Dixon, of Toronto, will preach.

Good Hunting

Local sports will be glad to hear that there is every prospect of a good hunting season this fall. One man who has occasion to go up and down the upper lakes says he has seen more than twenty deer in the woods where very few have been seen for some years. The woods are said to be fairly alive with partridges. There is, therefore, a good prospect ahead of the man behind the gun in November, 1903.

INCIDENTS OF THE DAY

—Service will be held in St. John's at 10.30 o'clock this morning.

—In order to give our staff a holiday, there will be no issue of The Times to-morrow.

—There will be divine service in St. Luke's this morning at 10.30. The offertory will be for Diocesan Missions.

—At the Police Court yesterday a young man was fined $10 for using improper language to a young woman on the street.

—Union Thanksgiving service will be held in the George street Methodist church this morning at 11 o'clock, when Rev. A. H. Brace, of Park street Baptist church, will preach.

—Fine stationery, style, quality and value are here. Reliable, handsome and low priced. All the latest tints if you like the pure white we have that too. Times Bookstore.

—Dr. V. McWilliams, coroner, will hold an inquest on the death of Henry Weese who was killed on Saturday in the C.P.R. yards at Havelock. The inquest will take place at one o'clock next Tuesday in Havelock.

—There is a fat, jolly brakeman on the G.T.R. who can, and does, light 3 coach lamps with one match. He climbs his ladder, strikes his match, lights his first lamp, descends, climbs to the second, lights it, and so on, always keeping his single match alight. If all Grand Trunk employees were similarly economical the stock of that company would climb like a lineman.

DIED IN HIS CARRIAGE

Thomas Humphrey Dies on His Way to Norwood Fair

Yesterday a man named Thomas Humphrey, a farmer living near Warkworth, while on his way to the Norwood fair, took ill and died before assistance could be procured. He was about 60 years of age, and was widely known.

THE NORWOOD FAIR

A Huge Success—$1,400 Taken at the Gate

Yesterday was a great day in Norwood, the village being crowded with people from morning until night. The annual exhibition under the auspices of the East Peterborough Agricultural Society was a great success, over $1,400 being taken in at the gate.

In the evening the Band of the 57th gave a concert, which was also well attended. A large number were present from Peterborough.

INJURED AT NORWOOD

Wm. Fitzgerald, of Indian River, Nearly Killed

Yesterday a farmer named Wm. Fitzgerald, who lives at Indian River, was knocked down and badly injured at Norwood by a horse driven by Tim Curran, of town. It is said that Curran was driving furiously through the streets when the accident occurred. Fitzgerald did not regain consciousness for several hours. It was thought that he might not recover, but last night The Times was informed that he had rallied and would soon be all right.

PETITION GOVERNMENT

Auburn Woollen Mills Employees Want Protection

The following petition has been presented to the Minister of Customs at Ottawa by the employes of the Auburn Woollen Company:

To the Hon. Wm. Patterson, Minister of Customs, Ottawa:—

The petition of the undersigned humbly sheweth that the employment of the undersigned employees of the Auburn Woollen Company of Peterborough is being seriously curtailed, and may be suspended altogether, should the present comparatively free importation of goods coming in direct competition with the Auburn Mills be permitted to continue.

Believing that our present condition is largely if not altogether due to the lack of proper protection from the importation of goods which are the products of cheaper labor, we would humbly solicit the earnest consideration of yourself and colleagues to the position in which we are placed in the belief that in your wisdom you will be able to find a remedy for the present state of affairs, and thus assure ourselves and our families against want during the winter season now approaching, and as in duty bound your petitioners will ever pray."

The above petition was signed by the Auburn employes and sent on Saturday, the 10th October, to which the following reply has been received:—

Ottawa, October 12th, 1903.

Robert Mann, Esq., Auburn Woollen Mills:—

Dear Sir,—I am directed by the Honorable Minister of Customs to acknowledge receipt of petition signed by yourself and other employes of the Auburn Woollen Company with reference to the Tariff as it affects the woollen industry. The minister wishes me to say to you that the representations made in the petition will be carefully considered by him. Yours truly,

JOHN BAIN,
Assistant Commissioner.

ORIGIN

Of a Famous Human Food

The story of great discoveries or inventions is always of interest.

An active brain worker who found himself hampered by lack of bodily strength and vigor and could not carry out the plans and enterprises he knew how to conduct was led to study various foods and their effects upon the human system. In other words before he could carry out his plans he had to find a food that would carry him along and renew his physical and mental strength.

He knew that a food that was a brain and nerve builder, (rather than a mere fat maker), was universally needed. He knows that meat with the average man does not accomplish the desired results. He knew that the soft gray substance in the brain and nerve centres is made from Albumen and Phosphate of Potash obtained from food. Then he started to solve the problem.

Careful and extensive experiments evolved Grape-Nuts, the now famous famous. Grape-Nuts contain the brain and nerve building food elements in condition for easy digestion. The result of eating Grape-Nuts daily is easily seen in a marked sturdiness and activity of the brain and nervous system making it a pleasure for one to carry on the daily duties without fatigue or exhaustion. The food is in no sense a stimulant but is simply food which renews and replaces the daily waste of brain and nerves.

Its flavor is charming and being fully and thoroughly cooked at the factory it is served instantly with cream.

The signature of the brain worker spoken of, C. W. Post, is to be seen on each genuine package of Grape-Nuts.

JACK ROSE HONORED

Presentation to a Popular Canadian Pacific Official

There were some very pleasant social features in connection with the excursion of the Canadian Manufacturers Association, which returned to Toronto on Wednesday morning.

When the excursionists arrived at North Bay, Mr. Drummond mounted an express truck at the station, and, while the one hundred and seventy members were assembled on the platform, called forward Mr. John J. Rose, Travelling Passenger Agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Mr. Rose accompanied the party throughout the entire trip and judging by his reception he was an exceedingly popular member of the party. Mr. Drummond presented a handsome gold watch, suitably inscribed, to Mr. Rose, as an expression of thanks for the excellent manner in which he had superintended and conducted the arrangements for the journey. Accompanying the presentation was an address read by Mr. R. J. Younge, Secretary of the association. Mr. Rose made a fitting reply.

The Times heartily congratulates Mr. Rose, who is as well known in Peterborough as he is in Toronto.

MR. PEARSON'S HORSES.

The Famous Horseman Wins All Kinds of Prizes at St. John, N.B.

Mr. J. W. Pearson, the great Montreal horse buyer, who is known so well in Peterborough and surrounding district, has swept the boards at the St. John horse show. The following were Mr. Pearson's winnings.

The judging of military riding was superseded by an exhibition of hurdle jumping by the horses of Mr. Pearson and Mr. Learmont.

Walking competition for pair of carriage horses—1, H. H. Learmont, Montreal; 2, W. J. Pearson, Montreal.

In heavy horses, two splendid carriage teams were heartily applauded as they trotted around the course. The first prize was won by Mr. Pearson's handsome pair, and in the competition for champion single carriage horse, Mr. Pearson took second prize.

Next followed a fine example of driving a unicorn as a spike team by W. F. Pearson, and a four-in-hand by Mr. H. H. Learmouth, both of Montreal. It was a splendid exhibition and gave great pleasure to the crowd, the high-spirited horses being driven with perfect skill. The Montreal gentlemen got a great reception.

Mr. Pearson took first prize in class 8, and second in class 55—horses of all breeds.

In the saddle class Mr. Pearson took first prize, as he also did in pairs of carriage horses, as well as second in tandem competition.

THANKSGIVING DAY IN TOWN

Events Which are Booked for To-Day in Peterborough

The first event will be the regimental rifle matches, which begin at 8 o'clock at the rifle ranges. A lunch will be served at noon on the grounds.

The steamer Majestic will run a trip to Stony Lake, leaving the Lakefield wharf upon the arrival of the morning train and returning in time to catch the 4.30 train for Peterborough.

At eleven o'clock Thanksgiving services will be held in George street, All Saints, St. John's and St. Luke's churches.

The event of the afternoon is the championship rugby game between the Wellesleys of Toronto, and the local club. No one who remains in town should miss this.

At two o'clock the unveiling of monuments at the Little Lake Cemetery will take place under the auspices of the Sherwood Forest Camp, No. 59, W.O.—.

At six o'clock there is a fowl supper in the Town Hall at Lakefield, which, it is said, will attract the attention of many from our town.

At 5.30 o'clock St. Andrew's Church will hold a high tea which will continue until all are inwardly satisfied, which it is expected will be about eight o'clock, when an entertainment will be given.

At eight o'clock in the Charlotte Street Church a concert will be given for which an interesting programme has been prepared.

PERSONAL MENTION

Movements of the People—What They are Doing and Saying.

—Miss Ida Kearney, of Young's Point, arrived in town today, after spending a few weeks at Chicago, Ill.

—Mr. Frank Perry, of the Lock Works, was busy receiving the congratulation of his friends on his 50th birthday. The Times wishes him many happy returns.

—Mr. A. W. Fife, checker at the Grand Trunk Freight Sheds, has resigned his position to accept a more lucrative one elsewhere.

—Miss Jane Wilson and cousin, Miss Hill who are attending the Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby, are in town for the holiday.

—Service will be held in George street church this morning at eleven o'clock. The singers of the various choirs of town are invited to attend.

—Yesterday at Lindsay the wedding took place of Miss Nevada Webster, ward of Dr. Vrooman, M.P., of Lindsay, to Mr. Louis T. Best, of Sarnia, formerly of Peterborough.

—The Times had a pleasant call yesterday from Mr. C. S. Maharg, trainmaster C.P.R., who was in town on business. Mr. Maharg reports business booming on the greatest railway on earth.

MR. BALFOUR AT SHEFFIELD

sion to which I have arrived. Of course all must admit I do not care what their opinions are, all must admit that the taxation of food, indeed, every kind of taxation, is an evil. (Hear, hear.). I think the evils of taxation of food, so far as that taxation is kept within narrow limits—I want to tell the whole truth to this vast audience—I think that the evils of the taxation of food, kept within those narrow limits, have been exaggerated beyond what reason and logic justify. (Loud cheers). But I think nevertheless, that for historic reasons, that feeling—though it does go beyond what logic and reason seem to justify—is one of those ingrained— perhaps "ingrained" means nearly permanent—but one of those sentiments born of the history of a people of which it is absolutely necessary that every practical statesman should take account, of which I do take account, and which I believe you cannot traverse with impunity, and the reason is not far to seek.

How Foreigners Will Be Dealt With.

Compare the case of France and of England. In France at this moment it would be impossible for any legislator to attempt to make a breach in that theoretical equality which was burned into them by the great struggle of the French Revolution, and which every Frenchman believes in as an immutable creed. The Englishman cares little for speculative equality. What he wants is liberty (Hear hear.) The Frenchman, however, is tolerant, to a degree incredible among us, to any taxation of food. Remember, it is a country governed under as democratic a government as our own, and taxation of food is part of their normal system, and they are not content with having taxation on food for what we would call national and imperial purposes, but to pay what we pay out or rates very largely by the taxation of food. Now, take the case of England. In England we had no French Revolution. There is not burning into us by our historic experience any of the feelings which animate the French on the subject of equality. But the memory of the misery endured by our working classes, and especially of the agricultural laborer—(hear, hear) in the days when wheat was 70s., 80s., or 100s. a quarter has become associated, though I admit with very little historic propriety—(hear, hear)—but it has become associated with the question of the abolition of the corn tax. It has burned into the historic imagination of the people. It cannot be eliminated by the best logic, the most conclusive reasoning, or the most eloquent speeches. I am therefore distinctly of opinion—I am speaking here as one who is bound to give advice to a great party on the policy which they should regard as their official policy—(hear, hear)—I am bound as the best results of my reflections to ask you to adopt the conclusion that a tax on food is not with public opinion in the state in which it is, within the limits of practical politics. (Laughter and some cheers.) So much for the colonial branch of the question.

THE FARMER FAILS

In health just as does the city-man, and he fails commonly from the same cause, "stomach trouble." The farm is a wholesome place to live; the farmer's life is a healthy life; but no external advantages can overcome the effects of a diseased stomach. When the stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition are diseased, the food eaten is imperfectly digested and assimilated, and the consequent loss of nutrition results in physical debility.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, and enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of food. It builds up the body with sound flesh and solid muscle.

"I used ten bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and several vials of his 'Pleasant Pellets' a year ago this spring, and have had no trouble with indigestion since," writes Mr. W. T. Thompson, of Townsend, Broadwater Co., Montana. "Words fail to tell how thankful I am for the relief, as I had suffered so much and it seemed that the doctors could do me no good. I got down in weight to one hundred and twenty-five pounds, and was not able to work at all. Now I weigh nearly one hundred and sixty and can do a day's work on the farm. I have recommended your medicine to several, and shall always have a good word to say for Dr. Pierce and his medicines."

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make the little more profit paid by the sale of less meritorious medicines. He gains; you lose. Therefore accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

Nine out of every ten men have been guilty of transgression against nature in their youth. Nature never excuses, no matter how young, thoughtless or ignorant he may be. The punishment and suffering corresponds with the crime. The only escape from its ruinous results is proper scientific treatment to counteract its effects.

The DRAINS, either by nightly losses, or secretly through the urine, must be stopped—the NERVES must be built up and invigorated, the blood must be purified, the SEXUAL ORGANS must be vitalized and developed, the BRAIN must be nourished. Our New Method Treatment provides all these requirements. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers disappear; the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, bashfulness and despondency disappear; the eyes become bright, the face full and clear, energy returns to the body, and the moral, physical and sexual systems are invigorated; all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. The The various organs become natural and manly. We invite all the afflicted to call and consult us confidentially and free of charge. Cures Guaranteed or No Pay. RUSSIA SAID TO HAVE OFFERED TO RELINQUISH HER CLAIMS TO COREA.

Unless Russian Demands are Acceded to Evacuation of Manchuria will be Indefinitely Postponed

Japan's Interests Lies in Corea and Not Manchuria

London, Oct. 16—The various despatches received here from Tokio contribute little information concerning the position, but on the whole they support the official contention that a peaceful settlement will be reached. It is reported from Kobe that Russia has offered to relinquish her claims in Corea, but insists upon the retention of Manchuria. Japan, it is stated, has refused to accede to this proposition. A number of leading naval officers have been summoned to confer with the Emperor to-morrow. The situation is considered critical.

So far as statements from Kobe are concerned, Baron Hayashi, the Japanese Minister here, recently deprecated their acceptance, describing Kobe as the Shanghai of Japan, meaning that it was a centre of ill-informed newsmongers.

—It is reported in Tokio that M. Lessar the Russian Minister at Pekin, delivered a note to China on October 9 to the effect that if China persisted in refusing the Russian demands, on which the evacuation of Manchuria is conditional, the evacuation would be indefinitely postponed.

FOR PACIFIC SOLUTION.

Yokohama, October 16— The Veteran statesmen's conferences with the Cabinet Ministers at Tokio Tuesday, while significant of a crisis, are understood to have been pacific, confirming the prior conferences before the throne, June 23, stipulating the integrity of Corea and Chinese retention of Manchuria, with a recognition of Russian rights. These conferences indicate that the negotiations are progressing towards a pacific solution of the problem.

Baron de Rosen, the Russian Minister to Japan and Baron Komura, the Japanese Foreign Minister, held their fourth conference yesterday. It lasted four hours.

M. Lessar, the Russian Minister to China, has informed Prince Ching head of the Chinese Foreign Office, that if China rejects the demands of Russia, the occupation of Manchuria by the Russian troops will be permanent.

The Russian forces at New Chwang have been reinforced by two battalions.

London, October 16—The Morning Post says, relative to the Far Eastern situation:— "Japan's view is that while Corea is of vital interest to her, Manchuria is not, and she is not inclined to pull the chestnuts out of the fire for Great Britain and the United States by issuing an ultimatum or taking any acting with regard to Manchuria except in co-operation with the other powers whose interests are equally involved. It is believed that neither power desires war, not only on account of the financial difficulties, but because of the doubt as to what course China would take in such a war."

The correspondent of the Morning Post at Che-foo, telegraphing under date of October 14, says that the rumors of an impending war continue, but it is impossible to obtain authentic information. In the event of an outbreak, the opinion in Che-foo is favorable to the success of the Japanese navy. It is believed that the newly equipped Chinese troops would ally themselves with Japan in any campaign against Russia which she might undertake in Manchuria.

A despatch from Shanghai to the Daily Telegraph says the Russo-Japanese situation is uncertain, and the outcome depends entirely on Russia's willingness to make concessions.

PHYSICIAN IN TROUBLE

Dr Jolley of Port Dover Held on Serious Charge

Hamilton, October 14—Dr. Jolley, a prominent physician of Port Dover, a married man 50 years of age, was arrested yesterday by Detective John Miller, of Hamilton, and brought to this city last night. The doctor is charged with child desertion, likely to result in bodily injury to the infant found on Saturday morning on the lawn of Edward Martin, K.C., upper James street. The child was placed on the lawn on Friday night, and was exposed to the chill air for 6 hours, and has since suffered from bronchitis, but is now reported as on the way to recovery. Suspicion pointed to Dr. Jolley from the first as he had written previously to the Home of the Friendless asking to have a child tallying with the physical description of the foundling placed in that institution. Detective Miller was placed on the case. The mother, who gives the name of Maud Smith, which is believed to be an alias, tells a story to the effect that Dr. Jolley offered to get the child placed in the home. On the night of the crime he met her, and told her arrangements were all made, and took the child, pretending to go over alone and leave it at the Home, instead of which, the police allege, he actually abandoned it where it was found.

What the consideration was that would lead a prominent physician to place himself in the unenviable position in which Jolley finds himself, or what his motive was, the police do not pretend to hazard even a guess. The mother of the child is under 20, and an orphan, but of very respectable parentage.

The child is illegitimate and physically malformed to such an extent that its gender is doubtful, and this is presumed to account for the mother's willingness to be separated from it, and was the clue which lead to the discovery of the alleged desertion. The father of the infant is away in the West, and knows nothing of the desertion, and possibly of its existence.

A SUMMER OUTING.

(Written for The Times.)

It had been a sizzling hot day in the city, and late in the afternoon of Friday the 17th of July, my business being over for the day, I leaned back in my office chair sighing for a breath of pure, fresh air, when it suddenly occurred to me that I would take my vacation (that I had so long promised myself) in the coming week.

The next thought, after making up my mind to go, was where shall I select the spot in which I could roam and cast off my business cares so as to thoroughly enjoy the short time that I had allowed myself for a trip.

While quietly turning this important matter over in my mind; the outer door to my office opened suddenly, and I was awakened from my reverie by a hearty voice calling "Frank, are you in my boy?" And the next moment my old chum, Eddie, bounded into the room and dropped almost breathless into the nearest chair. "I was afraid," he said, "that I would not catch you before you left the office! The old man has just told me that I can get off for a week, and I have made up my mind to go to Canada on a fishing excursion, and I want you to go with me; so hurry up and got your things together, and we can take the North King across Ontario the first thing in the morning. I have a lot of things to get together to take with me, so will leave you now, and be sure you meet me at the depot at six in the morning!" And so without even gaining my consent to accompany him, or giving me the chance of getting in a word, he bounded out of the room as he had come.

My mind was made up, however, to go before Eddie had done speaking, and I yelled down stairs after him, all right I'll go, and don't you forget to bring my landing net! which, by the way, he had borrowed some time before and had forgotten to return.

I was on time next morning at the station, but Eddie was already there ahead of me. "Come on this way," he cried "get on board, I have the tickets!" and before I hardly realized it we were at Charlotte on board the North King, steaming for Port Hope.

We had a most delightful trip across Lake Ontario, with just enough of a light breeze to temper the hot rays cast by "Old Sol," who seemed to be doing his level best to scorch up everything on sight.

On arriving at Port Hope we at once took train for Lakefield, where we were met by Captain Scollard, of the steamer Majestic, who, I must say, is one of the most genial and accomodating men I have ever met. Eddie, who seemed to be acquainted with everyone, gave him a hearty handshake and an introduction to myself, and we got better acquainted before going on board the Majestic by having "a smile" at mine host Craig's, who keeps a fine brick hotel adjacent to both the railroad and steamer wharf, and where you can get the best of accomodation and good attendance.

We stayed in Lakefield about half an hour. It seemed to be a lively little town, with some good buildings, stores, mills, factorys and a Portland Cement Works which must give employment to a great many hands. It also issues a weekly paper, a spicy little journal called The News.

After passing up Katchewanook lake we arrived at Young's Point; where our steamer was owned by Mr. Pat Young who is also lockmaster, and who soon passed us through the lock to enable us to enter Clear lake, a beautiful sheet of water, with some cleared farms down to the water's edge; the rest of the shores being beautifully wooded with maple, birch, beech and evergreen timber.

There are a number of pretty cottages at the head of Clear lake, just before entering the Narrows into Stoney lake, and our steamer made a number of calls at the numerous islands to let off passengers and their supplies. We wound in around some of these islands to call at McCracken's Landing, where there is a fine summer hotel kept by a Mr Fred Morgan, and to judge from the crowd that came down to the wharf from the hotel to meet us, he must have a "full house," and mostly Americans. He can accomodate about seventy guests. It looked to be a very pretty place from what I could see in the twilight.

From there we went to Juniper Island where there is a store and post-office This is a very busy place, as it is centrally located, and Mr. Robinson, the proprietor, must be taxed to his utmost to supply all the wants of his numerous customers.

After exchanging the mails here, we again started, this time to reach our destination, which we have decided to be Mount Julian, and where we landed safely, tired and hungry, at 9.15 Saturday night.

On getting our valises, rods, tackle, etc., carried up to the hotel, we were shewn our rooms in a very neat cottage adjoining, but separate from, the main building. Our host, Mr. Harry Mann, informed us that supper would be ready in fifteen minutes and to Eddie's delight we could have some nice fresh Black Bass just out of the water, but on my asking for a bottle of ale I was surprised to find that it could not be had, as it was "after hours." The Canadian law being; That no liquor can be sold between the hour of 7 o'clock on Saturday night and Monday morning. This may be a very good law but to my thinking was very inconvenient just then.

(Concluded in Monday's issue.)

To Settle in Canada

London, Oct. 14—The Prefect of Finistere, writing to the French Minister, of the Interior and Finance, says that efforts are being made by English agents to induce fisherman and their families to emigrate to Canada. The Prefect suggests that the Government of France give them facilities for settling in Algeria, where they would remain French citizens.

WILL SUE FOR A CENT

Cleveland, October 15.—Principal E. L. Harris, of the Central High school, is about to sue the board of education for 1 cent. He says he will collect it if he is obliged to spend $1,000 to do it. Members of the board of education say they will resist the payment of the penny if it costs the city all the money there is in the school fund.

The school year is divided into nine months of four week each, and 10 days additional. For the year's work, under the division, Harris received $3,450.99. His contract calls for a salary of $3,500 a year.

The principal says he is fighting for the principle and not for the money.

WAR WITH JAPAN WOULD STOP REVOLT IN RUSSIA

What the Present Revolutionists Hope to Attain in the Great Empire

London, Oct. 17—The outlook for war with Japan is ominous, taken from a Russian point of view. It is either war or revolution. According to the Times, the revolutionary movement has revived something of the terrorism which shook Russian society twenty years ago. There are three branches of this propaganda with the common aim of abolishing the existing aristocracy. Hitherto the movement has been carried on in the industrial cities, under the general pretext of improving the workman's condition. The latest of these revolutionary organizations has for its object the enrollment of the peasantry by "arousing the heart of Russia." The pacific policy pursued by Russia in the Balkans is ascribed by well-informed writers to this outbreak of internal passion rather than to her distrust of Germany. As one expresses it the Russian Empire today presents a sight similar to that of a powerful volcano on the eve of an eruption, with the rumbling of all its concentrated and pent-up subterranean forces struggling for an outlet, quite audible to the ear. During the past six or seven years the revolutionary agitation has spread to a wonderfully great extent among all the classes of the heterogeneous population of that land, and has penetrated into every city and village within the confines of that colossal empire. The people, tired of being oppressed and exploited by a tyrannical and irresponsible bureaucracy, and every one of its cruel minions, with that boldness which is born of despair, have lent a ready ear to the various agitators representing the schools of radicalism, from Nihilism and Republicanism to Communism and Anarchy. Even the half-civilized "Moujik," whose loyalty consequent upon his intense ignorance, has been the mainstay of the Government,' is gradually drifting into the camp of the revolutionists; for, being the victim of an unjust and unbearable burden of taxation which robs him of all the fruit of his labor and frequently leaves him without any means of existence, he is obliged to sell his hands (if not previously seized by the Government for unpaid taxes) and seek employment at some factory in town, where he is soon taken into hand by the untiring agitators and added to the ranks of the enemies of the autocratic Government, as the frequent outbreaks in various Russian towns lately become a matter of almost daily occurrence, will prove. Therefore, Russia requires the services of her legions to combat her patriots right at home, and to crush and quell any attempt which may be made by them to rid the land of the yoke of the despot.

Another authority states that the strikes in Russia which have been followed by drastic measures of suppression by the Government at Odessa, Tiflis, Baku, Kieff and other places have as their basis of inspiration an aim other than that of securing higher wages or less hours of work. It is also evident from information derived from trustworthy sources, that the revolutionary movement in the Russian Army is causing much fear in official circles. That the Russian institution, which has always been able to curb and annihilate sedition among student bodies, is now undecided what measures to pursue, shows that the institution has been taken by surprise. According to the able and well-informed Russian correspondent of l'Europeen, who signs himself "Nemoy," "The death struggle is now being waged between the past and the future of the empire of the Czars, and is daily becoming more fierce and sanguinary. The whole of South and Southwest Russia is disorganized, and the Government is uncertain what measures to adopt or what influences to exert lest it shall strike down its friends or unveil a new conspiracy."

M. Ernest Tarbouriech, Professor at the College Libre des Sciences Sociales, has just completed a scientific mission through Russia and Asia. In the introduction of his report, which is about to be handed to the French Minister of Public Instruction, is to be found this significant passage: "I made a flying visit to Warsaw, St. Petersburg, Moscow, and Nijni Novgorod, and consequently could not conduct my inquiries there beyond certain conversations with Frenchmen and Russians as to the very serious condition of the country from a social and economic point of view. Persons whose impartiality and loyalty are above suspicion, have avowed to me their constant apprehension of the gravest events.

FORM A NEW PARTY FOR FREE TRADE.

Makes Appeal for Reorganization of Party

With the Duke of Devonshire as Leader, Place Tax on the Land

London, Oct. 16—The Edinburgh Review, which is edited by the Hon. Arthur Elliot, who resigned the Financial Secretaryship of the Treasury because of his difference with Mr. Balfour, on his fiscal question, to-day makes a strong appeal for a reorganized Liberal-Unionist party under the leadership of the Duke of Devonshire, and to include men of all parties devoted to free trade, like Mr. Ritchie, and John Burns. It invites the assistance of the independent labor party also.

Mr Chamberlain is recovering from his attack of gout, and was able to leave his bedroom yesterday. Lord Milner has arrived at Birmingham, and will be his guest for a few days.

LIBERAL LEADER SPEAKS.

London, October 16—Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the Liberal leader, in a speech at Bolton yesterday, denouncing Mr. Chamberlain and the Government, urged the relief of industry by putting a heavier tax on land. He sketched the domestic reforms, including the reform of the education system, which he declared it was incumbent upon the Liberals to take up, saying that there are now no differences in the Liberal party substantial enough to cause coldness between the sections. Sir Henry declared that he had never complained or had cause for complaining of his treatment by his fellow Liberals.

MYSTERIOUS OUTRAGE, ATTEMPT TO BLOW UP BRITISH LEGATION

Wires Laid to Connect with the Magazine

Connectionion with Electric Battery Had Not Been Made

London, October 16—A despatch to the Times from Pekin says that a mysterious outrage was attempted at the British Legation on Tuesday night, on the occasion of a ball given by military officers. An effort was apparently made to blow up the magazine where explosives and ammunition for the defence of the Legation are stored. Concurrently the breech blocks and sights of a 4.7 inch gun were stolen. These have since been found in the native city. Wires were laid to connect with an electric battery, but the connection had not been made, otherwise there might have been a very serious explosion.

The incident draws attention to the policy which made the British military establishment in the Legation quarters the worst installed of any in Pekin.

Large imports of arms, adds the correspondent, have been made by China during the past nine months, and warlike munitions continue to be imported. A small Japanese steamer, which is lying off Che-foo with dynamite and ammunition, has been prohibited from landing her cargo. The Russian torpedo flotilla far exceeds in actual number the official admission. Many of them have been completed and equipped at Port Arthur.

That Russia means to stay in Manchuria is very forcibly set forth in the Amur Gazette, which says: "Is it possible that Americans can really think that Russia has lavished such enormous material and moral forces in Manchuria merely to turn that country into an international bazaar? Is it possible that the public writers of North America suppose for a moment that Russian officers, who have crossed Manchuria right and left under the fire of the Khunguses; that Russian engineers, who have poured forth their blood in the building of the railway, and have defended its works with their own breasts from the fanatic hordes of Boxers; that Russian soldiers and Cossacks, who performed marvels of Russian bravery during the late operations of war modestly known as the 'troubles of 1900-01'—that such men have borne the hardships of and toils of war and fallen on the field of fight only to give satisfaction to foreign trading firms? This is not the reason for which Russia has expended hundreds of millions of her hard-earned money in building a railway and quelling the uprising of the Boxers, in order to convey goods of alien nations and their 'drummers.' No; we fought for Manchuria, but we did not fight for the sake of their 'open door.'"

A SENSATIONAL REPORT A DECISION REACHED.

The News will be Received in Canada with General Consternation, Says the Morning Advertiser.

London, Oct. 16—Canadians at the Pilgrim Club banquet expressed surprise that the Canadian representatives were placed so far from the head of the table. It was thought that Hon. Clifford Sifton, as the King's Ambassador, should have had a more prominent place at the banquet. Mr. Sifton's remarks regarding Canada as a nation caused Lord Lansdowne visible agitation. None of the English guests seemed to grasp the drift of Mr. Aylesworth's or Mr. Sifton's remarks. The banquet was simply an English-American love feast.

"The speeches at the Pilgrim's Club's banquet to the Alaskan Boundary Commissioners were distinctly above the average of post-prandial oratory," says the Pall Mall Gazette, "and were marked by a genial heartiness and good feeling."

SENSATIONAL REPORT

London, Oct. 16—The Morning Advertiser announces that it regrets to learn from a source which it regards as beyond question that the decision of the Alaskan boundary tribunal virtually concedes the American case.

The Morning Advertiser, which appears to be thoroughly satisfied with the reliability of its statement, says the news will be received in Canada with consternation. It gives a map and a detailed explanation, showing how the decision will affect Canada, and adds that those who have followed the arguments have been thoroughly satisfied with Hon. Clifford Sifton's preparation and presentation of the case.

PESSIMISM IN CANADA.

London, Oct. 16—There is the highest authority for saying that the announcement made by the London Morning Advertiser today, that the decision of the Alaskan Boundary Commission virtually concedes the American case, is entirely untrue. The commission thus far has reached no decision, and no vote has been taken even in the private sessions which would indicate Chief Justice Alverstone's position. It is quite true that the general trend of opinion among those connected with the tribunal, aside from the commissioners, is that the ultimate decision will be in favor of America; but there is as yet not the slightest warrant for saying it has been reached.

The St. James' Gazette this afternoon adds: "There is, however, increasing pessimism in Canadian circles."

The commission adjourned to-day until to-morrow without making any announcement.

There was no formal session this afternoon. Some of the counsel were called in to discuss matters of detail in connection with the maps.

CANADIANS COULD ALSO RETALIATE.

The Americans Use Canadian Ports

For Export of Millions of Bushels of Wheat and Other Grain

London, Oct. 16.—A prominent official of the Grand Trunk expresses astonishment at Mr. Ritchie's ignorance regarding Canada in his imagining that Canada relied for the export of her grain upon access to the United States ports, and at his talking about the Americans threatening to penalize Canadian wheat, Canada could retaliate in a way that America would feel, as nearly ten million more bushels of American grain pass through Canada than Canadian wheat through United States territory.

PETERBOROUGH 9 WELLESLEYS 8

The first game of the intermediate series of the O.R.F.U. was played on Thanksgiving Day between the local team and the Wellesleys, of Toronto before a crowd of about 300 spectators.

The visitors brought down a strong aggregation, and proved hard opponents for the locals to battle with giving them a decidedly hard run for their victory, which is indicated by the score. The Wellesleys were the lighter team, than the Peterborough boys who used their weight to great advantage.

At half time the Wellesleys were in the lead 7-3, and held the Peterboros down to two more points in the first 15 minutes of the final half. Even after Peterborough evened the score with a touch-down the game was almost lost, for the Toronto lads rushed the ball down the field, and held it on the home team's five yard line, when a fumble gave the local wings a chance to dribble. The dribble resulted in a rouge, which won the game.

Peterboro got first blood, their weight carrying the entire Wellesley back division and the ball over the goal and dead-ball lines for a safety touch. Then the Toronto lads commenced to kick, and the wings, by fast following up, forced two rouges, and the ball was dropped into touch-in-goal by Suckling. They were through on Peterboro's halves, too, and Perry, on a fumble, started a dribble, which landed the ball over the line, where Miller secured it for a try, which was not converted.

In the second half the Wellesleys played on the defensive, until Peterboro evened up the score, when they became aggressive again. Time and time again the tackling of the visitors staved off the Peterboro team, and the outlook was blue for the locals until the ball was kicked out of May's hands, when he attempted to rouge, by Hurtubise, who seized the leather and made a touch-down. The goal was not kicked.

For Peterboro, Rickey and Crowley on the half, and Hurtubise and Asseltine, on the line, played good ball, while the whole back division of the visitors played a consistent game. The tackling of Foreman and May was excellent. The Wellesley wings were all speedier than the home men, but in the line bucking they could not begin to hold their own. Geo. Biggs, of Varsity, the referee, was very strict, and kept the game well in hand all the way. The summary:

Wellesleys (8)—Back, May; halves, Gibson, Suckling, and Foreman; quarter Matthews; snap, Harris; wings, Marsh, Cook, Byrne, Perry, Miller, Painter.

Peterboro (9)—Back, Lee; halves, Morgan, Crowley, and Rickey; quarter, Graham; snap, Hurtubise; wings, Meagher, Asseltine, Thornton, Noble, Dillon, Cameron, Crough.

LACROSSE.

Seaforth, Oct. 16—The final junior Canadian Lacrosse Association championship match here today between Wallaceburg and Elora, resulted in favor of Elora by a score of 5 to 1. For three quarters of the match it was of the finest quality of lacrosse for juniors, and the only thing Wallaceburg did not show up was in the score. The last quarter was disastrous for Wallaceburg, as Elora played better lacrosse and justly deserved the victory. H. M. Jackson of Seaforth refereed the game in his impartial manner.

A DISPUTED RACE

Knox Beat Belland at the Driving Park on Thursday

There was considerable excitement over the foot race between Knox, of Orillia, and Belland, of town. There was a large number present. The race was won by Knox, who crossed the line about six yards ahead of his opponent. The judges, Messrs. G. Graham and Howden declared Knox the winner, but Referee Rountree declared all bets off. For a few minutes a lively discussion took place, but peace was finally restored. The referee, it is said, stated that the race was "fixed" and that Belland did not attempt to win.

AMONG THE MAIL

What a Railway Mail Clerk Found

There was one clerk, hungry and down-hearted, who found a food hint one night in the following way; "For months I suffered from chronic indigestion, impoverished blood and shattered nerves caused by the improper selection of food. Was in the habit of making a breakfast of coarse and pasty food accompanied by the free use of coffee, and these combined to almost shatter my digestive organs.

"I was employed in the Railway Mail service and assigned to duty on a night line where it was necessary to eat at irregular hours during the night. Everything I ate, no matter how light, not only failed to nourish, but distressed and nauseated me and I was reduced in weight from 150 to 122 pounds. My memory was fast failing and I was a nervous wreck, unfit for duty and discouraged in view of the fact that I must soon give up my good position.

"One night when the world seemed darkest to me I read among a sack of mail the words 'Grape-Nuts' and wondered if it was something good to eat. Arriving at the end of my run I bought a package, and nothing ever tasted better; from that day I began to gain mentally and physically. I gained 15 pounds in two months on Grape-Nuts food and kept on steadily increasing my weight to 147 pounds.

"Grape-Nuts improved and steadied my brain and nerve powers so that I was able to pass my next examination with a good grade and soon got a promotion and was changed to a daylight run; there is no doubt in the world that I owe my advance in position and improved health to the proper food Grape-Nuts in place of improper foods." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There was a reason.

THE WOOLLEN INDUSTRY

The woollen industry has been called the one unprosperous trade in the Dominion, and there is an outcry for some legislation which would put it on a better basis. In the discussion two points have been made pretty clear, first, that the depression in Canada is confined to the branch of the trade in particular, and that it has arisen from causes which tariff legislation cannot do much to control, and secondly, that the woollen industry in Lancashire is also suffering from great depression, leading to the closing of hundreds of mills, with thousands of operatives either idle or on short employment. The causes of this are said to be over-production, and the rise in the price of raw materials. Cross-bred wool has risen from sevenpence last year to one shilling, while the price of the finished goods has not kept the pace. In Yorkshire the same conditions are not observable, for the reason that last year the manufacturers prudently 'cast anchor to windward' by the purchase of large stocks of wool at the lower price, while in Lancashire, in New England and Canada, the manufacturers have bought all along "from hand to mouth." The Monetary Times declares that withal, three-fourths of the mills in this country have nothing to complain of. Some of them are running night and day, others are adding to their capacity. The blanket, knitting and carpet sections of the trade are fairly prosperous. It is the manufacturers of tweeds that suffer most. They cannot compete with British goods, because they pay more for their machinery, higher interest on the investment, and 40 per cent. more for wages. Beyond this the British goods are the finest in the world, and even the shoddy is produced with a finish that no other country can imitate. It is conceded that an increase in the tariff on tweeds would help that branch of Canadian woollen workmanship, but a general increase all round is not encouraged.

RUSSIA WILL STAY

That Russia means to stay in Manchuria is very forcibly set forth in the Amur Gazette, which says: "Is it possible that Americans can really think that Russia has lavished such enormous material and moral forces in Manchuria merely to turn that country into an international bazaar? Is it possible that the public writers of North America suppose for a moment that Russian officers, who have crossed Manchuria right and left under the fire of the Khunguses; that Russian engineers, who have poured forth their blood in the building of the railway, and have defended its works with their own breasts from the fanatic hordes of Boxers; that Russian soldiers and Cossacks, who performed marvels of Russian bravery during the late operations of war modestly known as the 'troubles of 1901-02'—that such men have borne the hardships of and toils of war and fallen on the field of fight only to give satisfaction to foreign trading firms? This is not the reason for which Russia has expended hundreds of millions of her hard-earned money in building a railway and quelling the uprising of the Boxers, in order to convey goods of alien nations and their 'drummers.' No; we fought for Manchuria, but we did not fight for the sake of their 'open door.'"

Items of Interest.

Nature's infinite variety is well illustrated in the collection of photographs of snow crystals made during the past 20 years by Mr. W. A. Bentley of Vermont. He has now more than 1,000 photographs of individual crystals, and among them no two are alike.

It will be good news to humanitarians who have been protesting against the feeding of snakes on live animals to learn that the authorities at the Zoological Gardens in London are now carrying out a suggestion recently made in the press, and are feeding the larger serpents with newly-killed rabbits and poultry instead of with live ones.

Trees are now to be felled by electricity. The modus operandi is as follows: A platinum wire, having been stretched out between two poles, is heated until it becomes incandescent. It is then drawn tight against the tree, through which it immediately proceeds to burn its way. It is said that a tree can by this process be felled in about one-eighth of the time it would take to saw it down.

Some time ago, according to a story in the Jewish "Chronicle," the Hungarian Jews in Chicago wrote to the chief rabbi of Pressburg, in Hungary, asking him to recommend an orthodox rabbi able to preach in their native language. Pressburg is a long way from Chicago, and it was too much to expect that a rabbi could drop across for a Sabbath to preach a trial sermon. That was where the phonograph showed its use. The recommended candidate spoke his best sermons, in his best German and Hungarian, into the instrument, and when the records were reproduced in Chicago they gave such delight that the preacher was elected at a handsome salary.

The little-grains-of-sand business has a commercial exemplification. English "drummers" do not take their meals with ordinary travelers at the hotels, but dine together in the "commercial room." The first-comer acts as president of the table. With the dessert, according to the "World's Work," a waiter passes around a plate on which each diner puts one penny—no more—for the support of the Orphans' School of the Travelers' Association. The money collected is counted by the president of the table, who enters the amount in a book kept for the purpose, and the innkeeper holds the collection until the proper official makes his quarterly visit. As the collection is taken up every day, in the commercial room of every hotel patronized by drummers the amount received in a year is large.

To Settle in Canada

London, Oct. 14—The Prefect of Finistere, writing to the French Minister of the Interior and Finance, says that efforts are being made by English agents to induce fishermen and their families to emigrate to Canada. The Prefect suggests that the Government of France give them facilities for settling in Algeria, where they would remain French citizens.

French Losing Citizens

Toronto, October 14,—Leopold J. Stern of Baltimore, whose extradition has been ordered, has decided not to appeal. An officer from Washington, D.C., is expected here on Thursday to take Stern back. He is wanted in connection with the post office frauds under a contract which he had with the department for supplying letter carriers' bags.

THE MAN IN THE STREET

Toronto, October 16, 1903.

The price of seats on the Toronto and Montreal Stock Exchanges has taken a big drop. Less than a year ago these seats were sold at the ordinary figure. The last one sold in Toronto was purchased by Mr. Baillie, ex-manager of the Metropolitan Bank, for the sum of $13,100. I know of a seat that can be had for less than $10,000 now. Mr. Baillie purchased his seat less than three months ago. During the past summer a seat on the Montreal Exchange sold for $37,000, and this week one was sold for $15,000. In the present state of the stock markets this latter figure is even too high, and should the market continue in its very uninteresting rut, I would not be surprised to see the seats on the Toronto and Montreal Exchanges sell at very much lower figures. Stock-broking, of course, is considered to be a very dignified and respectable calling, and gentlemen of means who have sons unfitted for the usual commercial walks in life, as a rule put their boys on the Exchange. This fact probably accounts for the ridiculous price to which the seats have risen. I would not be surprised to see seats on the Toronto Exchange sell as low as $7,000 or $8,000 during the present year.

The stockbroking business in Toronto at present is virtually dead. The majority of the members of the Exchange have not made office rent during the whole of the present year. All, or nearly all, of their clients have gone "dead broke," and it will be many moons before they play with the market again. I met a man this week who was fairly well to-do a year ago. He had made $20,000 in various stocks. He was ambitious to send his daughter to finish her education in Germany. With this end in view he plunged into speculation. Navigation stocks were his maelstrom. He purchased Richlieu and Northern. The latter he paid 149 for. Richlieu cost him over par. If my readers will only refer to the quotation lists today they will understand why the gentleman's daughter is taking short-hand lessons in the Dominion Business College in Toronto at present.

I presume that most of the readers of The Times in and around Peterborough know J. Alexr. Culverwell. The gentleman has been known to me for many years. I first met him in Montreal, where he was highly esteemed by a large circle of friends. He was then connected with the Edison Electric Company of New York, and since I have been in Toronto I have seen a good deal of him. He has large ideas about Peterborough, and if he had his way your city would soon become the Manchester of Canada. I know nothing about his power enterprises, but he means to impress people with his ideas. He is a fluent talker, upright, honest in all his dealings, and thoroughly sincere in all he says and does.

Mr. Robert Graham, the well-known horseman from Claremont, Ont., is a particular friend of mine. He invariably registers at the Walker House. To the "Man in the Street," Mr. Graham gave an interesting interview on matters connected with his business. The Graham Bros. are probably the best known importers and breeders of Clydesdale horses in Canada. Speaking of the trade, he said; "We have done double the business during this year than ever before. Our firm has imported fourteen horses this fall, and one of the firm leaves this month for Scotland to purchase more Clydesdales and Hackneys."

In the Dominion Exhibition, held last September, this firm won the following prizes, 1st in aged Clydesdale stallions; 1st in three year olds; 1st in two year olds; and the three year old "Cairnhill" won the championship, being the best Clydesdale stallion in the show. One two year old Clydesdale filly was second in her class. The Graham Bros. also took the first and championship for the best draught stallion bred in the Dominion. The firm took second for Hackney stallion in the aged class. The biggest win in the whole show was obtained by the above firm, which was for the best ten horses, of any breed, owned by one exhibitor. Nine lots of ten competed for this prize. "McQueen," an old horse, which has won, for the fifth year in succession, the prize for the best stallion, and four of his "get" again carried off the honors. Of the last ten horses, seven came from the stables of A. and W. Montgomery, Netherhall and Banks, Castle Douglas. "McQueen," the horse that won the first prize, also came from the Montgomery stables.

Among the interesting visitors in Toronto this week was the Right Rev. Bishop Young, of Athabasca, who was attending the Board of Missions of the Church of England; he is staying at the Queen's Hotel. Bishop Young is probably one of the most travelled Bishops in the Anglican Church in Canada. His territory includes, but extends beyond the Provincial district of Athabasca, from the Rocky Mountains in the west to the eastern limit of Lake Athabasca. Speaking of the prospect of the country which comes under his jurisdiction, the Bishop is confident after his nineteen years' residence in the country, preceded by ten years' residence in Manitoba, that it offers very favorable conditions for settlement. It has its drawbacks, but not more nor greater than those which exist in Manitoba and the Northern Territories.

Generally, Mr. Ogilvie, the expert in wheat, considers the Peace River wheat grades higher and weighs better than wheat grown either in Manitoba or the other portions of the Northwest. The approach of railways, such as the Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Northern will materially affect the future of this country. It only needs opening out to increase very largely the immigrants that are already to come in. The Americans even last winter were pressing into the country with [illegible] with horses and all necessary appliances for their comfort.

The Bishop has just returned from an extended visit to the Mackenzie River and Athabasca Dioceses. In speaking of that trip he said, "I had the pleasure of ordaining two very intelligent Takuth Indians to the Diaconate. I also visited the other missions throughout that Diocese, in the absence of their Bishop through illness. On my return to the Athabasca Landing I passed west to Lesser Slave Lake, where I met my clergy in synod at St. Peter's Mission. The work in Athabasca deals with the Wood Crees, almost a distinct branch of the Plain Crees. These are the aborigines of the Peace River country, living originally both on the northern and southern banks, but have gradually retired to the north of the Peace River.

One important feature of our work is the training of the Indian children, which in certain schools, we receive grants in aid from the Dominion Government.

Thanksgiving Day is one of the big days of the year at the Queen's Hotel here. The house has for years made a specialty of its Thanksgiving dinner; as the late Henry Hogan of the St. Lawrence Hall, Montreal, did of his New year's. On Thursday besides the usual large number of guests partaking of the hospitality of this favorite hostlery, a large number of Torontonians with their wives and families partook of the very excellent menu provided. During the evening the rotunda was crowded with guests, the most of them being in evening dress for the Melba concert. The menu was of itself to give one an appetite. All the delicacies of the season were provided. To give color to the occasion the Hamilton military men—a very smart and well set up lot of fellows—graced the tables. They had been taking part in the military exercises during the day.

Dry Placer Miner, formerly of California.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do.

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 300 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To obtain this gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine — Its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck or more of sand, either ordinary house or sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

Fashion Notes.

White linen and colored linen gowns are exceedingly smart this season, but have been so imitated in cheap qualities and made with such quantities of cheap embroideries and lace that they have lost the distinctive individuality that gave them such a charm last year, says Harper's Bazar. The smart gowns and the expensive ones now are, however, exceedingly handsome. They are most elaborate in design and in the manner in which the lace is inserted, showing an originality that is very attractive. The skirts and waists to match are trimmed so that the lines of trimming meet at the belt, and the narrowest possible waistband is all-sufficient, so as to give the effect of a Princess frock. There are a great many new weaves in the linens; a curious fad is to use linen that looks as though intended for table linen, and has much the same damask pattern. This, however, is merely a passing fad, and is not a wise fashion to adopt. The plainer materials are best with a little embroidery, provided it is well done; this is far better than quantities of machine work.

The all-important question of deciding upon the selection of one or more fetching bathing suits is puzzling many feminine minds, and never was there such a tantalizing display of stunning suits to choose from as there is this season.

Taffetas and India silks make up into the smartest of all, but following closely after these are English mohairs and Sicilliennes, and many of the lighter grades of French flannels are also used. After the material is decided upon the next consideration is the fashioning of it, and this requires time, for in the tendency toward elaboration on all kinds of feminine apparel the bathing suit has not by any means been overlooked.

One of the most stunning combinations is a white taffeta suit with turquoise blue. The skirt has tiny bias tucks forming points at the various seams, all stitched alike with blue silk, and at the edge of the skirt above a deep hem are five small circular tucks. The skirt is shaped rather similar to an umbrella or parasol covering, exceedingly scant and almost close fitting around the waist, but increasing considerably in width as it lengthens. The waist is closely tucked in the same bias fashion as the skirt with a vest showing down the front of straight tucks. The broad sailor collar is of the plain blue taffeta silk, with five rows of white silk braid bordering it all around, and the sleeves are finished just above the elbows with turned-back cuffs of the blue silk.

Something decidedly new this season is a bathing suit of natural colored pongee. It has just enough suggestion of a contrasting color on the blouse to make it becoming. Pale blue is charming combined with this peculiar shade of tan, and in fact the paler tones of blue adapt themselves so delightfully with so many different colors that touches of it appear everywhere and on about everything this season.

The accepted walking skirt barely clears the ground; does not indeed clear when the wearer walks, but the outing girl absolutely needs a shorter skirt for serviceable country wear, and if she cannot afford two tailored outing costumes she would better have two skirts made for wear with one jacket. One skirt may be of the inconvenient length dictated by fashion; the other should clear the ground well and be suitable for bad weather, rough tramping, and active exercise of any kind.

The form of coat accompanying the short skirt is a disputed question this summer. There can be no doubt that the bolero or Eton in some form, or the coat of hip length, is more generally becoming with a short skirt than a longer coat, and marks the proportions of the figure in more satisfactory fashion, but the blouse coat with knee length skirt seems to have obtained a certain hold upon feminine favor, and many other knee-length coats are seen in walking costumes.

One famous London tailor has contrived a combination outing suit, which has found favor with fashionable English women and has been copied by some New York makers. The close fitting, plain coat and gored short skirt, clearing the ground by five inches, have nothing unusual about them, but the unique feature of the costume is an additional skirt by which the suit may be in a twinkling converted into a long skirt costume. This supplementary skirt is silk down to the knees, but from there is a gored, flowing flounce of the cloth over which the short skirt falls closely in a manner that gives the effect of one of the popular double skirts. The underskirt, being chiefly of silk, adds little to the weight. It is buttoned on without removing the upper skirt, and for the traveller who does not care to appear at a hotel or make a call in a serviceable short tramping skirt, yet does not want to carry a second gown, this supplementary skirt, easily packed into a small bag, is a decided convenience.

The expensive Panama straw so largely sought after last year has a rival this season in bamboo straw, which in coloring and effect is somewhat similar to the Panama, and is even lighter in weight. The bamboo straw hats are made in shapes much like those adopted for the Panamas, and are certain to be favorites, though their cost bars them from the multitude. Round, tailor-trimmed hats, with a medium quiet color scheme, is relieved by a cherry velvet ribbon band, which goes round the crown and ties in a loose flat bow. A white puggaree scarf ties about a Panama straw in a big soft bow, which hangs down the back over the brim a quarter of a yard or so, giving an East Indian flavor to the hat it drapes. Another Panama straw tilts up in front to show a great plaited rosette of black velvet ribbon, which is laid on the under brim so that its edge projects beyond the brim by an inch and a half. The projecting edge of a similar rosette placed on the upper side of the brim meets the under rosette. Through the under rosette in becoming curve is run a long white quill.

Many people might suppose that the [illegible] ring would be the one purchased by the millionaire to present to his bride, and that the [illegible] ring would be bought by the workingman, but the case is exactly the reverse. The workingman seems to want the wedding ring that will cover his wife's entire hand, while the wealthier purchaser wants a small ring, so as to allow room for a finger full of diamonds and other gems. When you talk about style in wedding rings you are talking about something that does not exist. The station in life determines it all. Perhaps the most common and most prevalent variety, in the past few years at least, is that about three-tenths of an inch in width and weighing six pennyweight.

Some Parisian Gowns.

A gown that made a sensation at the Fete des Fleurs in Paris was of a sheer white batiste over a pale pink foundation, and trimmed with flounce after flounce of Irish lace. The gown, in fact, was more than half lace, and there was no other trimming save a very odd arrangement of a sheer pink silk muslin scarf. This was carried about the shoulders, fichu fashion, and crossed over the bust, and then the long, fringed ends were passed under a belt and allowed to fall to the hem of the skirt. Another gown worn on the same occasion was a white linen, trimmed with what seemed to be a raised embroidery mixed with linen passementerie, the whole making an elaborate design. Straps of inch-wide black velvet ribbon passed under this embroidery, connecting the pattern and forming an elaborate ornamentation on the bottom of the skirt and about the top of the bodice. Mixtures, checks and plaids in black and white have been a great success this season, both in silks and thin woollen fabrics. At the Auteuil Steeple Race, the big race that precedes the Grand Prix, there were several costumes of this sort. One was a very coarse voile in great black and white diamonds, topped with a loose paletot of white cloth inset with Cluny. The cloak appeared to have a loose lining or rose-colored taffeta. Another gown was a tailored suit of a fine black and white checked silk, the skirt being made with three box-pleated flounces trimmed with stitched straps of black taffeta, and the box-pleated blouse with a deep pelerine trimmed in the same way. A modish suit of tan-colored cloth and pongee silk had a cloth skirt trimmed with bands and ravelled fringe of the silk, and a little loose jacket of the silk, sun pleated and trimmed with embroidered ecru batiste. The hat of ecru straw was laden with poppies.

Heckling as a Fine Art.

The "heckling" of Parliamentary candidates in England continues to supply election stories. One of the latest is told by Mr. Renshaw, Unionist member for Renfrew. At a Liberal meeting a speaker had said he was in favor of "free fishing." The following evening Mr. Renshaw addressed a meeting in the same place. A similar question was put to him. "No, I am not in favor of free fishing," returned Mr. Renshaw.

"Well," said the heckler, "the Liberal who spoke here last night said he was in favor of it."

Mr. Renshaw's answer was rather unexpected. "That is very likely," he observed. "But you see, I happen to be the owner of all the fishing around here!" John Morley tells with amusement of a heckling of his own. When he went to contest Montrose Burghs in 1895, he found that the electors had been well supplied with his volume on 'Compromise.' At almost his first meeting a dour Scot rose to ask, "Am I to understand that the candidate is the author of a book on 'Compromise'?"

Mr. Morley confessed that the poor thing was his own.

"Then what I want to know," continued his interrogator, "is how you reconcile that book with going up and down the country calling yourself Honest John!"

That situation must have been somewhat embarrassing to the candidate, but extrication from it was simplicity itself compared with the plight of a man of whom Abraham Hayward tells. Falkirk Burghs was the seat contested, and the following is the record of questions and answers:

"Will Mr. Merry vote for alterations of the Decalogue?"

Merry (aside to treacherous friend)—What the deuce is that?

Friend—Flogging in the army?

Merry—I beg to say, if elected, I will vote, and indeed, I will move, for its total and immediate abolition!

The Age of a Horse.

To tell the age of any horse,
Inspect the lower jaw, of course,
The six front teeth the tale will tell,
And every doubt and fear dispel.

The middle "nippers" you behold
Before the colt is two weeks old;
Before eight weeks two more will come;
Eight months, the "corners" cut the gum.

The outside grooves will disappear
From middle two in just one year;
In two years from the second pair;
In three the "corners," too, are bare.

At two, the middle "nippers" drop;
At three, the second pair can't stop;
When four years old, the third pair goes;
At five, a full new set he shows.

The deep black spots will pass from view,
At six years from the middle two;
The second pair at seven years;
At eight, the spot each "corner" clears.

At nine the black spots will withdraw,
The second pair at ten are white;
Eleven finds the corners light.

WILL SUE FOR A CENT

Cleveland Principal Ready to Spend $1000 to Get the Penny

Cleveland, October 15.—Principal E. L. Harris, of the Central High school, is about to sue the board of education for 1 cent. He says he will collect it if he is obliged to spend $1,000 to do it. Members of the board of education say they will resist the payment of the penny if it costs the city all the money there is in the school fund.

The school year is divided into nine months of four weeks each, and 10 days additional. For the year's work, under the division, Harris received $3,459.99. His contract calls for a salary of $3,500 a year.

The principal says he is fighting for the principle and not for the money.

THE ILLS OF WOMEN

A RELIABLE AND SAFE CURE FOR WOMANLY ILLS IS FOUND IN FERROZONE. A REMEDY THAT ALWAYS GIVES SATISFACTION AND NEVER DISAPPOINTS

If troubled with painful irregularities, dizziness, faintness, excitability, nervousness, remember there is a remedy that if regularly and persistently used, will cure all these ills. Its name is Ferrozone.

It is used by thousands of women who have experienced its great strengthening powers, and they would not be without it for ten times its price.

Ferrozone is primarily a blood maker. It drives all impurities from the crimson fluid, makes it strong and capable of supplying nourishment to the body. It quiets the nerves, banishes excitability and headache.

By taking Ferrozone regularly you can keep free from those dreadful backaches, and monthly sickness will pass off regularly and without pain or distress. Being prepared in tablet form, Ferrozone is both convenient and simple to use, and no uncertainty as to the proper quantity or dose can ever arise.

A Montreal hospital nurse who has used Ferrozone herself, and has seen also the benefit that other suffering women have derived from it, writes: "I have nursed and treated all form of female disorders, and from my personal experience, must say that Ferrozone is a remedy about which all womankind should know. It is reliable and sure, and will give prompt and satisfactory results. As a builder of muscle and tissue, I know nothing to equal Ferrozone. I have found it good to build up a weak appetite, and consider it a splendid medicine for the blood and nerves. I have no hesitancy in endorsing Ferrozone."

Don't continue to exist in a state of misery and weakness any longer. Ferrozone will make you strong and well just as it has done for thousands before you. All druggists recommend and sell Ferrozone, at 50c. a box, or 3 boxes for $1.25. Get a box to day from your druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

TO THE SUFFERING.

The following testimonial may be read with interest to sufferers from skin eruptions or eczema:

January, 20th, 1903.

Dear Sirs,—I notice your advt. in a paper about your wonderful eczema cure and I feel it my duty to tell you that I was induced to try it as I had been afflicted with skin trouble in my hands for 11 years. I have tried several doctors and they done my no good. I only used one box of Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema. It has made a complete cure. I recommend it to all suffering from skin disease. My hand was so bad that the nails used to come off. You can use my name if you wish.

Yours truly,

MR. JOHN WOOD,

Peake Station, P.E.I.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh is also one of the best remedies on the market. We are daily in receipt of letters telling how much they have done for the afflicted. Miss Sarah Hill, 412 Front Street, Traverse City, Mich., writes: "I have been wonderfully helped by the use of your catarrh cure; send me another dollar's worth."

Peter D. McFadyen, Riverdale, P.E.I., writes: "I am very busy, but just drop a line to say I highly recommend your catarrh cure. It has done grand work for me. I am so much better."

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, coughs, lame back, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have bee standing for many years; the most stubborn cases will yield. For sale by Ormond & Walsh, Peterborough, 50c per box or 3 boxes for $1.00.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh and Dr Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $100 will be paid for any case that it will not permanently cure.

Black Hills Copper Company
LIMITED

Capital Stock, $8,000,000
PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jerome mineral belt of Arizona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to day.

A limited amount of the Stock is now offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

Purchase the Treasury Stock of The Drake Mining Drainage and Tunnel Transportation Co.
OF COLORADO

The Company is capitalized at $2,000,000, consisting of 2,000,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock.

The Property

Consists of nine patented, well developed mines and mill sites, situated in Gilpin County, Colorado. This county has already produced more than

$80,000,000 in Gold

The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk on ore to a depth of 150 to 600 feet, and a tunnel run a distance of [illegible] feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to unwater and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation

The Colorado & Southern Railroad passes directly in front of the mouth of the tunnel. All ore can be dumped therefrom directly into the cars, giving quick and cheap transportation to the mills. Large returns have been paid from the product of these mines.

Sale of Preferred Stock

The company desires to not only push its development work and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own mill site at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ore. For that purpose it now offers for sale 200,000 shares of its Preferred Treasury Stock at 50 cents per share reserving the right to increase the price of all unsold shares thereof at any time without notice.

The Company pledges the whole net product of its mines to pay an eight per cent annual dividend on the sum paid for such stock, before any other stock receives any dividends whatever. After such dividends has been paid, the common stock shall receive a like dividend, when the surplus fund remaining shall be distributed among the common and preferred stock, share and share alike. All stock will be issued full paid and non-assessable.

Active and experienced agents wanted to sell said Preferred Treasury stock on commission should have done without her all these years, sir. She's so happy and loving—nobody could help loving Rosy—nobody."

THE ROSE OF THE RING

Mrs. West blinked away a tear, and Marc leaned back in his chair, and crossed his legs, pondering over her words—

"Nobody could help loving Rosy—nobody."

"Well of course, he would have to love her, too.

Roses were made to love, and this sweet opening bud could not be an exception.

He did not give utterance to his thoughts, and, seeing she had an attentive listener, Mrs. West narrated Rosy's story from the beginning.

"So her relatives were never traced?" he said, when she had finished. "It is not too late—means might be taken, even now, to restore her to her family."

"Oh, sir, it is too late," the woman pleaded. "I've had her all these years and it 'u'd break my heart to part with her now. I may be foolish and wrong, but I hope she will never leave me till I'm dead and in my grave."

"What will become of her then?"

"Please God, she'll be provided for—I've taken care of that."

Marc felt a sort of respect for the woman who had so loyally fulfilled her trust, and he again congratulated himself on having selected Lilac Villa for his abode.

Nor did he find his new quarters in any way detrimental to his comfort.

There was as much light in the pleasant front room as was to be found in an ordinary studio, and, by the time his portmanteau and easels had arrived, the place, to him, had quite a familiar air.

CHAPTER V.

Not many days had passed before Marc had sketched a rough outline of the picture for which Rosy was to sit.

"I shall call it 'The Rose Maiden,'" he said, in reply to a question from the girl. "When will you let me have the first sitting? I want to get on with it before the roses are over."

"I will sit whenever you like. You have only to tell me when you are ready."

"Very well; to-morrow morning then?"

"Yes."

She looked at the outline he had sketched on the canvas, and, with her usual quickness, took in the details of the draped figure.

"Am I to be exactly in that attitude?" she asked, stepping back from the easel and putting her head on one side to study the pose.

"As much like it as possible. I don't think you will find it a trying position."

He was scarcely prepared for the readiness with which his model fell in with his plans.

When she came into his studio on the following day, he could not utter a word for a few moments, so great was his surprise.

She had discarded her every day dress and had arrayed herself in a classic garb—in effect, the fac simile of the one he had sketched for his picture.

Her golden hair was allowed to fall over her shoulders in natural waves, and, circling her brow was a wreath of velvety roses.

Roses, too, were in her hands, and the lovely neck and arms were left bare.

"How did you manage to get the dress?" he asked at length. "It is the very thing—and all those roses!"

Rosalie gave one of her merry laughs.

"The dress? I made it out of some old curtains that had been washed threadbare; I copied the shape from your sketch; and the roses—I stole."

"Stole?"

"There were not enough on our own rose trees, so I climbed over into the doctor's garden and helped myself to as many as I wanted."

"But, my dear child—"

"I assure you, it does not matter. I shall take them back directly the sitting is finished."

"You won't be able to make them grow on the trees again."

"I shall have saved some one the trouble of gathering them. The doctor always tells me to make myself at home in his garden—this time I have taken him to his word."

"I shall have to help you carry the roses back, and take my share of the blame. You must have gone out rose-hunting very early."

"Before anybody at the doctor's was up. That's why I had to climb over and help myself."

"He would quite forgive you, I think, if he could see you now," Marc said. "If I can make my picture like my model, my greatest ambition will be realized."

Rosy did not understand compliments, if, indeed, he had intended his words as one.

She liked better the approving glance he bent on her and the light-hearted ring in his voice.

Marc was enraptured with the beauty of his model, and he commenced to paint with a zest that left him no time for talking.

"I hope I am not tiring you," he said, when, after two hours, he paused to look critically at his work. "Artists are selfish where their art is concerned."

"You are not selfish—not even where your art is concerned."

"How do you know?"

"Easily. I have been looking at your face all this time. I only found upon it what was noble and true."

"Faces deceive sometimes," he remarked, going on with his painting. "You will find that out for yourself when you are older."

"I am nearly sixteen."

"An age when it is wisdom not to be wise."

"Does wisdom count by years? How old are you?"

"Three-and-twenty."

"May I call you Marc?"

"I should be glad if you would. I am so seldom called by my Christian name that I almost forget the sound of it."

"Haven't you any sisters or brothers?"

He shook his head.

"Nor father, nor mother?"

Again he shook his head.

"None so near and dear are left living," he said.

"Haven't you anybody belonging to you?"

"I have a sort of relation on my mother's side—Sir Felix Errol—but I seldom see him."

Rosalie opened her eyes wide and gazed intently into his face.

"Errol?" she echoed. "That's my name! I must belong to the same family."

In her excitement she had forgotten all about the picture she was posing for.

Starting to her feet, she let the roses she was holding drop to the floor, and stood with large, expectant eyes waiting for him to speak again.

"What a conclusion to jump at!" he said, smiling at her eagerness. "The name is not an uncommon one. I do not think it possible you can be connected in any way with Sir Felix."

"Why?" she demanded, her eyes flashing with anger and disappointment.

Anecdotal.

In a recent parliamentary debate over the question of a museum grant for Wales, much of the discussion, says the London "Chronicle," turned on the fact that Wales is without a capital. This, however, did not daunt a certain Welsh member who got on his feet and, addressing the ministers on the Treasury bench said: "If only you will give us the money we will find the capital."

A vocalist of some reputation was performing at a provincial music hall and rendered "The Song That Reached My Heart," "Whisper and I Shall Hear" and "The Song That Will Live for Ever." Not satisfied with these three songs, the audience tried to encore the vocalist. He approached the footlights and made the following speech: "Ladies and gentlemen, when I sang the three songs I have just given in Sheffield, the people presented me with five pounds; when I sang them in Liverpool, the people presented me with a cottage; then, when I sang them in London, they presented me with a row of houses——" "Brick by brick!" cried a voice from the gallery.

Robert Henri, the painter, told the other day a story about the Philadelphia physician Dr. W. W. Keen: An artist was escorting Dr. Keen through an exhibition of pictures. Before the portrait of a man of middle age the physician stopped. "Do you know this man?" he asked. "I believe," the artist answered, "that it is a Mr. So. and So." "Is he dead?" "Yes; he has been dead for some months." "Well," said Dr. Keen, "I would wager that he died from heart disease." The artist, struck by a skill that could find material for diagnosis in a picture, enquired into the death of the portrait's original, and found that the man had indeed died of heart disease the winter before.

A good story is told in Mr. C. E. Black's "Life of Lord Dufferin," which perhaps illustrates the difficulties some servants find in distinguishing between "at home" and "not at home." One day when Lord Dufferin was Governor-General of Canada the Countess was to be "at home" to receive visitors. She and Lady Harriet Fletcher sat in state; but nobody came! At 6 o'clock Lord Dufferin came home, and his wife remarked that not a single soul had called to see them. The servant was duly questioned, and it turned out he had replied "not at home" to every caller. The visitors' book revealed the fact that the callers were 104 in number, so Lady Dufferin promptly sat down and wrote 104 letters of explanation and apology.

Dr. Muhlenberg, the well-known hymn writer, made his home in later years at St. Luke's Hospital, New York, of which he was the founder. Once when he was carrying a tray of dishes down to the hospital kitchen, someone protested against that menial service. "Why not?" asked he. "What am I but a waiter here in the Lord's hotel?" One of the last moments of his life showed his bluff frankness as well as his acquiescence in the divine will. The chaplain of the hospital was praying at his bedside for his recovery. "Let us have an understanding about this," said Dr. Muhlenberg. "You are asking God to restore me, and I am asking God to take me home. There must not be any contradiction in our prayers, for it is evident He can't answer them both."

A lawyer, who spent the briefless days of his career in New York City and is now a successful practitioner in the West, tells in the New York "Mail and Express" how a master of the telling phrase taught him to curb the thunderous voice with which nature endowed him. In those days he was "a vociferous cub," in his own phrase, until Justice P. Henry Dugro lifted him into the seventh heaven of judicial approbation—and suddenly let him down again. He had been assaulting the ear-drums of the court for ten minutes, and he concluded by saying, "I am sure my argument must be convincing, your honor." "It is overwhelming," returned Justice Dugro, courteously. The young lawyer's chest expanded. "Indeed, my ears are still buzzing," added the justice. "I deny your motion."

Shooting an Elephant.

At the Dublin Zoological Gardens, on the 11th instant, the pet elephant Zita, which two days before killed her keeper McNally, after a close friendship of over eighteen years, was shot by order of the garden authorities. Zita had manifested extraordinary signs of distress since that fatal night. She had been uneasy and restless, and eaten little, and looked apprehensively—almost piteously—at all who approached the elephant house. Other keepers in the gardens declare that Zita, actuated in her unpremeditated crime by a sudden spasm of pain, had expressed grief and repentance ever since by every means known to animal life, and many appeals were made for a pardon. The Dublin papers contained eloquent pleas for her forgiveness, and one of the journals devoted a leading article to an appeal for mercy on account of Zita's exemplary career in the past. But the authorities were inexorable. The anger, or whatever other cause it was that resulted in poor McNally being trampled to death, might recur, and bring about another tragedy, and the extreme punishment was resolved upon. Elephant rifles and expanding bullets were therefore procured from London, and yesterday morning Colonel Neville Chamberlayne, the Inspector-General of Constabulary, who has been on a good many "elephant shoots" in India, took with him seven Sergeants, well skilled in the use of the rifle, in order to carry the sentence into effect. Zita met her fate standing. As the Sergeants took up positions in the elephant house the huge beast turned towards them, but made no attempt at an aggressive movement. The two foremost Sergeants, with the elephant rifles, took steady aim at Zita's head, the other five aimed with Martini carbines at her fore-legs, this latter manoeuvre being intended to disable her in the event of the expanding bullets not proving effective. Colonel Neville Chamberlayne gave the signal, the seven guns rang out together, and the great beast rolled over, dead. Both the elephant rifle bullets had penetrated the brain. Zita's death was instantaneous, and apparently painless. Since she had to die it is just as well that she should have been spared as much suffering as possible. The body was cut up to feed the many carnivorous beasts in the gardens. The animal originally cost £800.

It Was a Daisy.

At a dinner given to a crowd of railroad men Senator Chauncey M. Depew was the star speaker. In the course of his remarks, says The New York Times, he told a story wherein a certain manufacturer, left practically alone in his factory through a lock-out, was represented as pointing to the office clock over his desk and saying to his friend:—

"There are only two hands in my office that never strike."

"Whereupon," said the Senator, "the clock struck two."

After the dinner one of Senator Depew's friends came up and congratulated him:

"Your speech was great," he said. "That story about the clock is a daisy."

The Senator beamed. "I think it is pretty good," he said, modestly.

About five minutes later another friend came up who was not so eulogistic.

"Chauncey," he said, "I think that story about the clock better every time I hear it. I think to-night was the fiftieth time."

"Why, President Newell says that story is a daisy," expostulated Mr. Depew.

The other laughed. "You ought to study botany, Chauncey, and you would learn that a daisy is a hardy annual."

And thereupon the Senator subsided.

Catching a Husband.

The London Daily Express of a recent date had the following:—Ecaussines is a small village in Belgium, which possesses a good supply of girls, who realized lately that a great many of them were destined to be old maids unless they took the matter in hand themselves. After many meetings, from which all married folk were rigorously excluded, the girls determined to give a great dinner to which unwedded youths from far and near should be invited. Notices of the coming festival and its reasons were published all over the country and even in Holland. This very original way of securing a husband has just come off, the preparations and decorations of the village having kept all agog for a week. A table was placed in the centre of the village street, and the hostesses, "dressed to kill," awaited the arrival of the guests. At 3 o'clock the girls, with their parents and the bachelor guests, assembled in front of the town hall, whence numerous addresses were given on the subject of matrimony. Then the event of the day took place. The love-less girls took their places at table first, each leaving an empty seat at her side, and waiting anxiously for the youth who should elect to sit beside her. There was an awful pause ere the first man screwed up courage to leave the rest, who stood huddled together as if for protection from the danger that awaited them, but at last a brawny fellow of about forty, from some distance, whose hearth was comfortless without a wife, made a choice and took his seat, and then another and another, and soon all the places were taken. Dinner lasted till 7 o'clock in true Flemish fashion, ending with songs and speeches. By this time acquaintance was made, hearts were warmed, and declarations made, and the girls who had succeeded in securing sweethearts made their appearance in the village square arm in arm with their captured swain. Very few were left lamenting their prospective single-blessedness. The dinner was followed by a ball in the open air, and many wedding days are already fixed.

Plucky Colonel Lloyd.

In "V. C." General Ben Viljoen describes "The Bravest Deed I Ever Saw." It was that of Commandant Gert Gravett, who rescued two of his comrades under a fierce fire of British shells and bullets. But the "maddest act of courage" was that of a British Colonel. Thus the General converses with the interviewer:—

"We were lying behind boulders high up on one side of a kopje, and the khakis were coming up on the other. We saw their hats appear over the crest before they had any view even of the top of the hill, far less of us. Then came their faces, then their breasts; and we fired. The first rank went down like a swath of grass. But others pressed forward, the Colonel leading. We fired again, the Colonel reeled and fell forward, shot through the leg. But almost instantly he was up again, the wounded leg hanging horribly limp and trailing upon the ground; he leaned upon a rifle, using it as a crutch, and so forced himself forward in jerks, calling hoarsely to his men, beckoning them angrily on with his arm, and thus limping calmly to the very muzzles of our Mausers. It was splendid, and when he fell for the last time—well, we were sorry."

"What was his name?" I asked.

"Colonel Lloyd of the West Riding Regiment. Months after we laid a wreath of flowers on his grave, and the card bore the inscription: 'In honor of a brave enemy.' It was an act difficult to forget."

Sub-marines as Wreckers.

"While as an engine of war the submarine is of doubtful expediency, it would seem as though it might be of some service in the prosaic business of salvage," says The Marine Record. "Beyond a certain depth, and a very limited one at that, there is at present no practical means of recovering vessels or their cargoes. So enormously does pressure increase as one descends below the surface of the sea that vessels become mere shattered hulks. Occasionally imaginative or optimistic wreckers endeavor to salvage vessels at unusual depths, but the story is one of unbroken failure. Cavaliere Pino is the first submarine inventor to discard the submarine for purposes of warfare and to turn his energies to essentially practical lines. If all accounts are to be believed, he is pursuing some very interesting experiments in the Gulf of Genoa with what he calls his 'underwater working-boat.' He has designed a boat to resist the enormous pressures that accumulate with depth, and has been so successful as to have descended in safety to a depth of 400 feet. The boat is spherical in form, with a diameter of ten feet, and has accommodations for a working crew of two persons. Its practicability lies in the fact that it is equipped with arms passing into the boat through universal water-tight joints, and possessing powerful gripping qualities."

THE STERLING OIL CO.

brought in on Monday the 20th of July one of the biggest gushers in Sour Lake It is situated in the Wirt-Davis tract and has been producing oil continuously since it came in, the Spindletop Power Company taking the entire output from the well. Besides owning this the Company owns two other valuable pieces of Oil Land at Lake, where they have just let a contract for drilling a second well in the gusher district. The Company has acquired a twelfth interest in 87 acres of land near Saratoga and a well will soon be drilled on this land, the indications are that fine gushers will be developed in this territory. The Company also owns property in Beaumont, Texas where there are two wells.

All who purchase the stock prior to September 15th. will participate in the September dividend. The price of the stock is 20 cents per share. No orders accepted for less than 50 shares.

COPETE MINING CO.

27 William Street, New York

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them are—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now clear and undisputed title to all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

STOCK MARKETS

The following advices were received by Mr. J. Cummings & Co., 166 Simcoe street, over their private wire—

Chicago, October 16.—The frosts in Argentina, while having a sentimental effect on the wheat pit, were not being seriously regarded in conservative circles. The cash situation is feature. Moss. was big buyer of cash wheat yesterday and on this buying the market displayed a great deal of strength. The December option was especially strong though some of the professional shorts in May seemed to be disposed to seek cover. The export demand, while still rather small is expected to improve in the near future, inasmuch as private advices are to effect, that European interests are inclined to buy. The strength in wheat held corn steady, though there was a good cash demand from outside sources and under the circumstances the offerings were less urgent than on previous days of late. Crop situation will generally continue bearish, in that the outlook at the present time in many sections of the belt better than at any time this year. However, the country offerings are light.

Not Transparent.

Lawyer Bullyrag—Sir, you have stated under oath that this man had the appearance of a gentleman. Will you be good enough to tell the jury how a gentleman looks, in your estimation?

Witness—Well—er—a gentleman looks—er—

Lawyer Bullyrag—I don't want any of your "ers," sir; and remember that you are under oath. Can you see in this court room any person that looks like a gentleman?

Witness (with sudden asperity)—I could if you would stand out of the way. You're not transparent.

An Eccentric Man's Funeral.

The will of Captain W. F. Norton, Louisville's eccentric capitalist and landed proprietor, who died recently at Coronado Beach, contains a clause in which the deceased made these provisions for his funeral, and which is quite as eccentric as that of the late S. J. Major of Ottawa: "That no services of a religious character be held; that a special train of Pullmans be chartered to take his remains from Louisville—'where he has for so long been buried alive'—to Cincinnati; that the buffets of the cars be well stocked with good things to eat and drink, in order that his friends do not thirst or hunger; that while the remains are being cremated at Cincinnati an orchestra render a programme of popular and select music." The programme is attached to the will, and it is stipulated that when an intermission is reached the friends ask the orchestra to join them "in drinking my bon voyage."

Curious Bits of News.

Paper clothes are the latest novelty, according to the "World's Paper Trade Review." This journal tells us that a Berlin tailoring-house is now offering complete paper suits for $2.50. The prospectus gives full instructions for measuring oneself, and the firm also advertises in foreign journals, evidently expecting to do an export business. The material is woven and pressed, of a dull cream color, and apparently not very light.

Boston has recently added an automobile policeman to its police department. He is expected to arrest automobilists who run their cars too fast. Every large city has had bicycle policemen for a long time, to keep the wheelmen in order, and officers on horseback are common in the parks and public drives where men are tempted to speed their horses. The next thing to come will be flying-machine policemen, to keep the people sailing in the air from violating the speed ordinances.

An eminent London doctor, whose nervous system had suffered severely through overwork, recently took a trip from Staines to Oxford, having himself towed all the way. He is now advising every patient whose nerves are unstrung to undergo "the towing cure." The quiet there is in a boat which is being slowly towed, the gentle ripple which follows the boat, and the soothing motion, together with the fresh air, are said to have a wonderful effect upon the nerves.

President Loubet, in calling on the Duke of Cambridge, held converse with a prince who remembers the days of Louis XVIII. and Charles X., knew Louis-Philippe and Napoleon III. and has twice seen a republic as the ruling factor in France. Moreover, the Duke of Cambridge fought alongside the French troops in the Crimea, and is the only survivor of that campaign who held a brigade command. Napoleon Bonaparte died when the Duke of Cambridge was two years old, and the transference of the body of the Emperor from St. Helena to the Invalides was undertaken when the duke had completed his majority. Four revolutions in France have occurred during the duke's lifetime.

PROVING A STATEMENT

Investors Should Carefully Read the Following Statement

In a recent publication it was stated that "90 per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have, admittedly, lost the bulk of the values, and that the United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which more than 75 per cent. were the product of its placers."

Prof. N. S. Shaler, Dean of the Lawrence Scientific School of Harvard University, states that, "The largest known area of dry placers in America is that of Arizona, and that the area on which the dry placer deposits occur scatteringly is certainly over one hundred thousand square miles in extent, and the Mexican and Californian extent is not known."

Dr. Linderman, formerly Director of the United States Mint, in one of his reports said that, "If a machine could be devised that, without adding proportionately to the cost of production, would save 50 per cent. of all the placer gold, instead of about 20 per cent. as at present, it would double the world's available gold bullion."

The Gold Recovery Company of Arizona, whose advertisement appears in another column, says that, "for the first time in the history of gold mining, a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities, and that this machine will save 98 per cent. of all the gold in the gravel. That this machine is operated by a small compact engine using kerosene oil as fuel. That it is extremely simple in construction, that the inquirer can take a peck of sand such as is found in Arizona, put a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick into the sand, and turn the mixture into a machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel, and recover from 98 to 100 per cent. of the gold."

Mr. W. J. Doughty, the agent of the Gold Recovery Company in Canada, has received the following letter from the President at New York:

MR. W. J. DOUGHTY, Fiscal Agent, Peterborough, Ontario, Canada:

My Dear Sir,—In order that there may be no possible question as to the soundness of the position of this Company with reference to it's business, or with regard to the accuracy of it's statements permit me to say, that if you have any number of subscribers representing subscriptions of $1000. and upwards, that such subscriptions may be taken by you, if you so elect, upon the following conditions—that one of their number may be selected to visit New York. To such visitor we will show the affidavit of reputable gentlemen from California who have forwarded to us several hundred pounds of dry placer sand, such as represents the average deposits of that section of the country; we will permit the visitor to run this sand through our gold separating machine, and if it does not save from 98 to 100 per cent. of the gold that may be mixed with the sand, said gold being of a size from the point of a wooden toothpick to the head of a pin, then all subscriptions made shall be cancelled, and the Company will pay the expenses of such party to and from your city.

In other words, we make this offer in order to satisfy your constituency that we are able to verify by ocular demonstration the absolute truthfulness of the claims made in our pamphlet.

I am, very truly yours,
GOLD RECOVERY COMPANY,
By, W. A Simmons, President.

The proposition is as unusual as it is unique, and the reason for making it is the desire of the Company to obtain working capital in order to operate a large number of machines. The best possible evidence that could be offered as to the commercial possibility of the machine and the business of the Company, is an ocular demonstration such as is proposed in the letter; and inasmuch as the stock being sold for working capital is being offered at 40 per cent. of its par value, the operation of a large number of machines under the auspices of the Company would have a tendency to largely increase the value of the investment.

In the published pamphlet of the Company, it is stated that, "A complete plant can be built in 30 days, reach the ground in 15 days later, and be producing gold in 48 hours after it is set up." It also states that "100 machines can be operated on a thousand acres as easily as 20 machines, and with proportionally increased results."

The Company has a right to operate anywhere in Arizona.

Ordinarily persons interested in mining, are obliged to take everything on faith, but in this instance it would seem as if the Company was able to demonstrate exactly what could be done by bringing the gold gravel which is to be operated to the Eastern country, and have the machine demonstrate its ability to save the gold precisely as is to be done in the field. This is what we may properly call proving a statement by ocular demonstration.

A placer and two quartz claims;
Two partially developed quartz claims;
One-quarter section patented land adjoining above;
All located in the Susanville Mining District, Eastern Oregon. Will be sold together or separately Total price $9,000.

We consider this group of properties to be unusually promising as a heavy producing mine joins a portion of the land, and near-by placer grounds are showing up very rich.

AN EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY

FOR BOTH LARGE AND SMALL INVESTORS

Owing to valuable Patents having been granted this Company, we are desirous of extending our business to the Dominion of Canada. Owing to the Customs duties, the extra cost in transportation and the numerous expenses attached, and the delays in deliveries in shipping goods from one country to another, it is absolutely necessary that we should have a factory in the Dominion, that we may be in a position to meet the immediate wants of the business.

The articles that we make from our Patent Fabric are too numerous to mention, and it is not necessary that we go into the details of the merits of our goods, as they are already in use to a large extent and have no equal. Our goods are covered by several patents, and the profit on the goods is large, averaging from 25 to 100 per cent, thus affording the company large revenue to meet all its obligations.

In order to secure funds to equip a plant in the Dominion of Canada we will offer to the people of Canada $100,000 of our Bonds paying ten per cent. interest per annum.

Experience has shown that stocks based upon sound industrial enterprises have never been equalled from the standpoint of legitimate profit. For instance, a few hundred dollars invested in the Bell Telephone Company's stock in the beginning of the enterprise now commands thousands of dollars, after having yielded large dividends annually. Of course opportunities for such profitable investments do not present themselves every day, and it is also very true that a vast amount of capital has been misdirected in the endeavor to exploit inventions and enterprises which shrewd and far seeing investors should have recognized as impractical. But as regards this enterprise even the most conservative must admit it has possibilities of development which are almost incalculable and which have already been demonstrated in a practical manner. We have no speculative elements—this is a sound business proposition, and the patents which we own are worth several million dollars, as there can only be one fabric of this kind and that is ours.

All the above facts are simple statements of the truth and can be fully substantiated to the satisfaction of all investors.

The business is no experiment, the incorporators of this Company have made it their business for a great many months past and understand all the details, the prospects are therefore bright, and brighter than those of many other opportunities.

This Company is not a promotors company, every dollar goes to enhance the value of the property and business and increase the capacity. There is nothing speculative in this proposition, the enterprises are undertaken for industrial purposes only to make profits by the operation and development of the business.

Considering that the enterprise is already upon an established basis with a certainty of profitable future expansion, we feel warranted in the assertion that this is an attractive proposition to investors whether large or small.

The price of these Bonds are one dollar each, and will be issued in any number wanted. With every purchaser of each five Bonds we will give as a bonus, one share of stock of the Company, the par value of which is five dollars per share, thus assuring interest on the investment, and with the stock which is bound to increase you will have for nothing. These Bonds will be issued for five years. Persons desiring to avail themselves of this opportunity want to send their remittance at once.

First Class Mining Proposition.

The Anaconda Gold Mining Co.

Home Office: 412 Merchants Loan and Trust Bldg.
135 Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

This is one of the best propositions ever placed before the Canadian investor. The Company owns 600 acres in the celebrated Black Hills District, South Dakota, comprising 32 claims. The track is unquestionably on the great Homestake belt, being located directly between the wonderful Homestake mine and the Clover Leaf mine. Four shafts have already been sunk, the main one being down 154 feet, with capacity of going 1000 feet. The Company has also installed an Ingersoll-Sargeant air compressor and drills, 125 horse power boiler, steam pumps and in fact everything needed for actual operation, with the exception of its stamp mills; which will be installed at once. The vein of gold-bearing quartz traversing the Company's property is very rich. Assays have run from $3 to $54.00 per ton.

The Company has a capital of 1,500,000 shares, divided into 750,000 preferred and 750,000 common, par value $1 per share, fully paid up and non-assessable. The treasury stock has been made preferred stock to the amount of 25 cents a share. Out of the first dividends 25 cents per share will be paid to the owners of this preferred stock before holders of common stock receive any share of the profits. After the 25 cents has been paid to the shareholders of preferred stock, then all alike share in the dividends. This means nothing less than that the first investors in the enterprise will have all their money returned to them before any dividends are declared to the rank and file of investors.

A Startling Revelation

The Friends of Miss May McKenzie of London were Astonished to hear that she had gone into consumption

This sad intelligence came as a shock to Miss McKenzie's many friends. In the early fall she contracted a heavy cold which developed rapidly into Catarrh, and finally made such rapid advances that the bronchial tubes and lungs became affected.

Although the doctors said nothing short of a change of residence to the south would benefit, on the advice of a Dundas street druggist Miss McKenzie decided to thoroughly test Catarrhozone, which is warranted to cure all diseases of the throat, lungs and bronchial tubes.

Miss McKenzie says "After my druggist had recommended Catarrhozone I spoke to my friends about it and they all said it was such a good remedy that I commenced forthwith to inhale it five or six times each day. I breathed it deeply into my lungs, and felt its beneficial action very quickly. It seemed to go where other remedies did not reach, and was so pleasant and convenient that I did not mind using it very frequently, which, probably, was the cause of it curing my obstinate case so quickly. Certainly no case of Catarrh or Bronchitis should go uncured if the sufferer can get Catarrhozone, which is a sovereign remedy, worthy of the highest recommendations."

Miss McKenzie's case needs no enlargement. She was in a critical condition, apparently beyond the aid of doctors' medicines.

Catarrhozone has cured her, and others in her condition should no longer experiment with uncertain, untried treatments, but should turn at once to Catarrhozone, and in it they will find relief and cure unobtainable by other means. Remember the name, Catarrhozone. Complete outfit guaranteed to cure. Price $1.00. Small size 25 cents. Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston Ont.

Paris, Oct. 14—King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena, of Italy, arrived here at 2.50 p.m. A large crowd at the station greeted their Majesties enthusiastically.

A Successful Entertainment

A large and appreciative audience attended the concert in the Charlotte street church on Thursday evening, when a splendid program was presented. $150 was realized.

Ripe Raspberries

Yesterday Miss Clara Lowes, who resides on Perry street, presented The Times with a fine bunch of ripe raspberries which were grown on the farm of Mr. Fred. McBain, North Monaghan.

Warning

Will the parties who broke the lock on the refrigerator at the Snowden House on Thursday night, please call and make amends and save trouble, as they are known.

Gold Watch Lost

On the golf links, or between the links and Aylmer street, along the Grand Trunk track, or along Aylmer from the Grand Trunk track to Brock street, a lady's gun metal watch, with a gun metal chain set with rhinestones, attached. The finder will be suitably rewarded by leaving it at The Times Bookstore.

St. Andrew's Tea

The high tea and entertainment held in St. Andrew's on Thursday evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of that church was very successful and thoroughly enjoyed. It was well patronized. After the tea a very fine program of vocal and instrumental music was rendered.

Fowl Supper at Lakefield

Quite a number of citizens drove up to Lakefield on Thanksgiving Day and enjoyed the fowl supper given under the auspices of the Methodist church of the village. The tables were spread in the fire hall, which was crowded with people from the village and surrounding country to partake of the good things provided by the ladies of the congregation. After the supper an entertainment was given in the hall, which was also very successful.

Hunting Season

The Grand Trunk Railway have issued a very handsome and illustrated pamphlet, entitled, "Haunts of Fish and Game," giving information regarding season for shooting Deer, Moose, Reindeer, Caribou, etc., in the 'Highlands of Ontario,' and at other points along the line of the Grand Trunk. Copies of same will be furnished on application at Grand Trunk ticket offices or to J. D. McDonald, District Passenger Agent, Toronto.

—Fine stationery, style, quality and value are here. Reliable, handsome and low priced. All the latest tints. If you like the pure white we have that too. Times Bookstore.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

Mr. H. B. Jilkes, Bolivar Street, Seriously Injured

On Thursday evening, as Mr. H. B. Jilkes, who boards at 25 Bolivar street, was examinaning a revolver, the charge exploded, the bullet entering Mr Jilkes forehead. Dr. Greer was summoned and succeeded in extracting the bullet. The injured man is now confined to his bed. He will recover.

A BOY SHOT

Son of Mr. George H. Giroux Shot in the Leg

Yesterday afternoon the second son of Mr. Geo. H. Giroux, who lives on Stewart street, met with a painful accident. It appears that he and a young son of Mr. Fred. Haskill, were together on the street. They had a rifle in their possession, which in some way was discharged, the ball entering young Giroux in the calf of the leg, passing completely through it. Dr. Bradd was summoned and dressed the wound. The lad is now doing as well as could be expected.

DIED IN AKRON, OHIO

A Former Employee of the Times Passes Away

His Worship Mayor Roger received a telegram on Thursday announcing the death of Frank A. Walsh, and requesting that his relatives be notified. The deceased came to Peterborough from Oakville, and was employed here as a typograph operator. He left Peterborough about 18 months ago. He was a young man of good habits and highly thought of by his fellow employes. His relatives were promptly notified of his death.

STEAM YACHT BURNED

The Steam Launch Myrtle Burned to Water's Edge

The steam yacht "Myrtle" was burned to the water's edge on Thursday night. The boat was the property of Mr. John Cuncannon, of the Canadian General Electric Works. Mr. Cuncannon had the launch down the river on Thursday, and on his return left it as he thought all right at its dock, near Crawford's Grove.

Mr. Richard Reamington, who lives close by, was awakened by the fire, and got down in time to save another yacht owned by the May Brothers of North Monaghan, which he moved beyond the reach of the flames.

The yacht was a trim little vessel, and was worth about $750.

A PRETTY WEDDING

Nuptials of Miss Eva Goldey and Mr. James Wolstenholm

On Wednesday evening last a very pretty wedding was celebrated at the residence of Mr. T. Goldey, Smith st., when his eldest daughter, Miss Eva Lilley, was united in marriage to Mr. James Wolstenholm in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. Rev. J. P. Wilson tied the nuptial knot.

Miss Grace Goldey, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, while Mr. Frank McCoy supported the groom. The parlor was handsomely decorated with autumn leaves, plants and flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolstenholm left on the 9.10 G.T.R. train for western points, and upon returning will reside on King st. The Times extends its hearty congratulations.

CONCERT AT BETHANY

Highly Successful Entertainment Given in Town Hall

On the evening of Thanksgiving Day a most enjoyable entertainment was given in the Town Hall, Bethany, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian church.

The auditorium of the hall was filled with a very appreciative audience and the different numbers evoked much enthusiasm and applause.

The Dental College Quartette of Toronto were down on the programme for three numbers, but were encored each time and thus sang six times. Their selections were of a semi-comic nature and were given with much taste. Mrs. Morey gave two elocutionary numbers very acceptably, and was much applauded.

Mr. J. D. McKeachie, Toronto, rendered "Sweetheart When a Boy," "Village Blacksmith," "Highlander's Toast," "Skipper and Boy," Death of Nelson," and "Killarney," and was received most acceptably and much applauded.

"God Save the King," sung by artists and audience concluded a very meritorious function in the history of Bethany.

INCIDENTS OF THE DAY

—Hallowe'en falls on Saturday this year.

—The Peterborough County Teachers' Convention will be held in Norwood on October 29th and 30th.

—The Union Thanksgiving services in the George Street Church on Thursday was largely attended.

—The steamer Alert is at present engaged in towing wood from Stony Lake. About 1000 cords have to be taken down.

—The deer season opens on Monday, Nov. 2nd. Our local hunters are already preparing for the two weeks outing.

—The "At Home" held Thursday evening by the Literary Society of St. Peter's T.A.S. proved a very enjoyable affair, and was largely attended.

—It is proposed to have the presentation of the new colors to the 57th Regiment take place on Empire Day, May 24th, 1904.

—At the county police court yesterday County Police Magistrate Edmison fined Joseph O'Brien of Ashburnham, $10 for assaulting the village constable. The charge of insanity was dismissed.

—A brisk trade is now being plied by apple dealers who have gangs of men busily engaged in the numerous orchards of this locality, picking the fruit putting it into barrels, and conveying it to the station for shipment across the mighty deep.

—In the Park street Baptist Church the subject for the morning service tomorrow will be "The Ideal Christian." Rev. A. J. Brace, late Trooper in the 2nd Canadian Mounted Rifles and an eyewitness of the Hart's River fight will preach and sing in the evening. Come early to secure a seat.

—All rubes and those not rubes who were fortunate enough to have their photographs taken by the rising young photographer, Prof. Lynch, may have copies of the same at O'Briens tobacco store. Please call early as there is a large demand for these excellent souvenirs of the Norwood Fair.

In Dear Old London.

The "Argonaut's" correspondent "Cockaigne," says that the recent warm spell in the British metropolis brought out two really marvelous street costumes, which were worn by well-known clubmen. "One popular army officer at the headquarters staff at the Horse Guards," he writes, "coming down the shady side of Regent street, was arrayed in a pair of thin, white cambric trousers very wide and caught in at the knees, but there made very little smaller by a white and narrow and elaborately embroidered band. This garment was worn over a white cambric shirt, made full and baggy, with a deep turn-over collar of the same material, and edged with white lace. The front of the shirt had also wide lace trimmings of the 'frog' pattern. On his head he wore a white straw 'Toredor' hat, with a puggaree attached; on his feet, which were bare, were white canvas sand shoes. It was said that his wife (a young woman) had materially assisted in providing the outfit, and that it was done for a wager. I do not think so. The other get-up was quite as grotesque, and there was no wager about it. It was worn by one of the cleverest young king's counsels at the Chancery bar, and consisted of an entire suit—bar waistcoat—of thin, flesh-colored silk, over which was worn a sort of dinner jacket and trousers, made very loose, of ordinary white muslin, with pink satin bows at wrist and throat. It was fragile, and would need constant replenishment for a whole summer's use. But it lasted quite long enough for this spell. You will doubtless be inclined either to doubt the existence of these costumes or the sanity of their wearers, but I can assure you that they appeared on the street exactly as I have described them, and were seen by hundreds of people."

Somewhat Mixed.

Mrs. Scatterbrain—It was when we were at the pyramids in Norway—oh, wasn't it there, dear?—then it must have been at the field of Waterloo in Egypt—or was it the fiords in Rome? Now I come to think of it, I do believe it was when we were seeing the Vatican at Cologne, or the leaning tower of Gam up the Rhine, or the Louvre at Venice—anyway, it was at one of those foreign places, which we saw when we went away last year, that—that—that—well, there now—if I haven't forgotten what I was going to tell you!

"Dear old boy! He's looking a bit down in the mouth. What's up?" "You see, he introduced a friend to his tailor, and the tailor's gone bankrupt. Two of 'em was more than he could stand."

How did She Know?

Mrs. Tomkins—Yes, my dear, Mrs Jorkins is very badly bred. I passed her yesterday in the street, and she turned round and looked after me four times.

Gladiatorial Athletics.

The London "Lancet" says that athletics in England have developed too much into gladiatorial displays by picked competitors struggling to win prizes or to earn wages before huge crowds of spectators, and can hardly be regarded as effective agents in the development of the physical strength and physical activity of the people. There is the same tendency in this country, but the fact merely serves to make more imperative the need of supporting and extending such systems of physical training as have for their chief aim strength and not fame.

Mother—What did you say when grandma gave you a piece of cake? Willie—I told her I hoped it was as good as it was small.—"Pick-Me-Up."

$500 REWARD FOR WOMEN

WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

They have the most remarkable record of cures made by this world-famed remedy ever placed to the credit of any preparation especially designed for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments.

A beautiful Georgia lady, Vice-President of the East End Palmetto Club, of Savannah, and prominent socially there, relates the following experience: "You certainly have produced the finest medicine for suffering women that is to be had in the country. I want to recommend it especially to mothers. I was seventeen years old when my darling boy was born. Felt very exhausted and weak for a long time, and it seemed I could not get my strength back. My sister-in-law bought me a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription (after I had tried several of the other remedies which are so much advertised, and found no relief). I had little faith in the medicine at the time and was so weak and sick that I felt discouraged, but within a week after I had commenced taking your 'Prescription' I was like a different woman. New life and vitality seemed to come with each succeeding day, and, in a few weeks, I was in fine health and a happy, hearty woman. My boy is now two years old, and, thanks to your splendid medicine, I am enjoying perfect health. If at any time I feel tired or in need of a tonic, a few doses of your 'Favorite Prescription' recuperates me at once. My address is No. [illegible] Jones Street, East, Savannah, Ga.

PERUNA CURES CATARRH OF THE KIDNEYS

PE-RU-NA CURES CATARRH OF KIDNEYS EVERY TIME.

DANGEROUS KIDNEY DISEASES CURED

Major T. H. Mars, of the First Wisconsin Cavalry regiment, writes from 1425 Dunning street, Chicago, Ill., the following letter:

"For years I suffered with catarrh of the kidneys contracted in the army. Medicine did not help me any until a comrade who had been helped by Peruna advised me to try it. I bought some at once, and soon found blessed relief. I kept taking it four months, and am now well and strong and feel better than I have done for the past twenty years, thanks to Peruna."—T. H. Mars.

Mr. John Vance, of Hartford City, Ind., says: "My kidney trouble is much better. I have improved so much that everybody wants to know what medicine I am using. I recommend Peruna to everybody and some have commenced to use it. The folks all say that if Dr. Hartman's medicine cures me it must be great."—John Vance.

Mr. J. Brake, of Petrolea, Ontario, Canada, writes: "Four years ago I had a severe attack of Bright's disease, which brought me so low the doctor said nothing more could be done for me. I began to take Peruna and Manalin, and in three months I was a well man, and have continued so ever since."—J. Brake.

At the appearance of the first symptom of kidney trouble, Peruna should be taken. This remedy strikes at once the very root of the disease. It at once relieves the catarrhal kidneys of the stagnant blood, preventing the escape of serum from the blood. Peruna stimulates the kidneys to excrete from the blood the accumulating poison, and thus prevents the convulsions which are sure to follow if the poisons are allowed to remain. It gives great vigor to the heart's action and digestive system, both of which are apt to fail rapidly in this disease.

Peruna cures catarrh of the kidneys simply because it cures catarrh wherever located.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

AMERICANS EXPECT TO WAR WITH GERMANY.

And They are Preparing for the Contest Which is to Take Place Sooner or Later

THE TROUBLE WILL START IN SOUTH AMERICA

Where Germany is Establishing a Colony. Collection of Claims Against Castro Likely to Cause Trouble

Washington, October 19.—The general staff of the army, whose duty it is to prepare plans for war with every possible antagonist, has concluded that the defence of the Monroe Doctrine will some day, perhaps sooner than is generally expected, cause a war between the United States and one of the European powers. Germany is regarded as the country that is most likely to cause trouble.

When the war comes the officers of the general staff believe, many campaigns will be fought in South America. In order that comprehensive plans may be prepared in advance for the struggle the military resources of the South American republics are being thoroughly studied.

FIRST STUDY IS OF VENEZUELA.

An exhaustive study of Venezuela, with a short side trip to the isthmus of Panama, has been completed by Captain Chauncey B. Humphrey of the Third Infantry and Lieutenant Ernest V. D. Murphy of the Twenty-seventh infantry. They were sent to Venezuela in June, before the general staff was formally organized. Their assignment to this detail was one of the first acts of the provisional general staff and the promptness and secrecy with which they were sent indicates that some of the staff officers believe that the possibility of war is not remote.

To give them an official status these two officers were appointed military attaches at Caracas, but the appointment was not announced, nor was the state department informed of it.

The officers spent only enough time in Caracas to disarm suspicion as to their real purpose. Then they inspected the sea coast and plunged into the interior, studying the country from a military standpoint and familiarizing themselves with the facility with which armies might be handled to the best advantage. Every point including the size of the army Venezuela could be expected to raise and the time it would take properly to equip it, was investigated.

The officers returned by way of Panama and investigated the resources and defences of the isthmus. While there they had several conferences with Major Black of the engineer corps, who is stationed at Panama in connection with the canal project.

REPORT PLEASES ARMY HEADS.

The officers' report, which was made to the division of military information, was received with great satisfaction. Aside from its military aspect they made a report on political conditions in Venezuela, which was highly important.

Other officers will be sent at once on similar missions to all of the South American countries. To give them a status they will be accredited as military attaches, but the utmost secrecy will be observed in their assignments. Venezuela was selected as the country to be investigated first, for the reason that the staff officers believe trouble is most likely to break out there.

GERMANY MAY INVADE VENEZUELA.

There is reason to believe that the general staff has learned that Germany has had military agents and spies at work in Venezuela for some time, in preparation for an invasion of that country. Some of the staff officers privately admit that they believe Germany is preparing to resist any intervention by the United States in defense of the Munroe Doctrine. This means that they think that the Kaiser is preparing for the war with the United States which he knows would follow an attempt to acquire territory in Venezuela. The general staff propose to be equally ready for it.

The staff officers fear there will be trouble over the collection of the customs receipts that were to be set aside by President Castro for the payment of the foreign claims and that this will be used by Germany as an excuse for seizing the custom-houses and precipitating trouble.

ARE UP AGAINST IT

An Outside Opinion of the Street Lighting Contract

Hastings Star: "Over in Peterborough the Council is up against a strong opposition in regard to a recently made lighting contract, and it will be interesting to watch the outcome.

"At a meeting of the Council a contract with the Peterborough Light and Power Co. was agreed to, by which the town gets 130 lights of 2,000 candle power for $46.00 per lamp per year. R. R. Hall, a director of the Otonabee Power Company offered to sign a duplicate of the contract and furnish light of the same power at $35 per lamp, representing a saving of $1,400 per year, or a total of $14,000 during the whole term of the contract. As the street railway service had been secured from practically the Peterborough Light and Power Co., on condition of giving that company the lighting, the Council approved the contract by a vote of 10 to 2.

"Mr. W. H. Meldrum has served the corporation with notice that he will apply to the High Court for an order to quash both by-laws."

UNION MEN VS. A UNION

A Very Queer Labor Situation Exists in Chicago

Chicago, Oct. 20.—Armed with revolvers and sworn in as deputy marshals, thirty union men, pressmen employed in the printing plant of R. R. Donnelly & Sons Company, were last night guarding the building against attack from striking members of Franklin Union of Press Feeders. The armed deputies are regular union employes of the company, all of them members of local No. 3 of the International Printing Pressmen's Union. Beside them work non-union men and girls who have replaced the members of Franklin Union, now on strike. It is union against unions and though no serious trouble has occurred, the precaution has been taken because of threats that have been made by Franklin Union members. When the lock-out against Franlin Union was declared by the Chicago Typothae two weeks ago, the pressmen were prepared to organize a rival union of press feeders, but their plan was never executed. They refrained from taking any sympathetic action, however, and now they stand as officers of the law barring the way to members of Franklin Union.

The Australian Capital

Melbourne, Oct. 17—The Federal Senate by a vote of 19 to 10, has rejected the action of the House in selecting Tumut, New South Wales, as the capital of the Commonwealth. The Senate then selected Bombala, which was favored by the Victorians, as the Federal capital. This will likely lead to a serious deadlock between the two Houses.

Some British Fears of What May Happen at Ottawa

Lord Alverstone's "Clumsy Expression" is Criticised

London, Oct. 17—Opinion is very much divided among the members of the London Chamber of Commerce as to the affect which Mr. Chamberlain's proposals will have on the trade of the country. The return of all the delegates to Montreal is expected soon, when it is probable that a meeting will be held to consider the subject.

Mr. Edgar Gibson a delegate to the Montreal Congress, addressing the Derby Chamber of Commerce, said there was a general opinion amongst Canadian merchants, with whom he conversed, that if the proposals of the Canadian Government are not adopted, Canada would make a preferential tariff with the United States, which would mean that we would loose a large bulk of our Canadian trade. Canadians absolutely laughed at our free trade."

Mr. Gibson met no politician in Canada. The opinions expressed were based on conversations with practical business men.

Our Manufacturers' Attitude.

The Economist says: "Canadian manufacturers are evidently determined to insist on a tariff to adequately protect them from the productions of other countries, British or foreign. It is only natural that this should be so."

"Our Free Trade "Friends."

"An Imperialist Free Trader," writing to The Spectator, says: "If American ports are shut to Canada, her wheat will have to be shipped for five months in the year from St. John, a most dangerous nautical course owing to fog and floating ice." Canadian politicians have specifically repudiated interfering with the food of our poorer classes. This is surprising to no one who is aware that the poverty of our great towns was a revelation to Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his associates last year."

"Tied-House Imperialism."

The Spectator, discussing Lord Rosebery's speech, says; "If we once indulge the principle of 'tied-house' imperialism, and infringe upon the freedom of the colonies to model their own fiscal systems exactly as they choose, we shall have introduced into the Empire a principle which must in the end destroy it."

Two Canadians Contrasted.

The Yorkshire Herald makes a rather sarcastic reference to Hamar Greenwood. It says: "When we require information concerning the opinions of the people of Canada, we have no difficulty in obtaining it—Sir Charles Tupper has been Premier of Canada, Mr. Greenwood has not."

Lord Alverstone's "Clumsy Expression."

The Saturday Review, discussing the Alaskan Tribunal, says: "The tender feelings of some interested parties have not been able to wait for the decision. The fault lies perhaps with Lord Alverstone. He concluded the proceedings with a compliment to the American counsel which, though no doubt admirable in its intention, was singularly clumsy in expression, and we are not surprised that a part of the Canadian press seized on it as a confession from Lord Alverstone that he had been persuaded of the justice of the American case. It was also inferred as an answer to the sentiment boldly expressed by one of the Canadian assessors that he had pledged himself to vote the other way; in fact, his expressed determination not to give up any territory he knew to be British."

A Birmingham Opinion.

The Birmingham Daily Post, discussing the speeches at the Pilgrim's banquet, says: "If there had been any serious or fundamental differences between the members of the Alaskan Commission it is not likely such cheerful observations would have been indulged in."

Mr. Bourassa's Campaigning.

The Saturday Review says Mr. Henri Bourassa's efforts to create a strong anti-Imperial party has succeeded only in showing how out of touch he is with French-Canadian sentiment. "Mr. Bourassa belongs to a peculiar order of politician who remain loyal so long as loyalty enjoys all the benefits and involves no departure, which would be construed into sacrifice. The most emphatic protest against Mr. Bourassa's propoganda is Mr. Pelletier's speech."

The St. James Gazette, referring to the naval defence bill of New Zealand, says: "The only possible means by which the colonies can eventually hope to stand in a position of safety and self maintenance is by contributing each in its own place, to the upkeep of a single homogeneous and united navy."

At the Half-Way House.

The Times observes that the Duke of Devonshire's letter to Sir Michael Hicks-Beach places him in the intermediate position between Mr. Balfour and the free importers, and regrets that he cannot see his way to go a little further in the application of the principle he accepts for the removal of the mischief. He certainly recognizes that he is not going to use the question in such a way as to wreck the Unionist Government.

The Russian Czar is Virtually a Prisoner

London, Oct. 19—The Rome correspondent of The Times says the Opposition newspapers lay the whole blame of the Czar's failure to visit Rome on the shoulders of the Italian Government. The Tribuna, however, finds a scapegoat in the Russian police. It says the Russian Government would not be content with the most satisfactory assurance given by the Italian Foreign Minister and Premier regarding the absolute safety of the Czar on Italian soil, but insisted upon sending agents and secret police to report on the subject. These were unaccustomed to the liberal ideas of Italy, and the freedom allowed the people, and strongly advised the Government against the risks of the visit, the fact being that the Czar is virtually a prisoner and has too officious guardians.

CONCESSION TO CANADA.

The Portland Canal is Awarded to Dominion All the Other Contentions of United States are Granted

London, Oct. 17—The Alaskan Boundary Commission has verbally agreed to grant all the American contentions except that for the Portland Canal, which goes to Canada.

The formal agreement is being drawn up and will be rendered on Monday.

London, Oct. 17—The Alaskan Boundary Commission adjourned at 3.30 p.m to-day without making any announcement.

The commissioners will meet again on Monday.

Mr. Sifton Coming Home.

Hon. Clifford Sifton will sail for Canada via New York on Saturday, the 31st.

THE STEEL TRUST INVADES BRITAIN

Harland and Wolff of Belfast Said to Have Made a Five Year Contract

FOR THEIR SHIP YARDS

Shipbuilders Have no Patriotism That Interferes with Their Profits

London, Oct. 17.—The report that the shipbuilding firm of Harland & Wolff, of Belfast, had contracted to obtain its entire supply of iron and steel from the United States Steel Corporation, has not been confirmed, but it caused a flutter among the English and Scotch iron men, who are inclined to believe it, and regard the move as a beginning of the trusts' invasion of Great Britain.

They do not doubt that the contract provides for cheaper prices than could be obtained in Great Britain. A prominent steel worker is quoted as saying that shipbuilders have no patriotism, and if they can get American steel sixpence a ton cheaper than they can get English steel, they will buy it. It is stated that the freight rates from Pittsburg to Belfast are no higher than from England and Scotland.

The Belfast correspondent of the Morning Post says that American iron and steel will be delivered at 30 shillings a ton cheaper than the British, which means an immense saving in a year. It is recalled that 2,000 tons of American steel were delivered in Belfast in 1901. This proved inferior to British steel, and did not pass Lloyd's tests. What was gained in price was lost in working. It is realized, however, that the methods of the Steel Trust have been improved, and the result of the next trial is awaited with the keenest interest.

Salonica, Oct. 17— The report of the death of Boris Sarafoff, the famous Macedonian leader, is confirmed.

Boston, Oct. 17—As a result of the visit to America of the Honorable Artillery Company of London, according to announcement at the Victorian Club, luncheon, a monument to the memory of the late Queen Victoria is to be erected in Boston by the club.

Vienna, Oct. 17—The Neues Tageblatt asserts that King Peter of Servia will visit the Austrian and Russian courts in December. As both the courts have declined to receive Servian officers, it is evident that King Peter can take with him only a civil suite.

It is reported from Belgrade that the Skuptschina in an address to the throne has just expressed its approbation of the murderers of King Alexander and Queen Draga. The address said: "By this act the army has shown its oneness with the people and its love of country."

Sofia, Oct. 17.—The Ministry of the Interior has sent a circular to the local authorities, intimating that as there are 20,000 destitute refugees in the frontier districts dependent on the Government and private charity, measures must be taken to domicile them in various parts of the country during the winter, pending the completion of arrangements with Turkey for their repatriation. The work will be entrusted to local committees empowered to use Government grants and raise local subscriptions for their maintenance. The reasons given for this measure are the avoidance of epidemics and the alleviation of the burdens which the presence of the refugees throws on the frontier population.

RESULTS OF VIENNA PEACE CONFERENCE

Mr. W. R. Cremer, Founder, Believes Cause of Amity Has Advanced

A POLITICAL FRATERNITY.

Is Ultimate Aim of the Conference-- Next One will Meet in St. Louis

Vienna, October 18.—Summing up the results of the later Inter-Parliamentary Peace Conference, Mr. W. R. Cremer, the founder of these conferences, said said to a correspondent today; "The outlook for the cause of reason and amity among the nations has distinctly improved. The best achievement of the conference was the bringing out of the idea of enlisting the press in the task of destroying the bases of international suspicion and enmity.

"Count Apponyi, President of the Hungarian Chamber of Deputies, made a speech on that subject which was a masterpiece. The power of the press to promote familiarity with the peace ideal is unequalled. It is in a position to make the members of the human family acquainted with each other, to breed mutual respect and to mitigate racial aversion. The ultimate aim of the peace society is political fraternity. The Hague Tribunal is to the United States and Europe what the Supreme Court of Washington is to America—a court not of first, but of final resort."

RICH GOLD STRIKE IN MONTANA

Ore Assaying from $167 to $1000 Found on Owl Creek

Hamilton, Mont., October 18—This city is wild with excitement over a great gold discovery made on Owl Creek, a few miles from here. A regular stampede is on. Mr. Gross, representing a New York syndicate, made the discovery August 22. The ledge is said to be 1,200 feet wide, with enough ore in sight to keep a fifty-stamp mill running for ten years without doing any underground mining. Assays run from $167 to $1,000 in gold to the ton. An expert claims all of the ore will run at least $25 to the ton. From one phenomenally rich streak of theore eighteen pounds gave from $300 to $500 in gold.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE

Japan to Uphold the Integrity of Korea at All Cost

Tokyo, Oct. 18—"Japan will unflinchingly uphold its Monroe doctrine," said a high official in the Mikado's government yesterday. When asked precisely what that doctrine meant the official replied:

"Any infringement of the political or territorial integrity of Corea by a foreign rival that involves the ultimate destruction of our country cannot be tolerated. I do not think any Japanese statesman—certainly none occupying a position of authority, ever affirmed, either openly or privately, that Japan is likely to be called on to go to war to dispossess Russia of Manchuria.

"With Korea it is different. That country must either remain independent or else become Japanese."

COLONIES NOT BEGGING, THE FREE FOOD LEAGUE

Lord Aberdeen on Chamberlain the Friendliness of the Colonies, Devonshire in New Role

London, Oct. 17—Lord Aberdeen told a Liberal meeting at Skipton last night that Mr. Chamberlain's scheme would seriously impair the fraternity and friendliness of the colonies. He would rather remove the embargo on Canadian cattle, which was really a kind of protection. The available supply of wheat from the United States cannot be increased without an increase in price, and we have reached a critical situation, full of peril unless dealt with boldly and judiciously.

Colonies Not Begging.

The London Mail publishes an interview with Hon. G. H. Reid, leader of the Australian Opposition. He says: "Britain has done enough for the colonies without our demanding a price for our aid when the day arrives that Britain can only maintain her trade by artificial preferential business tariffs around her. But these are the very last ditch of a nation defeated and driven back in attempts to defend herself from conquering foes. Britain has gained her supreme commercial position by superior technical skill and business enterprise."

Free Food League

The Duke of Devonshire has conditionally accepted the presidency of the Free Food League, which is organizing a campaign against the fiscal policy of Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Balfour.

In his letter of acceptance the Duke says in part:

"I understand that these objects do not involve opposition to the policy of the Government in so far as that policy is limited to reserving to the Government the right of proposing to Parliament tariff legislation for the purpose of negotiating commercial treaties and the mitigation of hostile tariffs."

Continuing, the Duke of Devonshire refers to the desirability of restraining "the strongly protectionist tendencies manifested at the recent conference at Sheffield," and says the duty of combating before the country the doctrines of the Tariff Reform League should not be left entirely to Radicals and members of the Cobden Club.

"I understand the body I am asked to join," he continues, "although bearing the name of the league, is substantially a Parliamentary Committee. I anticipate that you will seek to broaden its constitution with the object of extending its operations. If this is done, and I am invited to accept the presidency, I must ask to be consulted as to the nature of such extension, that I may have the opportunity of determining how far I feel myself in unison with the new constitution. I also ask that it be made clear that the views I have above expressed as to its attitude towards the Government are fully shared by the league.

Too Old To Fight.

"It must also be understood that such services as I could render can only be limited in character. It is seventeen years since I took an active part in the campaign against Home Rule. It is not in my power to take the same active part now that I took then. I must be regarded, than, rather as adverse to a combat. It is with some reluctance that I consent to take even a limited part in the controversy, but I feel that many Unionist members of Parliament, whose ideas I believe agree with mine, are making great sacrifices in order to maintain their opinions, and I am unwilling that they should regard me as indifferent to their political interests."

Mr. Ritchie, the late Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Lord George Hamilton late Secretary of State for India, have also joined the league.

London, Oct. 17 —The London Economist thinks it quite natural that "the Canadian manufacturers should clamor for protection against all competitors, and the fact that they are not willing to lower the wall against the mother Country the paper considers a warning against the principle of protection.

"Shall we introduce into the Empire a principle which must in the end destroy it?" asks the Economist. "The Canadian manufacturers are evidently determined to insist on a tariff which will adequately protect them from the productions of other countries, whether British or foreign. It is only natural that this should be so."

OPINION DIVIDED.

London, Oct. 17—Opinion is very much divided among the members of the London Chamber of Commerce as to what effect Mr. Chamberlain's proposals would have upon the trade of the country. It is believed that upon the return of all the delegates from the Montreal Chambers of Commerce Congress, which is expected soon, in all probability a meeting will be held to consider the subject. Mr. Edgar Gibson, a delegate to the Montreal Congress, addressing the Derby Chamber of Commerce, said that it was the general opinion among all the Canadian merchants with whom he had conversed that if the proposals of the Government were not adopted, Canada would make a preferential tariff treaty with the United States, which would mean that we would lose a large bulk of our Canadian trade. Canadians absolutely laughed at our free trade. He met no politicians in Canada whose opinions as expressed were not based on conversations with practical business men.

SITTING ON HAMAR.

London, Oct. 17—The Yorkshire Herald a protectionist paper, makes rather sarcastic reference to the opinions expressed by Mr. Hamar Greenwood. It says when we require information concerning the opinions of the people, of Canada we will have no difficulty in obtaining it; Sir Charles Tupper has been Premier of Canada.

MR. AYLESWORTH'S PROMISES.

London, Oct. 17—Referring to the promise of Mr. Aylesworth that he would not consent to give up to the Americans any territory which he believed by the evidence to belong to Great Britain, the Economist says such a promise not to give up any territory which he knew to be British could be considered as no more than an avowal quite otiose, and thoroughly unexciting as an expression of common honesty.

London, Oct. 17 —The St. James' Gazette, referring to the naval defence bill, introduced into the New Zealand Legislature, says that the only possible means by which the colonies can hope to eventually stand in a position of safety and self-maintenance is by contributing each in its own place, to the upkeeping of a single, homogeneous, and united navy.

Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 17 —Despatches from Juneau and Skagway state that residents of south-eastern Alaska are anxiously awaiting the award of the Boundary Commission from London. Miners in the Porcupine district and adjacent territory have been quietly recording their claims with British recorders in the event of a decision unfavorable to the United States.

LABOUR TROUBLES IN GOTHAN

New York City May Have a Huge Street Car Strike

New York, October 19—By an almost unanimous vote last night, the motormen on the elevated roads decided in favor of strike action if their demands are not complied with. At the same time, 165 ex-firemen, now employed in various capacities on the road, but who retain their membership in the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, also decided in favor of a strike. The vote of the motormen was 450 in favor of a strike and 2 against. An effort to obtain a hearing from August Belmont, president of the Interborough Company will be made. Union officials may be asked to help the employes. Prior to the change in the control of the elevated roads, all motormen underwent a physical examination, and they object to be re-examined, which has been ordered.

RECIPROCITY NEGOTATIONS

Mr. Fielding States That They Will be Considered

Ottawa, Oct. 17—In the House of Commons on Friday, Dr. Sproule called attention to the deputation of Scottish cattlemen who had waited on Lord Onslow, president of the Board of Agriculture, to urge the removal of restrictions on the importation of Canadian cattle. Lord Onslow replied that the policy of the British Government was to retain the restrictions. Dr. Sproule wanted to know if the Dominion Government had taken new steps to secure the removal of the embargo.

"No," said Mr. Fielding. The British policy was fixed, as could be seen in the correspondence laid before the Canadian Parliament."

DISPUTES TO END IN BIG SOUTHERN WAR

Nicaragua and Guatemala to Fight Salvador and Honduras

Panama, October 18.—There are reasons to believe that Nicaragua and Guatemala are on the eve of declaring war on Salvador and Honduras.

Information was received in New Orleans that President Cabrera of Guatemala was considering the invasion of Salvador and had endeavored to enlist the aid of the Honduran government, but had failed. President Cabrera, however, has not abandoned his plan, and between 6,000 and 7,000 Guatemalan troops were at that time gathered at various points on the Salvadoran frontier.

A week previously advices had been received of an expected invasion of Nicaragua by Honduras to enforce that country's opposition to Nicaragua's action in giving a territorial concession to James Dietrich of Pittsburg, in which Cleveland capitalists are interested.

There is also a frontier dispute between the two countries regarding their respective rights in the valley of the Wanks River. Nicaragua and Guatemala have apparently now joined hands against Salvador and Honduras.

Last March Salvador and Honduras were on the threshold of war, which was averted by the friendly intervention of Leslie Combs, United States Minister to Guatemala.

MARCHING TO FRONTIER.

Panama, October 18.—According to news received here from Central American President Zelaya of Nicaragua and President Estrada Cabrera of Guatemala are preparing to declare war against Salvador and Honduras.

Ten thousand Guatemalan soldiers are reported to be marching towards the Salvadorean frontier with a powerful force of artillery.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 19 1903

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

Many signs point to the approach of another period of depression in the United States. Among the most noteworthy is the slump in the stocks of some of the great industrial trusts, particularly the steel trust. Another is the discharge yesterday of 1500 employees of the Vanderbilt railway system, together with the official reason given for their discharge. "The outlook at the present time," so runs the explanation, "demands that retrenchment be made.

The last six years have been a period of abounding prosperity. In every branch of industry production has been stimulated, and enormous sums have been expended in improved labor-saving machinery, which has increased the capacity for production in a much greater degree than the increase in the consuming capacity. The inevitable result is that the domestic market is either overstocked now or is in a fair way of becoming so. Overproduction has hitherto spelled commercial depression, and there is every reason to believe that the pendulum, having swung its full length in the direction of prosperity, has now begun to swing in the opposite direction.

But there is ground for hope that prosperous conditions will continue in Canada for some time after the reaction has set in across the border. There has not been such feverish productive activity in this country as there has been in the States; the unprecedented inrush of immigrants into our western lands is sure to continue and will produce a steady demand for Canadian wares; and the construction of the G. T. Pacific Railway will do something to stimulate industrial and commercial activity. The continuance of prosperity in this country would be assured beyond doubt by the adoption of Mr. Chamberlain's preferential policy, of which there is a fair prospect.

But there will be danger of the depression in the States reacting upon Canada, especially if the government at Ottawa should decide to let matters drift as the Mackenzie government did in the seventies. Although the great industrial trusts in the States were organized as much for the regulation of production as for the prevention of competition, the great trusts must continue to produce even after production has been carried to a point beyond the capacity of the markets to absorb at profitable prices. With vast quantities of expensive new machinery on their hands, the trusts cannot afford to stop, though they may check production. And they must get rid of their surplus at any price. Canada is their nearest foreign market—their most convenient dumping ground, and as it becomes more and more difficult to dispose of their wares in the American market, the greater will be the quantity of their wares sent over here to be sold at "slaughter" prices. It will not be long before the Ottawa government must face the new conditions, and decide whether the new conditions do not call for tariff changes which will save Canadian industries from being suffocated by unfair and unnatural competition.

BRONCHITIS

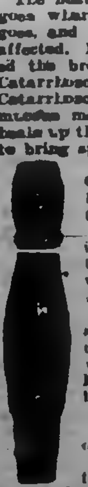
Scientifically Treated

The best authorities agree that bronchitis is treated most scientifically by Catarrhozone, which goes right to the root of the trouble

Bronchitis can be treated successfully only by a remedy carried direct to the affected parts along with the air breathed.

Catarrhozone is a vegetable antiseptic and is inhaled at the mouth, and after passing through all the air passages of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs, is exhaled through the nose.

The healing vapor of Catarrhozone goes wherever the air you breathe goes, and reaches every part that is affected. No matter how deep-seated the bronchial irritation may be, Catarrhozone is sure to reach it. Catarrhozone protects and heals the mucous membrane, stops the cough, heals up the sores, and is guaranteed to bring speedy relief and sure cure.



By means of the inhaler Catarrhozone treats the local symptoms of bronchial trouble very effectually. [illegible] and impurities in the blood are driven off by Ferrozone, which is a wonderful tonic and stimulant for the entire system. Ferrozone is a muscle and tissue builder, increases the appetite aids digestion and makes the body so healthy and strong that bronchitis goes away for [illegible]

A prominent steamboat owner, well known throughout [illegible] Ontario, Captain Dunlop, of Kingston, was perfectly cured of Bronchitis by Catarrhozone. The Captain had suffered for more than 20 years, and says that Catarrhozone is the best cure for Bronchitis on the face of the globe.

Mr. A. J. Callinum, a prominent citizen of Neepawa, Manitoba, speaks very appreciatively of Catarrhozone as a specific for Bronchitis, and states that his wife could not get along without it.

Everyone that has used Catarrhozone is satisfied that it is superior to all other remedies. It is delightful to inhale, simple and convenient to use, and relieves from the first breath taken through the inhaler.

Better try Catarrhozone. All druggists sell and recommend it. Complete outfit, price $1.00; trial size, 25c. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

A SUMMER OUTING.

We had our supper, engaged a guide for Monday morning, and after enjoying a good cigar on the verandah of our cottage home, we turned in to bed to dream of the fish that we were going to catch, and of the week ahead of us to be given up to pure enjoyment floating on the surface of Stoney Lake.

Next morning, after eating a most substantial and appetizing breakfast, we started out to take in our surroundings, accompanied by Mr. Wm. Thompson, who was, we found out, a partner in the business of Mann and Thompson, who conduct the hotel, a general store, and a horse and boat livery. They do considerable business with their teams and spring wagons in taking tourists and their boats back to the numerous lakes further north. We had one day the pleasure of going back with Mr. Thompson and a guide in this way to Big Cedar lake, where we had some splendid sport with the black bass, who proved to be the very gamiest of fish.

Messrs. Thompson and Mann are a most enterprising firm, who have only just started business this season. They are making improvements on a large scale, and do not seem to be afraid of laying out a considerable amount of money to enable them to give their guests every comfort while making a stay at Mount Julian.

We climbed up to the top of the mountain, where we had a most splendid view of the surrounding lakes and country. The scenery is something grand and really most enchanting.

The hotel and cottages nestle at the foot, and just beyond is Viamede, a summer resort kept by Mr. Wm. Graham. This is another ideal spot to spend the hot summer days. There are more cottages here, fitted up with every convenience, equal to a city hotel, the rooms being all lighted by gas. Mrs. Graham is a most attentive and painstaking hostess, and is now being patronized to a great extent by our countrymen.

On Monday morning our guide put in his appearance, and we immediately tackled him as to what were the best lines, hooks, and bait to use, to entice some of the finny beauties from the clear waters of Stoney lake for our especial use and benefit. We had quite an assortment of spoon baits and a "yellow bird" for trolling. I wished particularly to try the latter, but our guide said "it might be a good bait but the hooks were too light for 'lunge,'" which we proved later on, having hooked a large maskelonge, who stripped off every hook and made his escape before I could land him.

However, that is ahead of my story. Our guide told us that we had better take out a shore dinner. I did not myself understand quite what he meant, but we readily agreed, and in a few moments we saw him making his way to the skiff loaded down with a large basket, a frying pan, and two black looking tin pails, which proved to be the outfit for a shore dinner, and of which we greedily devoured later on. Oh! that dinner, shall I ever forget it? It was fit for a monarch! Fried fish, boiled potatoes, fried bacon and eggs, bread and butter, cheese and apple pie, with bananas for desert, and washed down with some of the best coffee I think I ever drank.

Eddie rolled over under the shade of the little pines where we had partaken of the foregoing edibles, and swore that if he had eaten half as much at home that his family would have 'phoned an alarm for the nearest doctor. For my part I was at peace with all men, and had firmly made up my mind to come back to Stoney lake again next season, if it was only to have a shore dinner cooked by a Stony lake guide. We had good sport after dinner. I hooked a maskelonge with the loss of my "yellow bird" bait, and our guide smiled as I lost my fish, with a look as much as to say, "What did I tell you?" Eddie, however, was more fortunate with a double star spoon. His automatic reel clicked, there was a great splash in the water behind us, his eight ounce rod bent nearly double, and he yelled, "I've got him, and a good one two." Our guide called to him to stand up in the boat to fight him, and keep a tight line, while he rowed steadily out of the weeds into the deep water. After playing his fish for nearly twenty minutes our guide shipped his oars and told Eddie to bring him alongside and he would land him, and seizing the line in his left hand he struck the fish a smart blow on the back of his neck with a club (which I found out after he always kept in the boat for the purpose of killing big fish with), and then neatly lifted him into the boat (an 18 lb. beauty). We both breathed freely after we saw him safe in the boat, and we then changed our tackle for bass fishing and got 6, totalling 16 lbs. in weight. This was our first day's fishing. We had a good average catch during the rest of our stay. As we were near Burleigh Falls after catching our sixth bass, we made up our minds to go and visit the hotel, which is kept by Mr Thomas Darcy and his son. This is a fine hotel, with numerous cottages. They do a good business there in the summer. In addition to every convenience pertaining to the hotel, there is also a telephone connection with Peterborough, which is a great convenience to the guests staying there.

Our week was ended only too quickly, and it was with the greatest regret that we had to pack up and start for home. So shaking hands with our genial host, Harry Mann, and our guide, we stepped on board the Majestic again, vowing that we never had enjoyed so good a time before, and promising to repeat the trip next season if alive and well, and make our stay two weeks, instead of one, at the foot of Mount Julien, Stony lake.

I could not resist the temptation of writing out a partial account of my trip since my return home, and I would advise any of my friends who have not already taken it in to go to Stoney lake next season, and if they have only half the sport that I got, I am sure they will say that they were well repaid for the journey. I must add that I received every kindness and courtesy from every Canadian with whom I came in contact, especially from my hosts at Mt. Julien, my guide, and last, but not least, the captain and crew of the steamer Majestic.

On our return trip we found that we could spare an hour or so in the City of Peterborough by going back via Toronto, so took the opportunity of seeing some of the sights of that thrifty little place. It seemed to be the centre of activity in the manufacturing line, with also many fine stores and private dwellings. The residential parts of the city are very neatly laid out with their shade trees and boulevards in front of each house. It has also three daily and three weekly papers in the news line. We had the good fortune of receiving an introduction through mine host Snowden of the Snowden House (a most popular hotel with Americans) to Mr W. H. Robertson, of The Times office, who we found to be a jovial good fellow, and showed us every kindness during our short stay. He took us all over his establishment, which was a perfect hive of industry. There was everything in the way of machinery for carrying on their business in all lines of printing and bookbinding, etc. of the very latest and up-to-date styles. Through his kindness we also saw one of the greatest feats of engineering skill on this continent, the Peterborough lift lock on the Trent Valley Canal. The Cereal Company's new dam was also seen by us. There was one thing that surprised us, however, the absence of the trolley cars. We could not imagine how the people get about quick enough in such a busy place without that indispensable means of transportation. However, we were informed that the track would soon be resuscitated, which, in our opinion, will be a great boon to the citizens.

A DANGER FOR FRANCE

The People of St. Pierre Miquelon in Unpleasant State

London, Oct. 16 — A Newfoundland correspondent of The Globe says that the failure of the fisheries this season has crippled St. Pierre-Miquelon and created for France a serious industrial crisis there and on Brittany. On the whole the French catch will be 60 per cent. below last season. The Globe correspondent, referring to the French Government's ordering the deportation of friars and nuns, says: "St. Pierre is certainly in an unpleasant frame of mind, and the hot Breton blood may lead to occurrences of a momentous character, which would remove the tricolor from its last solitary foothold in this hemisphere."

The Greatest Book.

W. E. Curtis in The Chicago Record-Herald:—The greatest book ever written was the "Yung-lo Ta-tien," or "Encyclopaedia Maxima," which was destroyed during the recent troubles in Pekin. It was a most wonderful work, and its destruction is the most appalling literary catastrophe the world has ever seen. It contained the best selections from all the classical, historical, philosophical and literary works ever published in China, embracing astronomy, astrology, geography, the occult sciences, medicine, religion, history, biography and the arts. Every literary production of permanent importance was included in this marvellous collection, which consisted of 22,877 books, bound into 11,100 volumes. It was prepared by order of Yung Lo, the second Emperor of the Ming dynasty, under the direction of Hsieh Chin, the leading scholar of the fifteenth century, who organized the work under several subdirectors and a staff of 2,169 persons, including critics, readers and copyists. It was begun in 1403 and finished in 1407. No additions have been made to it since the latter date. In 1562 one hundred clerks were employed to make two copies, which were finished in 1567. One of these copies and the original draft were destroyed by fire at the time of the capture of Pekin and the overthrow of the Ming dynasty in 1644, and on the re-establishment of order the other copy was found to be lacking 2,422 volumes, whose contents were lost forever. The remainder of the set, 20,455 volumes, was deposited in the Han-lin Yuan, the Imperial Academy, which was situated just north of the British Legation at Pekin. During the siege of the Legations in 1900 the Chinese soldiers set this building on fire as a means of forcing the foreigners to leave the British Legation, and the most valuable collection of Chinese literature ever made was destroyed, including the Encyclopaedia Maxima. Several hundred volumes were afterward picked up in the ruins by foreigners, Chinese and coolies, and are probably in the British Legation. Dr. Morrison, the Pekin correspondent of The London Times, secured a dozen volumes or more, and other foreigners were fortunate enough to obtain an example, but the "Yung-lo Ta-tien" is lost forever.

Dry Placer Miner, formerly of California.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 300 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure this gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine — Its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck of more of sand, either ordinary house or sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U.S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

RED ROSE TEA Is pure Ceylon and Indian, Black, Mixed or Green Ceylon.

Anecdotal.

Shortly before his death, Thomas B. Reed was the center of a group at the Century Club, in New York. The talk got around to Roosevelt. "Y-a-a-s, I admire Roosevelt very much," drawled Mr. Reed; "I admire him very much, indeed. What I admire most about him is his enthusiasm over his discovery of the Ten Commandments."

In his "Outre Mer," Paul Bourget declared that "life can never get entirely dull to the American, because whenever he cannot strike any other way to put in his time, he can always get away with a few years trying to find out who his grandfather was." To which Mark Twain replied: "I reckon the Frenchman's got his little stand-by for a dull time, too, because when all other interests fail he can turn in and see if he can't find out who his father was."

A delightful literary find must be credited to the authority of a recent book, "Sidelights on Charles Lamb." Dining one day with a friend and being pressed to take some rhubarb pie, Lamb declined because it was physic. "That may be," said his host, "but it is pleasant and innocent." "So is a daisy," rejoined Lamb, "but I don't therefore like daisy pie." "Daisy pie! Who ever heard of daisy pie?" said someone at the table. "My authority is Shakespeare," Lamb replied. "He expressly mentions daisies pied." The phrase occurs in the song at the end of "Love's Labor's Lost."

Andrew Lang tells this story illustrating the rigorous and ascetic life of the Scots. "It seems that a laird, in the year 1745, set out to join the Pretender, taking with him his son, a youth of sixteen or so. One night this laird and his little troop were compelled to sleep in the open, though it was snowing, and snow lay deep upon the ground. Father and son kept together, and together they prepared to turn in for the night. The son, having wrapped his plaid about him, made himself a pillow of snow, and was about to lay his head on it when his father kicked the little cold white mound away. 'This is too soon, truly,' he growled, 'for you to indulge in luxuries.'"

A well-known theatrical manager, who is distinguished rather for his business ability than for his knowledge of literature, was visited not long ago by an aspiring playwright. He had with him, he explained to the manager, the manuscript of a play based on one of Edgar Allan Poe's stories, which he was sure was destined to make a sensational hit on the stage. The manager consented to hear the play, and listened with increasing interest as the playwright read from his manuscript. He was enthusiastic when the end was reached. "That's fine!" he exclaimed—"fine! Now, I'll tell you what I'll do: You and Mr. Poe come in to-morrow and we'll talk this thing over."

Count Tolstoi does not bear a very kindly attitude toward the many curious admirers who besiege his Russian home in the hope of getting a glimpse of the great novelist. A party of visiting American tourists who called not long ago to pay their respects were not, therefore, very cordially received. Tolstoi refused to meet them; but he reluctantly consented to stand on his doorstep and let himself be seen. One of the visitors, however, could not resist the temptation to speak to the great man. "Oh, Count Tolstoi," she exclaimed effusively, approaching the author with outstretched hand, "I enjoyed your last book so much!" "You refer, I suppose," replied Tolstoi, "to 'Dead Souls'?" The lady assented joyfully. "Um," remarked the novelist, "Gogol wrote that."

A Southern clergyman had married a pair of negroes. After the ceremony the groom asked, "How much yo' chahge fo' dis?" "Well," said the minister, "I usually leave that to the groom. Sometimes I am paid five dollars, sometimes ten, sometimes less." "Dat's a lot ob money, pahson. Tell yo' what Ah'll do. Ah'll gib yo' two dollars, an' den ef I fin' I ain't got cheated, I'll gib yo' mo' in a mont'." A month later the groom returned. "Ah's yere, lak Ah promised, pahson." "Yes," said the minister, expectantly. "Ah tol' yo' dat ef it was all right, Ah'd gib yo' mo' money, didn't Ah?" "You did." "Well, pahson, as dis yere am a sort of spec'lation, Ah reckon yo' owe me about a dollah an' eighty-five cents, an' Ah come ter git it."

That Sir Henry Irving is quite capable of maintaining his dignity under somewhat trying circumstances is shown by the following anecdote which is told of the tragedian by Mr. C. R. Kennedy of the "Everyman" company. On one occasion Irving's company, having been called to the theater for rehearsal, found upon their arrival that they were considerably ahead of time. As Sir Henry had not yet arrived, one of the actors in the company, who was noted for his accomplishments as a mimic, proceeded to give a lively and elaborate imitation of Sir Henry's highly characteristic acting. As he finished his demonstration, a well-known voice came from the depths of the darkened auditorium: "Very good," it said. "Very good indeed! So good, in fact, that there is no need for both of us in this company."

Lincoln's greatest legal triumph was the acquittal of an old neighbor named Duff Armstrong, who was charged with murder. Several witnesses testified that they saw the accused commit the deed one night about eleven o'clock. Lincoln attempted no cross-examination, except to persuade them to reiterate their statements and to explain that they were able to see the act distinctly because of the bright moonlight. By several of the prosecuting witnesses he proved the exact position and size of the moon at the time of the murder. The prosecution there rested, and Lincoln, addressing the court and the jury, announced that he had no defence to submit except an almanac, which would show that there was no moon on that night. The state's attorney was paralysed, but the court admitted the almanac as competent testimony, and every witness was completely impeached and convicted of perjury. The verdict was not guilty.

An Irish Miracle.

"And is it swimming you mane?" observed the O'Flaherty. "By Jabers, thin, ye should see the little divils of South Say Islanders! Sure, and they run down to the beach and dive into the water long before they can walk at arl, at arl."

The Housewives' Strike.

(From the Chronicles of Uncle Ike.)

No, I haven't forgotten the time Local Union Number One of the Amalgamated Society of Housewives of British North America went out on strike. It came right home to me, Mrs. Ike being a member of that late unlamented organization.

It was off day at the shop. I'd calculated to take Mrs. Ike out for a drive, but she refused. "I'm ever so happy that you should have thought of it, Ike," she says, "and you know I'd far rather go with you than to the meeting, but," says she, "my obligation as a member of the Housewives calls for my attendance, except when physically impossible."

"Well," I says, "if you go for a drive with me 'twould be physically impossible to go to the meeting, too, so just put on your bonnet——"

"Why does a man always call a woman's hat a bonnet?" she interrupts, rather sharp like.

"Well, whatever it is," I answers, kinder apologizingly, "put it on and we'll go for a drive."

"I misdoubt, Ike," she says, shaking her head; "your sense of honor is somewhat warped."

"Where?" I asks, pretending to be anxious. "I don't feel drawn up anywhere, and, moreover," I went on, "s'long as my horse sense is in good working order we'll not worry much about the other senses except the sense of taste."

"Thinking of your supper already," says Mrs. Ike. "Just like a man!" And then she kissed me, hoped I wouldn't get lonely before she came back, and departed.

About the time she was due for supper I thought to myself, "How'd it do for me to have it ready for her when she comes in," and I was so pleased with myself for thinking of such a thing that I almost allowed it to stop at the thought. However, after a severe mental struggle, as the story books say, and a good deal of searching, I succeeded in getting the table set, and had just put a kettleful of water on the gas stove when Mrs. Ike came in. She looked a little bit surprised when she saw what I had done, but she sat down without saying anything more than was necessary.

"Well," I says, wondering why she hadn't fussed some about setting the things out, "nothing for you to do but just warm up the p'tatoes and meat left over from dinner, and that won't take you long."

"You'll have to do it yourself," she says, trying to speak very firm.

"Not to-day, thank you," says I, thinking she was just joking. "D'ye remember what happened the last time I tried to cook a meal the day you hurt your hand?" my mind going back to a day when I'd let a fine roast of beef burn to a crisp.

She looked uncomfortable, but answered back, "You'll have to do it; there's a strike on."

"Strike?" I just yelled the word.

"Yes," says Mrs. Ike, a bit angry like. "Why not?" she says. "Men have their strikes, why not the women?"

Well, I didn't know why, but I didn't say anything, just stood and stared at her for I don't know how long, and she just looked back.

"Local Union Number One of the Amalgamated Society of Housewives of British North America is on strike," she says, at last.

"That being the case," says I, "Local Branch Number One of the International Married Men's Association 'll have to hold an emergency meeting to-night to consider the situation."

"What!" she gasped; "Why I didn't know there was any such thing."

"No more did I," thinks I to myself, but aloud I says, "Tut, tut! Did ye think the heads of the household were going to be caught napping? We've been expecting this and preparing for it," I says. With that I took the frying pan from a hook at the top of the cellar stairs and managed to knock down a few other pans.

"What are you going to do?" says Mrs. Ike.

"The Married Men," I replied, as dignified as I could, "while refusing to talk for publication, maintain a very calm and confident attitude."

She looked dazed, but managed to rise and say, "I'll get the meat and potatoes."

"The Married Men," says I, waving to her to sit down again, "claim they have all the help they need, and will not re-engage any of their old hands unless the latter surrender unconditionally."

Then she began to look frightened. I went to the pantry to search for the meat. I made all the noise I could, and knocked a milk jug to the floor, the ugliest jug you ever saw, and I'm thankful to say it was completely smashed. A woman who came and stayed with us for two weeks at Exhibition time, on the strength of her daughter being acquainted with Mrs. Ike's mother, gave it to us as a souvenir, and just because it was one of that kind it had seemed impossible to break it.

Mrs. Ike, not knowing what I might break next, jumped up and says, all sweet and hesitating: "Ike, we all decided we wouldn't do anything for our husbands to-day, and—and—'twas just foolishness, I—I," and then she stopped. There was a suspicious gleam in her eyes, and I guess my own were gleaming, too. But I opened my arms, and when her head was resting where it had a right to, I says, "It is officially stated that the Married Men and the Housewives have come to terms."

"The agreement," says Mrs. Ike, all sunshine again, "being entirely satisfactory to both parties." W. B.

Kentucky Assassins.

The Louisville correspondent of The New York Post, in an article dealing with the prevalence of assassinations in Kentucky, and which was suggested by the recent remarkable Jett-White trial at Jackson, traces two-thirds of the assassinations in that State to politics. He adds that the authors of these assassinations are the worst of cowards when it comes to an open fight, the accepted method of the murderers being to lie in wait for a victim, taking aim at a standing object between which and the assassin the unsuspecting traveller must pass. When the latter's figure intervenes, the trigger is pulled and the fatal shot fired, or, if the man is only wounded, another shot completes the work. Strangely enough, murderers of this class have, according to the correspondent, been idealized and made heroes by superficial provincial writers encouraged by a false provincial pride. "There are many people in the State, supposed to be intelligent and law respecting, who have a lurking sympathy with these desperadoes and feel a secret pride in the terror which 'a Kentuckian' is supposed to carry with him wherever he goes. The present Governor has done all he could in published interviews to minimize the atrocities in Breathitt County, and within twenty-four hours after saying through the newspapers that no more troops were needed at Jackson an additional Hotchkiss gun and some forty or fifty more troops were ordered there to reinforce those already guarding the jail where Jett and White are confined, while ten soldiers are deemed necessary to guard the residence of a single witness. Two Hotchkiss guns and one Gatling, with nearly a hundred soldiers, are required to secure the arraignment and trial of two desperadoes, against whom a number of murders are charged, and one of whom the same Governor had previously pardoned for a felony."

King's Visit to Ireland.

The main lines of the programme for the royal visit to Ireland have been provisionally settled. The intention is that the King and Queen shall leave London on Monday, July 20, arriving in the Irish capital on the next day. The engagements at Dublin, Belfast and elsewhere will occupy them till the following Saturday, when they go to visit the Marquis and Marchioness of Londonderry at Newtownards, staying over Sunday. On the 27th they leave Bangor and proceed by sea to Lough Swilly, en route to Londonderry, which should be reached on the 28th. A couple of days will be spent in touring by motor car, probably in County Donegal, and on August 1 their Majesties are expected to visit the Cork Exhibition, and present new colors to the military station there.

An English schoolmaster offered a prize to the boy who could write the best composition in five minutes on "How to Overcome Habit." This is what was written by the nine-year-old boy who won the prize:—

"Well, sir, habit is hard to overcome. If you take off the first letter it does not change 'abit. If you take off another, you still have a 'bit left. If you take off still another, the whole of 'it remains. If you take off another, it is not wholly used up, all of which goes to show that if you want to get rid of a habit you must throw it off altogether."

PHYSICIAN IN TROUBLE

Dr Jolley of Port Dover Held on Serious Charge

Hamilton, October 14—Dr. Jolley, a prominent physician of Port Dover, a married man [illegible] years of age, was arrested yesterday by Detective John Miller, of Hamilton, and brought to this city last night. The doctor is charged with child desertion, likely to result in bodily injury to the infant found on Saturday morning on the lawn of Edward Martin, K.C., upper James street. The child was placed on the lawn on Friday night, and was exposed to the chill air for 6 hours, and has since suffered from bronchitis, but is now reported as on the way to recovery. Suspicion pointed to Dr. Jolley from the first, as he had written previously to the Home of the Friendless, asking to have a child tallying with the physical description of the foundling placed in that institution. Detective Miller was placed on the case. The mother, who gives the name of Maud Smith, which is believed to be an alias, tells a story to the effect that Dr. Jolley offered to get the child placed in the home. On the night of the crime he met her, and told her arrangements were all made, and took the child, pretending to go over alone and leave it at the Home, instead of which, the police allege, he actually abandoned it where it was found.

What the consideration was that would lead a prominent physician to place himself in the unenviable position in which Jolley finds himself, or what his motive was, the police do not pretend to hazard even a guess. The mother of the child is under 20 and an orphan, but of very respectable parentage.

The child is illegitimate and physically malformed to such an extent that its gender is doubtful, and this is presumed to account for the mother's willingness to be separated from it, and was the clue which lead to the discovery of the alleged desertion. The father of the infant is away in the West, and knows nothing of the desertion, and possibly of its existence.

To Settle in Canada

London, Oct. 14—The Prefect of Finistere, writing to the French Minister of the Interior and Finance, says that efforts are being made by English agents to induce fishermen and their families to emigrate to Canada. The Prefect suggests that the Government of France give them facilities for settling in Algeria, where they would remain French citizens.

Queer Social Customs in Mexico

Ladies do not attend the funerals.

Children kiss the hands of their parents.

The host is served first at table.

The bridegroom purchases the bride's trousseau.

Feminine friends kiss on both cheeks when greeting or taking leave.

Gentlemen speak first when passing lady acquaintances on the street.

The sofa is the seat of honor, and a guest waits to be invited to occupy it.

Men and women in the same social circle call each other by their first names.

When a Mexican speaks to you of his home he refers to it as "your house."

When you move into a new locality it is your duty to make the first neighborhood calls.

When friends pass each other on the street without stopping they say adios (good-by).

Even the younger children of the family are dressed in mourning upon the death of a relative.

Young ladies never receive calls from young men, and are not escorted to entertainments by them.

Daily enquiry is made for a sick friend and cards are left or the name written in a book with the porter.

Dinner calls are not customary, but upon rising from the table the guest thanks his host for the entertainment.

Mexican gentlemen remove their hats as scrupulously upon entering a business office as in a private residence.

Too Little Bait.

Noah and Shem, taking their first walk from the stranded ark, came upon a beautiful little pool on Mount Ararat, in which some gorgeous trout were disporting themselves.

"What a splendid place to fish!" said Shem, delightedly.

"Bully!" acquiesced Noah, who had lived on salt cod till he was tired of it; "but, dash it all, we've only got two worms!"—"Sporting Times."

Anxious mother—Tell me, doctor, is it a dangerous case? Physician—I fear it is. He has breakfastfooditis in an advanced stage.—"Judge."

TO THE SUFFERING.

The following testimonial may be read with interest to sufferers from skin eruptions or eczema:

January, [illegible], 1903.

Dear Sirs,—I notice your advt. in a paper about your wonderful eczema cure and I feel it my duty to tell you that I was induced to try it as I had been afflicted with skin trouble in my hands for 11 years. I have tried several doctors and they done my no good. I only used one box of Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema. It has made a complete cure. I recommend it to all suffering from skin disease. My hand was so bad that the nails used to come off. You can use my name if you wish.

Yours truly,
MR. JOHN WOOD,
Peake Station, P.E.I.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh is also one of the best remedies on the market. We are daily in receipt of letters telling how much they have done for the afflicted. Miss Sarah Hill, 413 Front Street, Traverse City, Mich., writes: "I have been wonderfully helped by the use of your catarrh cure; send me another dollar's worth."

Peter D. McFadyen, Riverdale, P.E.I., writes: "I am very busy, but just drop a line to say I highly recommend your catarrh cure. It has done grand work for me. I am so much better."

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, coughs, lame back, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years; the most stubborn cases will yield. For sale by Ormond & Walsh, Peterborough. 50c per box or 3 boxes for $1.25.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh and Dr Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $500 will be paid for any case that it will not permanently cure.

Black Hills Copper Company LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000
PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - - $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jerome mineral belt of Arizona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to day.

A limited amount of the Stock is new offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

Purchase the Treasury Stock of The Drake Mining Drainage and Tunnel Transportation Co.

OF COLORADO

The Company is capitalized at $2,000,000, consisting of 2,000,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock.

The Property

Consists of nine patented, well developed mines and mill sites, situated in Gilpin County, Colorado. This county has already produced more than

$80,000,000 in Gold

The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk on ore to a depth of 160 to [illegible] feet, and a tunnel run a distance of [illegible] feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to unwater and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation

The Colorado & Southern Railroad passes directly in front of the mouth of the tunnel. All ore can be dumped therefrom directly into the cars, giving quick and cheap transportation to the mills. Large returns have been paid from the product of these mines.

Sale of Preferred Stock

The company desires to not only push its development work and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own mill site at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ores. For that purpose it now offers for sale [illegible] shares of its Preferred Treasury Stock at [illegible] cents per share reserving the right to increase the price of all unsold shares thereof at any time without notice.

The Company pledges the whole net product of its mines to pay an eight per cent annual dividend on the sum paid for such stock, before any other stock receives any dividends whatever. After such dividends have been paid, the common stock shall receive a like dividend, when the surplus fund remaining shall be distributed among the common and preferred stock, share and share alike. All stock will be issued full paid and non-assessable.

THE ROSE OF THE RING

"There's no member of his family in existence with whom you could claim kindred."

"Himself?"

Marc laughed.

"He's a crusty old bachelor—a misanthrope; he shuts himself away and hardly ever sees anybody."

"Perhaps he was not always the same?"

"What a thoughtful little girl you are, Rosy! I have heard wild stories about Sir Felix. He used to be known as one of the most reckless betting men, but the 'turf' lost sight of him for some years. He went abroad and didn't return until he came into his present title. Since then he seems to have been an altered man, and none of his former associates care to go near him."

"He must be very lonely. Don't you ever go to him?"

"I can't say I have ever felt very partial towards him," Marc confessed, looking at Rosy, and then giving a few masterful strokes with his brush.

There was just the expression he wanted on her face, and he worked hard at the picture.

Rosy gave a deep sigh.

"I wish I belonged to Sir Felix Errol," she said, with the wistfulness that now and then crossed the sunshine of her nature. "Don't you think he would like to have me?"

"Well, I can't say, I'm sure. You wouldn't pass an enjoyable existence shut away with him."

"Is he rich?"

"Very—in worldly wealth."

"What do you mean by that?"

"He has a beautiful house to live in, wide lands, carriages and horses, and more gold than he could honestly spend in a lifetime."

"How splendid!" she exclaimed, her eyes growing bright as she pictured all this luxury. "I should like to be rich—I should like to have lovely dresses and drive in a carriage drawn by ponies, to go to balls, and have enough money to buy whatever I wanted—"

Marc interrupted her with a faint, whistling sound.

"You surprise me, Rosy—I thought you had a soul above gold."

"Above gold? Gold is everything. Without it you are cut off from everything that is beautiful, and tied down to what is ugly and common-place. You are simply a worm instead of a butterfly."

She was silent.

"There is something between the worm and the butterfly," he said, laying down his pallet and gravely watching her. "Take care your ambition does not lead you to follow the flight of the moth."

"The moth that burns itself in the candle flame and will not be kept back?"

He nodded; then, seeing the tears in her eyes he took one of her hands.

"Don't let me feel that I have made you sad," he said, looking at her with more tenderness than she had yet seen in his eyes. "You are the butterfly—as white as a tiny drift of snow in the sunshine—a butterfly only just unfolding its wings."

"Do you despise me because I long for riches?" she asked, laying her other hand over his.

"No; if I ever come into a fortune, you shall have as much money to spend as you like. I will share everything with you. Does that promise give you satisfaction?"

She looked at him wistfully.

"You would not think of me if you were rich. You would be like all the other grand people, and live in a world different from the one I am in."

"There you wrong me. I am an artist, and love best what is beautiful. To me a simple rose is sweeter than all the garish jewels wealth can purchase."

Before the picture of the "Rose Maiden" was finished there were many such conversations as this between the artist and his model.

The summer went, and Rosy had never seemed so happy in her life as since Marc had come to make one of Mrs. West's household.

He had said he preferred roses to riches. It was as well his tastes were not of a more mercenary nature.

It was easy to see it was sometimes a struggle for him to meet the small expenses incurred at Lilac Villa, and that he had to depend entirely on the sale of his pictures for his maintenance.

Rosy was his constant companion.

When she was not sitting for him she would creep into his studio and watch him at work, sometimes admiring his pictures, more often gazing adoringly at his handsome face, so full of earnest purpose.

If he dropped anything, if he turned to look for one of his colors, how quickly she would spring forward to give him what help lay in her power.

He was her god, at whose shrine she hourly worshipped.

Only to stay near, and look at him, was joy inexpressible to her.

"Let me do everything for you," she said to him, once, when he had remonstrated with her for making some trifling sacrifice on his account. "If you banished me from your room, I should never be happy again; it is sweet to do these things for you—I only wish it were in my power to do something greater to serve you."

There came a day in the early autumn when she stood sadly watching him prepare for his departure.

A letter had been forwarded to him from an old address.

Sir Felix Errol desired his presence at Drayton Court—a magnificent estate on the north-western coast of England.

"You will not stay for more than a week?" Rosy said, pleadingly. "I shall be lonely while you are away—I shall think of you night and day till you come back."

"You will not miss me any more than I shall miss you," he answered, laying his hand on her trembling fingers, as she knelt on the floor helping him fasten the straps of his portfolio; "your face will always be before me, and I shall picture you watching sometimes at the window for my return."

"If you would only leave your paints behind, it would not seem so bad. You are taking everything away, as if you were never coming back."

"I have so few belongings," he replied, glancing at the packages with an air of amusement. "I could not do without them, even for a week."

Rosy felt a longing to throw her arms around his neck and weep out her grief on his breast.

In spite of his cheery words, there was a heavy foreboding at her heart.

She felt that he was leaving her forever.

She heard the sound of wheels along the road, and her fortitude almost broke down; the cab had been hailed to convey Marc to the station.

Overcoming her tears, she drew her hand from his clasp, and finished buckling the straps.

"Is that my hansom?" Marc enquired, when the wheels had stopped in front of the house.

"Yes."

"I thought so," consulting his watch. "How time flies—I have only twenty minutes to get to the station. The man will have to drive hard, or I shall lose the train."

"I should not mind if you did," Rosy said, dolefully; "you would have to come back, then."

She felt as though all her earthly treasure was being taken from her, as she saw Marc's luggage lifted to the top of the cab—and then came the final farewell.

A Wonderful Dog.

They were talking about the almost human intelligence exhibited by dogs on some occasions, says The Washington Star. Several anecdotes had been related of the wonderful intellect of canines, when an army officer, who is connected with the cavalry arm of the service, stepped into the ring and squared himself for a good one. He is something of a sportsman and knows a good dog when he sees one, so that his story was listened to with more than usual interest by his friends:—"It was down in Texas several years ago that I came across the greatest dog I ever saw or heard of," he said. "The animal belonged to a friend of mine and was the greatest quail dog you ever saw. We have taken that dog out day after day and he would never go wrong, and would point quail in the most unlooked-for places. One day we were walking into town from the army post where I was stationed, this friend of mine and I, and we had the dog along. As we were walking along the road carelessly a well-dressed stranger passed us. No sooner had the man passed on than the dog stuck his tail in the air, and assumed the attitude recognized as 'pointing.' It was some time before we were able to determine what he was pointing, but finally came to the determination that he was pointing the stranger, which proved to be correct. We called to the man and asked him if he had any quail about him, or if he had eaten any quail, explaining why we asked. He said he had nothing of the kind, and did not remember having eaten any for some months. Turning to my friend, I said:

"'Your old dog has gone wrong.'

"'Not a bit of it,' he replied. 'That dog is right, and I'll bet you $10 he is.'

"I did not see then how the bet was going to be settled, but took it up anyway, and we continued on to town. We went to the biggest hotel in the place to get some refreshments, and there saw the stranger we had met on the road. My friend asked the clerk who the stranger was, and the clerk pointed to the register. As soon as my friend saw the name he gave a yell and called me to come over there.

"'Give me your money, my boy. That dog knew what he was doing when he pointed that man.'

"To satisfy myself I glanced at the register, and saw the stranger's name. It was 'Robert F. Partridge!' Truly that was the most wonderful dog I ever saw or heard of."

Items of Interest.

Nature's infinite variety is well illustrated in the collection of photographs of snow crystals made during the past 20 years by Mr. W. A. Bentley of Vermont. He has now more than 1,000 photographs of individual crystals, and among them no two are alike.

It will be good news to humanitarians who have been protesting against the feeding of snakes on live animals to learn that the authorities at the Zoological Gardens in London are now carrying out a suggestion recently made in the press, and are feeding the larger serpents with newly-killed rabbits and poultry instead of with live ones.

Trees are now to be felled by electricity. The modus operandi is as follows: A platinum wire, having been stretched out between two poles, is heated until it becomes incandescent. It is then drawn tight against the tree, through which it immediately proceeds to burn its way. It is said that a tree can by this process be felled in about one-eighth of the time it would take to saw it down.

Some time ago, according to a story in the Jewish "Chronicle," the Hungarian Jews in Chicago wrote to the chief rabbi of Pressburg, in Hungary, asking him to recommend an orthodox rabbi able to preach in their native language. Pressburg is a long way from Chicago, and it was too much to expect that a rabbi could drop across for a Sabbath to preach a trial sermon. That was where the phonograph showed its use. The recommended candidate spoke his best sermons, in his best German and Hungarian, into the instrument, and when the records were reproduced in Chicago they gave such delight that the preacher was elected at a handsome salary.

The little-grains-of-sand business has a commercial exemplification. English "drummers" do not take their meals with ordinary travelers at the hotels, but dine together in the "commercial room." The first-comer acts as president of the table. With the dessert, according to the "World's Work," a waiter passes around a plate on which each diner puts one penny—no more—for the support of the Orphans' School of the Travelers' Association. The money collected is counted by the president of the table, who enters the amount in a book kept for the purpose, and the innkeeper holds the collection until the proper official makes his quarterly visit. As the collection is taken up every day, in the commercial room of every hotel patronized by drummers the amount received in a year is large.

The Venom of Snakes.

The Carnegie Institute has granted $1,000 to the pathological laboratories of the University of Pennsylvania to aid in the investigation of snake poison which is going on there, says The New York Tribune. Upon lines that Dr. S. Weir Mitchell suggested, Dr. Simon Flexner and Dr. Hideyo Noguchi have been studying at the university for two years the venom of cobras, rattlesnakes and other poisonous reptiles. Highly interesting are the experiments that in the course of their work these two scientists have made. They believe that it is possible in time to discover for each kind of venom an antidote.

The choroforming of a snake and the extraction of its poison while it lies unconscious are an operation frequently performed and interesting to see. The snake is first seized with lasso about the middle. The lasso is a leather loop at the end of a stick like a broomstick, and the tightening of the loop holds the snake securely. After it is caught, its head is pinned down to a table with a notched stick that is pressed upon its neck. A tube one and one-half inches in diameter containing a sponge saturated with chloroform is slipped over the snake's head, as a glove is slipped over a finger, and soon the reptile is unconscious. An assistant then seizes it by the neck, and slips the edge of a saucer under its upper jaw in such a manner as to elevate the two fangs. These fangs now lie, as it were, upon the saucer. The operator takes them one at a time, between the thumb and forefinger of his right hand, and strips them forward—squeezes them, that is to say, from the base to the tip—and thus all their venom is extracted. This venom, yellow, and of the thickness of molasses, runs out upon the saucer, and it is gathered in a vial and sealed up.

In the experiments with live animals that the university carries, it is thought best to inject the venom hypodermically, rather than to allow the snake itself to do the injecting in the ordinary manner with its fangs, because a snake does not always strike effectively. Sometimes it fails to elevate its fangs sufficiently to inject into its victim more than a drop or two of venom. Sometimes it strikes fiercely and its teeth are actually fastened for a moment in the animal's flesh, but the fangs are doubled backward, and not a drop of venom is injected into the wound. Yet, to all appearances, the bite has been a terrible one, and an experimenter, administering to the wounded animal a certain antidote, would decide that this antidote was a marvellously potent one—would hold it to have cured the animal immediately—when, as a matter of fact, there would have been nothing the matter with the animal from the beginning.

On small animals the effect of a small dose of venom is almost immediately fatal. A pigeon, for instance, on receiving an injection of three or four drops, walks a few steps, crouches, gasps, rolls over on its side and in one or two minutes, sometimes in less than one minute, is stone dead.

On a larger animal, such as a dog, the poison does not act so powerfully. A thirty-one pound bull terrier was lowered into a rattlesnake's cage and was bitten on the right leg, near the thigh. The bite was a thorough one. The dog whined a little after it was drawn up, moped a while, and in fifteen minutes was so weak that it had to lie down. At the end of twenty-five minutes it could rise when bidden, though it was growing weaker. At the end of fifty minutes it had lost all power over its hind legs. At the end of eighty minutes its breathing was labored. At the end of three hours it was dead.

A man—one of the attendants—was bitten by a rattler at the university by accident. In a few minutes he became sick at the stomach and very weak. His face paled, a cold sweat broke out on him, his breathing was hurried, and his pulse feeble. This was the first stage of the attack, and in it the wound itself gave no pain. In the second stage—the stage of recovery—the wound was painful. The case of this man was typical. He was pulled through without trouble.

One experiment proves that the mechanism which controls the act of striking in the rattlesnake lies in the spinal cord. A snake's head was cut off, and then the physician's assistant pinched its tail. Instantly the neck darted back like lightning, and struck the man's hand a hard blow. This action has often been credited to the beheaded rattlesnake, but usually with a sceptical sneer. Professor Brewer, of Yale, claimed that years ago he was in California and had his tripod and other surveyor's instruments in the field. Stepping along in the bushes he felt a movement under his feet and found that he was standing on a four and one-half foot rattlesnake—a large, vicious and fighting fellow. But the snake was so pinioned that he could not strike the thick boot that held him fast. Professor Brewer held that rattlesnake's head down with his tripod and cut it off. Then he cut off his rattles. Stepping aside, he saw the body of the snake, partly coiled, lying very still. Taking out his rule to measure its length, the professor took hold of the serpent to straighten him out.

"Quick as an electric shock," said Professor Brewer, "that headless snake brought the neck over and struck a hard blow upon the back of my hand." He added: "I knew that his head was off and that he could not poison me, but that quick and hard blow of the rattler made my hair stand on end."

Did Not Want to Lend.

The late Henry G. Morse, President of the New York Shipbuilding Company, was one day visited by a man who wished to borrow money wherewith to launch a questionable enterprise. Mr. Morse gave some polite excuse for his unwillingness to lend, and the man declared that he regarded this excuse as somewhat fishy. Thereupon, smiling grimly, Mr. Morse said:—

"Let me tell you a little story. Once upon a time an Arab went to his neighbor and said:—

"'Lend me your rope.'

"'I can't,' said the neighbor.

"'Why can't you?'

"'Because I want to use the rope myself.'

"'What do you want to do with it?' the borrower asked.

"'I want to tie up five cubic feet of water with it,' was the reply.

"'How on earth,' the other sneered, 'can you tie up water with a rope?'

"'My friend,' said the neighbor, 'Allah is great, and he permits us to do strange things with a rope when we don't want to lend it.'"

Clever Men Are Ugly.

It is a curious subject for reflection that in any collection of clever men the majority are ugly, writes Mr. Henry Furniss in The Windsor Magazine, and supplies a little pen picture gallery of pen portraits to prove the point. "Nature," he says, "gave Edward George Earle Lytton Bulwer Lytton a face as long as the name he bore a name that might serve in point of length for a Spanish hidalgo'" His was certainly not the head of a precocious, brilliant, skilful, successful, aristocratic man of genius. Ireland has produced, for its size, a remarkable number of great men—soldiers, lawyers, scientists, clerics and orators—a number of handsome men, and a remarkable number of ugly ones. Baron Dowse was, perhaps, the ugliest. The day his caricature by Pellegrini appeared in Vanity Fair he ran out of the House of Commons and left London the same night—to remain away until it was forgotten. But it never can be forgotten, for it was true to the life. Another Irishman, the Most Rev. Dr. William Connor Magee, Bishop of Peterboro', afterwards Archbishop of York, known as the Chrysostom of the House of Lords, was one of the most eloquent preachers of the Victorian era, and a fine debater, and one of the most effective platform speakers of his day. Like the majority of eloquent men, he was ugly. His heavy eyebrows, small eyes, short nose, long upper lip, large mouth, massive jowl, and shaggy side whiskers, when represented in repose, produce the portrait of a gargoylish head.

COPETE MINING Co.

27 William Street, New York

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works, with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them ar—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company, which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now clear and undisputed title to all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

STOCK MARKETS

The following advices were received by Mr. J. Cummings & Co., 166 Simcoe street, over their private wire—

New York, October 17.—London—David Russell has failed. It is considered quite unimportant. Northern Pacific will become a permanent 7 per cent. dividend stock. Manhattan strike was likely. Situation in the far east was satisfactory. 6 roads net increase 16.8 per cent. in August. 45 roads first week August gross increase 8.36 per cent. 20 roads advance 2.09.

Chicago, October 17.—There was some selling of wheat on the better level yesterday but a good deal of weak longs head stuff was taken over during the day and in some quarters the statement is made that wheat is in a strong position at the present time. The cash situation continues very strong and the Northwest is bidding actively. The corn market was sold quite freely yesterday in a scattered way and a lot of corn was thrown over by professional interests. Sentiment in the corn market at the present moment is quite badly mixed.

New York, October 17.—There is excellent buying of Atchison, U. P., S. P., B. & O. and Eries. Unquestionably these will all work higher. Traders are still inclined to push against improvement, but the general short interest is monumental. S. Paul and N. Y. C. will be market leaders.

Items of Interest.

Gladys Deacon, "the American beauty," met with an extraordinary accident at Mrs. Adair's fancy dress ball the other night in London. A lady who was walking in front of her tripped, threw up her heels, and one shoe flew off, striking Miss Deacon sharply on the chin, causing a bad cut. At His Majesty's Theater, a few nights later, when Claude Lowther's play, "The Gordian Knot," was produced, Miss Deacon still had a plaster on her chin.

The French have found a reason for the popularity of the cake walk in Paris. The thing is French! One of the negroes at the Nouveau Cirque, interviewed by a Paris paper, says that the origin of the dance was French. According to this latest account, some of the French refugees from the court of Marie Antoinette introduced the minuet into New Orleans about the time of the Revolution, and it was the native imitation of the most fashionable dance in Europe that was afterward developed into the cake walk.

The Declaration of Independence is to be seen no more by the public, an order having been issued that henceforth the historic manuscript shall be kept under lock and key in a great fire and light-proof safe. This decision has been reached as the result of an examination of the document by a committee of the American Academy of Sciences, recently in session in New York, who acted at the instance of Secretary Hay, whose attention had been called to the sad state of the famous document. Most of the text of the Declaration is still legible, but only one or two of the signatures can be made out. There is only a trace of the autograph of John Hancock, the first to sign. The document from time to time will be photographed in order to measure as nearly as possible the result of the protective steps.

Chicago had to get along for over three weeks with soiled linen on account of the strike of thousands of laundry girls and men. Every union laundry in Chicago was closed. John Chinaman and a few scattered non-union laundries kept at work, but they could not begin to keep the city's clothes and household linen in order. Untidy collars and cuffs, soiled shirts and shirt-waists, spotted tablecloths and napkins were the rule in hotels and private homes. The old mammy of slavery days reaped a harvest. Some laundrymen, who thought to be shrewder than their fellows, fixed up great bundles of linen and shipped them to neighboring towns, thereby hoping to promote the neatness of their customers, but the union was on the alert. Wagons were followed to stations, the place of shipment ascertained, and the laundry-workers there notified that "scab" work was coming to them. In most cases these laundry employees refused to do the work, and the bundles were shipped back to Chicago.

A curious factor in a recent divorce suit is the modern "Breakfast Food" found upon so many tables. Mrs. Seccombe has brought suit against her husband, A. H. Seccombe, in San Bernardino Cal., for divorce. She alleges that for five years past he has forced her and his children to maintain life largely upon "health foods." She gives the following as the Seccombe bill of fare: Breakfast—Boiled rolled oats with milk, or granose flakes (wheat); an occasional soft-boiled egg; Zwelback and nut butter; occasionally carmel "cereal" (wheat coffee). Dinner—Zwieback and nut butter; beans boiled in salt water and baked; potatoes boiled with jacket; vegetables, in season boiled in salt and water; green fruit, in season; pudding, plain. Supper—Zwieback and nut butter; rice, boiled with milk; green fruit, in season. All meat prohibited; also coffee and tea. She alleges that this diet has been "scarcely sufficient to maintain life, and not sufficiently nutritious to maintain the family in health." She says that her husband persisted in discussing these foods and their merits at table, and in declaring repeatedly that "meat is poisonous."

THE CATTLE EMBARGO

Dominion Government Declines to Make Further Representations

Ottawa, Oct. 17—In the Commons on Friday Dr. Sproule quoted an alleged Boston despatch in a Toronto paper as to the resumption of reciprocity negotiations, and asked if the statements were authorized. Mr. Fielding declined to admit that the Government could be held responsible for the utterances of the newspaper correspondents. The Government's views on the Joint High Commission matter had been stated at the beginning of the session. The statement was simply an intimation that the resumption of the negotiations would be considered after the session.

The Walking Stick Trade.

In an article on "The Making of the Walking Stick," The Magazine of Commerce says that it will be a surprise to many to learn of what great importance and how far-reaching the trade has become. From the East and West Indies, Singapore, Java, China and many other eastern countries large numbers of sticks are derived. The products, however, from these parts of the world are chiefly those obtained from the bamboo and palm tribes, which include those commercially known as canes, malaccas, jambees, rattans, grugrus, partridges and various others; whilst, amongst English trees, we may mention oak, ash and chestnut as the chief. There is at the present time, and for some years past there has been, practically no limit to the kinds of material that can be turned to account for walking and umbrella sticks; indeed, to keep pace with the demand in the market for the constant supply of novelties, either natural or manufactured, there is always a keen lookout being kept for new materials or new designs. By new materials, or natural sticks, we mean those that come from forest or plantation, which have points to recommend them in the formation of knots, markings, or color of bark, twisted or curved, roots suitable for handles, or the hundred-and-one little peculiarities that nature so often assumes. So great and varied, indeed, are these demands that of late years the cultivation of certain kinds of sticks, solely for supplying the walking-stick market, has been carried on, on the continent as well as in this country.

An Entertaining Commission.

An amusing story is told of the late Phil May, the famous English cartoonist, and a conjurer at the fair at Stratford-on-Avon. Phil was in the crowd which had gathered to watch the very clever gentleman who was wrapping up sovereigns and half crowns in pieces of paper and selling them for 2 shillings. The "sharp" had a beautiful face—such a face as Phil May loved to draw. So he sketched him furtively. But the gentleman saw him, and made a speech forthwith: "If that there celebrited portrit painter with the tight breeches on will 'and up the picter, the equally celebrited benefactor to 'umanity wot is givin' away quids for coppers will reward him accordingly!" he shouted.

Phil, with a twinkle in his eye, handed up the drawing. The conjurer was delighted with the sketch, and pinned it to the tailboard of his cart. With another preliminary speech he threw three sovereigns and several half crowns into a piece of paper, screwed it up and handed it to the artist. "You'll be president of the bloomin' R'yal Academy some dye, young man," said he. "Here, catch!"

"A bargain's a bargain," said Phil, walking off with the packet of gold and silver.

He confessed afterward, when he opened the packet and found two pennies and a halfpenny in it, that it was the most entertaining commission he had ever been paid for.

Newspaper Circulation

Native newspapers have attained throughout China a circulation and an influence that fill the dynasty at Pekin with alarm. The more outspoken organs attribute much of the empire's misfortune to the fact that the Empress-Dowager has fallen under the control of Russia. Russia, according to these authorities, pursuing her traditional policy of coming down to warm water through Asia, absorbed China north of the great wall, thanks to a compact agreed to by the late Li Hung Chang, who in his simplicity imagined that the Czardom would be content to leave the Pekin dynasty in peaceful possession of the immense region south of the wall. But Li Hung Chang has passed away and Russia is daily securing a firmer hold on the forbidden side of the wonderful wall. Such are the fruits of the Empress-Dowager's policy, the immense wealth of that aged royalty figuring conspicuously in the category. Our ability to infer all this from the native press is the result of the enterprise of The Celestial Empire, a British paper published at Shanghai, which regularly publishes translations from the leading vernacular organs.—The Literary Digest.

A placer and two quartz claims;

Two partially developed quartz claims;

One-quarter section patented land adjoining above;

All located in the Susanville Mining District, Eastern Oregon. Will be sold together or separately Total price $9,000.

We consider this group of properties to be unusually promising as a heavy producing mine joins a portion of the land, and near-by placer grounds are showing up very rich.

AN EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY

FOR BOTH LARGE AND SMALL INVESTORS

Owing to valuable Patents having been granted this Company, we are desirous of extending our business to the Dominion of Canada. Owing to the Customs duties, the extra cost in transportation and the numerous expenses attached, and the delays in deliveries in shipping goods from one country to another, it is absolutely necessary that we should have a factory in the Dominion, that we may be in a position to meet the immediate wants of the business.

The articles that we make from our Patent Fabric are too numerous to mention, and it is not necessary that we go into the details of the merits of our goods, as they are already in use to a large extent and have no equal. Our goods are covered by several patents, and the profit on the goods is large, averaging from 25 to 100 per cent, thus affording the company large revenue to meet all its obligations

In order to secure funds to equip a plant in the Dominion of Canada we will offer to the people of Canada $100,000 of our Bonds paying ten per cent. interest per annum:

Experience has shown that stocks based upon sound industrial enterprises have never been equalled from the standpoint of legitimate profit. For instance, a few hundred dollars invested in the Bell Telephone Company's stock in the beginning of the enterprise now commands thousands of dollars, after having yielded large dividends annually. Of course opportunities for such profitable investments do not present themselves every day, and it is also very true that a vast amount of capital has been misdirected in the endeavor to exploit inventions and enterprises which shrewd and far seeing investors should have recognized as impractical. But as regards this enterprise even the most conservative must admit it has possibilities of development which are almost incalculable and which have already been demonstrated in a practical manner. We have no speculative elements—this is a sound business proposition, and the patents which we own are worth several million dollars, as there can only be one fabric of this kind and that is ours.

All the above facts are simple statements of the truth and can be fully substantiated to the satisfaction of all investors.

The business is no experiment, the incorporators of this Company have made it their business for a great many months past and understand all the details, the prospects are therefore bright, and brighter than those of many other opportunities.

This Company is not a promotors company, every dollar goes to enhance the value of the property and business and increase the capacity. There is nothing speculative in this proposition, the enterprises are undertaken for industrial purposes only to make profits by the operation and development of the business.

Considering that the enterprise is already upon an established basis with a certainty of profitable future expansion, we feel warranted in the assertion that this is an attractive proposition to investors whether large or small.

The price of these Bonds are one dollar each, and will be issued in any number wanted. With every purchaser of each five Bonds we will give as a bonus, one share of stock of the Company, the par value of which is five dollars per share, thus assuring interest on the investment, and with the stock which is bound to increase you will have for nothing. These Bonds will be issued for five years. Persons desiring to avail themselves of this opportunity want to send their remittance at once.

First Class Mining Proposition.

The Anaconda Gold Mining Co.

Home Office: 412 Merchants Loan and Trust Bldg.
135 Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

This is one of the best propositions ever placed before the Canadian investor. The Company owns 600 acres in the celebrated Black Hills District, South Dakota, comprising 32 claims. The tract is unquestionably on the great Homestake belt, being located directly between the wonderful Homestake mine and the Clover Leaf mine. Two shafts have already been sunk, the main one being down 154 feet, with capacity of going 1000 feet. The Company has also installed an Ingersoll-Sargeant air compressor and drills, 125 horse power boiler, steam pumps, and in fact everything needed for actual operation, with the exception of its stamp mills; which will be installed at once. The vein of gold-bearing quartz traversing the Company's property is very rich. Assays have run from $8 to $54.[illegible] per ton.

The Company has a capital of 1,500,000 shares, divided into 750,000 preferred and 750,000 common, par value $1 per share, fully paid up and non-assessable. The treasury stock has been made preferred stock to the amount of 25 cents a share. Out of the first dividends 25 cents per share will be paid to the owners of this preferred stock before holders of common stock receive any share of the profits. After the 25 cents has been paid to the shareholders of preferred stock, then all alike share in the dividends. (This means nothing less than that the first investors in the enterprise will have all their money returned to them before any dividends are declared to the rank and file o investors.

THE ANAEMIC YOUNG GIRL

Easily Noticed by Her Blanched Cheeks, Bloodless Lips and Dull Eye

Perhaps she is sixteen. Suddenly she seems to lose strength. Her beauty fades because her vitality is steadily decreasing. Dark circles appear under the eyes which become listless and dull. Her spirits droop, for no girl can be contented and happy in such condition.

This may be quickly corrected by taking Ferrozone. It supplies what is lacking in the blood, purifies and strengthens it, and keeps it in perfect order. Ferrozone makes plenty of red corpuscles that manifest themselves in a healthy ruddy complexion. It aids the stomach to do all its work, and creates a natural healthy relish for food.

Every organ of the body is benefited by Ferrozone. It rebuilds the entire system, makes new tissue, strengthens weak flabby muscles, makes thin people fat and sick people well.

No case of Anaemia is too chronic for Ferrozone. It may take time, but if persistently used will cure in the end. It will give you a well developed form, clear complexion, pure breath and will restore the bloom to faded cheeks and color to the lips more quickly than any other remedy.

Every woman who desire a vigorous constitution, and the good looks that come with good health, should take Ferrozone after each meal regularly. It is a wonderful tonic for the brain, the nerves and the blood, and acts also as an efficient but harmless regulator of the menstrual flow. In fact for all diseases peculiar to women and growing girls, Ferrozone has no equal as your druggist can tell you.

Three weeks treatment costs 50c., or three boxes for $1.25. Sold by druggists and dealers in medicine everywhere, or sent by mail if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS

DASHES HERE AND THERE BY TIMES' REPORTERS

At Home

Under the auspices of Court Queen, No. 276, I.O.F., in the Forester's Hall, Simcoe street, on Friday evening, Oct. 23d, at 8 o'clock. Keep this date open and everybody come.

Park St Baptist Church

The B.Y.P.U. will receive a visit from the Charlotte street League this evening. They will come in a body in charge of the President, bringing their programme of music and addresses. All young people are welcome.

House to House Visitation

Nearly two hundred workers have sent in their names to the Committee for the house to house visitation under the auspices of the local Sabbath School Association. It is expected that when all the churches are heard from there will be the complete number asked for by the committee, viz., two hundred and fifty.

Another Horse Stolen

The Times is requested to state that a horse was stolen from the premises of Mr. Wm. Rutherford, South Monaghan, on Thursday last. The animal is three years old, 16 hands high, and has a bright strip in the face. Both hind feet are white, half way up to the knees, and one front foot is white. The mane and tail are black and the mare is not shod or broken.

School of Practical Science

On Saturday next the school of practical Science, Toronto, will run an excursion to Peterborough. A special vestibuled train will arrive at ten a.m., carrying, it is expected, about 300, consisting of the faculty and students in engineering of Toronto University and their friends. On their arrival here the party will inspect the lift lock, as well as the leading industries of the town.

Will Open in Brantford

On Saturday last a despatch from Brantford stated that the sale was effected on Friday of the plant and premises of the Farmers' Co-operative Co. to Matthews & Son, of Peterborough. The property has been held for some time by the bank. The Matthews Co. will have a strictly modern house in Brantford, and expect to enjoy the same prosperity which they have been experiencing elsewhere.

MARRIED

ALLEN—FAUSETT—At the home of the officiating clergyman, the Rev. R. Macknight, B.A., Peterborough, on Wednesday, Oct. 14th, 1903, Hugh Allen, to Mrs. Eleanor Augusta Fausett, daughter of the late John Pipgrass and widow of the late William Fausett, both of Harvey Township.

A Good Suggestion

Bobcaygeon Independent: Mr. Charles Fairbairn, our County Councillor, has been away this week, with a deputation of the Council making inspection of a number of County Houses, as the County has decided to establish one, the new Act, indeed, making it imperative. Peterborough has also to provide one, and it would be much in the interests of economy if the two counties had a joint one. It is understood that the Mero House, on Fairbairn's Hill is for sale, and it would make a very suitable property, healthily situated, pretty well large enough for immediate needs, of first class construction, and located favorably for the two counties to unite upon.

A Powerful Speaker

On Sunday last Rev. Mr. Langfeldt preached in Orillia, and the Packet has the following to say about it:—"Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, of Peterborough, preached in St. James' church on Sunday both morning and evening. His sermons were of quite unusual power. His morning exposition on "The Doctrine of Individual Responsibility," was masterly in the fullest and highest sense of word. It was based on the text "Every man must bear his own burden," and set forth evangelical truth with exceptional depth of thought and force of logic. His evening discourse also was characterized by eloquence that comes from a thorough knowledge and careful observances of the niceties of the English language."

Postal Clerk Arrested

On Thursday last, after 22 years of faithful service, a railway postal clerk named B. D. Kelly, who attends to the mail on the Midland Division of the G.T.R. between Toronto and Midland, was arrested for robbing the mails. For some time past the postal authorities at Toronto have been receiving complaints that money sent in letters has not reached its destination. Tracers have been sent to the various post offices, from which came the enquiries, but no track of the letters was ever got after they had left their original starting point. The police were notified and Detectives Davis and Cuddy met the Midland train at the Union station. Kelly was just stepping from the railway coach when the detectives walked up to him and advised him of their mission. He was taken to police headquarters, and six dollars found on him. He said nothing as to his innocence or guilt, but expressed the utmost surprise at his arrest, and his questioning was not stopped till the charge was formally made at the police station.

The Annihilation of Distance

How much nearer to each other the nations of the world seemed to be to-day and really are to-day than was the case a few decades ago! When weeks and months were required for communications between the United States and Europe the countries of the old world appeared to be a long way off. Now the circumference of old earth is belted with telegraph and cable lines in every possible direction. What happens to-day in Europe, Asia, Africa, Australia, South America and the great islands of the sea is made known to us to-morrow by great newspapers like The Chicago Record-Herald, whose foreign correspondents are located in every important city in the world outside of the United States. In addition to its own staff correspondents The Record-Herald enjoys the foreign news service of the New York Herald, famous for many years for the reliability of its foreign news; the New York World, and also of that great co-operative news-gathering association, the Associated Press. No other daily newspaper in America possesses facilities so varied and extensive for covering the news of —Mr. James Campbell, of Toronto, is visiting his brother, Mr. A. Campbell, of town.

—Mrs. David Fraser, of Norwood, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Bertram, of Smith.

—Mr. J. F. Grave and the Misses Henliry, of Toronto, and Mrs. McCunn, of Lindsay, spent Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Shook, town.

—Messrs. George Rickerby and Herb. Sullivan, of Queen's Medical College, are spending Thanksgiving vacation with their parents.

SPOILED CHILDREN

Usually Makes Sickly Men and Women

The "spoiled" child usually makes a weak, sickly man or woman, because such a youngster has its own way about diet and eats and drinks things that are unfitted for any stomach and sickness results.

"I was always a delicate spoiled child and my parents used to let me drink coffee because I would cry for it," says a Georgia young woman. "When I entered school my nervousness increased and my parents thought it was due to my going to school so they took me out again. headaches got worse and weakened me. But I did not get any better and my so that I was unfit for any duty. Sometimes I would go a whole day without any other nourishment than a cup of coffee.

"Last spring I had a bad attack of the Grippe, and when I recovered I found that coffee nauseated me so I could not drink it, and even a few swallows would cause a terrible burning in my stomach. It was at this time that a friend who had been much benefited by the use of Postum suggested that I try this food drink. I found it simply delicious and have used it ever since and the results speak for themselves. I have gained 13 pounds and my nerves are as steady as any one's.

"I consider myself well and strong and I made it a point now to take a cup of Postum with a cracker or two as soon as I come home from school in the afternoon. Postum with crackers or a biscuit makes my luncheon. It certainly saved me life, for I know coffee would have killed me in time had I continued drinking it.

"I have a young girl friend, a stenographer, who declares nothing strengthens and refreshes her like Postum and she has a little oil stove in her office and makes a cup of Postum at noontime. I have recommended this wonderful beverage to many of my friends who know what it has done for me." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

ANOTHER DROWNING ACCIDENT

An American named Hitchins Drowned in Rice Lake

A drowning accident occurred at Rice Lake on Thursday last, by which a member of a duck shooting party from Rochester named Joseph Hitchins, was the victim. The accident occurred off Shearer's Point. It appears the unfortunate man stood up in his boat to discharge his gun, when he fell overboard. A companion attempted to save him, as he rose to the surface, but was unsuccessful. The body had not been found by the searching party up to Saturday night.

INCIDENTS OF THE DAY

—The schools re-open today after Thanksgiving vacation.

—Hundreds of persons viewed the lift lock yesterday notwithstanding the moisture.

—The C.P.R. requires thousands of men to work on the new lines of railway which they are constructing.

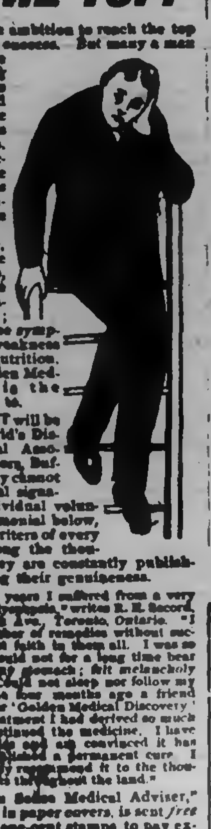
—Trooper Brace recited his experience in the arctic regions at the Y. M.C.A. yesterday to a large audience.

—The steamers Rainbow, Water Lily and North Star came up from Rice Lake ports on Saturday with large numbers of passengers.

—The County Council will meet on Thursday next and inspect the new bridge at Gannon's Narrows. The party will drive to Chemong, where they will embark on Mr. Kelly's boat to the Narrows.

—St. John's Young Men's Guild will meet on Monday evening, November 2nd, when some prominent man will address the Guild. There is considerable interest being taken in this new society in connection with the church.

AT THE TOP.



It is a laudable ambition to reach the top of the ladder of success. But many a man who reaches the topmost rung finds his position a torment instead of a triumph. He has sacrificed his health to success.

A man can succeed and be strong if he heeds Nature's warnings. When there is indigestion, loss of appetite, ringing in the ears, dizziness, spots before the eyes or palpitation of the heart; any or all of these symptoms point to weakness and loss of nutrition. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the medicine to turn to.

$3,000 FORFEIT will be paid by the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Proprietors, Buffalo, N. Y., if they cannot show the original signature of the individual volunteering the testimonial below, and also of the writers of every testimonial among the thousands which they are constantly publishing, thus proving their genuineness.

"For about two years I suffered from a very obstinate case of dyspepsia," writes R. E. Secord, Esq., of 13 Hatherly Ave., Toronto, Ontario. "I tried a great number of remedies without success. I finally lost faith in them all. I was so far gone that I could not for a long time bear any solid food in my stomach; felt melancholy and depressed. Could not sleep nor follow my occupation. Some four months ago a friend recommended your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' After a week's treatment I had derived so much benefit that I continued the medicine. I have taken three bottles and am convinced it has in my case accomplished a permanent cure. I can conscientiously recommend it to the thousands of dyspeptics throughout the land."

The "Common Sense Medical Adviser," 1008 large pages in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

A BAD GANG

A Round Up of Young Thieves Made by Police

On Saturday morning Ed. Scully, Ed. Sheppard, Wm. Connors, Fremie LePlante and Thomas Jones pleaded guilty to the charge of stealing merchandise from C.P.R. cars during the past three months, the last offence being committed on October 4th, on which occasion the seal of a car was broken, and tobacco and whiskey stolen. It is estimated that during the summer goods to the value of $200 have been appropriated presumably by the gang who pleaded guilty on Saturday.

The ringleader has not yet been arrested. His name is known, as is that of several others connected with the robbery, and it is believed that others will find their way to the gaol before long. The prisoners, all young men, were remanded for one week. The matter has been in the hands of Mr. Samuel Wright of the C.P.R. and the local police, to whom much credit is due for the capture.

CURED.

If you have transgressed against the laws of nature, you must suffer. Self abuse, later excesses and private diseases have wrecked thousands of promising lives. Treat with scientific physicians and be cured. Avoid quacks. E. A. Sidney, of Toledo, says: "At the age of 14, I learned a bad habit and at 19 contracted a serious disease. I treated with a dozen doctors, who all promised to cure me. They got my money and I still had the disease. I had given up hope when a friend advised me to consult Drs. K. & K., who had cured him. Without any confidence I called on them, and Dr. Kennedy agreed to cure me or no pay. After taking the New Method Treatment for six weeks I felt like a new man. The drains ceased, wormy veins disappeared, nerves grew stronger, hair stopped falling out, urine became clear and my sexual organs vitalized. I was entirely cured by Dr. Kennedy and recommend him from the bottom of my heart."

British Columbia and United States Comments Upon the Reported Decision Against British Contentions

Why Macedonia Rebels

London, October 20.—The correspondent of the Post says: So far as mere outrage and excess go, there is probably not much to choose between the Bulgarian Komitadji and Turkish irregular. The whole land is savage. Brute slaughter and rapine appear everywhere. It is easy to make a case for either side. The worst excesses are undoubtedly by Moslems. Nothing can exaggerate, and no words that can be printed can describe, the woe and horror of the past six months in Macedonia from Turkish oppression has this about it that breeds madness. There is a righteous insanity which oppression must breed if freedom is to be won. Given Russian policy as it now stands, and there is no prospect in any course but the hopeless struggle into which the best of young Bulgaria has flung itself headlong, as though life were the least of earth's goods. Turkish administration has suffered the loss which afflicts all things Turkish under the present Sultan. Much once escaped the old rude methods. As the machine improves it grinds the more mercilessly. The Macedonian farmer pays a tithe of 12 1-2 per cent., an imperial tax of 15, and faces an export duty of 8 per cent., 3 1-3 per cent. in all. Head tax, license, road taxes—with no roads—and all the various imposts, from 35 to 45 per cent. of the produce of labor, are swept into the gardener's or, worse, tax-farmer's hands. Heavy taxes exist in all continental Europe, witness Italy; but at least there is legal security. In Turkey, while there is peace and much prosperity for many, and a steady growth of wealth and population, there is never security. This oppresses like a nightmare. More than once, I have seen the immigrant from Turkey in this country who there had enjoyed some ease, position and wealth, and who here was vainly struggling for a bare, hard livelihood, and, when I spoke of the contrast, have been instantly told that this was a small price to pay for the mere sense of security under law and freedom from arbitrary power.

London, October 19.—Mr. Elihu Root, one of the United States commissioners on the Alaskan Tribunal, denies the Associated Press report and says they have come to neither a verbal or any other kind of decision.

Lord Alverstone on Friday called for additional particulars, which were submitted today.

Mr. Sifton has just informed me that there will be no report until noon tomorrow.

Mr. Lower, secretary of the Alaskan Commission, says the statements published in the American newspapers are mere guesses.

Today the King at 12 o'clock received Messrs. Root, Lodge and Turner and at 12.15 the King received Mr. Aylesworth, Sir Louis Jette and Lord Alverstone.

THE UNITED VERSION.

London, October 19.—After a brief secret session this morning the Alaskan boundary Commissioners drove to Buckingham Palace, where they were received by King Edward, who had previously been informed of the terms of the agreement reached by the Tribunal.

The Alaskan decision will not be publicly given out before tomorrow.

There is, however, but little doubt that the decision practically grants all the contentions of the United States, except that the Portland Canal goes to Canada. The new boundary line will definitely fix the division of American and British territory, on such a basis that no American citizen will lose a foot of land he already believed he held, while the United States will get all the waterways to the rich Alaskan territory, with the exception of the Portland Canal, which gives Canada the other outlet.

The Alaska Boundary Commission will have one more meeting. It will be a private one, and will be held at noon tomorrow, at the Foreign Office. At that time and place the arbitration decision, which was verbally agreed upon Saturday, and which today has been affirmed, will be read.

How The Thing Was Done.

The dispute was only settled after a week of keen, trying, secret deliberation between the arbitrators.

Even up to noon on Friday there was an acute possibility that a disagreement might result and the whole proceeding fall to the ground.

Lord Alverstone, though openly inclined to believe in the justice of the American argument that the United States are entitled to the heads of the inlets, as contained in question five, held out that Canada had established her case in questions two and three, dealing with the Portland Canal.

After luncheon on Friday Senator Lodge, Secretary Root and Senator Turner agreed to cede these points and to start the American boundary line from the head of the Portland Canal, thus giving the Canadians that channel and some small islands, on which there are only a few disused storehouses.

This accomplished, the majority of the Tribunal agreed to fix, with this exception, the entire boundary as outlined in the American case.

Whether Mr. Aylesworth or Sir Louis Jette, the Canadian Commissioners, will refuse to sign the decision and make it unanimous is not yet known, but it will not affect the validity of the agreement if a minority report is submitted.

THE CANADIANS ASTONISHED.

London, Oct. 19.—The Canadian Commissioners on the Alaskan Boundary Tribunal are astonished at matters in connection with the private conference leaking out and being cabled to New York. The Canadian Commissioners and every official connected with Canada, although importuned on Saturday to express an opinion, positively refused, as they declared the Commissioners were solemnly pledged not to divulge the private proceedings. The leakage is attributed to the American Commissioners. Messrs. Sifton and Aylesworth, and Sir Louis Jette, when interviewed by the correspondent of the Canadian Associated Press on Sunday evening, again refused to speak. A formal announcement of the decision is expected today.

The Birmingham Daily Post today says it should like to think that the Associated Press had been misinformed as to the decision of the Alaskan Tribunal.

The Express says the Alaskan Boundary Commission furnishes a good occasion for sermons in the score of copybook maxims regarding the importance of thoroughness in all things. If the decision goes against Britain it will not be the first time that Canada has lost territory owing to the carelessness of British surveyors.

The Daily Telegraph, assuming the correctness of the Alaska despatch, says that "the failure of the Commission to agree would have been a disaster to Great Britain, the United States, and Canada. A blow would have been dealt to the policy, still frail and in its tender infancy, of referring differences of this character to judicial tribunals. No attempt should be made to reckon up the scores on either side. Unless the verdict is accepted in good faith by both sides the principle of arbitration is assailed at its base. It is better for the Empire and Canada that Great Britain and the United States should live on terms of cordial friendship than that in every frontier dispute Canada should get the better of the Republic. The Pacific is not only an American but a Canadian ocean, and it is essential that cooperation by all branches of the Anglo-Saxon race should be exempt from jealousy in view of the tremendous problems there."

The Standard says: "Whether the American information is shrewd guesswork or not, the talk about a victory for the United States may prove not entirely justified. Each side, broadly speaking, gets in essence what it wanted, though Canada does not obtain access through the heads of inlets already under American jurisdiction. The American statements are framed in an unjudicial way and are inaccurate geographically. A mere concession or loss of land along a partly imaginary range is of small importance to the Dominion so long as she gets a satisfactory waterway and her vessels are not subject to foreign tolls."

The Daily Mail says: "The rumored decision of the Alaskan Boundary Commission should be received with hesitation. If it is true that the Commission has surrendered to the United States every claim that Canada advanced its action is the most serious blow to the progress of arbitration delivered in many years. The sole concession said to have been made to Canada is an aggravation of the whole affair. If it is true that Canada's claim to access to deep tidal water north of Port Simpson has been refused the result may be serious."

The Daily Chronicle says: "If the decision on the Alaskan boundary proves as reported, it means a practical victory for the United States all along the line. Canada's loss would be the territorial control of the Lynn Canal, which gives access to Skaguay, Dyea and the Chilkoot country. Canada would be injuriously affected in her privileges for the passage and coasting privileges within the area indicated, and to and from the Pacific Ocean."

"TO-MORROW," SAYS SIR WILFRED.

Ottawa, Oct. 19—Before the orders of the day were called in the House this morning, Mr. Haggart asked if the Government had received any information regarding the Alaskan Boundary Commission.

"We have no official information upon this question," replied Sir Wilfrid Laurier. "It is expected, however, that an award upon the reference will be made to-morrow."

Lieut-Col. H. S. Greenwood, resident engineer of the Transvaal Government Railway at Johannesburg, and who has charge of the work of locating and marking the graves of the Canadian soldiers who fell in the Boer War, is in the city, and a guest of the Hon. Mr. Justice Osler.

To a reporter of The News this morning Lieut-Col. Greenwood stated that no great difficulty was being met with in the work of locating the graves of the Canadian soldiers. The majority of the crosses and stones which had been of the dead inscribed thereupon were still in position, and had not been defaced in any sense of the word. The work at present was being carried on by a staff, who were giving their services voluntarily, and the work of the Loyal Woman's Guild, of South Africa, and of the Canadian Association at Kimberley, was worthy of the highest praise. The work of placing the stones would necessarily take considerable time, but no difficulties were anticipated.

Speaking of the Government Railways in the Transvaal, and the Orange River Colony, Col. Greenwood stated that they were a paying undertaking, having made a net profit last year of $2,000,000. The rates were, of course, high, the passenger rates being 4 cents a mile, and the freight rates accordingly. It was proposed to build 1,100 miles of new railway just as soon as the labor difficulties were settled, as it was impossible at present to obtain workmen, owing to the dearth of the supply. These new roads would open up many new sections of territory. Another innovation was the constructing of sidings to the mouths of the pits of the mines, for the purpose of hauling the coal direct from the coal mines to the gold mines. Some work was being done on the extension of the Cape to Cairo Railway from Buluwayo north, and it was likely that the road would be built to Victoria Falls on the Zambesi River, the enormous power of which was expected to be harnessed and developed.

The labor problem was the most conspicuous public question today in South Africa. There were about 90,000 blacks at work who received wages of 12.50 and board per month, but the supply of workmen was not sufficient, and as a consequence many needful works could not be carried out. Lord Milner, who had given great attention to the question had, in a public letter, before leaving South Africa, stated that Chinese labor would not be brought in unless absolutely necessary.

Prices of food and rent were high in South Africa, said Col. Greenwood, and he believed the laborer and skilled artisan did just as well in Canada.

Lieut.-Col. Greenwood served in South Africa with the Royal Canadian Dragoons.

Has Urged Extension of Their Foreign Scheme

Great Britain's Proposals Approved of by Russia and Austria, Embodied in Joint Note

London, Oct. 17— A Parliamentarian paper has been issued dealing with the Macedonian affairs during the past month. It shows that on September 15 Lord Lansdowne urged upon the Austrian and Russian Governments an extension of their foreign scheme, including the appointment of a Christian Governor, or the retention of a Mussulman Governor assisted by European assessors, the withdrawal of the undisciplined regulars and reverses the despatch of the military attaches of the powers to accompany the Turkish forces, and some system of relief for the victims.

On October 5th the Austrian and Russian Governments informed Lord Lansdowne that his suggestions accorded the views of the Czar and Emperor Francis Joseph, and they would be embodied in the joint note to the Porte decided on at the imperial conference at Muerzsteg.

SUN STORMS CAUSE TALK

Prof. Brashear's Discovery Interests Boston Scientists

Boston, October 20.—Local meteorologists are interested in the statement of Prof. John A. Brashear, chancellor of the Western University of Pennsylvania, and director of the Allegheny Observatory, that one of the largest spots has appeared on the sun in recent years is now visible to the naked eye. The particular spot is said by Brashear to be nearly 100,000 miles in length with an average width of 25,000 miles. Approximately its area is 12 times that of the earth. Prof. Brashear holds that indicates great solar storms.

Prof. Pickering, of Harvard, says he does not believe the reported predictions that these unusual spots will bring about "13 years of bad weather."

"It may be," he says, "that this spot may cause magnetic conditions to change and bring about electric storms which will affect the telegraph and telephone unusually, but outside of an unusual number of these storms I do not look for any general disturbance of weather conditions."

Peace with America

London, Oct. 17.—Louis Sinclair M.P., Joint Honorary Secretary of the House of Commons' Commercial Committee, said today in reference to the Anglo-French arbitration treaty that the committee's next work would be to arrange an arbitration committee with the United States.

RUSSIA INTENDS TO REMAIN IN CHINA.

Americans Are Hot Over Bears Duplicity

The U. S. May Interfere, Feeling that Britain and United States Should Help Japan

New York, October 20.—At the meeting of the American Asiatic Association today the report of the secretary, John Foord, laid emphasis on the Manchurian situation, stating that, in defiance of agreement, the foreign administration of the port of New-Chwang, with all its injurious consequences to American trade and the occupation by Russia of the eastern provinces, was still in force.

"The nature of the demands formulated as conditions precedent to withdrawal," the report went on to say, "suggests that they have been purposely made impossible of acceptance in order to justify a continued occupation.

"The time has evidently come for the government and people of the United States to recognize and accept the full measure of their responsibility in dealing with this question.

AMERICAN RIGHTS IN DANGER.

"That the substitution of Russian for Chinese sovereignty in Manchuria simply means the beginning of the partition of the Chinese Empire does not admit of doubt; that the United States have nothing to gain, but very much to lose, from the division of China among the great powers of Europe needs no demonstration. The question immediately before our government is the preservation of an open market for American products in Manchuria, and it has been intimated that so long as treaty with China, are respected by the power in possession, we can have no ground for effective protest.

"But the Manchurian market, existing potential, important as it is, must be reckoned as constituting but a small part of the field for the sale of our products presented by the Chinese Empire. If the future of the greater market depends absolutely, as your committee believes it does, on the process of the dismemberment of that empire being peremptorily arrested and Russia being compelled to abide by the solemn stipulations on this point, which she has nowhere made so copiously as in Washington, then our government is face to face with a larger and graver question than that of the security of the open door for commerce in Manchuria.

ASSURANCES OF LITTLE WORTH.

"The fact must be recognized that if all these stipulations are to be disregarded at the pleasure or the caprice of the power which offered them, that power must be deemed unworthy of further confidence or belief and any assurances made by her in regard to the fredom of American trade in Manchuria must be considered as worthless as those which preceded them."

In this connection the report held that Vladivostock had in defiance of assurances of the Russian minister become a closed port.

Mr. Foord declared that this government must act now with unmistakable decision if its interests in Eastern Asia are to be held worthy of action.

THE PROTESTANT NUN

Sister Magdalene Released on Suspended Sentence

Niagara Falls, Ont., Oct. 19 —Another, and perhaps the strangest of all the chapters in the weird, fantastic story of the life of Magdalene Keefer—Sister Magdalene—the "Protestant nun,"— has closed, and in a way that no one anticipated.

Magdalene Keefer, confessedly guilty of child-stealing, and liable under the criminal code to five years' imprisonment, is again a free woman.

Readers of The Times are conversant with all the details of the woman's crime and flight, of the recovery of the child and finally the capture of the woman and her plea of "guilty." It will be remembered that on Oct. 9 Police Magistrate Cruikshank remanded the prisoner for eight days before pronouncing sentence. Since that time the police have been following up every thread in the tangled skein until now the whole is woven into a complete fabric and the woman's life story is complete.

A vein of insanity runs through the whole tale. The madness seems to have attacked her at intervals, and to have taken many forms.

Police Magistrate Cruikshank was in an embarrassing position. The woman had committed a crime, but there is grave doubt whether she had any intention of doing wrong. Her own story was that she thought she had a right to take the child. Her peculiar mental make-up was evidently responsible for her action, yet it was doubtful if any examining surgeon would consider her insane enough to be admitted to an asylum.

The eighth day of the remand had arrived and the fate of the prisoner was still unsettled, when the solution of the difficulty arrived in the person of Mrs. John Lenfesty, a sister of the prisoner. Mrs. Lenfesty is a widow and lives in Strathroy.

She had a long talk with the Magistrate and offered to take her sister in charge. She would care for her, watch her and keep her from the follies suggested by her deranged intellect. The offer seemed good and an officer was despatched to the county jail for the prisoner.

"Sister Magdalene," as she insists on being called, was quite as calm and collected in the presence of her sister, and the Magistrate as on previous occasions. She was quite willing to go with her sister, but expressed no great satisfaction at the chance of escaping imprisonment.

After full discussion the arrangement was agreed to by all parties, and the prisoner was released on suspended sentence. She gave the Magistrate several messages for her acquaintances in Fort Erie, including the mother of the child. The sisters left on a midnight train for Mrs. Lenfesty's home in Strathroy.

General Sports

In the opening game of the Intercollegiate League on Saturday, Varsity beat McGill last year's champions at Montreal, by 7—4. McPherson, formerly of town, played on Varsity's half-back line.

In the Quebec Union on Saturday Ottawa College beat the Brits, of Montreal, by 16—4.

The Brittainas and seniors had a practice last night on the T.A.A. grounds.

All Saints have changed their team materially for their next game. Thornton, who made his first appearance in the game on Saturday with the Brittainas made a favorable impression and will be tried on the wing in the next game. Ernie Ford, who was unable to play on Saturday, has returned from his home in Belleville, and expects to figure in the next game. His absence on Saturday unbalanced the team considerably. Ford is considered one of the strongest players in the League. Other changes which will strengthen the team have been made and things will be made much more interesting for the Brittainas and Rough Riders.

San Francisco, Oct. 17—The Shamrocks, of Montreal, and a team from Vancouver, here today for the lacrosse championship of the world. The Shamrocks won 7 to 1.

Jim Jeffries in Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 17—Champion James J. Jeffries, fresh from the winds of Old and New Mexico, arrived here with Joe Kennedy yesterday. He is on his way to New York, where he may appear before the footlights with or without the company of J. J. Corbett.

"I will quit the ring unless some white fighter comes to the front pretty soon to dispute the title," said Jeffries by the way of an opener at Hotel Stratford last night. "I won't fight colored boxers. I am going to stick to the color line. There is no one else to fight. Fitzsimmons? No I don't think so. I don't think he would like to meet me, anyway.

"I am in tiptop shape, and could fight on short notice, but I don't think I will be seen in the ring in a hurry. After the last fight I started to go through the wildest parts of the West, and I did. I floated down the Colorado River to the Gulf of California, then invaded Mexico, and saw a good deal of that country."

KEEPING CLOSE WATCH ON EASTERN SITUATION

Washington Government Well Posted on the Big Game Russia is Playing

FIGHTING STRENGTH OF RUSSIA AND JAPAN

The War Feeling Throughout Japan at a Very High Ebb, Large Transportatoin of Troops Daily

London, October 20.—Latest advices from the East states that the war fever in Japan is increasing, and it will be difficult for the Government to prevent a conflict, even if they were inclined; which they are not.

Washington, October 20.—In spite of repeated assurances from the various departments of the Government that in no manner foreseen can the United States become involved in the threatened war between Russia and Japan over Manchuria and Korea, it is a significant fact that the military form bureaus of both the army and Navy were never more busy than at the present time.

It is admitted by Secretary Moody, at least, that this Government is fully informed of the situation, and that the Asiatic squadron, although it sailed this week for a more favorable winter cruise in the South, is still watching developments in and around Port Arthur and Korean waters.

Army officers are no less observant, and even the State Department is adding daily to this growing fund of knowledge. So far as can be learned there, the council of war held at Port Arthur last July, decided that Russia was not then sufficiently prepared to defy the powers by holding on to Manchuria and the time which has since elapsed has been filled by strengthening fortifications and mobilizing troops at principal points like Port Arthur, Niuchwang, Haiandin in Manchuria, and Wiju in the Yalu province of Northern Korea.

At that important conference were present, besides General Kuropatkin, the presiding officer; M. Lessar, Russian Minister to Pekin; Generals Wogack and Dessino; Captain Getchwokdoff, Russian war agent in China; M. D. Pozdeef, manager of the Russo-Chinese bank at Peking; M. Pokotiloff, military attache to the legation at Pekin. M. Pavloff, Russian Minister to Korea; Baron Von Raven, war agent in that country; Admiral Alexieff, commandant of the Russian fleet and forces in the Far East; Gen. Stessel, commanding the army in South Manchuria; Admiral Stackelberg; Gen. Sacharoff, and many other Russian officers of high rank. The list of interest in the fact that it clearly demonstrates the purpose of Russia and the seriousness with which she has laid all of her plans.

Following this council, strong forts were built on the Sun Han Chen mountains overlooking Port Arthur on the north, and to the south the fortifications facing the sea were greatly expanded. The garrison there was increased to 30,000 men and equipped with 848 pieces of artillery. These latter include sixty Schneider rapid fire guns capable of delivering 23 shots of 72 pounds each in a minute, and 11 dynamite guns hurling projectiles of a half ton weight. Then there are about 30 more batteries perfectly concealed and equipped. Similar preparations were made at Niuchwang and Kaitowan, and at each of these ports the anchorages were planted with a liberal supply of the newly invented Leleda torpedoes, which automatically break from their anchors, and like the Whitehead torpedoes used in our navy steer directly for any approaching vessel within a radius of 1,000 yards.

The land forces concentrated in South Manchuria have now reached 200,000 with as many more ready to be forwarded from Siberia in case of trouble. This is considered here as a force capable of taking care of all brigands which China may produce.

On the part of the Russian navy a like activity prevailed. From a fleet of only 23 ships of war in all the Orient, her armament has grown to a formidable one of nearly 90 vessels including colliers and torpedo boats, and destroyers which Admiral Evans so evidently feared, and of which he wrote to the Navy Department with the end that our Asiatic squadron has now been similarly strengthened. Port Arthur has in addition two submarine crafts.

Meanwhile, in order to gain time, Russia continued her assurances to the Powers, including the United States, that she certainly would evacuate Manchuria on or before October 8, just passed, and each new movement of troops by her was explained as an act in fulfillment of her promises. Nevertheless she moved southward across the Yalu River and fortified Wiju, the most important town in Northern Korea, at the same time taking possession of the valuable forests of Yulu province, and this without the consent of Korea.

Japan controls the southern portion of that country just as effectively through the building and management of the Seoul-Fusan Railway. So far did she go in asserting her power that she recently permitted a Japanese bank to issue and place in circulation Korean money. Russian influence for a time secured the repudiation of this issue by the Korean Government, but was later checkmated by Japan, who had the money legally reinstated.

On her part Russia gained the franchise for the construction of a railway from Wiju to Yalu, thus opening up a connection for her Manchurian system and approaching within a few miles of Seoul, the terminal of the Japanese properties. In anticipation of trouble on this score Japan has been importing into Fusan, munitions of war disguised as railway material, and this in the face of her agreement with Russia for the preservation of the neutrality of Korea.

THE AVERAGE YIELD OF THE MANITOBA CROP

About Nineteen Bushels to the Acre in the South and East, Threshing is Completed

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 18—Threshing is practically completed in Southern and Eastern Manitoba, and the first authoritative estimate on the average yield places the province's returns for 1903 at eighteen or nineteen bushels to the acre at least. Patches of wheat have threshed as high as 40 bushels to the acre in the Dauphin district, while generally in the north-west of the province the harvesting operations are not sufficiently advanced for a true estimate.

The above announcements on Manitoba's 1903 crop were made to a press representative by J. W. Golden, Chief of Provincial Immigration, who has just returned from a trip of inspection in the province. Mr. Golden states that the harvest is about completed throughout the south and the east, the threshing is practically ended, and the fruits of the grain field are at hand. From the wheat now in stock and with the returns from the harvested farms, the average yield per acre of wheat for this season is placed at between 18 and 19 bushels by Mr. Golden. In the south-west the intermittent brief periods of wet weather have retarded the harvest so that the stage for accurate estimates has not yet been reached. The season is so late that the rains were felt quite unfavorably. The sun at this time of the year is hardly hot enough to dry up the land rapidly. In the north-west, in the Newdale district, for instance, the snow storm leveled the standing grain, though without damaging it materially, and the harvesting operations have been retarded, as the cutting could be done only in one direction. In some instances on his trip Mr. Golden saw the hand scythe put to use to get at the flat lying grain.

YOU PAY ONLY IF CURED.

Expects No Money Unless He Cures You—Method and Full Particulars Sent Free—Write for It This Very Day

A Detroit specialist who has fourteen certificates and diplomas from colleges and medical boards, has perfected a startling method of curing the diseases of men in their own home, and so that there may be no doubt in the mind of any man that he has both the method and

DR S GOLDBERG.
The possessor of fourteen diplomas and certificates, who wants no money that he does not earn the ability to do as he says, Dr. S. Goldberg, the discoverer, will send the method entirely free to all men who send him their name and address. He wants to hear from men who have stricture that they have been unable to get cured, prostatic trouble, vital weakness, varicocele, lost vigor, blood poison, hydrocele, emaciation, impotence, etc. His wonderful method not only cures the condition itself, but likewise all the complications, such as rheumatism, bladder or kidney trouble, heart disease, etc.

The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up, so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you, and if you are cured he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It would seem, therefore, that it is to the best interest of every man who suffers in this way, to write the doctor confidentially and lay your case before him. He sends the method, as well as many booklets on the subject, including the one that contains the fourteen diplomas and certificates, entirely free. Address him simply Dr. S. Goldberg, 208 Woodward Avenue, Room 105, Detroit, Mich., and it will all immediately be sent you free.

This is something entirely new and well worth knowing more about. Write at once.

PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 19 1903

THE ANGLO-FRENCH TREATY

The treaty of amity between Great Britain and France will bring a feeling of greater security throughout the world wherever the two nations have interests in common. The basis of the treaty awaiting signature is arbitration of all questions of dispute. It is to be hoped that in arranging its terms regard has been had to the great question which is not so much one of dispute, as it is of chronic irritation. We refer to the French rights on the west shore of Newfoundland. The assertion of these rights, which were secured to France by the Treaty of Utrecht, and confirmed by the Treaty of Paris, has had the effect of stopping the progress of the better portion of the Island of Newfoundland, that facing the Gulf of St. Lawrence. There can be no permanent occupancy of the littoral without permission from the French Government, which means the exclusion from the waterside not only of lobster canning establishments, but of the reasonable facilities for the shipment of timber, lumber or minerals. All that the native population, or any one, British, Canadian, or American, having the privilege of fishing can do on the coast is to land and dry their catch. It is a great sore in the island that nearly one-half of its coast line should be thus locked up by a treaty made 190 years ago. Mr. Chamberlain, as Colonial Secretary, gave his pledge to get this grievance redressed. There is talk about an 'open door' in China, but here in a British colony is the remnant of a semi-barbarous treaty provision, which is endured to the detriment of British people, because of a royal pledge given in the eighteenth century. It is a question about which standing alone, Great Britain would not be justified in going to war. It is one of the first, however, which must have claimed a final settlement in the event of a victorious war thrust upon her. Happily, the treaty now on the eve of completion removes the thought of hostilities between the two nations. But it will not have fulfilled its purpose if it has not opened the way to an adjustment of the French Shore question, so fruitful of difficulty and danger for the past hundred years.

THE EASTERN WAR-CLOUD

If there is to be war between Russia and Japan, the Japanese will have whatever advantage there may be in fighting in a good cause. It would be a war of aggression on the part of Russia, and a defensive war on the part of Japan.

In her march to the Pacific Russia has gobbled Manchuria, and is now reaching out for Korea. If Korea became a Russian province, Japan would be cut off from her only field of expansion on the Asiatic continent. The island empire is already over-populated, and space is needed for the surplus population. Korea is the nearest continental country to Japan, and could easily absorb the Japanese emigration for many years to come. Moreover, the best thing that could happen to Korea would be to come under the liberal and enlightened rule of Japan. In the interests of civilization, that arrangement would be preferable to the annexation of Korea by Russia.

But it is not merely because Japan wants Korea for herself that she regards with dread the advance of Russia. If Korea were made a Russian province, the very national existence of Japan would be perpetually menaced. It would not be strange if the plucky Japs were to decide to fight their gigantic enemy now, even at the risk of crushing defeat, rather than face the prospect of slow strangulation.

By the Anglo-Japanese treaty of alliance, Great Britain is not bound to go to Japan's assistance in a war between Japan and Russia alone; but if a third power joins in the fray in behalf of Russia, then Britain is bound to help Japan. It is hardly likely that, in the event of hostilities, Russia would call her ally, Farnce, to her aid; but if she did, and France shouldrespond, how could Britain honorably hold back? In view of thegrowing sentiment of cordiality between France and Britain, the danger of their being involved in a quarrel not of their own making, in a matter in which neither of them is directly interested, and much against their wills, will no doubt impel the governments of both countries to do their utmost to prevent the outbreak of hostilities in the far east.

Hostilities might be averted, and at the same time the rights of Japan in Korea assured, if the United States would join with Britain in giving moral support to Japan. Russia would hardly venture to resist such a combination as Japan backed by the two Anglo-Celtic powers.

UNIONISM GONE MAD

Strike Ordered, Because Men Are Overpaid

Jersey City, N.J., October 20.—We have had another remarkable spectacle in the strike of the members of a trade union employed in a boiler shop in Jersey City, N.J., for what amounts to practically a reduction of wages. The minimum scale was three dollars per day, but the firm paid a number of them receiving as high as three dollars and seventy-five cents a day. To this the union objected, saying that the men should be paid equal wages, and a strike resulted. What is more remarkable, the men who were receiving the extra pay went out with the others, thereby placing themselves officially on record as protesting against a recognition of their superior abilities. It can well be imagined that they did not go willingly, however, and the incident furnishes another illustration of the tyranny of those who get themselves into power in labor circles. The proprietors of this particular shop filled it with non-union workmen, and the union made so much trouble that the police were called in to keep the peace.

Lost Appetite Quickly Revived

A Fitful Appetite is generally associated with a general weakness of the system. Ferrozone the best tonic and appetizer should be taken after each meal and a rapid improvement is sure to follow

Distaste for food often follows La Grippe and fever, or is brought on by over excitement or worry. It is a dangerous condition and paves the way for more sickness. On this account it should be at once corrected by the regular use of Ferrozone.

A new and wonderful medicine is Ferrozone. It instantly imparts a real zest for food, and gives power to the stomach to digest and assimilate all that is eaten. Dyspepsia and indigestion are quite unknown to those who use Ferrozone, simply because it digests food so quickly, that it has no time to ferment or sour on the stomach.

Ferrozone regulates the bowels, quickly remedies urinal disorders and causes all the organs of the body to perform their functions with proper regularity. If the liver is torpid, or the kidneys not eliminating as they should, they are soon restored to normal action, and the poisons that might otherwise be retained in the body to cause disease and ill health, are carried off through natural channels.

The surest road to perfect health is Ferrozone. Young girls who have been accustomed to eat almost nothing at breakfast, soon get over the bad habit by using Ferrozone, and as a result grow into healthy vigorous womanhood. When people get up in years and loose the strength and vim of youth, they need a good tonic and blood builder to enable them to resist the trials of our vigorous winter, and this is where Ferrozone can be used to great advantage.

Both the young and the old, the weak and the strong, male and female can derive untold benefit from Ferrozone. It is guaranteed to contain no opiates or injurious drugs, and will do just what is claimed for it.

SUN STORMS CAUSE TALK

Prof. Brashear's Discovery Interests Boston Scientists

Boston, October 20.—Local meteorologists are interested in the statement of Prof. John A. Brashear, chancellor of the Western University of Pennsylvania, and director of the Allegheny Observatory, that one of the largest spots has appeared on the sun in recent years is now visible to the naked eye. The particular spot is said by Brashear to be nearly 100,000 miles in length with an average width of 25,000 miles. Approximately its area is 12 times that of the earth. Prof. Brashear holds that indicates great solar storms.

Prof. Pickering, of Harvard, says he does not believe the reported predictions that these unusual spots will bring about "10 years of bad weather."

"It may be," he says, "that this spot may cause magnetic conditions to change and bring about electric storms which will affect the telegraph and telephone unusually, but outside of an unusual number of these storms I do not look for any general disturbance of weather conditions."

Kidney-Wort Tablets

Quickly Banish Painful and Distressing Symptoms of Kidney Disease,

Acute and severe pain in the small of the back, sediment in the urine, loss of appetite, swelling of the hands and feet, a growing weakness, emaciation and dry, harsh skin, are all symptoms of terrible disease. Thousands of happy and cured men and women emphatically declare that Kidney-Wort Tablets restored health and strength after the failures of other medicines. Mr. A. R. Innis, Millsville, N.S., says;—

"I had kidney trouble with sore, weak back, and tried many different medicines, but I can truly say that Dr. Pettingill's Kidney-Wort Tablets is the best remedy I ever used. Those that try them will not be disappointed."

In Scandals.

The postal scandal, we are told by a Republican Washington correspondent, will pale into insignificance in comparison with the new Indian scandal, both in the amount of money and the importance of the officials involved, if the charges made by Special Agent Brosius of the Indian Rights Association are corroborated. Twenty million acres of land, millions of dollars in money, and the interests of some four hundred thousand Indians are said to be affected. The charges are, in brief, that some of the Government officials whose particular business it is to protect the Indians from land "sharks" have themselves formed land and oil companies, and used their official positions to despoil the red men of their land. As one paper puts it, "the watchdogs have joined the wolves." Mr. Brosius names about half a dozen land companies in his charges, and names a United States internal revenue inspector, a United States district attorney, an Indian inspector, a clerk of a United States Court, an assistant district attorney, and the Chairman and another member of the Dawes Indian Commission as officers and promoters of these concerns. These land companies, it is charged, induce the Indians by the temptation of cash payment, or by delays at the office of the Dawes Commission, or by the exhausting and expensive delays of litigation, to part with valuable land for next to nothing—often, indeed, when the Indian has no right to sell his land, and the entire transaction is illegal. Complaints of these frauds, it now appears, have been coming in to the Departments of the Interior and the Department of Justice for a long time, but by the interesting workings of department machinery the charges have been turned over for investigation to the very men who were to be investigated, so that no great strenuousness has marked the prosecution of the charges hitherto. Now that the allegations have been made public, however, more activity is expected.—From the Literary Digest.

An Interesting Letter.

The Globe recently had a brief quotation from a letter written to The London Times by a citizen of the United States visiting his country after several years' absence. Following are lengthier extracts from the communication, a decidedly interesting one in its way. In minutely analyzing America's future in the world of trade the writer says:—

"In the matter of foreign trade, the manufacturer in America has definite aspirations instead of concrete ambitions. He would like to trade with all the world. He could not explain this aspiration, but he might fall back upon his belief in destiny, which is as strong in him as it is in a Mahommedan soldier, whom death in battle carries into paradise. The American has come to have the strongest faith in his gift for direction. He is convinced that other people, somehow, are losing that power, and he is convinced that it is only a question of time when the financial centre will be shifted to New York or Chicago. He does not take into account the fact that he has not yet developed a banking system flexible enough to adjust itself to a commercial crisis."

Trades unionism, the writer declares, has weakened the United States, and while the wages in skilled trades advance those in unskilled trades decline.

Replying to a question as to how long the present period of prosperity is likely to continue, the writer says the general feeling in the United States predicts it will last "until the next Presidential election is settled." He concludes with the following remarks anent foreign trade:—

To my mind nothing is clearer than that whatever chances Americans had at one time of getting slowly but surely a paying foreign trade in manufactured products have been lost for the present:

(1) Through ignorance in not knowing and not learning the conditions existing in foreign countries.

(2) By trying to make a place for their products in crowded communities, whose peoples have great experience and ample capital, instead of in outside or neutral markets.

(3) By inability to seek or take the advice of those who knew or who had the chance to know.

(4) By inopportuneness of effort, and, as if these were not enough—

(5) By rushing blindly into combinations, many of which are purely speculative, and then proceeding to advertise all over the world their intention to take everything and leave nothing for anybody else. This thundering in index has not left much for the text to say or threaten, and little for the authors to do.

These, however, are mistakes that will be overcome in time. When the home demand declines, when prices and profits both in America and everywhere else have come down to their natural level, when half or three-fourths of the so-called trusts have gone to the wall like other speculative companies, and, finally, when the overweening desire for publicity and advertising has given way to a careful study of the conditions in the four quarters of the globe, then will American competition become profitable to itself without being of necessity hurtful or dangerous to the industries of other countries.

Peace with America

London, Oct. 17.—Louis Sinclair M.P., joint Honorary Secretary of the House of Commons Commercial Committee, said today in reference to the Anglo-French arbitration treaty that the committee's next work would be to arrange an arbitration committee with the United States.

Dry Placer Miner, formerly of California.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do.

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost, than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 300 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure this gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine—Its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck or more of sand, either ordinary house or sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

RICH GOLD STRIKE IN MONTANA

ore Assaying from $107 to $1000 Found on Owl Creek

Hamilton, Mont., October 20—This city is wild with excitement over a great gold discovery made on Owl Creek, a few miles from here. A regular stampede is on. Mr. Gross, representing a New York syndicate, made the discovery August 22. The ledge is said to be 1,200 feet wide, with enough ore in sight to keep a fifty-stamp mill running for ten years without doing any underground mining. Assays run from $107 to $1,000 in gold to the ton. An expert claims all of the ore will run at least $25 to the ton. From one phenomenally rich streak of theore eighteen pounds gave from $200 to $500 in gold.

TO THE SUFFERING.

The following testimonial may be read with interest to sufferers from skin eruptions or eczema:

January, 20th, 1903.

Dear Sirs,—I notice your advt. in a paper about your wonderful eczema cure and I feel it my duty to tell you that I was induced to try it as I had been afflicted with skin trouble in my hands for 11 years. I have tried several doctors and they done my no good. I only used one box of Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema. It has made a complete cure. I recommend it to all suffering from skin disease. My hand was so bad that the nails used to come off. You can use my name if you wish.

Yours truly,
MR. JOHN WOOD,
Peake Station, P.E.I.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh is also one of the best remedies on the market. We are daily in receipt of letters telling how much they have done for the afflicted. Miss Sarah Hill, 43 Front Street, Traverse City, Mich., writes: "I have been wonderfully helped by the use of your catarrh cure; send me another dollar's worth."

Peter D. McFadyen, Riverdale, P.E.I., writes: "I am very busy, but just drop a line to say I highly recommend your catarrh cure. It has done grand work for me, I am so much better."

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, coughs, lame back, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years; the most stubborn cases will yield. For sale by Ormond & Walsh, Peterborough. 50c per box or 3 boxes for $1.25.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $500 will be paid for any case that is not permanently cured.

The Australian Capital

Melbourne, Oct. 17—The Federal Senate by a vote of 19 to 16, has rejected the action of the House in selecting Tumut, New South Wales, as the capital of the Commonwealth. The Senate then selected Bombala, which was favored by the Victorians, as the Federal capital. This will likely lead to a serious deadlock between the two Houses.

—The steamers Rainbow, Water Lily and North Star came up from [illegible] Lake parts on Saturday with large numbers of passengers.

Premonitory Warning.

My brother went into the death trap at the Colenso River with the Irish Brigade under Fitzroy Hart. He was a Captain in the Royal Dublin Fusiliers—he is so no longer. One bright moonlit night in December, 1899, my wife, her mother, and myself were sitting in the drawing-room talking of the South African war, when suddenly and unexpectedly a gunshot in the immediate vicinity was heard, and simultaneously something fell in the room. Before we were aware of what had actually fallen, my respected mother-in-law, who is Highland, instinctively exclaimed, "Charley's photo!" On rising to look, sure enough, I found that my brother's photo had fallen out of its frame, and was lying face downward on the floor. On the next day we heard of the appalling disaster at Colenso. These absolutely true facts should surely convert the most sceptical of premonitory warnings, yet the explanation might possibly slightly shake their new-found faith. My next-door neighbor was having a pot shot at a rabbit in his garden, the photo frame was old and of the cheap foreign "dump" order, and my rheumatic but unscarred brother is now in the Army Pay Department.—Gourlay W. Todd, in The London Spectator.

Engines Ordered.

The Bengal-Nagpur Railway Company has ordered a number of powerful six-wheeled coupled outside cylinder locomotives from Messrs. Robert Stephenson & Co., Limited, Darlington. The locomotives have been specially designed by Sir John Wolfe Barry, the company's consulting engineer, for working express trains between Bombay and Calcutta. These will have cylinders 21 ins. diameter by 26 ins. stroke.

Slains Castle.

Slains Castle, on the Aberdeenshire coast, where Mr. and Mrs. Asquith are to stay during the autumn, is a place with interesting associations. It belongs to the Earl of Errol, who is Hereditary High Constable of Scotland, and who filled this office at the coronation. When Johnson and Boswell went on their tour to the Hebrides they halted for a day or two at Slains Castle. "Dr. Johnson," wrote Boswell, "observed the situation here was the noblest he had ever seen—better than Mount Edgcumbe, reckoned the first in England." Slains Castle rises steeply over the North Sea, which spreads coldly away to the shores of northern Europe. "The King of Denmark," said Boswell, "is Lord Errol's nearest neighbor on the north-east." Not far from Slains Castle is a "monstrous cauldron," as Boswell called it, known as the "Buller of Buchan." It is like a great pot, or boiler, in which the sea churns and roars. The visitor to those parts thinks it a duty to walk round the edge of the chasm, and then to explore it in a boat, as Johnson did.

Forced to College.

T. P. O'Connor tells a story which gives early evidence of determination, or obstinacy, at any rate, in the character of President Loubet:—"Young Emile was then living with his parents at Marsanne, and he was so fond of his rambling, out-of-door life that he used to declare that nothing would ever induce him to go to a college. His parents, however, had their own ideas as to what was good for him. So his father made arrangements when Emile was about nine years old that he should go to the College of Crest. The day of entry to the school came, but no Emile could be found. At last, toward evening, the poor little chap was found hiding in a neighboring wood. His prayers and his supplications for his freedom were of no use. His father was obdurate. To the school at Crest Emile should go. Then Emile tried resistance. Useless! The grownups were stronger than he. Still, the struggle must have been a lengthened one, and Emile may almost be declared victor, for it was only by binding his feet and hands that he could be brought to the carriage that was in waiting. And thus, tied hand and foot, was the future President of France delivered over like a parcel to the director of the school of Crest."

Miss Horace Smith Dead.

Of Miss Horace Smith, who died recently at Brighton, England, The London Athenaeum says:—"Her grandfather had hunted with Louis XV.; her uncle had met Dr. Johnson, and she herself was probably the last person living who remembered Keats, having seen, as a child, the poet in her father's garden at Fulham. Among her early memories was that of being taken into the Princess Charlotte's carriage. Although she steadfastly declined to be interviewed or to put her recollections into print, she was famous among her friends for her store of anecdote and animated flow of conversation. To her father, of 'Rejected Addresses' fame, she owed her youthful acquaintance with many of the celebrities of the time, and she inherited his warm friendship with Thackeray, with whose daughter, Mrs. Ritchie, she was intimate to the last. To him she is said to have suggested the plot of 'Pendennis.'"

Something in the Water.

Marshall P. Wilder let drop the remark that "Sir Thomas Lipton intended to protest the yacht races the Shamrock had lost."

"What for?" asked a friend.

"Why, he claims the Americans put something in the water which prevented the Shamrock's winning."

"How absurd! What could it possibly have been?"

"Why, the Reliance, of course."

And then the friend paid a man to put something in the glasses.

British Firm Received Order.

Commercial Intelligence (London) says: —Advices to the Foreign Office state that the order for the whole of the pipes and other material required for the construction of waterworks at Callao has been secured by a British firm. Tenders were invited from the United States and several European countries. From Bahia Mr. Consul Medhurst reports that the new bridge over the Paraguassu River and the new road to Mundo Novo are being actively constructed by the British engineer who contracted for the job. The bridge, 104 metres in length, was built in London, and the necessary road locomotives have likewise been ordered from the United Kingdom.

Men For Housemaids.

"He is my housemaid," was the defence put forward in a London police court by a Streatham gentleman summoned for keeping a male servant without a license. From inquiries made at various registry offices where male as well as female servants are negotiated, a representative of The Daily Chronicle learned that, though no one has had the temerity to apply for a "male housemaid," large numbers of men, especially foreigners, are employed in private as well as in numerous boarding-houses, to do the greater part of the work of a housemaid. And in many cases it is declared they do it better and with greater vigor. They are not expected to make the beds, but they will sweep the floors, and the staircases, keep the area and basement of the house clean, polish the silver and boots, and, above all, wait at table, the appointments of the dining-room being in their charge.

THE INTERPRETATION OF LIFE.

PERCY TRAFFORD OLTON, Curate of St. Peter's Church, State Street, Brooklyn.

Jesus saith unto them, My meat is to do the will of Him that sent Me, and to finish His work.—St. John, iv., 34.

Life is a great desire. From the cry of the new-born infant to the sigh of the departing soul there is a reaching out, a longing after, a never satisfied desire, for something beyond the attainment of the present moment.

The soul of man is so constituted that it cannot rest satisfied in itself. It needs some object which it may desire, as the "summum bonum," the highest good, the all-satisfying end, the final happiness. In order to live one must desire.

There is an old saying, "As long as there is life there is hope." We can change that and say just as truly, "As long as there is hope there is life." Without hope, without desire, life soon fails, because life is but a boundless hope, a great desire, an unfulfilled quest.

We know that it sometimes happens that the flickering light of life in some soul is kept alive by the power of an intense desire—that when the animal strength is all gone and science looks for the end there comes a new power to the rescue of the soul struggling for a longer respite, and the spark of life is kept burning until the desire has been gratified, until the message has been given or the face of the beloved one has been looked upon once again ere the fainting soul falls asleep. And so it is with the life of the world. Without hope, without longing, without this innate and never failing desire, the world would fall asleep and all things would be as at the beginning. But when God created the heaven and the earth, when in the eternities of the past there came forth the power of life, there was wrapped up in that genesis the propelling, uplifting, expanding force of a great desire. Never could that life remain silent or passive; it must, consciously or unconsciously, reach out, long after, work for some end in the eternities of the future. So "through the ages one eternal purpose runs."

Let us understand, then, that our life is made up of desires—that we are the creatures of a hope which passeth our understanding; that we are the product of all the past efforts of life to reach its final destiny; that we are the conservers of the energies by which future generations shall be enabled to reach the goal of their quest.

Let us realize that our happiness in this world, that our life in the future world, that our contribution to the life of the ages to follow, all depend upon the choice and direction of our present desires. Let us grasp this fact and we will tremble ere we choose the thing that shall be supreme in our thought and life.

There have always been two ways by which man has tried to gain for himself the desire of life. The first has been by collecting and surrounding himself with things that will minister to his physical well-being. This is the primary and lowest conception of happiness. We can trace it back to the earlier stages of life, and it probably arose from the instinct of self-preservation. The other way that man has tried to satisfy this yearning for a more perfect life is the cultivation of the intellect and the widening of the horizon of knowledge. Neither in the gratification of the physical nor in the development of the intellectual has man found the end for which he exists.

And now we turn to the Great Interpreter of Life, the One who is Himself "the Way and the Truth and the Life." What did He make the supreme and all-important think in life? The answer comes without hesitation, the doing of the will of God. "Jesus saith unto them, My meat is to do the will of Him that sent Me, and to finish His work." The world has never seen a life so perfectly happy, because no other life has been so entirely in accord with the divine will. Jesus Christ came not only to reveal, but to do the will of the Father, and because He gave Himself in perfect obedience there must have come to Him the perfect happiness.

We can realize the Desire of life, we can attain unto perfect happiness only in so far as we give ourselves to the doing of the will of God. There is no other way. Everything must be made subordinate and contributory to this one supreme aim, to do the will of God. Everything that conflicts with the will of God as revealed through Jesus Christ must be given up without question if we are to enter into the fulness of life; such as the Gospel of Christianity.

The message is that happiness and heaven and the fulness of life with God are yours when you can say with the Master, "My meat is to do the will of Him that sent Me, and to finish His work."

Britain Rules the Waves.

Britain rules the waves, says The Daily Chronicle, but she is not able to control the vagaries of foreign posts bringing letters to those whose services enable her to maintain her proud prerogative. Hence comes it that a naval officer's life is not always a happy one. When, for instance, at the recent naval manoeuvres the ships put in at Lagos in Portugal, it was evident to the meanest intelligence that something had gone wrong with the mails. One young sub-Lieutenant received his sweetheart's letter in a condition of pulp, with the two top lines of each page still intact, while another officer, who knew that his heart's delight would not have failed him in the matter of letter-writing, received nothing at all. The explanation, though hardly solacing, was simple enough. It seems that the last twenty miles of the Lagos mail journey is performed by mule diligence, and a hungry mule had endeavored to satisfy the cravings of an empty stomach with the outpourings of loving hearts.

A stanza is going the rounds among the public men at Washington, the authorship of which, from the fact that it was first heard among Senators and Cabinet officers, is credited to various statesmen. Secretary Shaw recited it at a Cabinet meeting, and was said to be its author, but he has disclaimed the honor. It is:—

"Go ask papa," the maiden said.
The young man knew papa was dead;
He knew the life papa had led;
He understood when the maiden said,
"Go ask papa."

Black Hills Copper Company
LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000
PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jerome mineral belt of Arizona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to day.

A limited amount of the Stock is new offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

OF COLORADO

The Company is capitalized at $2,000,000, consisting of 2,000,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock.

The Property

Consists of nine patented, well developed mines and mill sites, situated in Gilpin County, Colorado. This county has already produced more than

$80,000,000 in Gold

The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk on ore to a depth of [illegible] feet, and a tunnel run a distance of [illegible] feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to unwater and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation

The Colorado & Southern Railroad passes directly in front of the mouth of the tunnel. All ore can be dumped therefrom directly into the cars, giving quick and cheap transportation to the mills. Large returns have been paid from the product of these mines.

Sale of Preferred Stock

The company desires to not only push its development work and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own mill site at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ores. For that purpose it now offers for sale 200,000 shares of its Preferred Treasury Stock at 25 cents per share reserving the right to increase the price of all unsold shares thereof at any time without notice.

The Company pledges the whole net product of its mines to pay an eight per cent annual dividend on the sum paid for such stock, before any other stock receives any dividends whatever. After such dividends has been paid, the common stock shall receive a like dividend, when the surplus fund remaining shall be distributed among the common and preferred stock, share and share alike. All stock will be issued full paid and non-assessable.

THE ROSE OF THE RING

Marc would only have taken her little, cold hand at parting.

In the agony of the moment, love overmastered her sense of forbearance.

With a passionate cry, she threw herself on his breast, and raised her white face to his.

"Oh, Marc, Marc! if you never come back, what shall I do without you?"

He smoothed the hair from her forehead, and looked into her eyes.

"I shall come back," he said, earnestly. "I shall come back to you, my darling. Try and be happy while I am away. I shall think of you very, very often while we are apart."

He stooped, and kissed her brow, then put her gently from him.

The next moment he was gone, and she sank on the floor in unrestrained grief, as the sound of the departing cab was lost in the distance.

CHAPTER VI.

The place presented a cheerless aspect, for a heavy downpour of rain had added to the gloom of the autumn twilight, and he felt chill and depressed as he ascended the broad, marble steps leading to the entrance.

"Sir Felix is well, I hope?" he said to the butler, when he had removed his hat and greatcoat. "Does he expect me?"

"He's been asking for you, sir, over and over. He seemed to think as how, somehow, you was dead."

"What made him form such an idea?" Marc enquired, looking to the butler for an explanation.

The man touched his forehead meaningly.

"I shouldn't like to say it to anybody but you, sir, but I think you ought to know how matters stand. He seems a bit wrong there at times—though Mistress Gretchen 'u'd rather die than own up to the truth."

"Mistress Gretchen? Have I heard of her before?"

"She hadn't come when you was here last. Sir Felix thinks she's so necessary to his welfare that he won't have her out of his sight a minute. Would you like to rest, sir, or shall I take you straight to his room?"

"I will see him at once," Marc replied, thinking it would be better to get the ordeal over. "Is the nurse with him now?"

The butler made a sign in the affirmative.

Evidently, he had not a favorable impression of Mistress Gretchen, and Marc wondered whether he himself should share the same prejudice against her.

Sir Felix was in a room that seemed fitted up for an invalid.

He was reclining in a lounge chair in front of the fire, with a table, on which were some books, placed near him.

The room was half in darkness, the firelight sending a feeble glow over the wasted form in the chair.

Further back, in the shadow, Marc could distinguish the white apron and head-dress of the nurse.

He could not see whether she was young or old, dark or fair; that she was tall, and moved gracefully, he found out, as she rose, and left the room.

So far, Nurse Gretchen has not made an unfavorable impression upon him.

Sir Felix did not hold out his hand to Marc; he motioned the young artist to be seated, and, in weak, querulous tones, told him why he had desired his presence.

"I hear you still cling to the painting," the baronet said, not looking very amicably at him.

"I have made art my profession."

Sir Felix gave a sneering laugh.

"A beggarly profession, it seems to me. Can you stick at it?"

"I intend to do so," Marc answered, with a flash of pride. "I beg you to understand I have not been altogether unsuccessful in my efforts."

"Then you entertain hopes of one day becoming a R. A.?"

"I have not anticipated so far. If I can sell my pictures I shall be satisfied."

"Well, are you prepared to take an order from me?"

"That depends on the subject you choose."

"I want you to paint a portrait of myself, and one of my nurse, Gretchen."

Marc looked moodily into the fire, debating whether to refuse or accept the order.

He did not want to offend Sir Felix, for he was his next-of-kin, and might one day inherit some of his splendid property.

On the other hand, he rebelled against the insult conveyed in the baronet's words, and longed to fling back the offer in his face.

"Of course you will be my guest until the pictures are completed," Sir Felix observed, misinterpreting Marc's silence. "You will find plenty of good shooting, and although I am an invalid and do not care to move outside these rooms, you need not let my infirmity interfere with your pleasure."

Marc slightly inclined his head.

"I hope I shall execute the pictures to your liking," he said. "May I ask when you will be able to give me a sitting?"

"I'm in no hurry—there's plenty of time; do Gretchen's first—and make it as like her as possible."

Marc flushed—only by an effort keeping down the feeling of rebellion that would not be crushed.

"You said a portrait, I think," he observed. "A careful portrait must necessarily resemble the original."

Sir Felix did not seem to hear him.

He had taken his cheque-book from a drawer of the table near, and was slowly filling in one of the blanks.

With a smile, he laid aside the pen, and tearing out a cheque for a hundred pounds, handed it to Marc.

"I daresay, you have not more money than you know what to do with," he said, grimly. "Oblige me by accepting this on account of what I intend paying you for the pictures—a hundred pounds each."

Compared with what he was in the habit of receiving for his pictures, the price seemed a very generous one; but, in his idea, it was not too much for so unpleasant a task.

He loved to paint what was beautiful.

As he looked at the sinister face of Sir Felix, he felt a strange repugnance to the work he had undertaken, and wondered if he had as unlovely a model in Gretchen.

Notwithstanding the hundred-pound cheque in his pocket, he was not in the best of spirits when he went up to the suite of rooms assigned him.

As yet, he had seen no trace of brain failing in the baronet, nor did Marc attach any importance to the butler's hint.

"It seems to me that if Sir Felix were routed out a bit, he would be all the better," he thought, when he was by himself. "There's nothing the matter with him, as far as I can see. What can induce him to lead such a hermit life?"

He knew there were no visitors at Drayton Court, but for form's sake he donned his evening suit; and very handsome he looked, as he went down the lighted staircase to the dining-room.

"Have I to dine alone?" he asked, of the butler. "Does Sir Felix have a separate dinner served in his room?"

"He dines on bread and water, sir."

"Prison fare! Is that his great peculiarity?"

A New Discovery.

There has recently been exploited a new substance designated by the name of "kapok," says The Journal des Debats, which is much lighter than cork, is a hydrofuge, is not subject to decay, and is capable of sustaining thirty times its own weight, while cork is only capable of sustaining five times its weight. This substance has been used to some extent in England, where it is employed in lining vests, belts, mattresses, pillows, etc., so that the traveller at sea finds ready at hand a means of saving his life in case of shipwreck. The advantage of this method over the ordinary awkward life preserver is manifest. Recently Captain Truffert mentioned a tree which he observed in the Tchad and the Bahr-el-Ghazal regions, called Marea by the natives, the properties of which are very similar to those of "kapok." This tree belongs to the Mimosa family, it reaches a height of from 12 to 15 feet, and has a trunk about ten inches in diameter. The tree only grows in damp places, and has a density much less than that of cork. At the same time its texture is such that it may be readily used for shields in war time. M. Truffert states that every native foot soldier carries a piece with him when on the march, the piece of wood being about six feet in length. The weight of the wood is insignificant, and when the line comes to a river or other water obstruction, it is only necessary to cast the piece of board into the water in order to have a safe means of crossing either in the form of a raft or bridge.

To Discourage Smoking.

The effort of Mr. Fred. Taylor, a director of a leading woollen firm of Batley, England, to discourage smoking has been very successful. One pound was offered to each of the one thousand employees of the firm who abstained from smoking and chewing tobacco for six months. It was ascertained yesterday that three hundred male operatives have already become disqualified from receiving the sovereign which would otherwise be coming to them next February. At the annual meeting of the company the offer was extended to women and girls.

Experimenting With Convicts.

A correspondent of The Times describes an experiment now being made at Dartmoor, with the object of raising the younger criminals to a better level. Thirty-two of the youngest convicts have been picked out, after careful consideration as the most likely to benefit by the scheme, and have been formed into a class by themselves, and while in some respects their treatment does not differ from that of their fellow-convicts, they are not allowed at any time to associate with the older convicts. After prayers they march off to one of the old French war prisons, where part of the ground floor has been fitted up as a carpenter's shop. It is an important part of the scheme that every lad should be turned out with a thorough knowledge of some trade, and it has been found in practice that the only trade of which a young convict is pretty sure not to grow tired is carpentering. After work is done they go to lessons with the schoolmaster. The boys' warder and trade instructor have both been selected with special regard to their personal qualities, and they are required, not only to keep a high standard of discipline, but to do their utmost to acquire a personal influence over their charges.

Mysterious Disappearance.

The mysterious disappearance of Miss Hickman, a doctor, who was on the staff of the Royal Free Hospital, Gray's Inn road, London, some weeks ago, is a matter which occupies considerable space in London papers recently to hand. To its comments on the case The London Star adds:—One recalls another mysterious disappearance something similar to the vanishing of Miss Hickman. A month or two ago a Mexican engineer and his wife came to England, and took rooms in an hotel close by the Royal Free Hospital. Early in the morning the husband—a splendid looking man, over six feet high—went out, hatless and collarless, to buy a packet of cigarettes. He never returned, and he has never been seen since. As to missing people, the general public have no idea how many disappear from London—and very often are never seen again! Their fate remains a mystery which is solved only, in a very few cases. Inquiring at Scotland Yard last evening a Morning Leader representative obtained some remarkable statistics on "disappearances," which have been worked out by the Chief Commissioner of the metropolis for the three years ending 1901. The following shows them at a glance:—Persons reported missing in London, 1899, 26,624; 1900, 37,214; 1901, 26,033. Found by police and restored to friends, 1899, 18,348; 1900, 18,429; 1901, 456.

That leaves "still missing" the following alarming numbers:—1899, 18,276; 1900, 18,785; 1901, 17,577.

A Charming Lady.

Of Lady Charles Beresford, who is now in New York, M.A.P. says:—As everyone knows, she is the accomplished wife of the well-known and popular naval commander, and began life as Miss Mina Gardner, eldest daughter of the late Mr. Richard Gardner, and a sister to Mrs. Gerald Paget. She is a rich woman, and a clever one, with a marked independence of character. Music and politics occupy her life. She is a good musician, devoted to Wagner, and seldom absent from her box at the opera. For many years she has been a faithful follower of the fortunes of Covent Garden Opera, and Madame Melba, Madame Eames and the brothers De Reszke are reckoned among her personal friends. Of late, she has resided but little in London, and spends many months of the year at Park Gate House, a charming abode on Ham Common, her electric motor taking her quickly to town for dinners and the opera. Lady Charles gives Sunday parties at Park Gate House that are more than usually Bohemian and amusing. She is known to her friends as "Dot." When Parliament is sitting she entertains politicians of every shade of opinion, and is a regular attendant in the House of Commons. Lady Charles Beresford is good at games, and second to none at bridge and croquet.

"How is our dear uncle to-day, doctor?" ask the prospective heirs.

"There is small change in his condition."

At this the dying miser rouses himself by a supreme effort.

"Small change?" he gasps. "Put—it—in—my—pocket."—Judge.

Senator Henry Heitfeld of Idaho tells many a good story of the days when he was a "cow puncher" on the plains of Kansas. One day he met a woman, who, in summing up her misfortunes, said:—

"Yes, Mr. Heitfeld, it has been a black year with us. First we lost our baby, and then Martha died on us, then the old man himself died, and then the cow died, too, poor huzzy! But her hide brought me $6."—Washington Times.

Hicks—O, I never even notice him any more.

Wicks—Is that so?

Hicks—Yes; nothing disgusts me more than a dead beat.

Wicks—O, they don't bother me; it's the live ones that make me tired. —Philadelphia Ledger.

"Dear me! What's the matter?"

"I'm so sorry for my little brother, 'cause I'm going to eat all this candy, and he won't get none."—Woman's Home Companion.

Chekib Bey, the Turkish Minister to Washington, attended in Philadelphia the recent launching of the Turkish warship Medjidia at the Cramps' shipyard.

During the luncheon following the launch, Chekib Bey animadverted for a moment to the beggars of Philadelphia.

"You have here," he said, "an enterprising and intelligent collection of beggars. One of them approached me this morning. He told me a moving tale of misfortune; then he asked me for a little money.

"I put my hand in my pocket, to find that I was altogether out of change.

"'My man,' I said, 'I have nothing for you now, but in an hour I shall be passing this way again. Then, I promise you, you shall get something from me.'

"'All right, sir,' said the beggar, 'but all the same,' he added, fretfully, 'you wouldn't believe the amount of credit I give in this way.'"—Boston Post.

Hortense listened coldly to the man's mad avowal of his love.

"Are you a gentleman?" she asked, at last. "I am told that you work."

"If you become my wife, I swear never to work again!" he cried, with pathetic earnestness.

She laughed, thinking of the common fate of foolish girls who marry men to reform them.—Puck.

Robert—We don't know; our neighbors' two boys never let any of them get ripe.—Detroit Free Press.

COPETE MINING CO.

27 William Street, New York

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

The smelter in a short run produced something over $100,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them are—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now clear and undisputed title to all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

[illegible] tion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

STOCK MARKETS

The following advices were received by Mr. J. Cummings & Co., 166 Simcoe street, over their private wire—

New York, October 19.—There was a weak opening to the stock market Monday and for some time after the opening there was a declining tendency. There was a combination of bear influences. The weakness in the London market brought about favorable returns. Favorable conditions in iron and closing down of more steel mills and the abandonment of some $10,000,000 worth of improvements by the Pennsylvania Railway Company had the effect of discouraging longs of recent creation and the bears wished to secure their profits. The announcement that a receiver had been appointed for the Maryland Trust Company. The difficulties involved are presenting some $4,000,000, added fuel to the bearish flame. There was good support and in some parts of the list substantial line of recuperative power became evident. There was less of a demand for currency from the west, and on this score many of the confirmed bears were disappointed. On the lower levels there was considerable buying during the day for the strong interest. Apparently and naturally quite a lot of recuperative power was shown from time to time. The late news was without special feature, though there was talk that certain shorts were reducing their commitments. Outside stocks were dull and steady, while there was still a good demand for bonds of the better classes.

Chicago, October 19.—There was considerable selling in wheat today. The cash situation was the main feature. There was good increase in the visible supply and the crop news was bearish. It was openly stated that a number of strong pit interests were heavily long of the December option. The late market was extremely nervous and the expressions of prominent observers on the close were quite thoroughly mixed. The corn market was rather nervous. The trade was mixed, but generally professional. The clearances were small. There was a mixed feeling in the latter part of the day, and pit interests were in control of the speculation up to the close. The market for oats was without feature. There was a rather mixed trade. The cash business was slow. The provision trade was rather irregular. There was some buying on the dips. The cash demand was rather limited.

Liverpool—Close—Wheat steady. 3-8 lower. Corn quiet, 1-4 to 1-2 lower.

A Good Thing Gone Wrong.

Once upon a time a man who lived in the city by choice all the year around sent his family away for the entire summer. And as he came home in the cool of the evening and sat down in a comfortable armchair, while the soft wind blew the draperies around, and he put on his pajamas and lighted a fragrant cigar and ordered his evening meal sent up, he said joyfully to himself:

"Life with me from this time on is indeed one long, sweet cinch. I can smoke all over the house, take a bath every hour, live without curtains and have things my own way. All I want is the companionship of a few congenial spirits."

The next day he went around and told everybody what a grand spot he had, with a bursting sideboard full of real old stuff, and he urged the boys, with tears in his eyes, to make it their home and drop in every evening and feel that they were always welcome.

And all the city boys he knew took him at his word, and night after night they made merry at his expense. Not only this, but they took his money away from him, told him stories that he had heard many times before, and made his life so miserable that in four weeks' time he sent the following telegram to his wife:

"Come at once. Bring all the dogs and children."

No Blondes Desired.

"It's too bad," said she, thoughtfully, "you have brown eyes and I have brown eyes, you're dark-haired and I'm dark-haired, we both have round chins and we both have dark complexions—I must say that the outlook for our children is a terribly monotonous one."

"Never mind," he said, hastily; "let them be monotonous. I'd rather have them so."—Ex.

The sagacious wife watches her husband's angry efforts to find the collar button that has rolled beneath the bureau.

"I should think," she says, "that you would have two collar buttons."

"You should!" he snorts, reaching under the bureau for the fiftieth time and rasping his hand along the floor. "It takes a woman to figure out some way to double a man's troubles!"—New York Herald.

Pat—That's good for a toothache, Mike?

Blobbs—Sillicus is very proud of his lineage, isn't he?

Slobbs—Yes, he would rather have ancestors than make a name for himself.—Philadelphia Record.

Tariff Changes.

The market for United States cattle and meats in France is now virtually closed, the French Government having made changes in the tariff which form an even more serious embargo on American meats declared by Germany several years ago. Henceforth cattle, sheep, goats, hogs, etc., and fresh and salted meats produced from them will be subjected to the maximum tariff if imported into France directly from the United States; or if imported indirectly, through a European country, there will be an additional tax of 69.5 cents per 220 pounds.

An Irish Gentleman.

Mr. McGroirey, the independent Irish-American gentleman who has chosen to reside at Donegal Workhouse, where he is being charged £1 is weekly for board and lodging, explained yesterday why he had taken this course, says The London Daily Mail of Sept. 17.

It is not because he is displeased with the attention and comfort of the Irish hotels, but for the purpose of meeting the convenience of his medical adviser, who had been attending him twice daily. The doctor, who was often called suddenly to attend his patient, thought it would be better for both if Mr. McGroirey came into the infirmary attached to the institution. He gives this as the sole reason why he has gone into the workhouse.

A successful engineering contractor in the States, Mr. McGroirey came to his native county of Donegal for the purpose of having some sport, but particularly for the benefit of his health. For some time he stayed in a Donegal hotel, but afterwards removed to a country village some distance out of Donegal.

The only furniture in his room in the workhouse consists of two beds, but he states that he is very comfortable. He has his own delicacies brought into the workhouse. When his health improves he intends going to the south of France. Yesterday Mr. McGroirey was up and moving about for the first time since he was admitted to the workhouse infirmary.

Labouchere.

To understand the character of Labouchere one must know that this mocking spirit, who has broken more knaves and more shame than almost any man, who has figured in a hundred fights to the death in law courts, and has never, or rarely, been worsted, is human, like the rest of us. He is considerate to all those around him; sometimes even he is shy and timid. It is said that when he rings a bell for a servant with any impatience he runs out of the room before the servant has time to appear. And I have often seen this spirit of almost sardonic mockery blush like a girl.

The face shows the contradiction of the character. When first you look at it you are conscious only of its mockery. The eyes—black, cold, penetrating—are made even more quizzically funny by eyebrows that twist and turn as though they were prepared by some theatrical coiffeur for a baritone about to play Mephistopheles. But the mouth reveals that other side of the spirit; it reveals the man of iron resolution, of inflexible opinions, of enmities that do not die. Napoleon used to be called Jupiter-Scapin; I might sum up Labby as Scapin-Cromwell. —T. P. O'Connor, in Everybody's Magazine.

Interesting Incidents.

Patrick Calhoun, grandson of John C. Calhoun, tells some interesting incidents of ante-bellum days. One of the incidents relates to Daniel Webster, and is published in The New York Times:—

"I have forgotten the year," said Mr. Calhoun recently at the Waldorf, "but it was when Mr. Webster was visiting my grandfather at Columbus, S.C. At dinner, which was eaten at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, an incautious guest alluded in glowing terms to the Madeira wine served with the dessert. He dilated on its age, its color, its bouquet, and closed his panegyric by saying:—

"'Mr. Webster, the interest on a quart of this wine at the market price would pay your fare back to Washington, sir.'

"When starting for a drive soon after dinner Mr. Webster put one foot on the carriage step, and remained in that position so long that Mr. Calhoun said solicitously, 'I hope, sir, that you are not thinking of giving up the ride.'

"'It is a matter of doubt, Mr. Calhoun,' said Webster, with a profound bow, 'whether I should go on the ride or remain here and help consume some more of the interest on the irreproachable Madeira.'"

A Worthy Act.

Andrew Carnegie has settled a pension of fifty English pounds per annum on the granddaughter of the poet Burns, who has care of the little house in Dumfries in which the poet died. This will be agreeable news to Scotchmen all over the world, for the old lady is worthy to represent the Burns family, and she needs the annuity.—Brooklyn Citizen.

AN EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY

FOR BOTH LARGE AND SMALL INVESTORS

Owing to valuable Patents having been granted this Company, we are desirous of extending our business to the Dominion of Canada. Owing to the Customs duties, the extra cost in transportation and the numerous expenses attached, and the delays in deliveries in shipping goods from one country to another, it is absolutely necessary that we should have a factory in the Dominion, that we may be in a position to meet the immediate wants of the business.

The articles that we make from our Patent Fabric are too numerous to mention, and it is not necessary that we go into the details of the merits of our goods, as they are already in use to a large extent and have no equal. Our goods are covered by several patents, and the profit on the goods is large, averaging from 25 to 100 per cent, thus affording the company large revenue to meet all its obligations

In order to secure funds to equip a plant in the Dominion of Canada we will offer to the people of Canada $100,000 of our Bonds paying ten per cent. interest per annum.

Experience has shown that stocks based upon sound industrial enterprises have never been equalled from the standpoint of legitimate profit. For instance, a few hundred dollars invested in the Bell Telephone Company's stock in the beginning of the enterprise now commands thousands of dollars, after having yielded large dividends annually. Of course opportunities for such profitable investments do not present themselves every day, and it is also very true that a vast amount of capital has been misdirected in the endeavor to exploit inventions and enterprises which shrewd and far seeing investors should have recognized as impractical. But as regards this enterprise even the most conservative must admit it has possibilities of development which are almost incalculable and which have already been demonstrated in a practical manner. We have no speculative elements—this is a sound business proposition, and the patents which we own are worth several million dollars, as there can only be one fabric of this kind and that is ours.

All the above facts are simple statements of the truth and can be fully substantiated to the satisfaction of all investors.

The business is no experiment, the incorporators of this Company have made it their business for a great many months past and understand all the details, the prospects are therefore bright, and brighter than those of many other opportunities.

This Company is not a promotors company, every dollar goes to enhance the value of the property and business and increase the capacity. There is nothing speculative in this proposition, the enterprises are undertaken for industrial purposes only to make profits by the operation and development of the business.

Considering that the enterprise is already upon an established basis with a certainty of profitable future expansion, we feel warranted in the assertion that this is an attractive proposition to investors whether large or small.

The price of these Bonds are one dollar each, and will be issued in any number wanted. With every purchaser of each five Bonds we will give as a bonus, one share of stock of the Company, the par value of which is five dollars per share, thus assuring interest on the investment, and with the stock which is bound to increase you will have for nothing. These Bonds will be issued for five years. Persons desiring to avail themselves of this opportunity want to send their remittance at once.

Attention Investors

FROM THE PLACERS OF THE BOISE BASIN, IDAHO, FOUR HUNDRED MILLIONS OF DOLLARS IN GOLD HAVE BEEN TAKEN.

We are now developing the ledges that fed those placers in the ages past.

The Pearl Gold Mining Co. of Idaho

owns seven groups of mines—thirty-seven mining claims and is now working in ore in three of its mines.

The Treasury Stock is offered at a price that will unquestionably make money for those who invest. The Stock is non-assessable—no debts—all clear titles—safe, experienced and conservative management.

First Class Mining Proposition.

The Anaconda Gold Mining Co.

Home Office: 412 Merchants Loan and Trust Bldg.
136 Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

This is one of the best propositions ever placed before the Canadian investor. The Company owns 600 acres in the celebrated Black Hills District, South Dakota, comprising 32 claims. The track is unquestionably on the great Homestake belt, being located directly between the wonderful Homestake mine and the Clover Leaf mine. Two shafts have already been sunk, the main one being down 154 feet, with capacity of going 1000 feet. The Company has also installed an Ingersoll-Sergeant air compressor and drills, 125 horse power boiler, steam pumps, and in fact everything needed for actual operation, with the exception of its stamp mills; which will be installed at once. The vein of gold-bearing quartz traversing the Company's property is very rich. Assays have run from $6 to $54.50 per ton.

The Company has a capital of 1,500,000 shares, divided into 750,000 preferred and 750,000 common, par value $1 per share, fully paid up and non-assessable. The treasury stock has been made preferred stock to the amount of 25 cents a share. Out of the first dividends 25 cents per share will be paid to the owners of this preferred stock before holders of common stock receive any share of the profits. After the 25 cents has been paid to the shareholders of preferred stock, then all alike share in the dividends. This means nothing less than that the first investors in the enterprise will have all their money returned to them before any dividends are declared to the rank and file of investors.

A limited amount of Stock has been placed on the Canadian market. Full particulars and copy of prospectus may be obtained from MR. R. J. KIDD, or the undersigned Agent for Peterborough city

Are You Deaf?

Hundreds of perfect recoveries from impaired hearing and deafness are reported as a result of the use of Catarrhozone

The result of actual experience proves that ninety cases in every hundred can be cured, and stay cured, of impaired hearing by the regular use of Catarrhozone.

Among the many prominent business men whose hearing has been restored by Catarrhozone, might be mentioned Mr. Geo. W. Warner, of 353 Wellesley street, Toronto, and Mr. William Jones contractor, of Halifax, N. S. Both these gentlemen have testified to the merits of Catarrhozone as a valuable cure for deafness, and their statements prove beyond all question that Catarrhozone cures impaired hearing and even total deafness.

The efficiency of Catarrhozone is placed beyond dispute by its long list of successful cures, and on the highest authority we can recommend it to our readers. It is a very simple remedy to use, and never causes confusion or gets out of order.

Catarrhozone inhaler is beautifully polished and made of hard rubber. It is suitable to carry in the vest pocket and can be used in the church, theatre street car, at any time, in any place. The complete outfit costs but $1.00 and lasts two months. Trial size 25c. Sold by druggists or sent to any address if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston. Ont.

Peterborough to New York

Take the direct route, Grand Trunk and Lehigh Valley. Five fast express trains daily, including "Black Diamond Express." No extra fare on this train. For tickets and Pullmans call on WM. BUNTON, City Passenger and Ticket Agent. G. T. Ry.

A Sensible Business

There were two small Peterborough boys who asked their mother if they might play store in the dining room. "Yes," replied she, "if you don't make too much noise." "Oh, we'll be quiet enough about it, mom," remarked one of the children. "We'll be storekeepers who don't advertise in The Times."

Has Faith in the West

Mr. B. F. Ackerman, Frank Raines, and Dr. R. F. Morrow, have returned from a trip to Manitoba and the North-west. They were absent about a month. While in the West Mr. Ackerman purchased 14,000 acres of land. The party are delighted with the country, which they say has a great future before it.

Fowl Supper and Concert

The fowl supper and concert in the George street church Sunday school room last night was a great success, the spacious school room being crowded to the doors. At the conclusion of the supper a good programme was given in the church. The affair took place under the auspices of the Young Mens' Guild.

Mr. McClellan's Condition

We are pleased to say that Mr. W. G. McClennan, who is seriously ill with pneumonia at his home in Wellington, is improving. Yesterday Mr. J. H. McClennan received a telephone message that his son was better, and although his condition is still exceedingly critical, there is good ground for believing he will pull through.

A Fact Worth Knowing

It is a fact regarding Sutcliffe's that if you give an order by telephone or send a child to do your marketing you will receive the same satisfaction as if you make a personal visit to the store. The old customers know this and govern themselves accordingly. Of course the firm is always glad to see its patrons and when they come to the store they usually sell more goods than when they merely send orders, but they recognize the fact that it is not always convenient for them to make a personal visit. The firm of Messrs. J. Sutcliffe & Son, are large advertisers, and are building up a splendid business. The Times would ask its readers to call and inspect the firm's stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere.

A School Dispute

The Arbitration Committee appointed by the County Council to settle the dispute existing in School Section No. 11, Otonabee, composed of Judge Weller, School Inspector J. Coyle Brown and County Councillor Shaw, met yesterday, and the matter was gone into. The Arbitration Committee decided that a month's time would be given in which to reach an amicable settlement as to the location of a school which it is proposed to build in the centre of the school section, and should a settlement not be arrived at during this time the section will be divided and a school built in the portion the residents of which are now dissatisfied with the location of the school.

OBITUARY

The Late Henry Bennett

One by one the old pioneers of the district are passing away. The latest is Mr. Henry Bennett, of Ashburnham, who died on Sunday evening at his late residence in Ashburnham, aged 82 years. The deceased had been poorly during the summer and gradually became weaker until the end came. He was born in the township of Hope in 1821, and has been a life-long resident of Ashburnham.

Mr. Bennett, for a quarter of a century sat on the Council board, and also served on the school board for 20 years. He was a consistent member of St. Luke's Church. He was twice married, and is survived by a wife and several children. The deceased has four brothers living; Joseph, of South Monaghan, John of Otonabee, Edward who is in the North-West, and Robert, of Michigan, and two sisters, Mrs. F. Newell of Ashburnham, and Mrs. T. Crocker, of Toronto.

The funeral will take place from his late place of residence, Mark st., this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock and proceed to Little Lake Cemetery for interment.

The Late Miss Van Every

Friends were shocked to hear of the death in Toronto of Miss Bessie Louise VanEvery, which took place at the home of her uncle, Mr. J. H. Paterson, 23 Hazelton Avenue, Toronto, on Sunday evening. The deceased is a daughter of Mr. Wm. VanEvery, 226 Rubidge st. About two weeks ago she was attacked with inflammatory rheumatism, and though under the care of eminent physicians and nurses, she succumbed as above. The Rev. John Neil, B.A., of Westminster church, Toronto, conducted service in toronto.

The remains arrived here yesterday morning, accompanied by Miss A. VanEvery and Messrs. Wishart and Allan VanEvery. The funeral will take place from her father's home this afternoon at two o'clock.

The Late Mrs. George Dearnard

Early yesterday morning the death occurred of Sarah McCaffrey, wife of Mr. George Dearnard, 473 Donegal street, aged 60 years. The deceased had been ill for about a month, goitre being the cause of her illness which resulted in her demise as above. She leaves a husband, one son and two daughters to mourn her demise.

The funeral will take place from the family residence tomorrow morning at nine o'clock and proceed to St. Peter's Cathedral, thence to the Roman Catholic Cemetery for interment.

PERSONAL MENTION

Movements of the People—What They are Doing and Saying.

—Mr. Robt. Shaw, Harvey, was in town yesterday.

—Miss Sylver of Lindsay is visiting Mrs. Thomas Armstrong, Antrim street.

—Dr. Morrow has just returned from a trip through Manitoba and the North-West Territories.

—Mrs. W. H. Robertson and her daughter, Miss Mattie, returned from Fenelon Falls last night.

—Mr. W. H. Meldrum will leave for Fenelon Falls this morning, where he is building a flour store house in connection with his mill at that place.

—Mr. J. Lavake, of the Orillia Export Lumber Company, accompanied by Mrs. Lavalee and child, are visiting Mr. R. Hicks, brother of Mrs. Lavalee, corner of Aylmer and Murray street.

—Rev. Mr. McKnight, B.A., leaves today to take charge in Brandon Presbytery. His many friends in Peterborough will wish him every success in his new field of labor. Mrs. Macknight and children will follow later on.

—Mr. W. F. Nelson has been called to his home in Uxbridge, on account of his father's death, which occurred very suddenly on Saturday evening. After returning from a drive Mr. Nelson was reclining on a lounge when he expired without the least warning. Up to the time of his death Mr. Nelson had been in his usual good health.

—Miss Hattie Goodwin has gone to visit her sister in Chicago.

WINS HER HEART

Food That Helps Baby and the Family Pleases Mother

Show a mother how to feed her baby so that it will be healthy, rosy and plump and grow up strong and sturdy and the mother's gratitude is everlasting.

A mother says; "Five weeks ago I weaned baby, but could not get her to take any kind of food until I tried Grape-Nuts, which she relished from the first, and on it she has jumped up and blossomed into a fat, chubby little girl.

"I feed Grape-Nuts to her regularly, and use three packages a week for baby and my three-year-old boy alone, and I find that it regulates their bowels and keeps them nourished, strong and in good health all the time.

"Since feeding my children on Grape-Nuts I have used absolutely no medicine for either of them. Such food as this that does such wonders wins its way to a mother's heart. Please accept our thanks for the good your food has done to our family where we all eat it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Children will grow up strong and healthy or weak and puny according to the food given. Grape-Nuts is a complete and perfect food made on scientific lines, and this is easily proved by trial.

A COMING EVENT

Culhane, Chace & Weston's Minstrels Wednesday Night

To-morrow evening the celebrated Culhane, Chace & Weston's minstrels will appear in the new rink. This company is highly spoken of by the press and a first class entertainment may be looked for. Reserved seats secured at Ormond & Walsh's.

A SERIOUS CHARGE

Two Young Men Arrested of Assaulting a Woman

Two young men appeared before Police Magistrate Dumble yesterday on a serious charge of assaulting a woman on Friday evening about nine o'clock on the corner of Charlotte and Aylmer sts. The complainant and a witness who was with her at the time, claimed that the assault was entirely unwarranted and was of a brutal nature, the complainant being very roughly handled. The case was enlarged until to-morrow.

NO NEED TO APOLOGIZE

A Visitor to Our Sanctum Who Wanted an Apology

Yesterday this great family journal had a call from an irate alderman, who took exception to the remarks of this g.f.j. anent the street lighting contract. He said that a letter which recently appeared in print likened him to Boss Tweed, and he thought an apology was due him. He left our sanctum after slamming the door behind him.

Now this g.f.j. would willingly publish an apology, but as Tweed is dead an apology would not do him any good.

A DOURO WEDDING

Nuptials of Miss Lena Hayes and Mr. John Blackburn

A very pretty wedding took place in St. Joseph's church, Douro, on Tuesday morning, October 13th, the contracting parties being Miss Lena Hayes, daughter of Mr. Jeremiah Hayes, and Mr. John Blackburn. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Kelly.

The bride was becomingly gowned in a suit of white, with hat to match, and was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Hayes, who was similarly attired. The groom was supported by his brother.

After the ceremony the guests, who numbered about 150, partook of an elaborate wedding dinner at the home of the bride. The afternoon and evening was spent very pleasantly in dancing and other amusements.

Mr. and Mrs. Blackburn will reside in Stoneville, and The Times joins their many friends in wishing them prosperity and success in their new home.

THE PRICE OF BREAD

No Decision Reached by Local Bakers Last Night.

In a recent article in The Times mention was made of the increase in the price of bread and comparison made with the price at which it was shipped here by Toronto competitors.

It might be well for the townspeople to know that while the local bakers charge 12 cents for a 4-pound loaf, the Toronto bread is sold at 10 cents for a 3-pound loaf, so that in reality the people are paying more for Toronto bread than they can get home bread for.

The price of bread seems to have been much affected throughout the whole Dominion recently; on Oct. 17 the Montreal bakers decided to advance the price one half cent per loaf owing to advance of 70 cents per bbl. in flour, and on the 23rd of August the price in Ottawa was raised from 5 to 6 cents on a 2-pound loaf, and from 10 to 11 cents on the 4-pound loaf. The Kingston bakers decided to lessen the weight of the loaf instead of raising the price, thus giving a 3-pound loaf for the same price as the 4-pound loaf had been selling at.

A deputation of the bakers will meet the Council at the next meeting and decide as to what the price will be, there being an insufficient number present at the meeting last night to form a quorum.

$500 REWARD FOR WOMEN

WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

So uniformly successful has Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription proven in all forms of Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb, and Leucorrhea, that, after over a third of a century's experience in curing the worst cases of these distressing and debilitating ailments, Dr. Pierce now feels fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in cash for any case of these diseases which he cannot cure.

IT STANDS ALONE.—The "Favorite Prescription" stands alone, as the one and only remedy for these distressingly common forms of weakness, possessed of such positively specific curative properties as to warrant its makers in proposing, and binding themselves to forfeit, as we, the undersigned proprietors of that wonderful remedy hereby do, to pay the sum of $500 in legal money of the United States in any case of the above diseases in which after a fair and reasonable trial of our treatment, we fail to cure. No other medicine for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments is backed by such a remarkable guarantee; no other medicine for woman's ills is possessed of the unparalleled curative properties that would warrant its manufacturers in making such an offer; no other remedy has such a record of cures on which to base such a remarkable offer.

Therefore, insist on having Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and turn your back on any unscrupulous dealer who would insult your intelligence by attempting to foist upon you some inferior substitute, under the plea that "it is just as good." Insist on having the article which has a record of a third of a century of cures and which is backed by those willing to forfeit $500 if they cannot cure you.

In cases attended by a leucorrheal drain a solution of Dr. Pierce's Lotion Tablets should be used conjointly with the use of the "Favorite Prescription." They are sold by all druggists, or sent post-paid to any address, on receipt of 25 cents in stamps. Send 50 cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. Address WORLD'S DISPENSARY, Buffalo, N. Y.

Weak and sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Geese Instead of Dogs.

Having discharged the family watchdog, in disgrace, says London Answers, a farmer in the Midlands has installed two enormous grey geese as guardians of his home. These are more effective as sentinels than the best watchdog that ever lived, he thinks. In addition to which they have the following points in their favor. They do not howl at the moon; they do not make friends with visiting burglars and bite the parson; they do not transform the front garden into a depository for ancient bones. Like most big ganders they are belligerent. The minute the front gate clicks they come rushing around from the back yard with wings outstretched and flapping, looking for a fight. It is no use to say, "Good doggy, nice doggy," to them. They cannot be flattered or cajoled. Moral suasion falls futile. The average burglar who hears about these geese will doubtless be of the idea that one has only to say, "shoot chicky," to send them scuttling. Any burglar who knows a goose will know better. A big grey gander is not afraid of anything. These two will attack anything that comes in the front gate with the savageness of a bulldog. And they are able to do about as much damage. They take flying leaps at the intruder, beating him about the head with their wings and punching him in the face with their bills. All the time they keep up such a hissing and noise that it is enough to scare away the stoutest-hearted burglar.

"Colonel," asked the beautiful grass widow, "have you ever really known what it was to be frightened?"

"I should say I have," replied the gallant warrior. "At the dentist's office the other day I could actually feel the blood congealing in my veins when he came at me with his buzz saw."—New York Herald.

Mabel—I understand that drinking is one of his failings?

When at college he was commonly dubbed a "calf," the girls sometimes termed him "a puppy."

After he left college he became, according to his friends, "a gay dog," according to his enemies, "a beast."

In business he was referred to as "a sly fox," though his competitors labeled him "a wolf."

In Wall street he was "a bull"—sometimes "a bear."

In his love affairs he was "a perfect tiger;" some said, however, "a perfect donkey!"

In society he was described as "a lion," varied occasionally by "an ass."—Town Topics.

TOOK CANADA'S PROPERTY, ROBBED OF OUR RIGHTS.

Even the Entrance to Portland Canal is Dominated by Two Islands which were Given to the United States.

Canada's Rights Were Sacrificied, Say the Canadian Commissioners.

Striking Statement Issued by Sir Jette and Mr. Alyesworth, / Strong Case Presented for Canada, Not a Judicial Decision, United States Has Won All Along the Line, Says Mr. Sifton

London, Oct. 20.—Messrs. Jette and Aylesworth, the Canadian commissioners today made a statement regarding the award, as follows:

"The decision of the Alaska boundary tribunal has been given, and in view of its character the people of Canada are, in our judgment, entitled to such explanation from us as will enable them to comprehend fully the manner in which their interests have been dealt with. We take the points of the decision in the order as presented by the treaty under which the tribunal was constituted. The first refers to Portland Canal. There are two channels parallel to each other, and with four islands lying between them. The Canadian contention was that the northern channel should be adopted as the boundary line, while the United States contended that the southern channel was the one named by the treaty.

"If the Canadians succeeded it would give Canada the four islands which lie opposite the southern shore of Observatory Inlet and the harbor at Fort Simpson. If the United States succeeded in their contention it would give them these four islands. The islands are named in order as they run from the sea inward—Kannagnunut, Sitklan, Wales, and Pearse Islands.

Sir Louis Jette and Mr. A. B. Aylesworth—"We urged our views as strongly as we were able, but we have been compelled to witness the sacrifice of the interests of Canada.

"We were powerless to prevent it, though satisfied that the course which the majority was determined to pursue in respect to the matters above specially referred to ignored the just rights of Canada."

Canada's Strong Case.

"When the members of the tribunal met after the argument and considered this question the view of the three British Commissioners was that the Canadian contention was absolutely unanswerable. A memorandum was prepared and read to the commissioners embodying our views and showing it to be beyond dispute that the Canadian contention upon this branch case should prevail, and that the boundary line should run to the northward of these four islands named, thus giving them to Canada. Notwithstanding these facts, the members of the tribunal other than ourselves have now signed an award giving the two islands of Kannaghunut and Sitklan to the United States. These islands are the outermost of the four. They command the entrance to Portland Channel, to Observatory Inlet, and the ocean passage to Port Simpson. Their loss wholly destroys the strategic value to Canada of Wales and Pearse islands. In our opinion there is no process of reasoning whereby the line thus decided upon the tribunal can be justified. It was never suggested by the counsel of either country in the course of their argument that such a line was possible. Either the four islands belong to Canada or they belong to the United States.

Took Canada's Property.

"In making the award Lord Alverstone agrees with the United States commissioners that the islands should be divided, giving the two that possess the most strategic value to the United States.

The Second Contention.

"Second," the line northward from Portland Channel—substantially the Canadian contention regarding this line was that there are mountains parallel to the coast within the meaning of the treaty of 1825, and that the tops of such mountains should be declared the boundary, the mountains nearest the sea being taken. The United States contention was that there are no mountains parallel to the coast within the meaning of the treaty, and that the boundary line, therefore, must be fixed under the provision of the original treaty relating to the ten leagues or thirty-five miles, and so run a distance of thirty-five miles from the shore, including in the strip 'where' the heads of all the inlets, bays, etc.

Robber of Our Rights.

"The tribunal finds the Canadian contention correct as to the existence of mountains within the terms of the treaty, but the fruits of victory are taken away from Canada by the fixing as the mountain line a row of mountains so far from the coast as to give the United States substantially nearly all the territory in dispute.

"Around the head of Lynn Canal the line will follow a watershed somewhat in accordance with the present provisional boundary.

"We were of opinion that the mountain line traced by King, the Dominion astronomer, along the coast should have been adopted at least as far as the shores of Lynn Canal. If effect had been given this contention, and Great Britain had not by her acquiescence in an adverse occupation deprived herself of her right to claim the head of Lynn Canal, we should have regarded such a conclusion as perhaps open to reasonable justification. No such position can, however, be taken regarding the inlets lower down the coasts. King's line running along the coast to Lynn Canal, and the line thence, drawn around the head of Lynn Canal following the watershed, would have given to Canada the head of the lower inlets, with at least one fine harbor from which, in case of need, access to the interior of Atlin and Yukon country could have been had. It would not have been far. We have never been made aware that it would have taken in any territory ever actually occupied by United States citizens. It would have given the United States the whole of Lynn Canal, including Skagway and Dyea and Pyramid Harbor, and it would have been, we think, reasonably satisfactory to Canada.

Canada Hemmed In.

"Instead of taking the coast line of the mountains a line of mountains has been chosen far back from the coast, clearing completely all the bays and inlets and means of access to the sea and giving the United States a complete land barrier between Canada and the sea from Portland Canal to Mount St. Elias.

"We have not been able to derive any understanding from our colleagues on the commission as to the principle upon which they have selected their line of mountains, and our observation of the discussions which have resulted in the settlement upon this line has led us to the conclusion that, instead of resting upon any intelligible principle, the choice of this line has been a compromise, between two opposing and entirely irreconcilable views.

"This compromise has, we think, been a distinct sacrafice of the interests of Canada. When shown that there were mountains parallel to the coast within the meaning of the treaty the only logical course, in our judgment, was to adopt as the boundary the mountains in the immediate vicinity of the coast.

"Third, as to the general question of the inlets, the tribunal finds against the contention of Canada. We are both strongly of opinion that this conclusion is wrong, and we have put on record at length our reasons and our views in this respect.

Not a Judicial Decision.

"Finally, if the six members of the tribunal had each given his individual judicial decision to each of the questions submitted, we should have conceived it our duty, under the treaty of 1903, however much we might have differed from our colleagues, to have joined in signing the document, which constituted the official record of answers. We do not consider the finding of the tribunal as to the islands at the entrance of Portland Channel or as to the mountain line; a judicial one, and we have therefore declined to be parties to the award. Our position during the conferences of the tribunal has been an unfortunate one. We have been in entire accord between ourselves, and have severally and jointly able, but we have been compelled to witness the sacrifice of the interests of Canada and remain powerless to prevent it, though we were satisfied that the course the majority determined to pursue in respect to the matters above specially referred to ignored the just rights of Canada.

50 MILE WATER WAY

Officials of American Steel and Wire to Construct a Canal

Worcester, Mass., October 21.—Officials of the American Steel and Wire Company, part of the United States Steel Corporation, have had plans drawn for the construction of a canal between this city and Providence. The estimated cost is $40,000,000 and it will be a difficult engineering feat. For the proposed new water route a greater part of the 50 miles, the old Blackstone valley canal will be dredged and utilized. The plans also call for the construction of a gigantic water shed just outside the city to supply water for the canal. Several big mills in the various towns will lose their power under the new plan and several million dollars will be required to pay land damages.

The officials of the Steel Corporation will visit Worcester next Tuesday when the plan will be considered in detail.

Today 272 men employed in the rolling department of the American Steel and Wire Company were laid off on account of a general depression in the steel business.

A general lay off of steel workers in all Worcester plants took place today, many hundred men being thrown out of work.

While nothing was known by the Carnegie officials here of the above contract, it is believed that the construction of the canal is an assured fact. Regarding the lay-off of men, it was stated that it is customary at various periods during the year to close the mills for repairs and alteration, which naturally necessitates the temporary dismissal of the workers.

Merry Del Val Appointed

Rome, Oct. 20—The Pope has appointed Monsignor Merry del Val Papal Secretary of State.

It is stated that Mgr. Lorenzelli, Papal Nuncio in Paris will be promoted to be a cardinal, in spite of the failure of the French Government to recommend such promotion.

WAR NOW INEVITABLE

Russia and Japan at Dead-on Corea and Manchuria

THE CLOUD IS OMINOUS

Expected Settlement is Delayed and Threats Again Are Exchanged

Berlin, October 21.—The negotiations between Japan and Russia, it is officially learned, are not only not making progress, but there is a renewal of the belligerent attitude. Neither will yield on the essential propositions. Japan persists in requiring an agreement that shall now delimit their respective spheres of supremacy and Japan declines to consent to the general policy of "drift" under which the Russian influence will, the Japanese say, steadily bear upon Corea and edge forward until the time is ripe for acquiring a part of or the whole country.

German view, to have a settlement with Russia by a treaty by which they both must abide, or else—and the threat is ever in the near background—hostilities will begin. This is the danger in plain view. The Japanese Government seemingly makes no particular concealment from the diplomatic corps at Tokio of this attitude, one impression being that Japan is merely playing a diplomatic game and another that the Government is in deadly in earnest.

SITUATION LOOKS GRAVER.

Paris, October 20.—Although the officials do not take an alarmist view of the Russo-Japanese situation, their latest advices indicate a renewal of its somewhat serious aspect. The Russian Admiralty has prepared for a concentration of warships on the Mediterranean station and at other European ports.

The reason for this is understood to be the presence of Japanese warships in European ports, including two ships which are about completed at British shipyards. The Japanese crew of one of the latter ships has already arrived, preparatory to taking over the vessel.

RUSSIA READY TO RISE.

St. Petersburg, October 20.—While expressing the hope of a peaceful issue of the far eastern crisis, the Novoe Vremya, points out that if war breaks out the Russians will rise as one man at the call of the Czar, and there can be no doubt regarding the ultimate issue.

NEGOTIATIONS ARE SIMPLIFIED.

Yokohama, October 20.—A cabinet minister says that Japan, agreeing with the Marquis of Ito, while stipulating the integrity of the Corean and Chinese sovereignty, makes no point of the military evacuation of Manchuria, thus simplifying the negotiations. The bellicose rumors continue, but the reports of Russian aggression in Corea are proving to have been exaggerated.

POINTS IN MR. CHAMBERLAIN'S GREAT SCHEME

The essential points of the proposals of Hon. Joseph Chamberlain are as follows, from an English standpoint;

Not one farthing will be added to the cost of living.

No tax on raw materials.

Duty not exceeding 2s. a quar-ter on foreign corn.

No tax on maize.

Tax on flour which should give a substantial preference to the miller.

Small tax not exceeding 5 per cent. on foreign meat and dairy produce, excluding bacon.

Substantial preference to Colonial wine and fruit.

Remission of three-fourths of the duty on tea.

Remission of half the duty on sugar, cocoa and coffee.

Loss to the Exchequer of £2,800,000 per annum to be made up by retaliation.

Duty on manufactured goods not exceeding an average of 10 per cent. will give the Exchequer £9,000,000 a year.

This is to make up the £2,800,000 and the balance for the reduction of taxation of foods and other taxes which press unduly on the people.

Gain by new scheme £9,000,000.

Loss by new scheme £2,800,000.

Surplus to be devoted to relief of existing food and other duties, £6,200,000.

Total weekly reductions in cost of living:—

Town labourer, 10 farthings; country labourer, 8 1-2 farthings.

THE SEPARATE SCHOOL GRAND STAND WILL REMAIN

In Its Present Position, Roof Must Be Fire Proof However, and the Building is to be Made More Sightly Than at Present

The Town Council met in special session last night when there were present His Worship Mayor G. M. Roger, presiding, and Aldermen Edgecumbe, Shortly, Morrison, O'Connell, Finnie, R. F. McWilliams, Batten and Best.

The business which took up the major portion of the worthy Aldermen's time was that of the grand stand in the Separate school grounds, and each stage of the proceedings connected there with was fully threshed out, pro and con. Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, representing the interested property owners on McDonnell street, and Ald. Best fought hard against the structure being permitted to remain in its present position, while Ald. Shortly urged that the matter be referred back to the Committee of the Whole Council for further consideration. Rev. Dr. O'Brien, Ald. McWilliams, Ald. O'Connell and His Worship, the Mayor, put up a winning fight in favor of the amendment of the Building by-law so as to provide for the maintenance of the stand on its present site, subject to being made fireproof as far as possible under the circumstances. The remainder of the aldermen gave a passive acquiescence to the amendment of the by-law in favor of the grand stands supporters.

The ball was faced in clause one of the following report, submitted by Ald. McWilliams:

Gentlemen,—Your Committee of the Whole Council beg leave to report as follows:—

1. We recommend that a by-law be passed to amend the Building By-law in accordance with the notice given by Ald. O'Connell and in form approved of by the Town Solicitor.

2. A letter was received from Dennistoun, Peck, Kerr & Stevenson asking that the conveyance of part of Mill st. be delivered to the Peterborough Hydraulic Co., and enclosing a conveyance from that Company to the Town of Quaker street and also an agreement to grade, drain, etc., Quaker street. We recommend that the request be granted and that the deed of the part of Mill street that was closed be delivered to the Company.

3. We recommend the approval of the action of representatives of the Town and County of Peterborough and County of Victoria at a meeting held at the Pigeon Creek Bridge, on Oct. 9th, 1903, as given in the minutes of the meeting attached to this report.

4. That the building of the granolithic walk on George street, north of Smith street, be left over till next year.

5. Your Committee recommends the adoption of the report of the sub-committee of this committee which was appointed to confer with the Council of the Village of Ashburnham in regard to municipal union and which report is attached to this one, and also that a vote of the electors qualified to vote at municipal elections be taken on the question on a date set by the Mayor.

6. That cheques be issued to W. J. Pope and Maria Denton for $20 each for refunds on peddlars' license fees.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

The report was adopted as read.

Before the adoption of the report Mr. R. M. Dennistoun addressed the Council. He said he appeared at a previous meeting, on behalf of his clients, property owners on McDonnell street, who, quite rightly, objected to the proposed amendment of the building by-law. He now asked that the matter be allowed to stand for a few weeks. He did not suppose that the Council had thoroughly looked into the effect the proposed amendment would have upon the interests of his clients. It would be all right to grant the T.A.S.'s request were the invested rights of citizens not to suffer thereby. It cannot be denied, however, that the grandstand is constructed of exceedingly inflammable material, and we could not have a fire in such a building in the centre of the town without considerable risk to adjacent property. History, and experience in this very locality, had demonstrated that fact. Then this law is not a fire, but a building by-law, and provides for the erection within certain limits of such buildings only as shall be a credit to the town. And it cannot be denied that this grandstand is an unsightly structure, within but 60 feet of the nearest property on McDonnell st. His clients, realizing that such a by-law was in force, and had been for twenty years, had made their homes in this vicinity, and now their property will be depreciated should that by-law be amended and the grand stand allowed to remain. They naturally object to such a course, but their objection to the question standing over for 6 months or so would not be so strenuous. If you amend this by-law as proposed, it can not be repealed on account of the invested rights of the T.A.S. in the stand as completed. While recognizing the praiseworthy object of the T.A.S. and the good work it is accomplishing, he held that the stand in question could have been so built as to meet all requirements without encroaching on the invested rights of other citizens. Had it been placed on the east side, his clients would have raised no objection. Then it might have been placed to the south, near the schools, or on the west side of the grounds, and his clients would not have objected. This being the case, the matter should be allowed to stand for a time for further consideration. His clients were preparing a petition against the by-law's amendment, but were not prepared to submit it yet as they had not known that the matter was to be rushed through to-night. They had but 30 signatures so far, but if time were given a large number of property owners would sign it. The Council should not deal so quickly with the question, but an opportunity should be given for an expression of public opinion. The matter has been pending in the Police Court, and has been enlarged from time to time. In conclusion, he complained that he had only received notice at 8 o'clock that evening that the matter was to be rushed through to-night, or he would have his petition fully prepared. This opposition, he said, is made with the best of feelings towards the T.A.S. and its good work, but they should not be granted a favor which will affect the vested rights of Messrs. Manning and Collins, both of whom are old and respected ratepayers of this town.

Rev. Dr. O'Brien submitted that the matter is not being rushed through, for on July 1st the T.A.S. received a peremptory letter from Mr. Dennistoun to cease work on the grand stand. This petition of Mr. Collins is three days old and he has received but 30 names. Give me three days and I'll secure 500 names. The doctor claimed that the north is the only side on which the stand could be erected and the T.A.S. are making a reasonable request to a number of reasonable men and expect a reasonable decision.

Ald. McWilliams here moved, seconded by Ald. Finnie, the report's adoption.

Ald. Best said he would move in amendment that the bylaw be maintained as it stands today. He argued that if any poor man had been affected Mr. Dumble would not have enlarged the case from time to time.

Mr. Dennistoun here explained, in justice to Mr. Dumble, that the case had been enlarged merely at his own and Mr. O'Connell's request.

Ald. Shortly—"Why not grant Mr. Dennistoun's request and let the matter stand over for a few weeks. The Committee should go and look over the ground thoroughly. As for myself, I was away when the question came up before the Council, and am not prepared to vote either way."

On Ald. Shortley's suggestion, Ald. Best moved, seconded by Ald. Shortly, that clause one of the report be struck out and referred back to the Committee of the Whole.

Ald O'Connell objected to this on the grounds that the Committee had already dealt with the question. The T.A.S. would prefer the matter being thrown out tonight than that there should be any further irritating delay.

Ald. Shortly held that the stand should have been erected facing the north, as the Council thought it would have been.

Ald. O'Connell claimed that the Council never thoroughly understood where the building was to be erected. The T.A.S. certainly understood that they could go ahead, and they did so. But, after the posts were in the ground, the Engineer objected, and a committee of the Council was then appealed to. There seemed to be but a hazy idea of the exact words used at that meeting; the T.A.S., however, certainly went away with the idea that they had the endorsation of the Council to their proceeding with the work. They had no idea of any objection being raised by any citizens. As to the objection from the standpoint of fire, he thought the building to be in an isolated position. Then every precaution will be taken; it is to be sheeted with iron, and will have a fireproof roof. The only logical objection that can be argued is that of its being unsightly. It certainly is so, now, but that will be remedied as far as practicable. Then there is no reason in law why any citizen on the opposite side of McDonnell street cannot build the most unsightly building, and still no legal action be taken against him.

Mr. Dennistoun pointed out that the building by-law provides that no building shall be erected within its limits, unless it is at least two stories high, built of solid brick, and with 14 inch walls. This is to prevent depreciation of surrounding property. Messrs. Manning and Collins would have a perfect right to object to the erection of a cottage in their vicinity, then why not be allowed to object to this stand which does not comply with the terms of the by-law?

Ald. Best wanted to know what hardship it would be for the T.A.S. to comply with the by-law. If we amend this by-law, where are we going to stop?

Ald. O'Connell — "The reason is obvious. It is that of expense. Then who could imagine anyone erecting a grand stand of solid brick, two stories high, and with 14 inch walls. The purpose for which the stand will be used outweighs any objection thereto. The T.A.S. will do everything possible under the circumstances to beautify the spot—plant shade trees, etc."

Mr. Dennistoun here put in his petition signed by 30 ratepayers, which he regretted time had not allowed of its completion.

Ald. McWilliams agreed with Ald. O'Connell. The matter had come before the Committee twice and before the Council once. The only reason for delay had been the hope that the parties would come to an amicable agreement. He thought no blame could be attached to the T.A.S., who all through had proved willing to abide by the decision of the Council and its officers. They came first and asked permission from the Town officers, which they received. The moment the Engineer objected they stopped work and came to a Committee of the Council and certainly [illegible] away with the impression that they could go ahead, and the building went on, under the very eyes of the Engineer, who took no steps to stop it. The only reasonable objection which can be raised is one of noise, for there is only one house within one hundred feet of the building which with its fireproof roof, will practically not prove dangerous in case of fire. As for noise, he did not blame any one for objecting to that; still we all like to have schools, for instance, although we object to the noise arising from their playgrounds. But he thought citizens should be able to suffer some discomfort for the privilege of having recreation grounds in the centre of the town for sports. He argued that the stand had been erected on the least objectionable sight on the whole grounds.

Ald. Best's amendment was here put and was lost, only himself and the seconder voting for it.

The report was then adopted as read.

THE BY-LAW.

Ald. O'Connell then introduced a by-law to amend the building by-law so as to permit of the maintenance of the grand stand on its present site. The amendment reads as follows:

> Clause B. of Section two of by-law 612 is hereby amended by adding thereto the words following: 'And the owners, tenants, or occupants of the northerly fifty feet of Lots Nos. four and five south of McDonnell street, and west of George street may erect thereon a stand of wood, open at the front and ends, with seats thereon, for the purpose of accommodating spectators; providing the same shall have the roof, outer works and outer doors thereof covered, and the chimney — if any — constructed in the manner and with the material set forth in sub-section A of said section two."

Ald. O'Connel moved its first and second reading.

Ald. Best moved that its second reading be given six months hence.

Ald. Morrison, who was in the chair, ruled that Ald. Best's motion was out of order as the motion for the second reading had been carried.

Ald. Best—"It's no use playing any trickery of that kind. There's been too much shuffling on this question. I move that its second reading be given six months hence."

The second reading was proceeded with however, and the by-law adopted as read a second time.

At this juncture Mr. Dennistoun put in a last word. He pointed out that a clause should be inserted authorizing the repealing of the by-law, if found desirable to do so at any time. If the by-law passed its third reading as read, it could not be revised, no matter what the circumstances were, on account of the vested rights of the T.A.S. in the grand stand. "When the building by-law was first passed, certain buildings were exempted, and I take it that no council could repeal that clause now by reason of vested rights in the buildings in question. In the estimates, for this year there are $10,000 allowed for a new drill hall, at the north corner of the Central Park, which will be close to this grand stand. Provisions should be allowed to protect that hall from all danger from fire."

Ald. O'Connell remarked that the grand stand will not be in close proximity to the contemplated drill hall.

Mr. Dennistoun—"This by-law will give you the right to build all along the north of the grounds to the drill hall."

Rev. Dr. O'Brien here said he regretted that ignoble insinuations were being made regarding the honor of the people interested in the stand. He regretted such a termination to the discussion. For his part, he would guarantee that should he ever undertake to build again he will keep both within the spirit and letter of the law.

Ald. Shortly remarked that no one not object to the stand, but he thought it might have been built in the south.

Ald. O'Connell—"If the by-law passes considerable money will be spent on the structure and invested rights should be protected. It would not be just to make a provision which would empower any Council to repeal the by-law in opposition to these vested rights."

Mr. Dennistoun—"Put in a fair term of years then."

On motion the by-law had its third reading, without any clause as suggested by Mr. Dennistoun being added.

His Worship here took the opportunity of denying a current report that the bylaw was being pushed through because he personally gave his permission for such a proceeding. "Neither directly or indirectly have I personally done so." It is one of those difficult matters in which we have to use our best judgment. He thought the objectors had made it absolutely impossible for the Council to negotiate any agreement between the parties.

ADDITIONAL LIGHTS.

Ald. Morrison moved, seconded by Ald. Shortly, that the matter of locating 25 additional street lights, in accordance with the contract recently entered into with the Peterborough Light and Power Company be referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee to recommend [illegible] for permanent provision being made for same before winter sets in.—Carried.

GREAT BRITAIN SEEKS TO PREVENT THE BIG WAR.

British Minister to Japan Undertakes the Work of Meditation.

St. Petersburg, October 21.—A newspaper published at Port Dalny is authority for the report that the British Minister to Japan, Sir Claude MacDonald, has undertaken to mediate between Russia and Japan, and, having secured Japan's consent to certain proposals, is now negotiating with Russia. These proposals are that Russia shall restore Manchuria to China and that the principal Manchurian towns be opened to foreign trade; that Russia withdraw all her troops from Manchuria with the exception of the railway guards; that she renounce her forestry concessions on both sides of the Yalu River, as well as the Yongampho concession, and that the whole country south of the Yalu be admitted as belonging to the sphere of Japan.

CANADA WILL NOT SECEDE

The Boston Post goes to the trouble indulging in grave speculation as to the probability of Canada's seceding from "the Mother Country" over the Alaskan boundary award. Having satisfied itself that such a thing might be, our Boston contemporary says:

"But if a decision in favor of the United States in the matter of the Alaska boundary—a decision which we consider inevitable, if there is any decision at all—inspires Canada to cut loose from the "Mother Country," so much the better. It will hasten the foregone conclusion. There is no reason why Canada and the United States should remain separate. There is every reason why they should be united. Commercially and racially our interests are the same. The territorial boundary is no barrier. The diversity of interests is altogether dictitious. Our custom-houses on the border are an absurdity. Throw down the bars and join the possessions.

It may please certain enthusiastic Americans to nurse the belief that Canada might under certain conditions wish to break away from England and join the Union. People who know the feeling in this country, however, are fully aware of the fact that there is no more probability of such a thing than there is of France giving up her identity and asking for admission to the German Empire. The only Canadians who are in favor of annexing Canada to the United States are a few of those who move over to the United States for the purpose of increasing their opportunities. Canadians, as a whole, are fully as loyal to the King of England as are the people of Cornwall or Yorkshire.

A CHURCH PRESS AGENT

The churches have taken to advertising lately in a modest way, and it has done them good. How much and what kind of advertising a church may properly do are questions which will bear discussion. There will be discussion of the performance of the Hough avenue Congregational church, of Cleveland, which has gone to the extent of employing a regular salaried press agent, whose business it will be to keep the church's plans for the enlightenment and entertainment of the people prominently displayed. It will be the duty of this press agent to make regular advertising contracts with the newspapers and use the space so bought in attractive announcements of the concerts, lectures, and other entertainments arranged under the auspices of the church societies, and to advertise the regular Sunday sermons, just as the theaters, caravansaries, and other bidders for public patronage advertise their attractions. When these entertainments are held, the press agent will be expected to see that they are properly reported to the daily press.

Perhaps the general conclusion reached concerning this will be that it is all right. Many churches have informal and unpaid press agents now, and sometimes the minister acts as press agent. If the Cleveland church press agent is the right kind of a man the other churches there will soon perceive his usefulness, and there may be other such agents in Cleveland.

BOERS TAKING THINGS EASY

There are in India at the present time 518 burghers, who are held as prisoners of war by the British Government. They could return to South Africa in freedom if they would consent to take the oath of allegiance to King Edward. It appears, however, that they have heard that prosperity has not yet made its appearance in the Transvaal and that a man has to do an immense amount of labor there to earn enough to buy a square meal. Peace was declared sixteen months ago, but these burghers are apparently unwilling to be reconstructed as long as their irreconcilable attitude insures them, without any toil on their part, three square meals a day at the expense of the British Government. The joke is now beginning to pall on John Bull, who has sent Generals Botha, DeWet and Delarey to India to entreat these recalcitrant burghers to take the oath, return to South Africa, and work for a living.

LIFE IN CHICAGO

By and by Chicago will be advertising immortality as one of its attractions. According to a bulletin of the city health department the death rate in Chicago has been decreasing at a remarkable rate during the past twelve years. Among infants less than 1 year of age it has decreased more than 60 per cent. since 1891. During the same period there has been a decrease of 25 per cent. in the death rate of persons of all ages. Whereas in 1891 the infant death rate was 7.46 for 1,000 of population, in 1902 it was but 2.83 for 1,000 population. That Chicago is exceptionally favored in this regard is shown by the fact that in the same period the reduction in the death rate among infants in New York city was but 34.7 per cent.

The reasons which the death department assigns for the decline in the infant mortality rate are interesting and instructive. Much of the decrease in the mortality among babies is attributed to an improved milk supply, the result of this improvement showing itself clearly in the reduced mortality during the summer months, when infant life most readily succumbs to the attacks of disease. Better methods of treating children's ailments are now employed and more attention is paid to scientific sanitation. Last but not least, the health officials believe that much of the saving of child life is attributable to various organizations and movements which lay especial stress upon the proper care of infants and in so doing are steadily conducting an educational campaign of great value.

There may be objections to living forever in Chicago, but there are towns in which one would like to be immortal. Peterborough, for instance. Why can't our health authorities learn from Chicago how to cut the death rate down until there is none.

Venezuela has seized a British boat. Venezuela is never happy unless she has several kinds of trouble on hand.

According to all accounts from the far east if Japan declares war upon Russia and Russia finds it out there's going to be serious trouble.

The loss from strikes in the building trades for the year are estimated at $14,000,000 in Chicago, $10,000,000 in New York, $6,000,000 in Philadelphia, $4,000,000 in Pittsburg, and similar sums in other cities. The main part of these losses is in the wages of laboring men. Property owners and builders lose nothing except their time and the prospective rents on the buildings which they had projected. But the strikers incurred an actual loss of all the wages which they might have secured during the time of the strikes and of all the forced and voluntary contributions which they paid as strike expenses. How long, O Lord, how long will the dupes and victims of the strike leaders and grafters submit to this extortion and slavery.

FERROZONE
Will give you an Appetite and with Appetite and good digestion comes health and strength

Ferrozone will in one week give you a splendid appetite, and will so improve digestion and assimilation that full benefit will be derived from everything eaten.

There is nothing like Ferrozone to create a keen healthy relish for food for the brain, and a tonic for the nerves and brain. To those leading a sedentary life it is a perfect boon.

The reverend Dennis O'Brien, D.D., the well known Evangelist says of Ferrozone: "I have pleasure in saying that I have found Ferrozone a remarkably good preparation. It keeps up one's appetite, cures nervousness and sleeplessness, and perhaps the very best tonic I ever used. Being in the form of chocolate coated tablet, it is both pleasant and convenient to take and is well worthy of my highest recommendations."

This is an example of the way people speak of Ferrozone who have used it, and should be convincing evidence of its unusual merit. It is warranted to cure Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Lost Appetite, Rheumatism, Kidney and Liver Troubles, Catarrh, and all other diseases arising from impairment of blood or nerve tone. Refuse to accept a substitute for Ferrozone. Every druggist sells it 50c. per box, or 6 boxes for $2.50. Prepared by N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., and Kingston, Ont.

INTELLIGENCE DECREASING

Best Mental Stock is Not Reproducing Itself

London, Oct. 18—Prof. Karl Pearson, of the Anthropological Institute, took as the subject for his Huxley memorial lecture "The Inheritance in Man of the Mental and Moral Characters, and Its Physical Characters." The professor, looking dispassionately from the calm atmosphere of anthropology, said he feared there was really a lack of leaders of the highest intelligence in science, the arts, trade, and even politics. In Great Britain he saw a want of intelligence in the British merchant, professional man, and workman. There was a paucity of more intelligent to guide those of modern intelligence. The mentally better stock, he said, was not reproducing itself at the same rate as formerly. He continued:—

"We are standing at the commencement of an epoch which is marked by a great dearth of ability. The remedy lies beyond the reach of revised educational systems. It is necessary that psychical characters should not be manufactured by the home, the school, or the college, but should be bred in the bone. For the last forty years the intellectual classes have ceased to give the nation a due proportion of good men.

Australian Military Forces.

The Melbourne correspondent of The Chronicle writes regarding the unification of the Australian military forces that what General Hutton has obtained the Government's assent to is practically this: The complete organization of (1) a mobile field force capable of being sent anywhere in Australia at short notice, and (2) a garrison force designed to defend the vulnerable spots in each State. Both these forces are composed of volunteers or militia acting under the instructions of some 1,500 professional soldiers who form the nucleus of artillery and garrisons required for fixed defences, the technical direction of forts and mines and a military tuition staff. The Australian field force will consist on a peace footing of 12,91' men and sixty guns, capable of expansion in time of war to 26,500 men and eighty-four guns. The garrison force will be composed of 11,896 men and twenty-six guns, exclusive of the rifle clubs, which now total over 30,000 men. Taking the two forces and the rifle clubs together it will be possible for Australia to put in the field or at her forts in time of war at least 68,000 trained men, made up, approximately, as follows:—

Field force	26,500
Garrison force	11,900
Rifle clubs	30,000
	68,400

With a physically fit manhood population of 700,000 to draw upon, the 68,400 trained men would become the backbone of an army of half a million men should invasion actually occur.

For the purposes of broad generalization the Federal army now stands divided into eighteen regiments of Australian Light Horse, thirteen batteries of Australian artillery, three field companies of Australian Engineers, and twelve regiments (three brigades) of Australian Infantry. Each arm is given an excess of officers in proportion to the peace establishment of privates. Peace cadres, with their full complement of trained officers and non-commissioned officers can therefore on mobilization in time of national emergency be expanded to war requirements without any danger of crisis through lack of efficient leaders.

Theft Not Outrage

Pekin, Oct. 19—The recent episode at the British Legation in Pekin, which has been described as an attempt to blow up the Legation magazine during a military ball, was in reality too robbery or certain ordnance stores, supposedly by Chinese servants; who carried the gun fittings and other portable articles away with them, but left the detonating apparatus outside the magazine, apparently finding difficulty in carrying it. All the stolen property has been recovered from the junk shops, where it was sold by the thieves.

IS A BLESSING

Attack of Gout a Safety Valve to Chamberlain

London, Oct. 18—That gout is a blessing in disguise is what the British medical journals would have us believe, at least in some cases. One of them is that of Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, who was struck down in the middle of his campaign for fiscal reform by an attack of gout. During the last few years Mr. Chamberlain has been subject to these attacks, but his general health has not been in any way impaired by them. Indeed, according to the Medical Journal, as age advances, the risk of an attack of gout always is increased, and as is well known, Mr. Chamberlain is one of those whose mode of life is essentially sedentary. To such persons acute attacks of gout appear to act as safety valves, and to be not inconsistent with a long span of life. This was notably the case with the late Earl of Beaconsfield, a man not addicted to active exercises or field sports, who, in spite of or perhaps by the help of, gout lived to the ripe age of 77.

Exercise for the Stallion.

A perfectly healthy condition of the stallion is indispensable to enable him to propagate a vigorous progeny. Whatever will contribute to give him the best health, the greatest vigor, the hardiest condition, will make of him the most successful stallion, and to this end he should have the proper amount of exercise. No horse or man can be in the highest state of health or vigor without physical exercise. It is one of the natural demands of his existence. It cannot be ignored unless a penalty is exacted. Many stallions have proved failures as sires when kept cooped up in their stalls without proper exercise, but when afterwards sold and properly worked have proved successful sires. But the exercise should not be excessive. Good, moderate road work for a stallion is all that is required. Fast speeding should not be tolerated. His physical strength should not be exausted by fast work and by being bred to mares besides. Both are heavy taxes on his physical strength. Give stallions long, slow road work, even about your ordinary business, and it is all right. Better attend to driving them yourself than to let employees drive them. When you are absent they will want to see how much speed they can get out of them. They like the exhiliaration of a fast ride and will be sure to get it when you are out of sight, and more particularly if the driver is a young man or boy. Recollect what you did yourself when a boy, and don't think the boys of the present day are any better than when you were a boy.—Maine Farmer.

A Perfect Antidote for Poisons.

A plain farmer says:—It is now over twenty years since I found out that sweet oil would cure the bite of a rattlesnake, not knowing it would cure poison. Practice and experiment have taught me that it will cure poison of any kind in man or beast. I think no farmer should be without a bottle of it in his house. The patient must take a spoonful internally for a cure. To cure a horse it requires eight times as much as for a man. It is an antidote for arsenic in cattle caused by eating sting of bees, spiders and other insects, also ivy poison.—Maine Farmer.

Swine-raising in the Territories.

The Department of Agriculture of the Northwest Territories is showing commendable activity in working out to a satisfactory conclusion the plan of improving the live stock of the country by holding periodical auction sales of breeding males. This scheme for placing good, pure-bred sires within the reach of every farmer has been followed in the Territories along the lines advocated by Dominion Live Stock Commissioner Hodson, and has proved successful with cattle, sheep and swine. In previous years a large number of pure-bred boars and sows were sold by auction along the line of the Calgary & Edmonton Railway, where the coarse grains are grown to the best advantage. This fall the department expects to hold another series of sales along the above railroad. The shipment will not likely be a large one, it being the intention of the department to purchase from those who have bought at previous Government sales. Only pigs which come up to the standard of those sold at previous sales will be taken. If enough cannot be obtained in this way a call will then be made on the breeders of pure-bred stock in the west for any surplus which they may have. At present it is not contemplated to go outside the Territories for supplies, the idea being to encourage purchasers of pigs at previous sales to engage in breeding swine; for this reason they are given first chance. Early in the spring every purchaser at the sales was sent a circular letter, stating that the department would likely want a lot of pigs for shipment in October, and encouraging them to keep their best boars and prepare them for sale in October. It is not known as yet how many hogs will be available, but if only a carload can be obtained the department will be well satisfied with this as a first attempt. The present plan is to inspect the hogs for sale, the inspector tagging the pigs he will take, and entering numbers, names, etc., in a book. The pigs will be delivered some time later, and paid for at so much a pound, live weight.

In the campaign for live stock improvement, as in many other matters, the Territorial Department of Agriculture displays a power of initiative and an executive ability that would be decidedly beneficial in some of the older Provinces.

Dry Placer Miner, formerly of California.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do.

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 300 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure this gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine—Its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck or more of sand, either ordinary house of sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

Capital Stock, $3,000,000
PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - - $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jerome mineral belt of Arizona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to day.

A limited amount of the Stock is new offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

Purchase the Treasury Stock of The Drake Mining Drainage and Tunnel Transportation Co.
OF COLORADO

The Company is capitalized at $2,000,000, consisting of 2,000,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock.

The Property

Consists of nine patented, well developed mines and mill sites, situated in Gilpin County, Colorado. This county has already produced more than $90,000,000 in Gold

The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk on ore to a depth of 150 to 450 feet, and a tunnel to a distance of 2,300 feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to unwater and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation

The Colorado & Southern Railroad passes directly in front of the mouth of the tunnel. All ore can be dumped therefrom directly into the cars, giving quick and cheap transportation to the mills. Large returns have been paid from the product of these mines.

Sale of Preferred Stock

The company desires to not only push its development work and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own mill site at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ores. For that purpose it now offers for sale 250,000 shares of its Preferred Treasury Stock at 25 cents per share, reserving the right to increase the price of all unsold shares thereof at any time without notice.

The Company pledges the whole net product of its mines to pay an eight per cent annual dividend on the sum paid for such stock, before any other stock receives any dividends whatever. After such dividends has been paid, the common stock shall receive a like dividend, when the surplus fund remaining shall be distributed among the common and preferred stock, share and share alike. All stock will be issued full paid and non-assessable.

THE ROSE OF THE RING

"Not his greatest, by many, sir. He's very strange, is Sir Felix. Even those who're always in the house can't quite understand him."

Marc did not encourage further disclosures on the part of the butler.

Tired and hungry after his journey, he seated himself at the table, and did justice to the repast set before him.

"Is the nurse with Sir Felix?" he asked, as he refilled his wineglass.

"Yes, sir; she went to him directly you came out of the room."

Marc lapsed again into silence.

He had lighted his cigarette, and was watching the tiny clouds of smoke as they curled up from his lips.

The rain was still falling steadily, and he could hear the sound of the sea beating on the shore, telling him how desolate the night was without.

Was it less dreary in these great, stately rooms?

As he asked himself this question, a shrill cry broke on his ears—a cry full of ghastly fear and horror.

He threw his cigarette onto a plate, and started to his feet.

"What is that?" he gasped. "A man's voice calling for help!"

The cry was repeated again and again, each time growing wilder and louder.

Marc rushed into the hall, paused until the cry again pierced his ears, then leaped upstairs, and sprang to the door of the room in which he had left Sir Felix.

He was not mistaken; the cries were here, and, as he pushed open the door and entered the room, a sight met his gaze that made him pause dumbly.

Sir Felix had risen from his chair, and was standing on the hearth-rug, his hand pressed to his brow, his attitude one of shrinking terror.

Close to him, trying to calm him with her soft voice, was the nurse, and, even at this moment, Marc could not help being struck by her beauty.

"Take her away! Take her away!" Sir Felix shrieked. "She's holding a knife over me, and trying to kill me. I can already feel the blow! I can see the blood on her hands! Take her away! Take her away! She will murder me!"

Gretchen took his hand, and held it in a firm clasp.

"I will not hurt you! Dear Sir Felix, be calm—be calm for my sake!"

He looked into her face, quieted by her touch; but there was a greater fear in his eyes, and drops of moisture gathered on his brow.

"It's she who's dead!" he whispered hoarsely. "Her hands are white, and there's no blood on the knife! It's better for her to be dead than that knife be reeking with my blood! Oh, God! If she would only shut her eyes! If she would not haunt me with her staring gaze!"

The paroxysm did not last long.

He sank back, shivering in his chair, and Gretchen knelt by his side until the terror had gone from his mind.

She released his hand from her clasp, and looked slowly round the room.

Her glance fell on Marc, of whose presence she had not been conscious until this moment.

Rising, she went towards him, her pale face betraying no sign of emotion.

"Do not let Sir Felix know you have seen him in this state of distress," she whispered. "He is sensitive on the point of these attacks, and will not have them mentioned."

"How often do the paroxysms occur?" Marc enquired, gazing apprehensively towards the trembling form in the chair.

"Not frequently. I think they are a species of nightmare. He was dozing in his chair, when he suddenly awoke with those shrieks you heard."

"Is he all right now?"

"Yes, we can leave him—he would rather be alone."

Marc left the room, followed by Gretchen.

She stopped to close the door, and, as she bent over the lock, he saw a strange smile steal to her lips.

She glanced up quickly, and met his eyes.

The smile had gone from her face, and its expression was once more impenetrable.

He had a better opportunity of studying her features when they were in the well-lighted drawing-room—a room which had been thrown open for Marc's special benefit.

Looking at her, he wondered how it was she came to be a sick-nurse, so great was her beauty, so full of exquisite refinement her every movement.

She wore the plain, uniform garb of a sisterhood.

Her dress was pale grey, falling in straight folds to the ground; on her head she wore a large cap, drooping like wings, at each side of her face.

A white apron completed the costume.

"I do not think there is cause for great anxiety on Sir Felix Errol's account," she said, without looking at Marc. "Excepting for these attacks—which are not frequent—he enjoys very good health."

"I am glad to hear it," Marc replied. "I was afraid matters were worse, and that you were having a hard time of it with your patient."

Gretchen smiled, and raised her dark eyes for an instant to his gaze.

"I do not fill the role of nurse so much as that of companion to Sir Felix. He leads such a solitary life. I do not know what he would do without me."

"I suppose you know why he has invited me to Drayton Court?" Marc observed, studying the perfect lines of her face, as she stood looking down at the fire.

"I believe he wishes you to paint his portrait," she answered, without any show of interest.

"And your own."

"Mine!" she exclaimed, with a quick look towards him. "He did not tell me he desired you to execute a portrait of myself. What will he do with it?"

"Keep it as a companion to his, I suppose."

"I wish he would give it to me," she said, her voice for the first time betraying earnestness. "I should like it above everything in the world—I should, indeed!"

Marc was carried away by her beauty.

Her great, dark eyes were lifted to his, a flush had come to her cheeks, giving the warm, living glow which her face had lacked when he had first looked at it.

"If you would honor me by accepting a picture of yourself, I should be most happy to paint it," he replied, with the courtesy so natural to him. "I shall have plenty of time—if you do not mind giving me the sittings."

Her eyes sparkled with pleasure.

"Thank you," she said. "I am grateful to you for your kind offer. I shall not find the sittings too long."

Then, with a slight frown, she added:

"Does Sir Felix wish me painted in this dress?"

"Yes; he wants it to be an exact likeness in every detail."

"And the one you will give me—will you mind, if I ask you to change the costume?"

"Certainly not—though you could hardly decide upon anything more becoming than what you are wearing."

"I should like to be painted as a bride," she said; "with a veil and orange-blossoms on my head—and a wedding-ring on my finger."

"It shall be as you wish," he replied, looking at her with fresh curiosity. "With you for my model, I cannot fail to make the picture a pleasing one."

LIEUT.-COL. GREENWOOD ON SOUTH AFRICAN AFFAIRS

Lieut-Col. H. S. Greenwood, resident engineer of the Transvaal Government Railway at Johannesburg, and who has charge of the work of locating and marking the graves of the Canadian soldiers who fell in the Boer War, is in the city, and a guest of the Hon. Mr. Justice Osler.

To a reporter of The News this morning Lieut-Col. Greenwood stated that no great difficulty was being met with in the work of locating the graves of the Canadian soldiers. The majority of the crosses and stones which had been of the dead inscribed thereupon were still in position, and had not been defaced in any sense of the word. The work at present was being carried on by a staff, who were giving their services voluntarily, and the work of the Loyal Woman's Guild, of South Africa, and of the Canadian Association at Kimberley, was worthy of the highest praise. The work of placing the stones would necessarily take considerable time, but no difficulties were anticipated.

Speaking of the Government Railways in the Transvaal, and the Orange River Colony, Col. Greenwood stated that they were a paying undertaking, having made a net profit last year of $2,000,000. The rates were, of course, high, the passenger rates being 4 cents a mile, and the freight rates accordingly. It was proposed to build 1,100 miles of new railway just as soon as the labor difficulties were settled, as it was impossible at present to obtain workmen, owing to the dearth of the supply. These new roads would open up many new sections of territory. Another innovation was the constructing of sidings to the mouths of the pits of the mines, for the purpose of hauling the coal direct from the coal mines to the gold mines. Some work was being done on the extension of the Cape to Cairo Railway from Buluwayo north, and it was likely that the road would be built to Victoria Falls on the Zambesi River, the enormous power of which was expected to be harnessed and developed.

The labor problem was the most conspicuous public question today in South Africa. There were about 90,000 blacks at work who received wages of 12.50 and board per month, but the supply of workmen was not sufficient, and as a consequence many needful works could not be carried out. Lord Milner, who had given great attention to the question had, in a public letter, before leaving South Africa, stated that Chinese labor would not be brought in unless absolutely necessary.

Prices of food and rent were high in South Africa, said Col. Greenwood, and he believed the laborer and skilled artisan did just as well in Canada.

TO THE SUFFE RING.

The following testimonial may be read with interest to sufferers from skin eruptions or eczema:

January, 20th, 1903.

Dear Sirs,—I notice your advt. in a paper about your wonderful eczema cure and I feel it my duty to tell you that I was induced to try it as I had been afflicted with skin trouble in my hands for 11 years. I have tried several doctors and they done my no good. I only used one box of Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema. It has made a complete cure. I recommend it to all suffering from skin disease. My hand was so bad that the nails used to come off. You can use my name if you wish.

Yours truly,
MR. JOHN WOOD,
Peake Station, P.E.I.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh is also one of the best remedies on the market. We are daily in receipt of letters telling how much they have done for the afflicted. Miss Sarah Hill, 412 Front Street, Traverse City, Mich., writes: "I have been wonderfully helped by the use of your catarrh cure; send me another dollar's worth."

Peter D. McFadyen, Riverdale, P.E.I., writes: "I am very busy, but just drop a line to say I highly recommend your catarrh cure. It has done great work for me. I am so much better."

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, coughs, lame back, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even which the diseases have been standing for many years; the most stubborn chills will yield. For sale by Ormond & Walsh, Peterborough. 50c per box or 3 boxes for $1.25.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. [illegible] will be paid for any case that is not permanently cured.

A Groom's Voluntary.

Sir Frederick Bridge, the English musician, is a good story teller, according to T.A.T., and has a fund of amusing personal experiences to draw upon. One of the great musician's best stories is about a provincial church organist, who was once a pupil of his. This young man was appointed to an important church in the Midlands. In course of time he married. During his absence his voluntaries were much missed by the congregation. They had always been appreciated, and their renewal was looked forward to. "Imagine," says Sir Frederick Bridge, "the intense amusement of the people when the newly-married organist gave as his first voluntary, upon his return, Handel's 'Waft Her, Angels, to the Skies.'"

To Build Cruisers.

As a result of the recent naval manoeuvres the British authorities are considering the advisability of building some "dogging" cruisers, to pursue battleship fleets of the enemy and pounce on those which are forced to fall behind. The Bacchante and the Aboukir "dogged" Lord Charles Beresford's fleet in this way almost to the Azores. The flagship Majestic had something the matter with her engines. She was frequently compelled to slow down. Then the big, heavily armed cruisers of the pursuing fleet would swoop down on her. It was necessary to slow down the entire squadron several times for her protection.

"Another point of much interest is that of speed in battleships," writes a British naval authority. "Those who have been engaged in the manoeuvres would have done much better with a few knots more in hand. There are experienced flag officers who say that high speed in battleships is not essential. Yet if gun powder and protection go before it, speed is, in nine cases out of ten, the only thing that can enable a strong fleet to bring a weak one to action. It is the factor that enforces victory and will enable the British fleet to carry on its old policy of seeking out the enemy to destroy him wherever he may be found."

The Wrong Man.

They had been married only a few months, and the wife stood by the side of her husband looking into one of the department store windows. A handsome tailor-made dress took her fancy, and she left her husband to examine it more closely. Then she went back to him, still talking.

"You never look at anything I want to look at any more," she complained. "You don't care how I dress. You don't care for me any more. Why, you haven't kissed me for two weeks."

"Indeed, I am sorry, but it is not my fault," said the man.

Turning, the lady looked at him and gasped. She had taken the arm of the wrong man.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Baloon Trip.

There is nothing exciting about a balloon voyage. You take your place in a shallow wicker basket; decide to take a picture of the crowd as you leave the earth; hear the order "let go," and before you can press the button the crowd has evaporated—sunk out of sight—and the rest is a moving picture show, with no sense of motion, the air delightfully cool and absolute silence. Presently a voice, apparently from another balloon a long way off, asks how you like the journey. You have exactly the same trouble with your hearing you had while in the caisson, but from an opposite cause—there pressure, here rarefaction. In this case, too, the act of swallowing brings relief. A balloon trip is for all the world like sitting in a dentist's chair and taking a whiff of gas, followed by a pleasant dream. But, of course, instead of taking gas, gas is taking you. Photography under these conditions is a very simple matter—pointing the lens over the edge of the basket, waiting until the desired object comes into view, and the snapshot is taken.—W. N. Jennings, in Booklovers' Magazine.

A Quiet Village.

It seems hardly credible, says The London Telegraph, that not more than thirty minutes from all the noise and bustle of Paris there lies a village that is so quiet, so peaceful and so old-fashioned that one would imagine one's self at least one hundred miles away from the gay capital. Here at this village, La Frette by name, and about fifteen minutes' walk from Cormeilles, preparations for midday and evening repasts have to be made very early in the morning, for no such thing as a good shop is anywhere near, and the walk to Cormeilles is one which one considers twice before taking, for it is up steep and rough roads. So daily butcher, baker and greengrocer pass this quaint little place, and the villagers gather round the various tradesmen and make their purchases for the day. They also buy their clothes in this way, and may often be seen trying on bonnets, dresses and boots in the middle of the street. From a scenic point of view, all artists have agreed that there is no place to equal La Frette between Paris and Havre. To the left of the village is the park of Maisons Laffitte, and facing the park is Sartrouville, while opposite lies the forest of St. Germain, in all its green splendor. To the right is Herblay, quite an important place, whose church is visible for miles along the Seine. La Frette itself has the quaintest villagers possible. Many of them speak worse French than those of the Midi, and it is an event indeed when one takes a journey up to the capital. They are thriftiest of the thrifty. Only a short time ago one of the peasants gave his daughter no less a sum than 250,000 francs on her wedding day, and another is to receive the same amount on her approaching marriage. And yet this man, who must be worth 4,000,000 or 5,000,000 francs at least, lives in a patched-up old house and digs in the fields from early morning till late at night.

Be Regular in Milking.

The cow is a creature of habit, and therefore the time and manner of milking should vary as little as possible from day to day. The yield of milk will sometimes vary by reason of matters of such small moment that we fail to reckon them. From our results a change in milkers showed a small average loss in yield. Some cows were not affected at all, while others gave a slightly reduced yield. This will depend, however, upon the ability of the milker. Carlyle found no appreciable difference in the frequent changing of milkers. Tracy found by a good milker following a careless one an increase with five cows of 244 pounds of milk in two weeks.

Cows fed at milking time are apt to hold their milk when the customary feed is withheld. This may occur even when the animals have access to abundant pasture. This is so noticeable with some of the station cows that it is advisable to give them a little grain through the summer season to induce them to give down their milk. Emery notes that a cow that gave over seven pounds of milk gave only two pounds when her customary feed was withheld at milking time.

Allowing cows to miss a milking has a tendency to dry them up, and is liable to cause an injury to the udder, some cows being affected much more than others in this respect.—(Bulletin No. 106, Kentucky Agricultural College.)

REMOVING DIFFICULTIES.

JOHN LLOYD LEE, D. D., Pastor Westminster Presbyterian Church, New York City.

Take ye away the stone.—St. John, xi., 39.

On the one side of the stone door of Lazarus' tomb stood the dark messenger we call death; on the other, the mighty King of all life; for Lazarus had been dead four days, and Christ had come to undo the work of death and to give to the young man the most precious of all gifts—that is, life.

He who had created the worlds and had kept them in right relations through all the ages so that they go singing on their journey could have hurled that stone away with a word. But, since he was working from the human side, He must needs respect human conditions and give man a share in His glorious work and also a chance to learn the lessons of His great life on earth, for Christ's mission was not so much to make eternal impressions on matter on the outer world, as to make impressions on mind—the human soul.

It happens, then, that the chief service of man to his fellow-men is to clear away difficulties that the Divine Person and power may work, as on that day human hands had to roll away the stone from before the tomb that Lazarus might feel the thrill of life. Difficulties are of various kinds, but all alike prevent the free working of divine power in the soul. A non-conductor has come between God and man, and this must be removed from the human side because of human sin. This is why Christ came around from the side of divinity to the side of humanity, bringing His divinity with Him to give effectiveness to salvation.

The business of discovery in the natural world is to clear away hindrances and to make channels for forces which were long ago reposed in nature right under our hands and so near that they actually touch us. Just as the great discoveries in electricity consist in giving direction to that mighty power that it may become a thing of service rather than a means of destruction, so the chief business of religion is to clear away the difficulties in the divine path so that God may work naturally in the hearts of men. Martha was unhappy in the incident of the text because she was not willing to make way for the full working of the power of God. Most of the unhappiness of the world is on the same account. Every day we pass by a thousand graves of buried hopes of other people and never once stop to see if we may roll away the stone that the light of God may shine in to give life to the dead.

How wonderful it would be if we could fully realize that Christ stands on the human side of every trial and every trouble and every disappointment and every sin and says:—"You do your part and I will do Mine! You remove all that the human hand can take away and I will banish the rest, as with a word I put death to flight at Lazarus' tomb." It may not be much that you can do, but if it is ever so little it must be done before the divine power can work. The world can never be made better without positive effort. The cheerful face, the willing heart, the forgiving spirit, the helping hand and the godlike purpose make the journey of life a grand march of triumph.

But we are also to remove the stone of indifference. Many people were there that day who did not seem to care much whether Lazarus ever lived or not; and even Martha seemed indifferent to any effort on the part of the Saviour. So we find in the world to-day the head-shaking and hand-wringing people who say:—"It will do no good; there is no use in trying."

It is your place and mine to hit hard at this world's weight of sorrow that the resurrection power of God may give life to a dead world. Martha and those who were with her have taught us how we may roll away the stone of unbelief and have the power of new and greater life; for when they hesitated and doubted He asked: "Said I not unto thee that if thou wouldst believe thou shouldst see the glory of God?"

Then can we not see the glory of God without believing? No, we cannot. It is the only way. There is many a dark grave of departed faith sealed forever because we do not believe enough to reach out a hand to help. There are thousands of them in this city.

When they believed and removed the stone, what matchless glory did they see! It is only by faith that you may see the glory of God. When we hear that an astronomer has discovered a new comet we do not read that he found it with the unaided eye. He saw it with his telescope long before the rest of us knew anything about it. When a man announces a mighty truth of God, that he has seen its beauty and felt its power, though we do not see it, we know that it has been made known to him by the wonderful reach and revelation of faith. When we were in the observatory searching for the stars and could not find them the teacher said:—"Get the focus; see that you are on the right line of vision: then you will see."

Then do we in religious things turn and ask:—"What has the focus to do with it? Can I not see? Have I not eyes?"

The answer comes:—"Yes, you have eyes; but they are for nearby service; use the telescope for the sweep of the universe."

So say we who teach the high and eternal things of the everlasting kingdom. First clear away the difficulties in the divine path, obeying the command, "Take ye away the stone," then turn and use faith, God's eternal means by which you may look into the surpassing glories of heaven. For, "Said I not unto thee that if thou wouldst believe thou shouldst see the glory of God?"

"Mary," said the mother to her little daughter, "I wish you would run over and see how old Mrs. Jones is; she has been quite ill."

In a few minutes Mary came running back and reported: "She said to tell you it was none of your business."

"Why, Mary," said the astonished mother, "what did you ask her?"

"Just what you told me to," replied the little girl. "I told her you wanted to know how old she was."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Cost of Pasteurizing.

Experiments conducted at the Royal Experiment Station in Copenhagen prove that if a pasteurizer is properly constructed and properly operated it will require about 90 pounds of steam for heating 1,000 pounds of milk from 90 to 185 degrees F., says M. Mortenson. If we figure that it takes one pound of coal to produce four pounds of steam, to produce ninety pounds of steam will then require 23 pounds of coal. Figuring coal at $4 per ton, and our butter yield 4 1-2 pounds butter to 100 pounds milk, makes the cost of pasteurizing one pound of butter about one-tenth of a cent. This expense, however, is reduced considerably by pasteurizing the cream and skimmed milk separately. The cream is reduced to such a small amount that the expense per pound will be very little. For pasteurization of skimmed milk the exhaust steam can be used; this is also more satisfactory to the patron, as milk when pasteurized after skimming is warm enough to scald the cans, and the milk keeps sweet longer.

Effect of Thinning Tomatoes.

At the Arkansas Agricultural Experimental Station experiments have been conducted to determine the effects of systematic thinning of tomato crops on the size of the fruit.

In cultivating the plants under trial, all lateral branches below the first cluster of blossoms were pruned off with a sharp knife. The plants were tied to stakes, and the lot that were allowed to produce what fruit they would received no further attention than the necessary cultivation of the surrounding soil and occasional retying to the stakes as the plants grew. The plants were all sprayed occasionally with bordeaux mixture, and while the leaves and stems were wet with spray were dusted with paris green mixed with four parts of flour or road dust. The thinned lot were given the same treatment, except that not more than three fruits were allowed to remain on one cluster, and generally only two. The thinning was done as soon as the young tomatoes were half or three-quarters of an inch in diameter. The dead blossoms were removed as soon as possible to prevent deforming. Frequently the young tomatoes, when not more than one-fourth of an inch in diameter, would show an irregular or improper shape, and this was of considerable advantage in enabling the selection of only the best fruit to remain on the vines. The thinning was done with a sharp knife.

Deficient rainfall and excessive high temperature during the season affected the thinned plots less than those not thinned, since a majority of the fruit on the former had ripened very early.

The tomatoes grown were mostly large kinds, Mikado, Ponderosa, Stone, Favorite, Imperial. On the thinned vines the average number of fruit per vine was 9.7, the average weight of fruit per vine was 9.57 pounds and the average weight of each tomato was 15.82 pounds. On the unthinned vines the average number of fruit per vine was 24.6, the average weight of fruit per vine was 10.60 pounds, the average weight of each tomato being 6.86 pounds. While the weight of crop was decreased one-tenth by thinning, the bulk would have been about the same, as large tomatoes fill up faster.

These results are interesting, as showing what can be done in the way of producing large tomatoes. For commercial requirements enormous fruits are not so much required nor so profitable as an even grade of medium size, the buyer being influenced more by the weight of the case than anything else.

Canadian Apples Wanted in France.

The Extension of Markets Division of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, has recently received letters from two firms in Paris, France, making inquiries as to the apple crop in Canada this year and the steamship service between Canada and France; also asking for the names of some of the leading exporters of apples with whom business conections might be made.

Tonic for Swine.

The following is a favorite mixture among some of the large hog-raisers of the central west. It is thought to aid digestion, assist bone-building and help expel bowel worms. It comprises charcoal, one and one-half bushels; common salt, four pounds; hardwood ashes, ten pounds; slacked lime, four pounds. To be kept in a box where the hogs can eat what they need.

For scours in colts, mix powdered charcoal and prepared chalk equally, and put a spoonful where the colt can lick or eat it at will. Also give twice per day five drops of nux vomica; give this on the tongue. Let the colt out in the field, where it can have a little short pasture and get to the ground.

Any cow can be milked dry in a few weeks by irregular milking, sometimes at intervals of twenty-four hours and sometimes six. Separation from her usual company, a change to a new location, a strange milker and scolding voice are sources of irritation that more or less impair the milking qualities of the cow.

More and more as the making and keeping of milk are studied and investigated, the importance of uncontaminated surroundings are appreciated as important. A dirty kitchen floor may not at all affect the cleanliness of the meal cooked in the kitchen, but knowledge of the dirt usually affects the appetite of the fastidious eater. But in the matter of milk production, unclean surroundings actually do affect the character of the milk by contamination. Evil communications affect good milk.

An amusing story is being told among lawyers of a Walloon peasant who had gone to law with a neighbor. In conversation with his lawyer he suggested sending the Magistrate a fine couple of ducks.

"Not on your life," said his adviser. "If you do you'll lose the case."

The judgment was given in his favor, when he turned to his lawyer and said, "I sent the ducks." Astonishment on the latter's part turned to admiration when his client continued: "But I sent them in my neighbor's name."- I go

A Wily Desert Fighter.

The Mad Mullah, who is responsible for the recent British disaster, calls himself a Mahdi; but though in some ways he resembles the great fanatic of the Soudan, he much more resembles the famous Boer leader, De Wet.

He pervades Somaliland with his horde of fanatical followers, just as De Wet and his commando pervaded the Transvaal. He is reported to be in several places at once, and always turns up at some other place.

His happy hunting ground is the desert called the Haud, in the interior of Somaliland. It is a small Soudan, from 120 to 200 miles across, and almost utterly waterless.

He is a man in the prime of life, tall and spare—an ascetic of the desert. He is not beautiful by western standards, but his face, for all its African moulding, is strong, fierce and virile. He wears a straggling "goatee" beard.

He is low-born, and has acquired his influence in much the same manner as a western demagogue raises himself to be a leader of the people—to wit, by talking. Also, he has practised on the superstition inherent in the African by representing himself as semi-divine. His pretensions are doubtless the more convincing because he believes in them himself.

His followers believe in him implicitly. He has worked miracles before their eyes. A British warship was off the Somali coast one night and was playing her searchlight on the land. The Mullah's followers, encamped in a jungle near the sea, beheld this wondrous new star with awe, and appealed to the Mullah to explain it.

The Mullah had seen searchlights at Aden.

"It is the eye of Allah searching for me, the new Mahomet," he said.

And at that very moment the weird beam flooded the camp of the raiders with a supernatural light. The blacks fell on their faces, crying to the Mullah:—

"Thou art truly the Elect, the Chosen, the Master. Our goods, our existence, our souls belong to thee. We place ourselves entirely at the disposal of thy will."

His father was a shepherd of the Ogadens, a turbulent tribe in the south of Somaliland, and his mother came from the Dolbahantes, an equally turbulent tribe in the north of Somaliland.

From his childhood he was educated for a mullah or priest. His name is Hali Muhammed Abdullah. A Hali is one who has made the Haj or pilgrimage to Mecca. Muhammed is, of course, the name of the Prophet, and Abdullah means "servant of God," so that if there is anything in a name the Mullah is a very holy man indeed.

At one time he was friendly to the British. It is said that his fanatical hatred of Christians was first aroused by finding some French missionaries in Somaliland training up the native children as Christians.

He commenced preaching at Aden so eloquently that he attracted a large number of followers, and subsequently the attention of the British Government, who ordered him to "move on," fearing that he and his disciples might get out of hand.

He retired into the Somali desert, proclaimed a Jehad, or holy war, against the Christian dogs, and started a series of raids on the neighboring territories—British, Italian and Abyssinian.

Skim Milk for Poultry.

One very good way of disposing of the surplus skim milk with profit is to feed it to the poultry. As a feed for poultry it furnishes the material for making growth in a palatable, easily-digested form. For this reason it is especially valuable as an addition to a grain ration which is liable to lack in the materials to make growth.

The Indiana experiment station fed two lots of growing chickens exactly alike, except one lot received all the skim milk they would eat, in addition to the grain ration. The lot having grain, but no skim milk, made an average gain of 2.62 ounces per week. The lot receiving skim milk made a gain of 4.46 ounces. The conclusion of this experiment was as follows:—

"If skim milk be added to the ration fed young chickens, it will increase the consumption of other foods given. The greatest increase in gain was coincident with the period when the greatest amount of skim milk was consumed. Skim milk is especially valuable as a food for young chickens during the hot, dry weather, and becomes of less importance as the chickens grow older and the weather becomes cooler."

The New York experiment station found skim milk a very economical feed for producing growth in chickens. In these experiments the skim milk was valued at 25 cents per 100 pounds, but some careful poultry-feeders believe 50 cents per hundred not too high in valuation.

Skim milk can be fed sweet or after it is quite thick and sour. It is necessary, in feeding it in any form to poultry, to take great care that the troughs or utensils in which it is fed be kept clean. Lack of attention to this point is about the only cause of poor results from feeding skim milk as an addition to the grain ration for poultry.—Maine Farmer.

As a general rule, for the hatching of chickens 21 days are required; for partridges, 24 days; for pheasants, 25 days; for guinea hens, 25 days; for common ducks, 28 days; for pea-fowls, 28 days; for turkeys, 28 days; for Barbara ducks, 30 days, and for geese, 30 days.

According to The Glasgow Weekly Mail, a novel device for the recording of votes has just been tried in connection with the Liverpool City Council, with a view to its adoption. A member seated in his place has two electric buttons at his command, the one representing "for" and the other "against." On the platform at the back of the Lord Mayor's chair there is a framework with a couple of discs opposite the name of each Councillor, and immediately a member presses a button it is seen how he has voted. The apparatus shows at a glance the member voting in each division.

Melbourne, Oct. 17—The Federal Senate by a vote of 19 to 18, has rejected the action of the House in selecting Tumut, New South Wales, as the capital of the Commonwealth. The Senate then selected Bombala, which was favored by the Victorians, as the Federal capital. This will likely lead to a serious deadlock between the two Houses.

THE STERLING OIL CO.

brought in on Monday the 20th of July one of the biggest gushers in Sour Lake. It is situated in the Wirt-Davis tract and has been producing oil continuously since it came in, the Spindletop Power Com- taking the entire output from the well. Besides owning this the Company owns two other valuable pieces of Oil Land at [illegible] Lake, where they have just let a contract for drilling a second well in the gusher district. The Company has acquired a twelfth interest in 87 acres of land near Saratoga and a well will soon be drilled on this land, the indications are that fine gushers will be developed in this territory. The Company also owns property in Beaumont, Texas where there are two wells.

All who purchase the stock prior to September 15th. will participate in the September dividend. The price of the stock is 20 cents per share. No orders accepted for less than 50 shares.

COPETE MINING CO.

27 William Street, New York

Capital Stock, $5,000,000. Par Value of Shares, $5

More than forty-five per cent. of the Stock is in the Treasury.

The Company has very rich and valuable properties in the Copete Mining District, in Sonora, Mexico. The properties are not only rich in copper, but so rich in gold that they were worked as gold mines by the Mexicans for more than a hundred years.

Extensive works, including a two hundred ton smelter, water works with four miles of heavy piping, and buildings and machinery appropriate to the enterprise have been erected.

This smelter in a short run produced something over $160,000.

The property has been recommended by some of the best scientists of the country. Among them are—Professor George A. Treadwell, the well known metallurgist; Professor Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey; Mr. Seymour W. Tulloch, Civil Engineer, Washington, D. C.; Mr. George Mitchell, formerly with the United Verde and Greene Consolidated; Mr. Erwin D. Treadwell, Mining Engineer and Geologist and Manager of the George A. Treadwell Mining Company.

The internal troubles of the company which caused it to suspend operations about fourteen months ago, have all been happily adjusted and the company has now clear and undisputed title to all the extensive and valuable properties on which it has been working.

A portion of the Treasury stock is offered for sale—to complete the development and equipment of the property—now for a short time only at $2.50 a share. Make checks payable to the order of the company and send to 27 William Street New York.

STOCK MARKETS

The following advices were received by Mr. J. Cummings & Co., 166 Simcoe street, over their private wire—

New York, October 20. — American stocks in London 1-4 to 5-8 above parity. Erie plans expenditure of $25,000,000 on improvements. 27 roads 2nd week of October show gross average increase of 7.19 per cent. Atchison officials say enormous business will prevent any reduction in number of employees. Banks gained $321,000 since Friday through sub-treasury. Believed railroads will concede reduced freight rates to U. S. Steel Corporation only in exchange for lower prices for steel rails. 12 industrials declined 1.83 per cent. 20 roads declined 3.07 per cent.

Chicago, October 20.—The primary movement reflected substantial accumulation, while clearances were small, at less than 200,000 bushels. The crop news generally was favorable. There was some fair selling of wheat in the latter part of the day. The corn market showed some strength at times, and on the better levels quite a little stuff was sold by scattered longs. There was a fair cash demand. The statistics were less bullish, but the changes on the whole were not very important. Crop news was bearish. The market for oats was weak. There was a fair demand at the lower prices. The world's visible supply increased substantially. There was a moderate cash demand, and the exports were small. The trade in provision was slow. There was a mixed feeling. The cash business was slow. The hog movement in general was about up to the expectations.

Chicago, October 20.—Annual report of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy are for year ending June 30, just issued, shows an increase i ngross earnings of $4,543,134 and in net earnings of $4,983,581. The surplus was increased by $3,226,149. The report calls attention to the fact that the length of road operated June 30 was 8,324 miles, as against 8,134 at the end of the previous fiscal year.

New York Chief of Police.

Mr. William Devery, whose term as Chief of Police of New York was marked by an administration the evil and shame of which have not yet been eradicated, is a Mayoralty candidate in the big city. A New York Tribune reporter thus records an interview with the "Big Chief," as Devery is familiarly known:

Let Tammany and fusion worry about the Mayoralty campaign!

"No worry in mine," says the Chief Bug. "Bill" Devery. "I've got things cinched; I can't lose."

And so certain is he of this that he will not even consider his future moves, in case he doesn't win.

"'There's goin' to be a revolution—a revolution by the peepul, an' the peepul are goin' to get in control. The trusts don't realise that, and the newspapers don't seem to be on to the game. An' say, pard, Tammany Hall don't seem to think that the peepul are tired of havin' their votes stole from them, but they are. I tell you, there's things goin' to be doin' this campaign, and I'm goin' to win out on this Mayor-alty fight, as well as at the primaries. I was never in a losin' fight yet."

So said the Big Chief yesterday—said it, and really meant it. He had spent the afternoon in conferences with his henchmen, among them Assemblyman "Dick" Butler and "Sam" Parks and his bodyguard. As a relaxation, Devery surveyed the general political field.

"We're goin' to have a rip-sizzle of a day to-morrow," he began. "Our biggest meeting will be right here at headquarters, but we'll have another at Tenth avenue and Twenty-eighth street, and one at Eighth avenue and Twenty-first street. If my encyclopædia holds out, I expect to toddle around to each one. Tammany's spending a lot of money in this district—all it can borrow, I guess. Maybe Croker'll send over some. Will he ever come back? Sure thing! And when he does, you'll see Charlie Murphy (he's no more than a wooden Indian in front of a cigar store) stand on his head, while all the leaders go back to Croker. Now, I'm goin' to win out in the primaries, but I wouldn't take the job of distric' leader from Tammany Hall. I wouldn't be leader of the Wigwam, but when I'm elected there'll be a house-cleanin' over that way. Murphy'll go back to the gas retorts, and some of the others'll never be heard of again. They say all the Sheehan leaders went over to Goodwin. Well, I'll bet I get more than Goodwin. Sheehan and I was both cheated of our rights by Tammany. Sheehan's men are Democrats, and they're goin' to stand by me. Sheehan and I never had a voice in appointin' the election inspectors. I hear that some of them are goin' to load up the boxes. They might throw 'em in the East River. Let 'em try it! I'll have a lawyer at every pollin' place, and if they try to monkey I'll land 'em in the station house. I hear there'll be floaters from Paterson and the Bowery and the eighteenth district. Well, they'd better stay east of Seventh avenue, 'cause the wind changes often over here, and we're liable to have a equinoxial.

"Take my tip, boys. I'm goin' to win. Are you with me?"

The Most Valuable Knife.

The most valuable knife in the world is to be seen in the collection of a famous firm of cutlers in Sheffield. It is large enough to fit the pocket of none but a giant and contains seventy-five blades, which close up like those of an ordinary knife. Each of the larger blades is elaborately engraved and among the subjects of these strange pictures are views of Sheffield College, the City of York, Windsor Castle, Arundel Castle and a score of other famous scenes. The hafts are of mother of pearl, carved with great skill. On one side the artist has depicted a stag hunt and on the other a boar hunt. When asked as to the value of this knife, the firm replied: "Well, we calculated it up to £500, but that was before it was finished, and then we ceased to estimate what it had cost."

The Key of the Empire.

The Saturday Review, London, recently had an article under the caption of "Canada, the Key to the Empire," of which Public Opinion published the following condensation:—"Canada presents all the difficulties of the Imperial problem, and all the aids to the solution, in an acute form. It is the only self-governing colony in which the interest of a foreign country has reached, under our happy-go-lucky system, enormous dimensions. . . . The growth of Canada in recent years is not due so much to British as to United States enterprise, and it must be obvious to all who study the problem that if we fail now (to consolidate the empire), nothing can stop the separation of Canada from the United Kingdom and its ultimate absorption by the United States. If Canada goes, other colonies must follow, and the disintegration of the British Empire will be the distinguishing feature of the nineteenth century history. If we succeed, we shall not only solve the Canadian problem; the consolidation of the empire presents no greater problem than that. It is not a time in which we can adopt the free trade text, 'Let us eat and drink free food, for to-morrow we die.' . . . An Imperial policy is based upon the fact that it is the interest of the empire that it should be adopted; that the United Kingdom will secure a fresh lease of life for those economic energies which otherwise in no very distant future must decay; and that the colonies will achieve a more rapid development than is possible in isolation. English people, at any rate those who reject the free trade nostrums, should be the first to admit that the present arrangement with Canada, if made permanent, and unaccompanied with a change on our part, must be unsatisfactory from the Canadian point of view and incompatible with local aspirations. If we reciprocate by stimulating the wheat production of Canada, their manufacturers will find ample scope for all their energies in the increased economic activity which the influx of population and its demand for all kinds of commodities will insure, while at the same time there will be an ever-widening market for the more highly specialised industries of the United Kingdom. In this movement there can be no question of the surrender of their independence and freedom of action by any of the colonies. We are not going to revive the mercantile system. Nothing more is required at any stage of Imperial consolidation than an Imperial Council to aid and advise in the adjustment of the commercial relations of the empire."

Effect of Wind Upon Trains.

The American correspondent of Page's Magazine calls attention to a series of experiments which have been made by the Pacific Electric Railway Company of Los Angeles, California, on the effectiveness of wind brakes in increasing the efficiency of its long-distance inter-urban cars. The tests were made on the Long Beach division of the system, extending from Los Angeles to the ocean, where a stiff wind is encountered, and were attended with results of a most remarkable character. Among the different shaped windbreaks that were tried was one which resembled the cow-catcher of a locomotive, its base being on a level with the floor of the car, and the knife-edged backbone extending upward at an angle of 45 degrees to the top of the car, while the sides rounded off in a convex curve till they coincided with the sides of the car. Eventually the forward part of the structure will be constructed of glass, so that the motorman may sit within the shelter of this hood and control the car without being disturbed. It was found that with this shield it required but 200 h. p. to make a speed of sixty miles per hour, whereas without it 280 h. p. was necessary—a saving of about 30 per cent. in power. Also at a speed of fifty miles per hour the result in favor of the hood was 127 as against 170 h.p. Mr. R. S. Masson, the consulting engineer of the company, under whose directions the tests were made, declares that in the face of these highly satisfactory results there can be no doubt that the windbreak will soon be adopted on all long-distance cars.

King Edward's Visit to Vienna.

Dealing with King Edward's visit to Vienna, The London Chronicle says:—"A grim spectacle seen by the King in his visit to the Imperial burial vault in the Church of the Capuchins has escaped record. It is a row of more than 150 crystal vases, mounted in gold and topped by a crown. Each of these vases contains the heart of a dead Hapsburg. In the thirteenth century the Duke Francis died in Switzerland, and directed that his heart should be removed and sent to Vienna. Ever since this custom has been observed in the Hapsburg family. On the death of a member the heart is removed and preserved in a crystal vase. In the Capuchin vault there are now 152 such vases, and 113 Imperial coffins. The surplus of thirty-nine vases contain the hearts of Hapsburgs whose bodies are buried elsewhere. The sole exception to this Hapsburg custom was that of the late Archduke Ludwig, whose will forbade the removal of his heart.

THREE UNDOUBTED BARGAINS

A placer and two quartz claims;

Two partially developed quartz claims;

One-quarter section patented land adjoining above;

All located in the Susanville Mining District, Eastern Oregon. Will be sold together or separately. Total price, $9,000.

We consider this group of properties to be unusually promising as a heavy producing mine joins a portion of the land, and near-by placer grounds are showing up very rich.

Act quickly, if at all interested.

AN EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY

FOR BOTH LARGE AND SMALL INVESTORS

Owing to valuable Patents having been granted this Company, we are desirous of extending our business to the Dominion of Canada. Owing to the Customs duties, the extra cost in transportation and the numerous expenses attached, and the delays in deliveries in shipping goods from one country to another, it is absolutely necessary that we should have a factory in the Dominion, that we may be in a position to meet the immediate wants of the business

The articles that we make from our Patent Fabric are too numerous to mention, and it is not necessary that we go into the details of the merits of our goods, as they are already in use to a large extent and have no equal. Our goods are covered by several patents, and the profit on the goods is large, averaging from 25 to 100 per cent, thus affording the company large revenue to meet all its obligations

In order to secure funds to equip a plant in the Dominion of Canada we will offer to the people of Canada $100,000 of our Bonds paying ten per cent. interest per annum.

Experience has shown that stocks based upon sound industrial enterprises have never been equalled from the standpoint of legitimate profit. For instance, a few hundred dollars invested in the Bell Telephone Company's stock in the beginning of the enterprise now commands thousands of dollars, after having yielded large dividends annually. Of course opportunities for such profitable investments do not present themselves every day, and it is also very true that a vast amount of capital has been misdirected in the endeavor to exploit inventions and enterprises which shrewd and far seeing investors should have recognized as impractical. But as regards this enterprise even the most conservative must admit it has possibilities of development which are almost incalculable and which have already been demonstrated in a practical manner. We have no speculative elements—this is a sound business proposition, and the patents which we own are worth several million dollars, as there can only be one fabric of this kind and that is ours.

All the above facts are simple statements of the truth and can be fully substantiated to the satisfaction of all investors.

The business is no experiment, the incorporators of this Company have made it their business for a great many months past and understand all the details, the prospects are therefore bright, and brighter than those of many other opportunities.

This Company is not a promotors company, every dollar goes to enhance the value of the property and business and increase the capacity. There is nothing speculative in this proposition, the enterprises are undertaken for industrial purposes only to make profits by the operation and development of the business.

Considering that the enterprise is already upon an established basis with a certainty of profitable future expansion, we feel warranted in the assertion that this is an attractive proposition to investors whether large or small.

The price of these Bonds are one dollar each, and will be issued in any number wanted. With every purchaser of each five Bonds we will give as a bonus, one share of stock of the Company, the par value of which is five dollars per share, thus assuring interest on the investment, and with the stock which is bound to increase you will have for nothing. These Bonds will be issued for five years. Persons desiring to avail themselves of this opportunity want to send their remittance at once.

First Class Mining Proposition.

The Anaconda Gold Mining Co.

Home Office: 412 Merchants Loan and Trust Bldg.
135 Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

This is one of the best propositions ever placed before the Canadian investor. The Company owns 600 acres in the celebrated Black Hills District, South Dakota, comprising 25 claims. The tract is unquestionably on the great Homestake belt, being located directly between the wonderful Homestake mine and the Clover Leaf mine. Two shafts have already been sunk, the main one being down 184 feet, with capacity of going 1000 feet. The Company has also installed an Ingersoll-Sargeant air compressor and drills, 125 horse power boiler, steam pumps, and in fact everything needed for actual operation, with the exception of its stamp mills; which will be installed at once. The vein of gold-bearing quartz traversing the Company's property is very rich. Assays have run from $3 to $54.[illegible] per ton.

The Company has a capital of 1,500,000 shares, divided into 750,000 preferred and 750,000 common, par value $1 per share, fully paid up and non-assessable. The treasury stock has been made preferred stock to the amount of 25 cents a share. Out of the first dividends 25 cents per share will be paid to the owners of this preferred stock before holders of common stock [illegible] the profits. After the 25 cents has been paid to the shareholders of preferred stock, then all alike share in the dividends. This means nothing less than that the first investors in the enterprise will have all their money returned to them before any dividends are declared to the rank and file o investors.

A limited amount of Stock has been placed on the Canadian market. Full particulars and copy of prospectus may be obtained from MR. R. J. KIDD, or the undersigned Agent for Peterborough city

IF YOU HAVE

CATARRH

Remember the best Catarrh m dicine that m ney can buy is Catarrhozone; it cures quickly and perma ently wh n all else fails

The remedy don't exist that will cure Catarrh as quickly as Catarrhozone. It relieves the most stubborn cases in a short time, and drives the disease so thoroughly from the system that it never returns.

Druggists boldy recommend Catarrhozone in preference to other remedies, because they know it is the best, and every progressive doctor prescribed it for the same good reason.

Catarrhozone is a rational, common-sense treatment that finds favor with everybody. It cures by the inhalation of medicated air, which comes into contact with the mucous surface of all the breathing organs. It gets at the source of the trouble, kills the germs and drives every vestige of catarrh right out of the system.

It doesn't matter how deep-seated or chronic your case may be, Catarrhozone can cure it. Even though a thousand other remedies have failed, don't give up hope till you have used Catarrhozone. It has cured other cases probably worse than yours, and will cure yours if it gets a chance.

Mr. Dutcher Law, a prominent citizen of Italy Cross, N.S., says: "I experimented with hundreds of catarrh remedies and found the majority to be worthless, dismal failures. Catarrhozone was the first to give lasting relief; it cured me and I am with pleasure testifying to its merits as a cure for Catarrh of the nose and throat.

(Signed) DUTCHER LAW.

You are sure to derive the most pleasant results from Catarrhozone. It has been tested many times and never found wanting. Every druggist in Canada sells it. Complete two months' treatment, guaranteed to cure costs $1, or a trial size 25c. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Furious Driving

Yesterday morning at the County Police Court W. Kearns and B. Hill were charged with fast and furious driving at Norwood on Thursday last, when they ran down and injured Wm. Fitzgerald. The particulars of the affair appeared in The Times on Friday last. The case was remanded until Monday next.

A Fatal Runaway

A horse belonging to Mr. John Dainty, carter, ran away on Monday evening. The animal bolted down Brock street to Bethune, where it struck the upright part of the railway switch. The horse's neck was broken by the contact. The loss of Mr. Dainty is one that he will feel. We are pleased to see that a subscription list has been started to buy him another horse, and we understand it is being largely signed.

Hunting Season

The Grand Trunk Railway have issued a very handsome and illustrated pamphlet, entitled, "Haunts of Fish and Game," giving information regarding season for shooting Deer, Moose, Caribou, etc., in the "Highlands of Ontario" and at other points along the line of the Grand Trunk. Copies of same will be furnished on application at Grand Trunk ticket offices or to J. D. McDonald, District Passenger Agent, Toronto.

Bourassa's Loyalty

London, Oct. 20.— The Saturday Review says:— "Bourassa's efforts to create a strong anti-Imperial party succeeded only in showing how out of touch he is with French-Canadian sentiment. Bourassa belongs to that peculiar class of politicians who remain loyal so long as their loyalty enjoys all the benefits and involves no departure which can be construed into a sacrifice. The most emphatic protest against Bourassa's protest is Pelletier's.

WEDDED AT LAKEHURST

Mr. Robt. Shaw is Married to Mrs. Maria Purser

A quiet and tasteful wedding took place at 3 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 14th, at the residence of the bride's mother, when Mrs. Maria Purser, daughter of Mrs. John Elliott, of Lakehurst, was married to Robert Shaw, Esq., a prominent county official and resident of the same place. The Rev. Dr. Metzler had the pleasure of uniting the highly esteemed couple.

The bridesmaid was Miss L. Higgins, of Peterborough, while the groom was supported by Mr. Harry Elliott, brother of the bride.

After the nuptial knot was tied and all had dined the happy couple took their departure to Peterborough, and thence to other places of interest.

The respect and best wishes of a large circle of friends go with them.

RAISING THE WATER

Inquiry into the Rights of Cereal Co. to Raise Water at the New Dam

It is proposed to raise the water in the pond above the Cereal Company's new dam six feet higher than the old level. This is, the water will be brought up to the level of the water above the old Martyn dam.

In order to accomplish this a process of law must be gone through with; in order to fix the compensation, if any, to be paid to property owners affected. The matter came before the county Court, a special sitting being held for this purpose yesterday. The evidence given was chiefly of a technical character. Mr. Chas. H. Keefer, C.E., of Ottawa, produced plans and explained the general outline of the work and showed that no occupied mill privileges would be affected and the right of the lumbermen will be protected. The area of the pond to be created will be about 25 acres, and the water will be raised to the level of the concrete piers at the mouth of present raceway leading to the Peterborough Light and Power Company's power house. The large number of defendants were represented and the interests of the Town were looked after by the Town Solicitor.

The Court will sit for some time to fix the compensation claims of persons affected.

COUNTY HOUSE OF REFUGE

Councillor Charles Fairbairn of Victoria County Returns

Lindsay Post.—The members of the County Council who have been absent for several days inspecting houses of refuge in Western Ontario, returned on Thursday. Mr. Fairbairn was seen by our man shortly after arriving. He said Whitby, Brantford, Sarnia and Berlin houses of refuge were visited. All four cities have fine buildings fitted with modern conveniences. The house of refuge at Berlin impressed the members more favorably than the others, as its location and general appearance was more suitable to their taste. "Yes, and the Germans are very hospitable people," remarked Mr. Fairbairn. The members of Waterloo County Council met us at Berlin station and entertained the boys from Victoria county right royally. A grand supper was given at their house of refuge in our honor, and after a close inspection of the building we were driven about the town visiting many important industries for which Berlin is famous." When asked if the Victoria Council had selected a suitable site for a local house of refuge, Mr. Fairbairn said it hadn't been definitely decided, but the Tully farm near the Ops swing bridge would suit his taste better than some of the other properties the members had seen. He thought the site question would be settled very soon.

INCIDENTS OF THE DAY

—The dam at Auburn is to be repaired.

—The steamer Water Lily arrived in port yesterday with a load.

—At the County Police Court yesterday Jas Jinkinson charged with insanity, was remanded until Friday.

—Mr. John A. Jackson, who for 24 years filled the position of township clerk of Eldon, has resigned and taken up his residence in Toronto. Mr. Mosgrove, of Kirkfield, has been appointed to the vacant position.

—An important meeting of the George street Guild will be held on Friday evening at nine o'clock. All members are asked to be present.

—At the Cereal Dam on Monday an Italian, Anthony O'Connor, one of the workmen, had the misfortune to break his leg between the knee and ankle. He was conveyed to St. Joseph's Hospital.

—A pretty wedding took place at the residence of the bride's father, 234 Church street, Toronto, last week, when his daughter, Helen Archer, was united in marriage with John T. A. Smithson, of the Carswell Publishing Co., Toronto. The bridegroom was a former resident of Peterborough, and his many friends here join in congratulations.

The Liquor Dismissed

An Italian named Olivistro was charged at the County Police Court yesterday with selling liquor without a license. A short time ago a raid was made on his premises in Ashburnham by the local police and a large quantity of brandy and lager beer was secured. The defendant who is one of the foremen at the new dam, claimed that the liquor was there simply for the daily use of himself and about thirty men who worked under him. He said that the large quantity was first purchased with the purpose of keeping a liquor store, but he was unable to obtain a license. On the evidence given, Judge Edmison could not make a conviction and the accused was acquitted. Mr. R. M. Dennistoun was counsel for the defence, while Mr. R. E. Wood appeared for the Crown.

EASY ENOUGH

To Shake off Coffee and Sickness

It is easy to shake off coffee no matter how bad one may crave it, when well made Postum Coffee is served in its place.

"I have drank coffee for years and always experienced trouble from it" says a Kansan. "I knew it was causing my sickness as my doctor told me it was, and following my doctor's advice I have repeatedly sworn off. But after a short time I could not stand it any longer and would go back to coffee and the old troubles. Never until I tried Postum about a year ago could I shut off the coffee for any length of time.

"At that time I was suffering terribly from stomach trouble, nervousness, headaches, and all the other ills that go with a badly upset coffee stomach. I am a school teacher and if I made my coffee strong enough to stimulate my stomach I could work fine for a time, but would collapse at night. Gradually I failed to get stimulation from the coffee and my brain seemed actually clogged up from drinking coffee and my stomach was in a wretched state.

"A friend came to see me and advised that I try Postum and then went out and got me a package, she was so certain that it would help me. But my landlady did not make it right and I was so disappointed with the taste that I went back to coffee. My health finally got so bad I was on the point of giving up school work. Then my friend returned to see me one day and asked about the Postum and when she found out what the trouble was she made it for me according to directions, boiling it fully 15 minutes, and to my surprise I found it delicious.

"Then I shut off the coffee and found it easy to do by drinking Postum in its place which completely satisfied any coffee taste and I began to feel better almost immediately. I have used Postum ever since and my stomach has not given me one minute's trouble. I am now strong again, my nerves are steady and normal, and I feel so fine I cannot begin to tell you how thankful I am.

"I persuaded my brother who was an inveterate coffee drinker for years to give up the coffee and try Postum and he has had such grand results from this that he says he will never go back to coffee. When I went home on a visit to my parents I persuaded them to use Postum in the place of coffee and the results have been that Mother's nervousness and sleeplessness have disappeared." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

MR. JAS. MURRAY HONORED

And is Presented with an Address by Bro Orangemen

Mr. James Murray, who is about to leave Peterborough for Temiscaming, where he will engage in farming, was presented with an address on Thursday evening last by the members of L.O.L., No. 20, of which he is an esteemed member. The address was read by Bro. W. H. G. Armstrong, R.S., who has been intimately associated with Bro. Murray in the work of the Association for the past twelve years, in primary, district and county lodges, and expressed sincere regret that the intimacy thus formed should be terminated.

To W. Bro. James Murray, P.M.:

Dear Sir and Brother,—We, the officers and members of Diamond Loyal Orange Lodge, No. 20, feel that we would be ungrateful if we did not avail ourselves of this opportunity to express our deep sense of regret at your departure from amongst us to take up your residence in New Ontario.

During the years which you have been in connection with our beloved Association you have always taken a deep interest in our work. During your long term of membership you have been assigned positions of trust and responsibility, and have discharged the important duties appertaining to them faithfully and to the satisfaction of your brethren. Although you have served in the highest offices in the gift of your brethren, you have never failed to cheerfully shoulder the burden as a pleasing duty to speed on the good work. No matter how dark or how calm and bright the future appeared for us, you always saw the silver lining, and your buoyant hope and encouraging words have cheered us on in our work, till now, we are proud to say, we are in a more healthy state, both morally and financially, than ever before. A part, at least, of this success, can be attributed to your untiring and unselfish efforts.

We assure you that you will be welcome should you at any time visit us, and hope that you will remember the many happy hours we have spent together.

That our Heavenly Father may bless and prosper you and your family in all your labors and undertakings in your new home is the wish of your brethren of Diamond Loyal Orange Lodge, No. 20.

Signed on behalf of the lodge,

R. B. McGILL, W. M.

W. H. G. Armstrong, Rec.-Sec.

Peterborough, Ont., Oct 19, 1903.

Bros. R. Wilson, W. A. Kindred and John A. McWilliams made appropriate speeches, and Bro. Murray, who was much affected, made a suitable reply, thanking the brethren for the address and assuring them that he would always remember the many happy hours spent with them in the lodge room.

—Mr. J. Alexr. Culverwell, of Peterborough, has been honored by being re-elected a Vice-President of the Upper Canada College Old Boys' Association, which is practically the governing body of this great school, the Ontario Legislature, a few years ago, having placed the responsibility upon the Association. Preparations are now being made to celebrate the 75th anniversary of the opening of the college, which was founded in 1829. The present roll of pupils now numbers nearly 300.

"I've Lost Ten Pounds"

A man says. "Look at this." And he over-laps his coat to show how loose it is. There are some people who can lose fat to advantage, but the loss of flesh is one of the accepted evidences of failing health. As flesh-making processes begin in the stomach, so naturally when there is loss of flesh we look first to the stomach for the cause. And the cause is generally found to be disease of the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts, resulting in loss of nutrition and consequent physical weakness.

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery restores the lost flesh by curing diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition and enabling the perfect digestion and assimilation of food from which flesh and strength are made.

"My wife was for five years troubled with indigestion of stomach and bowels, bloating and severe pain at times during the entire five years," writes Mr. J. Milton Unger, of McConnellsburg, Pa. "Her heart was affected, and she took a purgative every few days but only received temporary relief. She got very poor in flesh and I bought one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery from our druggist and after taking it she said she felt like a new woman. She is now troubled with stomach and bowels, and has no pain nor bloating. Has gained fifteen pounds in weight."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation and biliousness.

ANNEXATION FEVER GROWING

Vancouver Having Lost on Alaska is Said to Favor Joining America

Vancouver, B.C., October 20. — There was more serious talk in Vancouver of declaring for Canadian independence and annexation to the United States in one hour this afternoon, than during all of the last ten years put together. The announcement that Canada had lost in the Alaskan boundary dispute was received with the deepest bitterness, and business men on the streets were at no pains to conceal their disgust.

"That's what we get for belonging to Britain," was the general comment, and all interested in northern trade declared that the decision was of the greatest possible advantage to the United States and gave it complete control of business and travel to and from the Canadian Yukon and northern territories.

Relations Not Strained

Montreal, Oct. 20— General Manager McNichol, of the C. P. R., says that there is no foundation for the report that strained relations exist between the company and its carmen.

It is true, he said, that a committee of the carmen from west of Fort William had been in the city for some days to consider the annual revision of the schedule, but that was all there was in it.

BRITISH PRESS URGES CANADA TO ACCEPT THE AWARD

Several London Papers Admit That it is Unjust and Some Declare That Dominion of Canada Has Been Sacrificed

The Award is a Slur on Britain's Senior Colony, Serious Blow to Empire.

"The Nation's Good Faith Requires That the Award be Accepted Without Question," Says Morning Post

London, Oct. 21 —"The nation's good faith requires that the award be accepted without question."

"The award is nothing short of a slur upon our senior colony, a slur to which the Mother Country assented."

The foregoing sentences culled from the editorials in two imperialist newspapers, the Morning Post and Daily Mail respectively, are typical in different ways of the keen disappointment widely expressed at the tribunal's decision. They crystallize the attitude of those who are so dignified to repudiate the ruling of the accepted arbitrator, however distasteful, and those sympathizing with the position of the Canadian commissioners.

Peace at Any Price.

There are not wanting some more favorable views, reflecting a determination to make the best of a bad job. Among them is the Conservative Standard, which is gratified by what it trusts marks the conclusion of a protracted, disturbing controversy, and which feels sure that when the first flush of national displeasure is passed the Canadians will see that a definite settlement, however unpalatable, and even harsh, is infinitely preferable to a continuance of harassing uncertainty. The Standard adds that it is not surprised that the Canadian commissioners formulated grounds of their dissent, but wishes that they had abstained from words that may be construed as reflecting on their colleagues. It contends that the retention of Portland Channel is no barren victory or trifling benefit to Canada. It gives at least a practicable alternative approach to the Yukon.

Regrets Bitterness.

The Times, while fully realizing the hardship of the decision, which deprives Canada of free access to the Lynn Canal, which she believes is of supreme importance for access to the Yukon, points out that the sole business of the tribunal was to interpret the treaties and that the increased value of Canada now attaching to the debatable land was not strictly relevant. The Times regrets the bitterness with which the Canadian commissioners complain of the decision as not judicial, implying that the award was not given absolutely on the merits of the claim. It believes that [illegible] they will find it reasonable to acquiesce in the conclusions. England will assuredly feel now, and most Canadians will, the Times believes, very soon agree, that the inestimable gain in settling definitely a question which offered perennial opportunities for stirring discord, far outweighs the disappointment aroused by the decision, which, after all, practically leaves things as it found them.

Canada's Ill Luck.

The Daily News cordially condoles with Canada in her ill-luck. It says it is very unfortunate, but when a matter is arbitrated, the only course for honorable men is to submit to the award. It adds that Lord Alverstone is the very last man to voluntarily surrender British rights, and he must have been completely convinced of the justice of the American contentions. The paper admits that the matter is of extreme gravity for Canada. It thinks there is some danger of Canadian preference in favor of England being swept away in the torrent of wrath that the decision will provoke. It urges the British Government to seek a diplomatic remedy, to try to negotiate a [illegible] the modus vivendi, and to obtain an outlet for the proposed new railway at Port Simpson as the Canadian Pacific Railway has at Maine.

The Chronicle says that arbitration is one of those things that, from the British viewpoint, has often to be its own reward. It considers the Canadian dissatisfaction as unfortunate, and hopes that when Lord Alverstone's statement is published it will convince the Canadian commissioners, not, perhaps, that they were wrong, but at any rate, that he had reasonable judicial grounds for not agreeing with them.

Serious Blow to Empire.

The Daily Mail says the award is a slur on Britain's senior colony, and while professing to have no doubt that Canada will loyally accept the award, adds that it is hardly too much to say that two of the greatest civilizing influences in the world, the cause of arbitration and the integrity of the British Empire, have received a serious blow. It cannot be pleasant to Lord Alverstone to reflect that he was the innocent means of delivering it. Doubtless Lord Alverstone acted conscientiously. Most of the trouble in the world has been so caused. It is, however, unfortunate that the casting vote rested with an Englishman. His action was doubtless inspired by a wish to terminate a long-standing dispute amicably, and also to secure the successful application of a great humane principle, but it would be expecting too much of human nature to anticipate acquiescence without an indignant protest from the Canadians. It is a pity that the commission was not adjourned until at least one of the Canadian commissioners was brought to see the expediency, if not the justice, of the policy advocated by Lord Alverstone.

Justice Not Done.

The Daily Graphic says it is satisfactory to know that the old standing dispute containing the germs of much future trouble has been got rid of, but it would be hypocrisy to pretend that in English eyes complete justice has been done to Canada and the Empire. These one-sided arbitrations, of which England has had too much experience, are not likely, so far as she is concerned, to increase the popularity of that method of settling disputes. This deplorable decision comes at a time when Imperial sympathies bid fair to work out a great plan for welding the component parts of the Empire closer together.

Canada Sacrificed.

The Express, under the heading of "The Great Surrender," publishes an article that is pro-Canadian in tone, and says that Canada's interests have been sacrificed.

The Leader has little doubt that before five years are passed the Canadian people will become convinced that the present decision is better than the existence of an open question.

The Financial Times says public confidence in Lord Alverstone is very great, and it is conceivable that his views naturally take a wider survey of the question than the Canadian commissioners.

Ottawa, Oct. Oct. 21—The Evening Journal says that the statement of Sir Louis Jette and Mr. Aylesworth proves that Lord Alverstone, after agreeing with them upon the Canadian right to the four Portland Channel Islands, sacrificed two of the islands to the United States. In other words, proof is afforded that Lord Alverstone's decision was based not upon legal right, but upon the basis of compromise, in order to reach an agreement. This fact warrants the belief that Lord Alverstone sacrificed more than the Portland Channel line in his agreement with the Americans. Such a sacrifice to United States' good will would have been all very well had Lord Alverstone been playing with his own or purely English property, but to sacrifice Canadian territory in order to pander. Unless Lord Alverstone has an answer to the statement of the Canadian commissioners, the Journal thinks the award the most serious blow to British connection that Canada has known since Confederation, because the Alverstone case is one of a series which raised the issue whether our foreign interests can ever be safe at London.

"ADEQUATE PROTECTION"

Halifax, N.S., Oct. 21 —The Chronicle says if the Government of the United Kingdom had not arranged to "arbitrate" this matter for us the Americans, in all probability, would simply have taken and held what they wanted. How much more dignified a figure we cut in letting them "do" us out of it in their own peculiarly artistic and playful way! If we had openly withstood them, or even insisted on the submission of the matter to a fair tribunal, they might have been angry and loved the Empire less. Would Canada maintain her rights at the expense of American affection for the country? Perish the unimperial thought. But the great and all-sufficient point which the whole episode makes clear is, that, however it may be with the "opposition," Canada as a whole has "Adequate Protection." We were only in possible danger of attack apart from wars in which the United Kingdom might involve us from one country in the world, the United States. We have nothing henceforth to fear from that quarter worse than another "arbitration." And we have already suffered about all that we can from "arbitration."

"UNPALATABLE."

Ottawa, Oct. 21—The Free Press says: "The end of the Alaskan Boundary Commission enquiry is extremely unsatisfactory. While doubts may have been reasonably entertained as to the strength of the Canadian case, in so far as the territorial contention was concerned, owing to the looseness in the phrasing of the treaty and early documents upon which it was founded, and owing, also to the fact that the Americans were in possession and had established towns and formed settlements in the disputed strip, never for a moment was it dreamed that anything so ridiculous and so unpalatable would have been done as the awarding to Canada the Portland Canal, without the whole of the islands commanding the entrance and dominating Port Simpson.

"What Canada expected, and had a right to expect, was an unprejudiced examination of her title by an authority which could command respect in both countries. They had confidence in Lord Alverstone's integrity and impartiality and were prepared to bow to his judgment; but the two Canadian commissioners refused to sign the award because it was not impartial and protested against the decision because it was not judicial."

BETRAYED BY ALVERSTONE.

Hamilton, Oct. 21—The Herald says: "What is meant by the statement that the decision is not a judicial one? There can be but one answer to that question, and that is that Lord Alverstone laid aside his functions as a judge, assumed the functions of a diplomat, and proceeded to reach a decision which would be satisfactory to the American commissioners by resorting to diplomatic compromise. He agreed that the Canadian contention with regard to the islands was unanswerable. If that contention was unanswerable, then Kannaghunut and Sitklan islands, as well as Pearse and Wales islands, rightfully belong to Canada. But the American commissioners would not agree to the Canadian contention with regard to Portland Canal unless Kannaghunut and Sitklan islands were ceded to the United States, thus destroying whatever value might accrue from possession of the southern entrance to Portland Canal by rendering Port Simpson untenable as a great Canadian port and railway terminus. And Lord Alverstone weakly and shamefully yielded to the American commissioners."

General Sports

The Victoria decided yesterday that they did not want to go to Peterboro on Saturday, but would prefer to play their scheduled intermediate O.R.F.U. match with the Wellesleys in Toronto, an go to Peterboro' on the following Saturday, Oct. 31. The Victorias repudiated the action of their manager in agreeing to send the team down on Saturday, the intention being to take advantage of an excursion rate to the Electric City. Wellesleys meet Victorias on the latter's grounds on Saturday. The Victorias claim that their man had made arrangements to get off to go to Peterboro on Oct. 31, and it would be impossible to get away this Saturday.

Woodstock Sentinel Review.

In its edition of yesterday, the Brantford Expositor published a statement to the effect that there was a scheme on foot for the enlargement of the Stratford rink. Local men scout the idea as absure, as the rink in question is already too large for games to be properly carried on.

AIRSHIP SAILS WELL

Dr. August Greth Amazes People with Aerial Voyage

San Francisco, Cal., October 21. — For the first time in the history of the United States, and to the surprise of all San Francisco, an airship designed and built by an American made a successful flight today. For two hours the inventor, Dr. August Greth, sailed about over the heads of the amazed citizens, having launched his craft almost in the heart of the city. He had absolute control over the airship, apparently, but in running into strong air currents discovered that his motive power was insufficient to stem them. When he attempted to land he made the mistake of letting out too much gas, and his craft alighted in the waters of the bay instead of at the point on land which he had selected.

The airship was easily rescued from the bay and found to be uninjured. In spite of the ending of the aerial voyage it is believed Dr. Greth has solved the problem of navigating in the air, that with better motive power and a little experience in handling the craft he can cross or proceed against the strongest currents, with the exception, perhaps, of a hurricane or tornado.

Builds Airship in Secret.

Dr. Greth has been working unostentatiously on his ship for a year. He made no boasts for his designs and carried on his work so quietly that none but a few friends knew of his undertaking. When he got the craft finished he made several tests with it in captivity. Everything worked to his satisfaction, and he determined to give the craft a free flight.

The ascension was made from a lot almost in the center of the city. Dr. Greth attempted to encircle a towering newspaper building about a mile eastward, but found the high currents too strong for his power, and then turned in an opposite direction. The winds carried him oceanward, and for some time he hovered over the vicinity of the Golden Gate, making various successful trials of his steering gear. The currents threatened to take him out over the Pacific, and he decided to make a landing on the parade grounds of the Presidio military reservation, but let out too much gas and landed in the bay, about 200 feet from shore.

Description of the Airship.

Greth's balloon is cigar-shaped, and has a capacity of 50,000 feet of gas, with a lifting capacity of 1,800 to 2,000 pounds. The car is similar in construction to that used by Santos-Dumont, and weighs about 800 pounds. The engine is a twelve horse power gasoline motor, and the total weight carried skyward, including that of the inventor and 300 pounds of ballast, was about 1,400 pounds.

For some inexplicable reason, the motor would not develop more than six horse power and Dr. Greth found considerable difficulty in making headway against the air current. He expects to make another ascension in a few days, when he will have repaired the minor damage caused by the salt water bath and remedied the minor defects brought about by his two hours' cruise in cloudland.

CLOTHES STAINED WITH HUMAN BLOOD

Professor Ellis Swears to the Marks Found on Kennedy's Clothing

WAS COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

Prisoner Says Human Blood Marks Came from Cut in His Face Made While Shaving

Brantford, Oct. 21— The preliminary hearing of the charge against Joseph Kennedy of murdering Irene Cole in "The Willows" on September 30 was concluded yesterday. The prisoner was committed for trial, and will remain in the county jail till the Spring Assizes next April. Sergt. Wallace of the rural police force, told of a talk with Kennedy in which the latter made an attempt to explain how the blood spots came to be on his clothing.

Professor Ellis, Provincial Analyst, swore that at least one of the spots on Kennedy's clothing was a human blood stain. With regard to the stains on some of the samples of clothing submitted, he was unable to state with certainty whether they were caused by blood, but one spot he was sure had been caused by human and not by fowl blood. It was possible to differentiate, and he had done so by measuring the corpuscles.

Dr. Ashton concluded the examination of the prisoner shortly after the arrest, and swore he found spots on his clothing which he believed were blood stains. Part of the prisoner's body had been recently washed, and there was no trace of blood on his person.

The Chicken Story.

Sergt. Wallace, of the local police force has continually been in touch with the prisoner. After receiving the required warning from the sergeant Kennedy had inquired whether anyone was gathering evidence against him, and was informed that testimony had already been given that he was on the dyke, in the rear of Cole's house at 1.30 on the afternoon of the crime. Kennedy admitted being there at that time, but declared he stayed only ten minutes, and not for fifteen, as the young Potter boy has testified. He had been in "The Willows" that morning sleeping off the effects of his debauch and was coming over the dyke to go up town to get a drink when seen by the boy.

Regarding the blood stains on his clothes, Kennedy said he had a chicken in a bag in "The Willows" on the day of the crime. He fell over a root and killed it. He then took it out of the bag to clean it, and got blood on his clothes.

In explanation of the stains on his shirt, Kennedy had said, "I was shaving at Mrs. Ryan's, where I boarded, and cut my face. I had no towel or handkerchief, so I took my shirt to wipe off the blood."

THE MINSTRELS

A Good Performance Presented by the Western Minstrels

Seldom has a Peterborough audience witnessed a more pleasing entertainment than that presented last night in the Brock street rink by Culhane, Chase and Weston. Despite previous deceptions in this line, a good crowd turned out, and were amply rewarded for their investment. Special mention cannot be made of any one feature as the entire programme was one of elegance, refinement and symmetry, which coupled with the elegant costumes was highly pleasing.

Should Culhane, Chase and Weston ever return to Peterborough they will meet with a hearty reception.

DISAPPOINTMENT IS KEEN IN LONDON

Anglo-Canadians Resent the Stand Taken by Lord Alverstone

WILL ACCEPT THE AWARD

And Pursue Our Own Course of Development—This is the General Attitude

London, October 21.—Keen disappointment, verging upon resentment, was the leading note of Anglo-Canadian feeling as the details of the Alaskan award became known. The attitude of Sir Louis Jette and Mr. Aylesworth at the sitting of the commission yesterday may not unfairly be described as openly contemptuous. Very bitter words are used wherever Canadians meet. "We had no business to go into a game of this kind," say some. "The dice were loaded."

"We don't blame the Yankees," say others. "We knew they would make a big fight to win, but if we cannot find friends in the British ruling classes and among men like Lord Alverstone when we have a case as strong as ours, where are we to look for them?"

All agree that no more commissions of this kind will be accepted by Canada.

LORD ALVERSTONE ANNOYED.

Lord Alverstone is understood to angrily resent the suggestion that he entered the commission prepared to give away Canada's case, but his explanation of how an hour after assenting to Canada's claim as regards Portland Canal he came to nullify the claim by giving the United States the command of its entrance, will be eagerly awaited. This action is the cause of the chief Canadian criticisms at the moment.

ANGLO-CANADIAN VIEWS.

I spent the afternoon interviewing Anglo-Canadians, whose positions and opinions carry most weight. They refuse to allow their names to be published, but all agreed that the position was most unfortunate. One of the highest influences put his views as follows: "You ask me what will happen. Canada assented to the commission, most unfortunately assented I always thought, but, having assented, she will accept the award however bitterly disappointing. But be quite sure she will pursue her own plans of development unchecked. She may be hampered in her access to the Yukon from the sea, but that will only cause her to push on more resolutely her plans of access by land. Canada has shown in the past that when put to it she is not often left behind. Washington cablegrams anticipate the early reassembly of the Joint High Commission to settle other Anglo-American disputes. Canada, I expect, has had enough commissions on any such basis. The whole thing is deplorable, but we must and shall make the best of " "

AMERICANS MAY WANT RIGHTS IN HUDSON'S BAY

Strong Reasons Why Canada Should Refuse to be on Her Guard

New York, October 21.—The result of the Alaskan award is the subject of great rejoicing in this city, and elsewhere throughout the union. It is now the purpose of the authorities to challenge Canada's right to Hudson's Bay. This subject is sure to become a live one at an early date.

Ottawa, October 21.—Senator Poirier, of New Brunswick, when the orders of the day were called in the Senate, referred to the decision in the Alaska boundary. The commissioners, he said, virtually, practically and actually ceded the whole of the coast in dispute to the United States. That was no surprise. It could have been anticipated, and very likely it is the best thing that could have been done. A bad arrangement is often better than a successful law suit.

"I find," he said, "no fault with the tribunal, we can afford for the sake of peace and harmony with our neighbors to give up a third slice of our territory but I think it is time we called a halt and look forward to see how many other slices we may be called on to part with, and see if we cannot avert the primary dismemberment of the Dominion.

"Our friends to the south are now to the west of us and to the northwest of us. Shall we wait until we are encircled by them? Imminent dangers staring us in the face.

"The next arbitration may be concerning Hudson Bay. Supposing at that time Greenland was in possession of the United States. The United States are now putting forward claims for Greenland. What would the result be in an arbitration then as to part of Hudson Bay? The Senate should direct the attention of the Government to this matter, and, it would be a mistake for Canada to allow the United States to get possession, say of the North Pole."

He proceeded to refer to the expeditions which the United States sent in search of the pole. Canada should not wait till the United States had scooped in the whole of the arctic regions, and then encircle Canada on all sides, south, west, north-west, north. There was Newfoundland to the east and an effort was made to get it annexed to the United States. "The future independence of our country," added the Senator, "may depend on this question here."

LIVING WITH A TARANTULA

For Six Months the Big Spider Terrorized [illegible] a Family

Gloucester, Mass., October 21. — An ugly, venomous tarantula from the tropics was dispatched at the home of William Zink, at Hudson and Willow streets, recently, after it had terrorized the family for a period of six months. Zink was a former fruit dealer, and one day a half year ago while he was handling a bunch of bananas the huge spider hopped out and escaped. Zink and members of his family searched for the insect for some time, but without avail, and then concluded that it had gone out into the wide world. Not long after that, however, the tarantula was discovered in the house, and again chase was given it, but once more it escaped by hiding.

At intervals ever since that the tarantula had been seen at various places through the dwelling, but in every instance it managed to elude its pursuers, who began to have creepy feeling every time they saw anything move in a shadowy place. It got to be a reign of terror in the house, but no one seemed able to find the thing that menaced them.

Just as he and his wife were about to retire on Saturday night Zink once more caught sight of the tarantula as it clung to a picture frame in his bedroom.

"Ha!" cried Zink, "I have you at last, you pesky varmint!" and he made a heroic effort to do the thing to death. The huge insect seemed to wink at him as it dodged behind the picture frame and mysteriously disappeared like a ghost or some other horrid creation of the fancy. Sure that he was on the trail of the insect, Zink got up early yesterday morning, determined to rid the house of the creature. He searched in every possible crevice and cranny, and at last, after two hours of unceasing scrutiny, he came upon the spider crouched in a little crevice in the wall where it may have hidden all these months. Zink killed it and proudly exhibits the hairy body at his home. It measures over five inches across its legs.

HAS GIVEN CONTROL OF MANCHURIA TO RUSSIA

Manchuria Passes Under Practical Control of Russia by Chinese Consent

Berlin, Oct. 21—The correspondent of a Berlin newspaper quotes the Vostotchni Vestnik, a journal published in the far East, as authority for the statement that Paul Lessar, Russian Minister to China, has concluded a treaty with China which gives Russia practical control of Manchuria, although under a nominal Chinese Government. Russia undertakes to conduct negotiations in any way arising with a third power from the same treaty.

The treaty provides that the appointment and dismissal of the Governor-General and Commander-in-Chief of the prefects in Manchuria shall be effected by the Chinese Government, in agreement with Russian diplomatic representatives. The Chinese troops stationed in the Province of Manchuria shall be under Russian control, but if the Chinese soldiers are incapable of maintaining order and suppressing brigandage Russia is to have the right of using her own troops to this end. In the event of war with a third power arising from the new treaty it will be conducted by Russia and China in co-operation.

RUSSIA FEELS HIT.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 21 — The Novykrai, of Port Arthur, commenting on the commercial treaty between the United States and China, declares that article 12 (opening ports in Manchuria to United States trade) strikes at the very heart of Russian interests in Manchuria, and says it is convinced the treaty will only be ratified after material modifications, as it affects part of the territory which, by virtue of existing relations, is not free, so long as Russia has not definitely come to an understanding with China regarding her rights. "Moreover," the Novykrai adds, "prior to her present occupation, Russia had special treaty relations with China regarding this territory, giving her the right to build railways, and guaranteeing that no similar privileges will be granted to others."

MARSHALL FIELD THINKS CHAMBERLAIN WILL WIN

The Great Chicago Merchant Believes Britain will Adopt Protection

Chicago, October 21.—Marshall Field is quoted as follows in a New York interview; "I certainly expect Mr. Chamberlain will win and England will soon take her place alongside the other protective countries in the world."

The Chicago Chronicle, in discussing this subject, says: "Mr. Field has just returned from England, and we may suppose that he is influenced in his opinions by what he heard there, but no man can take a poll of a nation, and we must assume further that he is largely affected by his personal judgment on the forces now in conflict. This is the judgment of a man of very exceptional business acumen, a man who is engaged in the largest enterprises both as a trader and an investor of capital, and undoubtedly it should carry great weight. While Mr. Field could not tell us much as to the details of party [illegible], he is an expert witness on the business situation, and business is joined with Imperialism in Chamberlain's tariff policy.

"It is significant, therefore, that the Chicago merchant should feel so sure of the British statesman's success. If Mr. Field can feel as he does, because of the necessities of the case as they appear to him, it would be natural to suppose that the business men of Great Britain, or many of them, would be affected much more deeply. The Chamberlain propaganda would be specially attractive to the manufacturers, and would prove alluring to exporters of every kind as well as to those persons who are chiefly concerned in the protection of the home market.

"There has been from the first an impression that the cause was by no means a hopeless one, but the common opinion has been that it would have a slow development. Mr. Field makes bold to predict not only that it will triumph, but that it will triumph in the near future. His interview conveys the idea that it is indispensable to save the country from stagnation, to equip it against the aggressive rivalry and enterprise of the new Germany and of the United States."

A Light Needed

The addition of an electric light at the outside door of the Brock street rink would be much appreciated by those going to and from their carriages, and should be considered by the management.

AN ALTERNATIVE IMPERIAL POLICY

Some of the opponents of Mr. Chamberlain's tariff and imperial unity scheme, while they seem to us at this distance to bring against it some objections that are unsound, if not sometimes absurd, at the same time have brought out some of its intrinsic weaknesses. Some of them, too, are undoubtedly in full sympathy with Mr. Chamberlain's main object, the unifying and strengthening of the Empire, though, perhaps, the spirit of partisanship, now so rampant in Britain, prevents them from showing that sympathy as earnestly as could be hoped.

For instance, Lord Rosebery in his speech at Sheffield in answer to Mr. Chamberlain's, spoke of the difficulty of uprooting protection when once it should have been established, and referred to the danger of its bringing in the reign of trusts, monopolies and, perhaps corruption. He also ridiculed the idea, as the dispatches inform us, that the colonies would consent not to establish new industries in order that British manufacturers should be allowed a free hand. In his opinion a fair and practical imperial tariff along these lines could not be devised, and he prayed heaven to protect them from the bad blood and jealousies that any such attempt would engender.

Now, this is all very well; Lord Rosebery puts his fingers on some of the weak points in Mr. Chamberlain's plan. But even Lord Rosebery admits that things are not going well with the British manufacturer; admits, too, we believe, that something is needed to bind the component parts of the Empire scattered all over the [illegible] Chamberlain [illegible] remedy them; he at least tries to build [illegible] the other hand, Lord [illegible] scheme [illegible] statesman's poetical edifice. They see it has faults, and condemn it, but they do not offer anything better. Destruction, not construction, seems to be their motto: and it may be remarked that the first is much easier.

What will the public—and this word includes now not only the people of Great Britain, but those of Canada, Australia and a dozen smaller countries as well—decide, as between the two opposing modes of thought? It seems to us quite likely that their sympathies will go out, and in a practical manner, towards the man and party who, recognizing the need, dare to do something in the attempt to alleviate it. Great people, in their heart, believe that mere criticism is cheap. If Lord Rosebery would only promulgate some alternate plan of his own, he would have a chance; but, as it is, apparently all he can do is to find fault with the plans of others. A natural consequence of this possible congenital need of Lord Rosebery's will not unlikely be the swallowing, by the public, of Mr. Chamberlain's ideas, faults and all.

STARTLING, IF TRUE

A Politician Says Henri Bourassa will Succeed Premier Parent

Toronto, October 21.—A Mail and Empire Ottawa special says: A curious report is in circulation that Hon. Mr. Parent is shortly to retire from the premiership of the province of Quebec. He has had many years of public life, and is said to be anxious to secure relief from the cares of office. The question of Mr. Parent's successor [illegible] reasonable-minded men. A prominent politician said today that Mr. Bourassa was slated for the position and will undoubtedly get it.

Eight Special Trains.

Eight special trains, over as many railroads, have been engaged to carry John Alexander Dowie and his "Restoration Host" to New York City. A "great mission" is to be held in Madison Square Garden from October [illegible] to November [illegible]. Dowie will be accompanied, according to advance notices, by the "Zion White-Robed Choir" of hundreds of voices, Zion City Brass Band, hundreds of officers of the church and at least four thousand members of the Restoration Host.

To Settle Differences.

Little credence has been given to rumors that have appeared from time to time in European papers, to the effect that the Mohammedans of Asia and Africa were making an effort to sink their differences, and present a united front against the inroads of Christianity. The enmity between the two great sects of Islam, the Sunni and the Shia, has for generations been as bitter and virulent as that between any two branches of Christendom at any time in its history, and it would seem impossible that this animosity could be quelled. Moreover, the Mohammedans have no means of intercommunication, no religious newspapers, nor other method of moulding public opinion and bringing scattered peoples to think alike on any subject. The great focus of intercommunication, the Mecca pilgrimage, is losing its influence. Its numbers are steadily diminishing, and last year it was altogether prohibited by Government, on account of the plague.

It appears, however, says Public Opinion, that neither missionaries nor publicists may have given sufficient importance to one uniting force, the fraternities which are rapidly springing into being among Mohammedans. Professor Nallino of Naples has recently published in a Geneva paper an article upon the "Present Tendencies of Islamism," treating of these fraternities as a movement demanding serious attention. It appears that these orders existed a century ago, but have been suspected and opposed by orthodox Mussulmans, who deemed them to be opposed by the Koran. Even as recently as 1840 only about 5 per cent. of the Mohammedans of the Sahara belonged to them. But the conquest of Algeria and the ensuing contact with the abhorred "Roumis" (Roman Catholics or Christians) not only aroused a new effervescence of zeal through all Mohammedan Africa, but gave a preponderant importance to the hitherto despised fraternities. Now, Professor Nallino says, fully [illegible] per cent. of the Arabs of North Africa are affiliated with one or another of these fraternities, and in all of them religious zeal is kept alive by hatred of the Christians. Thus pan-Islamism, which even ten years ago was a mere Utopia, may now become at almost any moment a reality. It would suffice for half a score of the great chiefs, meeting at Mecca at the time of the pilgrimage, to agree upon time and method, and all Islam, from the Atlantic to the Malayan archipelago, would unite in an uprising against Christians.

MYSTERY SOLVED

By finding of the Lady Physician's Body

London, Oct. 19—The disappearance of a woman doctor, Miss Hickman, which has been a sensation here for the past two months, has been partially cleared up by the finding of her body in an unfrequented part of Richmond Park.

The body was decomposed, the head having been entirely separated from the body, apparently by the gnawing of rats.

The body was only identified by a medal which Miss Hickman won in a swimming competition and by her unbalance [illegible].

Miss Hickman, who was a fully qualified doctor of medicine, was performing on August 15, when she left the hospital. Since that time the police have searched her duties at the Royal Free Hospital [illegible]. The reason for Miss Hickman's [illegible] is a [illegible] mystery.

FERROZONE

Furnishes in a convenient form, a Tonic-Laxative which cures Constipation and a host of other diseases more or less common

The entire length of the intestinal canal can [illegible] and thoroughly cleansed of all foul decaying matter, by taking Ferrozone after each meal.

Ferrozone helps the kidneys and liver to their work, and by preventing the pores of the skin from being clogged up, it clears and beautifies the complexion. Ferrozone relieves irritation and pressure on the tissues of the brain and nerve centres, and insures a healthy vigorous condition of mind and body.

The great merit of Ferrozone is that it instantly relieves constipation, and permanently cures it without interference with business or pleasure, and never causes inconvenience or distress. It keeps all the bodily functions regular, and is the only medicine for constipation that acts gently, acts quickly, acts surely, [illegible] gripe. [illegible] will keep the entire family in perfect health. It regulates the bowels, cures headache and stomach troubles, and effectually cleanses the blood from all impurities. It [illegible] new strength [illegible] and permanently remedies all manner of skin blemishes.

Ferrozone is especially efficacious in cases of over-work, headache, brain fag, [illegible] weak memory and [illegible]. It relieves that "tired feeling," and puts elasticity into every movement. Ferrozone gives strength to the regenerative organs, and for the relief of nervous prostration, nervous debility, or decline of mental or physical power, is certainly superior to any curative agent the world has ever seen.

The range of adaptability of Ferrozone is simply wonderful. It is entirely vegetable in composition, and quite free from any possibility of injurious effects even under long continued use. It is prepared in the form of a chocolate coated tablet, and no uncertainty or mistake as to the proper quantity or dose can ever arise.

Ferrozone is recommended and sold by all druggists, price 50 cts. a box, or three boxes for $1.25. Remember the name and see that the genuine Ferrozone is supplied. Refuse a substitute. Sent safely by mail if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

UNION WITH VILLAGE OF ASHBURNHAM

RECOMMENDED BY COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE COUNCIL

Continuation of the Proceedings at Tuesday Night's Meeting of the City Fathers—Correspondence—Reports—20 Additional Street Lights.

At the special session of the Town Council, held on Tuesday night, the following routine business was disposed of;

COMMUNICATIONS.

From B. H. Hall, stating that he had been instructed by Mr. W. H. Meldrum to make application to the court for an order to quash the bylaw passed at a recent Council meeting, whereby the execution of a contract between the Town and the Peterborough Light and Power Company for lighting the streets of the town; also a bylaw authorizing the execution of an agreement with the Peterborough Radial Railway Company, and stating that the motion will be launched immediately upon the receipt by him of copies of the bylaws in question.—Received.

From Mr. Hampton Burnham, stating that the sidewalk on the south-west corner of Brock and George streets had been removed, and requesting that the matter be dealt with by the street inspector, as it was causing considerable injury to the adjacent property.—Legal committee.

From Emma Hudson, asking for remission of taxes upon lots owned by her.—Court of Revision.

From Allan M. Dymond, calling the City Fathers' attention to a new edition of the Municipal Index published by the writer, and asking that the Council place an order with him for copies of the same.—Received.

From Wm. Little, asking that some action be taken to prevent surface water from flooding his property, No. 238 Park street.—Board of Works.

From J. J. Turner & Sons, enclosing quotations on a hospital tent, the necessity for which is suggested by the action of the hospitals in refusing to accept patients suffering from contagious diseases.—Committee of the Whole.

From Geo. Matthews Company, saying that they are about to remodel and enlarge their premises, to provide for a big extension of business, and asking that Wolfe street, east of George, be conveyed to them in exchange for a new roadway north of Wolfe street, immediately below the C.P.R. tracks. The reason for this request is the the company's steadily increasing business demands two sidings on Wolfe street in place of one.—Board of Works.

The report was adopted as read.

UNION OF MUNICIPALITIES.

Ald. McWilliams submitted the following report of the sub-committee of the Committee of the Whole Council;

Gentlemen,—Your sub-committee appointed to confer with the Council of the Village of Ashburnham in regard to the union of the two municipalities beg leave to report that on Oct. 9th inst. they had another conference with the Council of the Village at which it was decided to recommend as follows;

That failing the settling of the question of a sewerage system for Ashburnham before the taking of a public vote on union there, that it be made one of the terms of union that an outfall sewer be constructed in Ashburnham from Elizabeth street southward to a septic tank and outfall on the shore of the Little Lake, to be completed within two years from the date of union, at an estimated cost of $10,000, and that the vote on the question of union shall be held on the 29th of October, or such other date as may be agreed on by the Mayor and Reeve.

All of which was respectfully submitted.

The report had been adopted by the Committee of the Whole, which action was endorsed by the Council.

SEWERS BYLAWS.

A bylaw to authorize the construction of sewers on parts of Weller, Aylmer, Bethune and Edinburgh streets passed its several readings.

AT OWN EXPENSE.

Ald. Best moved, seconded by Ald. Batten, that the petition of certain ratepayers to drain, with the sewer on Water street, the lane in the rear of stores in the block bounded by George, Hunter, Water and Brock streets be granted, providing the owners construct and maintain and keep in good condition, at their own expense, the connecting drain and catch basins necessary for the purpose in view.—Carried.

Council then adjourned.

Bank of England Discount Rate.

The New York Commercial of September 27th has an article relative to the Bank of England discount rate, which, in part, is as follows:—

Why a change in the discount rate of the Bank of England—the rate at which one bank is willing to lend money—should be a matter of such great importance to the money markets of the entire world is a mystery to many people. That a change in the discount rate of the Bank of England does affect the money markets in Berlin, Paris, Vienna and New York, and that it also affects the foreign exchange markets in each of these cities, and often causes an advance or decline in their stock markets as well, is known to everyone interested in financial subjects. Why a change in the rate at which a single bank is willing to loan money should have such a world-wide effect, however, is not generally understood, even in Wall street, where brokers and speculators make their living by their intimate knowledge of financial subjects.

To understand the importance of the Bank of England discount rate it must be remembered that London is the financial centre of the world.

To Study Canal System.

The Rochester Chamber of Commerce sent a commissioner into Canada to study the canal system there, in operation under construction and projected, and to ascertain if the artificial waterways there stood in danger from the proposed $101,000,000 canal across New York State, on which the people are to vote next November. In his report to President Dunn Commissioner Dennis says that the Canadian does not feel at all disturbed about the proposed 12-foot waterway here. An American ship canal which would receive the vessels of the great lakes and take them to the seaboard with their cargoes unbroken would be regarded as a menace to Canadian commerce, but having new canals deeper than ours will be when completed 10 to 12 years hence, if ordered by the people, the Canadians feel no apprehension about competition. As the Canadians abandoned their own ten-foot canals many years ago, a twelve-foot waterway seems to them to be trivial in these days when engineering skill has opened up the possibilities of ship canals, the commissioner says.—New York Times.

Visiting Island of Tristan.

Douglas M. Gane, in an article in The Pall Mall Gazette, describing a visit to the island of Tristan D'Acunha, lying midway between Cape Horn and the Cape of Good Hope, in the very centre of the south Atlantic Ocean, says:—Some hours elapsed before we hove to off the shore, and it was a brave sight to see the settlers come off in their two whaleboats. A tremendous swell was beating up from the southwest, and the small craft seemed ever and anon lost in the trough of the sea. The men had hardly cared to put out in such weather, they told us, but they had seen no ship for six months and were greatly in want of stores. They were a well-set-up body of men, some twenty in all, and dressed, the greater number of them, in blue dungaree and home-made shoes of untanned skin. Their Governor, Joseph Beetham, a Yorkshireman, was of the type of the "ancient old salt"; [illegible] spent more than half his life on the island, and had no mind to leave it. The boats brought us samples of the most acceptable things the place produced, a quantity of [illegible], some wild pigs and mutton sheep—very [illegible], and fed chiefly on grass and [illegible]—some crawfish and potatoes. We gave them in exchange flour, split peas and oatmeal, biscuits, cocoa, coffee and [illegible]. They had [illegible] with them, too, the skins of birds and animals chiefly, and for these we gave them old clothes and underwear. The one thing they would not take was money. They had no use for it; but a cake of scented soap or a packet of tobacco excited the keenest [illegible]. One of them hoped to find a wife among the passengers, and was disappointed to learn that no one was [illegible] to share his isolation.

Dry Placer Miner, formerly of California.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 240 tons per day will weigh less than 1,800 pounds.

To secure this gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of the placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine — Its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck or more of sand, either ordinary house of sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,800 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U.S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

SYMPATHETIC STRIKES WILL NOW BE ILLEGAL.

A Sweeping Order Against Unions by Pennsylvania Supreme Court

Pittsburg, Pa., October 20.—The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, now sitting in Pittsburg, in an opinion written by Justice Dean, and concurred in by the whole court, have refused to dissolve an injunction granted by the Philadelphia courts to prevent the allied trades of that city from calling sympathetic strikes designed to prevent members of the Plumbers Union from working.

The deliverance of the court is a sweeping one and will affect many of the sympathetic strikes that have retarded building operations, not only in Philadelphia, but in other sections of the State as well. It in no wise affects the rights of any man or group of men to quit work when they desire to do so, but it declares that for a number of men to call a strike in order to force other men to submit to the laws of their society or union is conspiracy and that it is calculated to deprive citizens of their rights under the constitution of the State. William C. Erdman, C. W. Best, and William Campbell representing the union, sued Robert T. Mitchell, John Love, Daniel S. Woods, M. Collins, Thomas McGuire and Henry Keeler, officers of the Allied Council of Building Trades, of Philadelphia and vicinity, charging that they were interfering with their employment. The complainants contended that they had been discharged by A. & E. Wells, contractors, while working on the Mariner and Merchant building, at Third and Chestnut streets, because they were not members of the Building Trades Council, and had refused to join that body. The defendants, it was charged, had threatened a general strike in the building if the three plumbers were not discharged.

The late Judge McCarthy granted an injunction restraining the defendants from interfering with the complainants, holding that the acts complained of were malicious and unlawful.

Thread by Mouse Power.

Thrift is generally acknowledged to be one of the leading characteristics of the natives of Fifeshire, and it never was more forcibly exemplified than in the person of David Hatton, a native of Dunfermline, who actually proved that even mice, those acknowledged pests of mankind, could be made not only to earn their own living, but also to yield a respectable income to their owners, says "The Scotsman." About the year 1820 this gentleman actually erected a small mill at Dunfermline for the manufacture of thread—a mill worked entirely by mice. It was while visiting Perth prison in 1812 that Mr. Hatton first conceived this remarkable idea of utilizing mouse power. In an old pamphlet of the time, "The Curiosity Coffee Room," he gave an account of the way in which the idea dawned on him. "In the summer of the year 1812," he wrote, "I had occasion to be in Perth, and when inspecting the toys and trinkets that were manufactured by the French prisoners in the depot there my attention was involuntarily attracted by a little toy house with a wheel in the gable of it that was running rapidly round, impelled by the indefatigable gravity of a common house mouse. For a shilling I purchased house, mouse and wheel. Inclosing it in a handkerchief, on my journey homeward I was compelled to contemplate its favorite amusement. But how to apply half-ounce power, which is the weight of a mouse, to a useful purpose was the difficulty. At length the manufacturing of thread seemed the most practicable." Mr. Hatton had one mouse that ran the amazing distance of eighteen miles a day, but he proved that an ordinary mouse could run ten and one-half miles on an average. A halfpenny's worth of oatmeal was sufficient for its support for thirty-five days, during which it ran 735 half miles. He had actually two mice constantly employed in the making of sewing thread for more than a year. The mouse threadmill was so constructed that the common house mouse was enabled to make atonement to society for past offences by twisting and reeling from 100 to 120 threads a day, Sundays not excepted. To perform this task the little pedestrian had to run ten and one-half miles, and this journey it performed with ease every day. A halfpenny's worth of oatmeal served one of these threadmill culprits for the long period of five weeks. In that time it made [illegible] threads of twenty-five inches, and as a penny was paid to women for every hank made in the ordinary way, the mouse, at that rate, earned 9 pence every six weeks, just one farthing a day or 7 shillings and 6 pence a year. Taking 6 pence off for board and allowing 1 shilling for machinery, there was a clear yearly profit from each mouse of 6 shillings. Mr. Hatton firmly intended to apply for the loan of the old empty cathedral in Dunfermline, which would have held, he calculated, ten thousand mouse mills, sufficient room being left for keepers and some hundreds of spectators. Death, however, overtook the inventor before his marvellous project could be carried out.

Telegraphy Still Lives.

Every six months or so an inventor appears with a device that he is sure is going to put an end to the business of the telegraph operator and his old Morse sounder. Prof. Fleming, an expert associated with the Marconi Company, was lecturing before an audience at the Royal Institution in London. He illustrated his lecture with a message flashed directly from the Marconi station in Cornwall, through all intervening obstacles, to his table. He had taken pains to assure his audience that no one could possibly receive this message except with the instruments before it, which were the only set "in tune" with the sending instruments.

In the middle of the message as it came the word "rats" was interpolated. The audience was amused. Prof. Fleming was indignant. Rigid inquiry having proved that the senders in Cornwall were guiltless of the flippancy, Prof. Fleming wrote a wrathful letter to The Times, terming the interpolation "scientific hooliganism," and calling upon the perpetrators to reveal their identity.

In the next issue of The Times Mr. Nevil Maskelyne, a person whose business it is to amuse the public with scientific curiosities, confessed that he was the "hooligan." He also declared, as a fact of interest to the Marconi Company's shareholders, that the message had been practised for several hours, that fifty horse-power had been expended in getting it through, and that he had intercepted it and added to it with ordinary "untuned" instruments stationed in the neighborhood.

Would Not "Undress Ship."

The spirit of French officialism is illustrated by an incident told in the recently published life of Sir Henry Acland, says The Globe. The latter, during a yachting trip to the coast of Brittany in [illegible], happened to be in port on the occasion of the opening of the harbor, and shipping by the public. With natural good feeling, he dressed his yacht with all her bunting, with bouquets on bowsprit and crosstrees, and a golden bunch of broom at the mast-head, so as to do honor to the community by her gala turn-out. But this expression of sympathy with "clericalism" was not to the taste of the French authorities, and an official came on board with strict orders that the decorations should be removed. The [illegible] met with an absolute refusal, and the official withdrew, to return a quarter of an hour later with a still more peremptory demand for the hauling down of the [illegible] bunting. In great indignation, Acland threatened to telegraph to Lord Lyons if another word was said on the subject, and the official withdrew to show [illegible]. It appeared to be merely a display of spite on the part of the civil authorities, furious that any honor should be shown by strangers towards an ecclesiastical ceremony, and was a [illegible] piece of bullying on the part of the fonctionnaire, for it can scarcely be illegal for an Englishman to dress his own yacht with his own flags [illegible].

He Saved the Foreigners.

Chang-Chih-Tung, represented sometimes as the friend and sometimes as the foe of the eminent Yuan-Shih-Kai, receives the highest praise from The Paris Temps. He prevented a general massacre of Europeans in the interior of China at the time of the Boxer outbreaks. He is a Manchu, a thinker, a man of letters, with a sharp wit. That he is a poet is shown conclusively by the English version of his ode to the Emperor of China, which appeared recently in East of Asia, an able Shanghai magazine. "So unswerving is his diligence," asserts Chang-Chih-Tung of the Emperor in the ode we have alluded to, "that he sleeps in his clothes," and from the foreigner the poet-statesman says his country derives great profit. "With equally kind and cordial hospitality we meet all aliens; may they live upon the borders of our sea, or on our distant mountains!" But the Empress-dowager is thought to dislike Chang-Chih-Tung, either on account of the tone of his poetry or because he is a friend of the progressive party in Japan. To the great disappointment of the English, she did not appoint him to the post of Grand Secretary, which corresponds roughly to that of a Minister of Foreign Affairs in Europe, when the illustrious Young Lu died last April.

Beware of "Absolute."

Whatever may be the merits or demerits of "absolutely unique"—and it may be noted that the Prime Minister, Mr. Balfour, employed this term in describing the tenure of the Colonial Office by Mr. Chamberlain—there is no doubt that "absolutely" is the most overworked adverb in our vocabulary. Among politicians especially the word is used in the most careless way; Mr. Balfour, in his brief speech, employed it twice. But it is not for newspapers to sneer at politicians in this respect. Only the other day, in a news agency telegram printed in several evening journals, the world was informed that there was an official assurance from the Vatican that the rumor of the Pope's death was "absolutely without foundation." With this one may compare Mark Twain's comment upon the report of his own death—that it was "much exaggerated."

Willing to Pay Half.

In a Scotch country parish not long ago, says Tit-Bits, there lived a church officer who had filled that post and that of grave digger for the long space of fifty years. Suspicion had long been entertained that he was in the habit of helping himself out of the collection plate whenever opportunity admitted. It was difficult, of course, to prove this. At last, however, the sum of £1 was abstracted from a missionary box which stood in the vestry, and everything combined to point out this man as the culprit. The elders told the minister that something must really be done. The reverend gentleman said he would make investigations.

The following Sabbath, after the morning service, the minister was taking off his gown and bands, and, being alone in the vestry with the suspected man, he thought the opportunity was too good to be lost, so he said:—

"Andrew, have you heard of the money that is a-missing from the box?"

"O'ay," said Andrew. "I was hearing something about it."

"Andrew," continued the other, very gravely, "this matter lies between you and me. We are the only two who have access to the box. Either you or I must be the thief."

"'Deed, sir," rejoined the imperturbable Andrew, "it is just as you say; we're the only twa that has had access to the box, and I think the best way'll be for you tae pay the half and I pay the tither, and sae nae mair about it."

Written in a Hurry.

How "For God and the Czar" came to be written is rather interesting. Mr. Muddock happened to be at Tit-Bits offices, talking to his friend Mr. Galloway Fraser, when Mr. Newnes, as he then was, came in. "Look here, Mr. Muddock," he said abruptly, "can you write us a serial? I've got one running that's not doing us any good." Mr. Muddock replied that he had a story in his mind dealing with the persecution of the Jews in Russia. "That'll do," said Mr. Newnes. "When can I have it?" "Oh, I haven't thought it out yet," answered Mr. Muddock, slightly taken aback at such promptitude. "Say in six months." "Six months!" echoed Mr. Newnes scornfully. "I must have it in a fortnight." As usual, Mr. Newnes got his way, at least to this extent, that Mr. Muddock went away, shut himself up, and delivered the first three instalments in three weeks, keeping them up weekly afterwards. The serial thus quickly commissioned and quickly written was a huge success, and stirred the heart of Jewish communities the world over.

T. M. Healy a Lawyer.

Before long English newspaper readers will be noting that Mr. T. M. Healy, M.P., conducted a brilliant cross-examination in the Law Courts or made an effective appeal to the jury. The ablest and wittiest of all the Irish members of Parliament was a fortnight ago "called" as a member of Gray's Inn, and thus became qualified as a member of the English Bar. It is understood that he will practise chiefly in the English courts. Probably only a small section of the [illegible] public is aware that, besides being the cleverest of the Nationalists, Mr. Healy has for some years been one of the leading lights of the Irish Bar. Among lawyers it is thought quite likely that his career at the English Bar may be as remarkable as that of Sir Edward Carson, who leaped into a new fame as soon as he crossed the Irish Channel. While qualifying for the Irish Bar, Mr. Healy "kept" at Gray's Inn in [illegible], and some of his exploits as the junior student are still remembered. He was then twenty-five years of age, so that now he is forty-eight. He was consequently the senior "student" of the dozen who were "called" last evening. It is understood that his sponsors were Mr. W. Mattinson, K.C., and Mr. Duke, K.C., M.P. After the ceremony Mr. Healy attended the usual "call night dinner," and in accordance with ancient custom, after the Benchers had withdrawn for dessert, the senior member present, Mr. Lawrence [illegible], proposed the health of the newly called members, to which Mr. Healy, [illegible], replied. In becoming a member of Gray's Inn Mr. Healy is following the example of Mr. John Redmond, the leader of the Irish party, who was called some years ago.

Overfeeding Horses.

The following good advice from the pen of Dr. A. S. Alexander is well worth attention by every owner of a work horse. He says:—

It is perfectly safe to assert that thousands of work horses are injured by kindness. The owner thinks that because his team is hard worked it ought to be heavily fed, but he forgets that it is not what a horse eats, but what he digests that counts. This is especially the case in summer, when there is much field work to be done and little time in which to do it.

The horse hurries home, hot and weary, is given all he can "hog," and goes out to the water trough, where he fills up on water and goes on to work again. First of all, his stomach was not in a fit condition for food reception. The fatigued, hot, sweaty horse cannot digest food. He needs a rest first and then a drink of water, which passes through his stomach and stays in the large intestines. If he first eats oats or corn and then drinks water, the food is largely washed out by the water and passes to the small and large intestines where such food is not digested, but decomposes, giving off gas and thus sets up more or less disturbance and distress.

Under these circumstances a horse is not properly fed just because he has been furnished with six quarts of oats or from eight to thirteen ears of corn and all the new hay he can gobble in the short interim of the noon hour.

He has been fed, to be sure, but he has derived little benefit from his food. All of the benefit comes from the portion of the food digested, and that is very small when there is insufficient time first to masticate properly and then digest normally.

In the busy season the work horse should have small amounts of concentrated, nutritious food, just such an amount as he can masticate and digest. Corn ads fuel to the heat of his body and does not supply the strength and vigor he most requires. That comes from oats, and time is needed for its mastication.

Hay is unnecessary and actually injurious when fed at noon. It is not digested while the horse is at work. It does not remain in the stomach, but, like water, passes through into the large intestines, where it lies inert or decomposing until a period of rest promotes the normal process of digestion.

On general principles it will pay to cut in half the ration now being fed to work horses, provided they are given little time to masticate and digest their food. This will be found remedial where horses are evidently doing poorly, sweating too much, panting when at work, or having a tendency to diarrhoea. They will do better on less food for the reason that they digest a greater proportion of its nutrients.

Altering Grade Marks on Fruit Packages.

The fruit division, Ottawa, says in reference to this matter:—Shippers who still use the old system of marking fruit "XXX," "XX" and "X," instead of "No. 1," No. 2," and "No. 3" (which mean the same thing), should always enclose the two lower grade marks, "XX" and "X" in a circle, oval or diamond, in order that dealers who handle the packages may not have an opportunity of injuring their reputation by adding an "X" to "raise the grade." This practice, though not common, has come under the notice of the trade, and is liable to cause trouble to the original packer whose name is on the package.

Canadian Butter for Japan.

The dairy division, Ottawa, reports that as a direct result of the Canadian exhibit at the Osaka Exposition three new customers have recently been secured in Japan for the butter made at the Government creameries in the west. In this connection it is encouraging to find that the amount of butter exported to Japan by the dairy division is more than three times as great this year as during the corresponding period last year.

Pigs for the British Market.

Sanders Spencer's article on "Rearing and Fattening Pigs," in The Journal of the Board of Agriculture, says, speaking of American supplies, that "the very serious shortage of maize of the 1901 harvest has been tided over with comparative ease by the use of wheat, and so successful has the mixture of maize and wheat proved for pig feeding, that probably many American hog-raisers will continue the plan of mixing the food for their pigs, since the quality of the meat is improved, and the losses from broken legs in transit on the cars to the large centres, such as Chicago, are considerably less. Indeed it is now frankly admitted by pig feeders in America that the low price of wheat and the scarcity of maize have proved to them a great blessing in disguise. One other step they will have to take ere their pork and bacon take a high place on the English market—they will have to alter the form and quality of their pigs. Fashion and the desire to produce a very fat pig, or, in other words, a prize-winning and lard pig, have together simply ruined the majority of the pigs on the American continent for producing a side of high-class bacon such as would realize the highest price on the English markets. The change is sure to come, and one of the levers will be the demand on the part of American consumers for such bacon as they can eat, since the well-to-do and middle classes have become as fond of mild-cured bacon and hams as have the same and even lower classes in this country. The hog raisers on the other side will very readily alter their system as soon as it becomes evident that there is profit in it. Of course a few of the moneyed men and fanciers may still persist in breeding and exhibiting the lard hog, and there may still be found judges who are interested in, and who will continue to award the prizes to, the obese animals, whose only excuse for their existence is that they can win prizes and honors for their millionaire owners. But most probably we are about to see a great change in the type and character of the fat hog generally produced in the States."

"Hortense," murmured the fond youth, "would you give me a penny for my thoughts?" "Wilmot," she replied with an arch look, "I fear such a proceeding would be contrary to the law. You know it is held illegal to control the entire output of any industry."—Judge.

Black Hills Copper Company
LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000
PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - - $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jerome mineral belt of Arizona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to-day.

A limited amount of the Stock is now offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

Purchase the Treasury Stock of The Drake Mining Drainage and Tunnel Transportation Co.
OF COLORADO

The Company is capitalized at $2,000,000, consisting of 2,000,000 shares, par value one dollar per share. Seven hundred and fifty thousand shares of this amount is eight per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock.

The Property

Consists of nine patented, well developed mines and mill sites, situated in Gilpin County, Colorado. This county has already produced more than

$80,000,000 in Gold

The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk on ore to a depth of 100 to 400 feet, and a tunnel run a distance of 2,500 feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to unwater and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation

The Colorado & Southern Railroad passes directly in front of the mouth of the tunnel. All ore can be dumped therefrom directly into the cars, giving quick and cheap transportation to the mills. Large returns have been paid from the product of these mines.

Sale of Preferred Stock

The company desires to not only push its development work and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own mill site at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ore. For that purpose it now offers for sale [illegible] shares of its Preferred Treasury Stock at [illegible] cents per share, reserving the right to increase the price of all unsold shares thereof at any time without notice.

The Company pledges the whole net product of its mines to pay an eight per cent annual dividend on the sum paid for such stock, before any other stock receives any dividends whatever. After such dividends has been paid, the common stock shall receive a like dividend, when the surplus fund remaining shall be distributed among the common and preferred stock, share and share alike. All stock will be issued full paid and non-assessable.

THE ROSE OF THE RING

"It will not be necessary for Sir Felix to know?" she said, the natural brightness that had come to her face, for a few moments, fading. "Your painting a second picture of me might annoy him, if he knew it, and he would think it vain, my choosing a bride's dress."

"It shall be our secret," he answered, gravely. "We shall want a veil, and a few sprigs of orange-blossom—the ring we can dispense with, unless you have one at hand."

Gretchen looked up with a sudden start, then her eyes drooped, and she quietly replied:

"I have not."

After this, she seemed to shrink from mentioning the picture, and, as soon as she could leave the room without appearing abrupt, she made a formal bow to Marc, and went upstairs to see how her patient was progressing.

"A strange girl," Marc thought, as he stood at the open door, watching her ascend the stairs. "I wonder what she is keeping a mystery? She has a secret of some sort, or she would not be here."

CHAPTER VII.

Marc might have discovered Gretchen's secret had he followed her that night to a lonely part of the grounds.

The inmates of Drayton Court had retired to rest, and even Marc was soundly sleeping on his purple-draped bed.

There were no dogs kept in the house, or anywhere about the grounds.

Sir Felix had an aversion to animals—dogs especially—and none were retained on his premises.

It was past eleven when Gretchen crept out of the house, and made her way over the damp, fallen leaves.

A cold, heavy mist was rising from the earth, and, in spite of the long, hooded cloak that enveloped her from head to foot, she had to hurry along to keep herself warm.

She did not glance back once.

The house was in darkness, and she knew everybody to be in bed.

Under cover of the night, she went on without fear of detection.

As she approached one of the shrubberies, a man's voice, lowered to a whisper, fell on her ear, and a hand, thrust forward in the darkness, grasped a fold of her cloak.

"Gretchen! I thought I would have to go without seeing you. What has made you so late?"

"I will tell you everything," she answered, taking the hand in both her own, and pressing it against her bosom. "But first, say that you are repaid for all the waiting by having me with you. The days seem so long, Frank—so cruelly long—and these moments with you so short."

"I fancy it would have been better to have proclaimed the truth at first," he returned. "What have we gained by keeping our marriage secret?"

She put her arms round his neck, and laid her face against his shoulder.

"You have not run the risk of bringing your father's curse upon us both," she said, "and you have escaped being disinherited."

"I don't know so much about that," he muttered, gloomily. "Gretchen, prepare yourself for bad news—my father is dead!"

"Dead! Then there is no longer need for this secrecy? You can acknowledge me before all the world as your wife! Oh, Frank! this has been such a hard trial—to be your wife, and to be separated from you—to be living a life that is all false. Will you take me away tonight—will you let everyone know I am your wife—Frank Stanford's wife! How sweet it sounds! And we shall be so happy, Frank, with no shadow to come between our love!"

"I told you my news was bad," he said. "My father's will was read this morning—and there was a codicil."

"To what effect?" she questioned, alarmed by something in his voice; "you are not—no, no, he could not have been so unjust—he could not have left all his money to strangers."

"I'm afraid his wealth will go towards founding a seaman's home, or some other charitable institution. Everything was to have been mine—under one condition."

"And that—"

"I was not to marry until I had passed my twenty-fifth birthday."

"And why not?" she cried, with sudden passion. "Why should he try to prevent your marrying?"

"You know the reason, Gretchen. He was set against our marriage, and, thinking I might disregard his wishes after his death, he took this precaution."

There were a few moments of silence; then, in a strained voice, Gretchen said:

"What will you do, Frank?"

"Proclaim the truth. The money can never be mine—I have forfeited it by my marriage with you, three weeks ago. My father must have had some suspicion of what had taken place. We might as well have defied him openly, for all the good this secrecy has done. Even the allowance I had will be stopped directly my marriage is known. I shall absolutely be a beggar!"

He spoke bitterly.

It was too dark for her to see his face; but she felt his arms drop away from her, as though a sense of utter helplessness had taken possession of him.

Gretchen was the first to recover from the blow.

"It will not make any difference to our love," she said, nestling closer to him, and drawing his arm around her neck. "We shall always have each other—and what will it matter if we are poor? I love you too well for this loss to have much weight with me. When I consented to keep our marriage secret, it was for your sake—because I knew how you dreaded rousing your father's anger. There is no longer that risk; we have nothing to gain by silence, and, as your wife, I can live with you in peace, helping you to bear what, to you, must be such a cruel disappointment."

He pushed her away from him, impatiently.

"I was a fool," he muttered, "a fool to rush into this marriage. I have sacrificed everything by my folly. What sort of a career have I before me now?"

"Wealth does not make happiness," she said, clasping her hands round his arm and trying to win him to a gentler mood. "You have sacrificed everything but love, Frank. Love is the truest and sweetest thing in life."

"To a woman, perhaps; man needs more. Will love give us clothes, and keep us from starving?"

"We could work together. I do not fear poverty, Frank—and who can tell what change of fortune may be in store for us?"

"The only change in our fortunes will be from bad to worse," he answered, sullenly. "As to our working together, Gretchen—it is a mere empty phrase. I have no home to offer you—no prospect, at present, of getting one. I should have found it hard enough to make a position unencumbered; but with a wife—good Heavens! why did I rush into this madness?"

Gretchen shivered, and the tears welled into her eyes.

She had been his wife only three weeks, and now he spoke as though all his love for her had turned to gall.

She had borne much for his sake—she was willing to endure any sacrifice on his account, and yet he was longing to break the fetters that bound them together!

INTELLIGENCE DECREASING

Best Mental Stock is Not Reproducing Itself

London, Oct. 18—Prof. Karl Pearson, of the Anthropological Institute, took as the subject for his Huxley memorial lecture "The Inheritance in Man of the Mental and Moral Characters, and its Physical Characters." The professor, looking dispassionately from the calm atmosphere of anthropology, said he feared there was really a lack of leaders of the highest intelligence in science, the arts, trade, and even politics. In Great Britain he saw a want of intelligence in the British merchant, professional man, and workman. There was a paucity of more intelligent to guide those of modern intelligence. The mentally better stock, he said, was not reproducing itself at the same rate as formerly. He continued:—

"We are standing at the commencement of an epoch which is marked by a great dearth of ability. The remedy lies beyond the reach of revised educational systems. It is necessary that psychical characters should not be manufactured by the home, the school, or the college, but should be bred in the bone. For the last forty years the intellectual classes have ceased to give the nation a due proportion of good men.

IS A BLESSING

London, Oct. 18—That guot is a blessing in disguise is what the English medical journals would have us believe, at least in some cases. One of them is that of Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, who was struck down in the middle of his campaign for fiscal reform by an attack of gout. During the last few years Mr. Chamberlain has been subject to these attacks, but his general health has not been in any way impaired by them. Indeed, according to the Medical Journal, as age advances, the risk of an attack of guot always is increased, and as is well known, Mr. Chamberlain is one of those whose mode of life is essentially sedentary. To such persons acute attacks of guot appear to act as safety valves, and to be not inconsistent with a long span of life. This was notably the case with the late Earl of Beaconsfield, a man not addicted to active exercises or field sports, who, in spite of or perhaps by the help of, gout lived to the ripe age of 77.

According to all accounts from the far east if Japan declares war upon Russia and Russia finds it out there's going to be serious trouble.

TO THE SUFFERING.

The following testimonial may be read with interest to sufferers from skin eruptions or eczema:

January, [illegible], 1903.

Dear Sirs,—I notice your advt. in a paper about your wonderful eczema cure and I took it my duty to tell you that I was induced to try it as I had been afflicted with skin trouble in my hands for 11 years. I have tried several doctors and they done me no good. I only used one box of Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema. It has made a complete cure. I recommend it to all suffering from skin disease. My hand was so bad that the nails used to come off. You can use my name if you wish.

Yours truly,
MR. JOHN WOOD,

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh is also one of the best remedies on the market. We are daily in receipt of letters telling how much they have done for the afflicted. Miss Sarah Hill, 411 Front Street, Traverse City, Mich., writes: "I have been wonderfully helped by the use of your catarrh cure; send me another dollar's worth."

Peter D. McF[illegible], [illegible], P.E.I., writes: "I am very busy, but just drop a line to say I highly recommend your catarrh cure, it has done good work for me, I am so much better."

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, coughs, lame back, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years; the most stubborn cases will yield. For sale by Ormond & Walsh, Peterborough. 50c per box, or 6 boxes for $2.50.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh and Dr. Clarke's [illegible] price. [illegible] will be paid for any case that it will not permanently cure.

Purifying the Cream.

During the last three years considerable effort has been made to find a means by which the odor and taste of wild onion and bitter weed may be removed from milk and cream. In the spring of 1901, the writer was requested to try a patent compound claimed to remove all kinds of weedy taste from milk, but it proved to be an absolute failure. Cooking soda (saleratus) was also given a like trial, but failed of the purpose claimed for it by some people. Having failed so far to find anything that when fed to the cows would remove weedy taste in the milk, the next step was treating the milk and cream. Bitter weed taste was removed entirely from cream by thoroughly mixing it with two or more parts of water at any temperature above 70 degrees Fahrenheit, and then running the whole through the separator. Saltpetre dissolved in water was tried as an aid in removing the bitterness, but as good results were secured without it as with it. Rapidly and slowly heating milk and cream to various high temperatures did not remove bitterness, but often imparted a cooked taste. Butter made from washed cream (as above) was pronounced free of all bitterness by the station customers. Butter made from unwashed cream was decidedly bad and was often rejected by the customers. No means were found to remove the bitter weed taste from whole milk. In the spring of 1902 milk and cream were treated for the wild onion flavor the same as in the previous year for the bitter weed taste.—Alabama Agricultural Experimental Station.

"Smoked" Glasses for Hay Fever.

A number of remedies have been tried for hay fever, each based on a separate theory. Dr. Frank E. Stowell of Worcester, Mass., himself a victim, became satisfied that the irritating cause was not always the pollen of a plant. While hunting around for another source of trouble, he came to suspect that the actinic rays of sunshine might be to blame. Thereupon he put on colored, or "smoked," glasses, and obtained instant relief. He is anxious now to have others do the same and report the effect. Inasmuch as his own trouble is of the early summer variety, he is not sure what the effect would be on cases of autumnal hay fever. Dr. Stowell gives these additional hints about fitting the glasses:—

"The patient should feel a sensation of relaxation come over his face as soon as he looks through the glasses. And I would suggest that the shade of glass used be such as to produce the above. In my case No. 3 was sufficiently dark."

Colic in Horses.

Dr. Smead, the veterinary authority, writes regarding colic in horses:—

"It is of great importance in the treatment of colic to first ascertain what has brought on the attack. If it is due to the consumption of a quantity of dry food and there is reason to believe there is a hardened mass of dry, undigested feed in the intestines, common sense will tell us that this mass needs to be removed.

"Therefore, more is needed than stimulants. Physic is demanded. And what shall this physic be? Shall it be aloes? No, because they increase the secretions of the mucous membranes, and are so far good, but not sufficient to wet up that dry mass.

What then shall it be? Oil, oil, oil every time, sufficient to soften up and emulsify this mass of dry food. How much? it may be asked. It is difficult to say.

"Start with a pint of pure raw linseed oil (never boiled). Give with a round teaspoonful of ginger, and if there is much pain add an ounce of sulphuric ether, or half an ounce of hydrate of chloral dissolved in water and added.

"In an hour repeat and continue to repeat until there is a natural rumbling of the bowels.

"Also use the syringe by injecting a gallon of warm, soapy water in the rectum, and repeat hourly until the pain succumbs or a passage is made. In bad cases wring cloth out of hot water and apply to the abdomen.

"In cases where the attack may be due to the consumption of a quantity of soft food or to drinking much cold water, digestion is in a measure stopped, and certain gases are formed by chemical action.

"Nothing will better neutralize the gas thus generated than half an ounce of carbonate of ammonia dissolved in a pint of water and poured down from a bottle. This will relieve the bloat, and can be repeated hourly.

"Also, if the pain is severe, give the hydrate of chloral as before recommended with the ginger, and repeat if necessary every half hour until the pain is relieved."

Rains and snows assist to a certain extent in adding fertility to the soil. In one year rains bring down about four pounds of ammonia per acre. Nitric acid, chlorine, sulphuric acid and ammonia are all brought to the ground, though the amounts are not large.

Banking the earth around fruit trees will serve to protect the roots and also cause the water to flow away from the trees, thereby preventing pools from forming around the trees. The ground being kept dry, trees will endure the cold the better.

Those who possess a barn or stable should remember that all the small stuff, such as chaff, hayseed and dust, should not be thrown away but thrown down where the fowl can scratch it over. This will not only keep them amused, but also supply them with a few choice mouthfuls which they much appreciate.

New varieties of Russian wheat have been tested with good results at a branch experiment station in Kansas. Several kinds, Kharkov, Crimean, Theiss, etc., yielded over forty bushels per acre, and others ranged from thirty-five to forty bushels. The seed is being sold to Kansas wheat growers.

STOCK MARKETS

The following advices were received by Mr. J. Cummings & Co., 106 Simcoe street, over their private wire—

New York, October 21.—There was a very strong market for stocks yesterday, and in a number of cases appreciable advances were made. There was good buying for the account of strong interests apparently, and the talk is out this morning that the so-called Standard Oil people are adding materially to their holdings of the better issues of stocks. Money is being quite freely offered at reasonable rates here, and at other points and under the circumstances the big borrowers figure that there is absolutely no room for apprehension on part of the smaller speculative interest. The general line of news current is subject of favorable comment. The foreign situation is favorably viewed from all sides, and the London element has lately been a buyer of American stocks. All things considered there is a favorable line of comment and the short interest in the market is quite large in some interests. London led this morning. Traders are likely to sell international for a turn, but no very serious declines are looked for. On any dip from one-half to three-quarters buy U. P., S. P., Erie, Atchison or St. Paul. There is considerable short interest in T. C. I. Proposed reduction in wages of U. S. Steel men is not a bearish proposition. Insiders are giving out bull points on B. R. T. On all recessions buy sugar and hold for big results.

Chicago, October 21.—There was considerable irregularity in the wheat market today. There was good buying of the December option. Under the circumstances the market showed a reactionary tendency, and on the better levels there were bearish expressions. The cash situation continued to attract a good deal of attention. The crop news was quite bearish, and the clearances were small at less than 150,000 bushels, including wheat and flour. The late market was rather feverish, and practically in the hands of the local elements. The corn market was rather irregular. There was a fair demand from speculative shorts on the dips. The cash demand was fair. The primary movement reflected some accumulation, and the clearances were small at less than 200,000 bushels. The other statistics were featureless.

Liverpool close—Wheat, 1-8 higher. Corn 1-8 higher.

The Norfolk's Monkey.

The 2nd Battalion, Norfolk Regiment, which recently returned from South Africa, and is now quartered at Colchester, is very proud of its regimental pet—a large monkey named Bronko, secured at Pretoria. Bronko is proud of his whitish-colored coat, and knows his name when he is addressed, frowns at strangers, and points at them as much as to say, "Who are you?" To some people he takes readily; to others he shows his teeth. When told that General Gatacre or the Colonel is coming he draws himself up to his full height—over four feet—brushes his coat and salutes in quite a soldierly fashion. He likes a game of tug-of-war with a wisp of straw, at which he is very cunning, eats a quantity of oranges, which cost 6s 6d per week, and is fond of bananas, sweets and almonds. He has a failing for cigarettes, which he does not smoke, but dissects, and can drink beer in a fashion which creates visions of the Black List.

Had the Advantage.

The Kansas papers tell a story of an incident in President Hayes' visit to that State in 1879. President Roosevelt's visit is the occasion for telling it, and, had it happened to the present occupant of the White House, it would have amused him beyond anything else in his entire trip. Mr. Hayes was engaged in a speechmaking and handshaking tour. At Hutchinson a large crowd had gathered to greet him. In Hutchinson at the time was one "Bill" Graham, a cattleman much given to the use of intoxicating liquor. "Bill" joined the crowd without knowing what it was all about. He fell in line and gradually approached the President, who was standing on the lower step of his car and shaking hands with all who came. As "Bill" came near, the President reached over, grasped him by the hand, shook it vigorously and said:—"My friend, I am delighted to see you."

"Thash all right, pard," said Bill, "but, b'gosh, yer got the advantage of me!"

The Nice Conductor.

"Talking of hardships," remarked the minister with a smile, "reminds me of a little romance connected with one of my marriages some time ago. The bride was a very pretty girl, and was one of my parishioners. The bridegroom was a motorman on a trolley car. I wondered when I married them how he had found time to court her, as he was on duty for long hours day and night. Meeting the bride on the street shortly after the honeymoon, I asked her about it.

"'You couldn't have seen much of John while you were engaged?' I remarked.

"'Oh, but I did,' the bride replied. 'I used to ride [illegible] with him on the front platform at night, and the conductor [illegible] back.'"—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Pennsylvania's Trainmen and of Pittsburg Break off Negotiations

Philadelphia, Pa., October 21.—Negotiations which have been pending for three months between the trainmen on the Pennsylvania Railroad system east of Pittsburg and Erie and General Manager Atterbury on the question of a reduction in working hours were broken off today and a strike of 12,000 men is likely to result. An effort will be made next week by the Grand Lodge of Trainmen to confer with Mr. Atterbury. If this fails the grand lodge officers may appeal to President Cassatt. Failing to get a concession from him the labor chiefs will order a strike vote of the men.

Our Prison Systems.

The savagery of our prison systems, as they existed previously to the time of John Howard, says The Literary Digest, appears to have been so far mitigated that that great prison reformer might be considerably astonished if he could visit some of our American penal institutions of the present day. We learn from the Mississippi papers that it is no uncommon thing for convicts who escape from the Mississippi Penitentiary to the inhospitable outside world to come back and ask to be admitted again; and the Pennsylvania papers are filled with accounts of the discovery of a counterfeiting plant that has been running for months in the Eastern Penitentiary, in Philadelphia, and which had escaped the notice of the prison attendants. It had escaped their notice so completely, indeed, so the papers say, that they unsuspectingly received from the prisoners large numbers of the dimes, quarters and half-dollars turned out by this rival Philadelphia mint, and spent them in the city until Philadelphia was "flooded with them." The counterfeiting business was carried on by the convicts mainly "to pass away the time," so The Philadelphia Inquirer thinks, as they had nothing else to do. In a prison there is a great deal of time to pass, and the recollection of the old saying about time and money might easily suggest the pastime of the latter. Most of the prisoners engaged in the counterfeiting are said to have been employed in the plumbing department, learning to become plumbers, and the material for the coins is thought to have been obtained by them. The counterfeiting was carried on at night, when only the night watchman, who was formerly a Philadelphia policeman, was supposed to be on duty. The newspapers comment very severely on the prison management, and the critics of the Republican State administration profess to see a connection between the alleged misgovernment of the State and the dereliction of the prison officials. The Washington Post remarks satirically:—"Inmates of the Pennsylvania penitentiary have been robbing the State with just as much daring as though they were outside and holding office."

A Dutch Proposal.

The Dutch propose to reclaim the whole of the Zuyder Zee from the grasp of the ocean, says Walter Wellman, in McClure's Magazine. It is a vast, a daring, project, the most picturesque engineering enterprise known to the world to-day. An isthmian canal may cost more money, but an isthmian canal is, after all, only a great ditch. While other nations are seeking colonial expansion, the Dutch propose to create a hinterland at home. They propose to reclaim from the waters an area equal to one-fourteenth of all the present Holland. They propose to add nearly one-tenth to the area of cultivable land in their country. They propose to find new homes, where now the sea rages, for a population equal to 4 per cent. of all the inhabitants of the Netherlands. In the United States an enterprise of relative proportions would involve the creation of a new State like Missouri or Texas, the reclamation of land enough for more than three millions of people to live upon and thrive by agriculture.

Freedom of Women.

At the annual meeting of the Girls' Friendly Society held recently in London Mrs. Creighton, the widow of the late Bishop of London, delivered an address. In the course of her lecture she emphasized a needed warning in discussing the changed conditions of life among women of all classes. The increased liberty which girls and women enjoy has, she claimed, resulted in large numbers leading absolutely objectless lives. This was especially the case in those belonging to the great middle classes. The sense of individual responsibility needed to be cultivated by each one in whatever station of life her lot was cast, otherwise instead of being a blessing, the freedom now enjoyed by women would prove the source of incalculable mischief to the moral fibre of the female character in the present and future generations.

A New Discovery.

The discovery of a new metal called sellum by Edward Mollard, a Frenchman, is reported to the United States State Department. Says Engineering News:—"The discoverer asserts that sellum costs only one-twelfth as much as aluminum, and is lighter and stronger. It does not rust, and is therefore suitable for shipbuilding, for the manufacture of pipes and for railroad construction. It is asserted also that it is capable of taking a fine polish resembling nickel. Its hardness is not quite equal to that of iron, but is greater than that of lead or zinc. Its strength is said to be greater than that of iron, but less than that of steel."

THREE UNDOUBTED BARGAINS

A placer and two quartz claims;

Two partially developed quartz claims;

One-quarter section patented land adjoining above;

All located in the Susanville Mining District, Eastern Oregon. Will be sold together or separately. Total price, $9,000.

We consider this group of properties to be unusually promising as a heavy producing mine joins a portion of the land, and nearby placer grounds are showing up very rich.

Act quickly, if at all interested.

AN EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY

FOR BOTH LARGE AND SMALL INVESTORS

Owing to valuable Patents having been granted this Company, we are desirous of extending our business to the Dominion of Canada. Owing to the Customs duties, the extra cost in transportation and the numerous expenses attached, and the delays in deliveries in shipping goods from one country to another, it is absolutely necessary that we should have a factory in the Dominion, that we may be in a position to meet the immediate wants of the business.

The articles that we make from our Patent Fabric are too numerous to mention, and it is not necessary that we go into the details of the merits of our goods, as they are already in use to a large extent and have no equal. Our goods are covered by several patents, and the profit on the goods is large, averaging from 25 to 100 per cent, thus affording the company large revenue to meet all its obligations.

In order to secure funds to equip a plant in the Dominion of Canada we will offer to the people of Canada $100,000 of our Bonds paying ten per cent. interest per annum.

Experience has shown that stocks based upon sound industrial enterprises have never been equalled from the standpoint of legitimate profit. For instance, a few hundred dollars invested in the Bell Telephone Company's stock in the beginning of the enterprise now commands thousands of dollars, after having yielded large dividends annually. Of course opportunities for such profitable investments do not present themselves every day, and it is also very true that a vast amount of capital has been misdirected in the endeavor to exploit inventions and enterprises which shrewd and far seeing investors should have recognized as impractical. But as regards this enterprise even the most conservative must admit it has possibilities of development which are almost incalculable and which have already been demonstrated in a practical manner. We have no speculative elements—this is a sound business proposition, and the patents which we own are worth several million dollars, as there can only be one fabric of this kind and that is ours.

All the above facts are simple statements of the truth and can be fully substantiated to the satisfaction of all investors.

The business is no experiment, the incorporators of this Company have made it their business for a great many months past and understand all the details, the prospects are therefore bright, and brighter than those of many other opportunities.

This Company is not a promotors company, every dollar goes to enhance the value of the property and business and increase the capacity. There is nothing speculative in this proposition, the enterprises are undertaken for industrial purposes only to make profits by the operation and development of the business.

Considering that the enterprise is already upon an established basis with a certainty of profitable future expansion, we feel warranted in the assertion that this is an attractive proposition to investors whether large or small.

The price of these Bonds are one dollar each, and will be issued in any number wanted. With every purchase of each five Bonds we will give as a bonus, one share of stock of the Company, the par value of which is five dollars per share, thus assuring interest on the investment, and with the stock which is bound to increase you will have for nothing. These Bonds will be issued for five years. Persons desiring to avail themselves of this opportunity want to send their remittance at once.

Attention Investors

FROM THE PLACERS OF THE BOISE BASIN, IDAHO, FOUR HUNDRED MILLIONS OF DOLLARS IN GOLD HAVE BEEN TAKEN.

We are now developing the ledges that fed those placers in the ages past.

The Pearl Gold Mining Co. of Idaho

owns seven groups of mines—thirty-seven mining claims and is now working in ore in three of its mines.

The Treasury Stock is offered at a price that will unquestionably make money for those who invest. The Stock is non-assessable—no debts—all clear titles—safe, experienced and conservative management.

REFERENCES—The Governor of the State, and any bank in Boise, Idaho. Write the Company for particulars. Address

First Class Mining Proposition.

The Anaconda Gold Mining Co.

Home Office: 412 Merchants Loan and Trust Bldg.
135 Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

This is one of the best propositions ever placed before the Canadian investor. The Company owns 600 acres in the celebrated Black Hills District, South Dakota, comprising [illegible] claims. The property is unquestionably on the great Homestake belt, being located directly between the wonderful Homestake mine and the Clover Leaf mine. Two shafts have already been sunk, the main one being down [illegible] feet, with capacity of going 1000 feet. The Company has also installed an large [illegible] air compressor and drills, [illegible] horse power boiler, steam pumps, and in fact, everything needed for active operation, with the exception of its stamp mills, which will be installed at once. The vein of gold-bearing quartz traversing the Company's property is very rich. Assays [illegible] per ton.

The Company has a capital of 1,500,000 shares, divided into 750,000 preferred and 750,000 common, par value $1 per share, fully paid up and non-assessable. The treasury stock has [illegible] preferred stock to the amount of 25 cents [illegible] dividends 25 cents per share will be paid [illegible] preferred stock before holders of common [illegible] profits. After the 25 cents has been [illegible] of preferred stock, then all alike share [illegible] nothing less than that the first investors in the enterprise will have all their money returned to them before any dividends can be declared to the rank and file [illegible].

A limited amount of Stock has been placed on the Canadian market. Full particulars and copy of prospectus may be obtained from MR. E. J. KIDD, or the undersigned Agents for Peterborough city

DEAF

FOR THIRTEEN YEARS

Mr. Geo. Warner, publisher of the Masonic Register Toronto was almost totally deaf in both ears for a number of years. He experimented with a thousand different remedies and only got relief by using Catarrhozone and it cured

Mr. Warner says: "For the past thirteen years my hearing has been badly affected. The streets were as as quiet to me as if I lived in the city of the dead. I could neither hear the noise of the street cars or sound of horses feet on the pavement. Before I had used Catarrhozone Inhaler three days I was able to notice a great change in my condition, which gradually improved until now I can hear a whisper across the room. I cannot tell you how much I appreciate Catarrhozone, or of the wonderful results I have derived from using it. Catarrhozone has my strongest endorsement and I am quite willing that you should use it."

Mr. Warner's unsolicited testimonial furnishes abundant proof that deafness can be cured, even in old age, if Catarrhozone is used. This remedy is scientific in its application and meets with the endorsement of prominent ministers and doctors all over Canada. Our best equipped health institutions always keep it on hand, and cases are recorded where it has been used with great success in the Government deaf and dumb institutions where other means proved futile.

If your hearing is poor, if you have head noises or ringing in the ears, be sure and use Catarrhozone. It is a regular miracle worker and is sure to help you. Complete outfit costs $1; trial size 25 cents. Sold by all druggists and N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Take the direct route, Grand Trunk and Lehigh Valley. Five fast express trains daily, including "Black Diamond Express." No extra fare on this train. For tickets and Pullmans call on WM. BUNTON, City Passenger and Ticket Agent, G. T. Ry.

Some Bad Boys

Mr. McCooney, caretaker of Victoria Park, called the attention of The Times to the conduct of some bad boys, who climbed over the wire fences surrounding the bulbs, and tramped all over the beds. Surely there should be some way of catching these young hoodlums and making an example of them.

A Coming Treat

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A. have arranged for a grand concert to be held on Thursday, November 19th, in the Opera House. The following popular artists will participate :—Mr. Harold Jarvis, tenor robusto; Mr. Owen Smiley, Entertainer; Miss Alice Dean, solo violinist; Mr. W. Spencer Jones accompanist.

—The second Saturday social will be held in the Y.M.C.A. parlors on Saturday evening, Oct. 24th, at 8 o'clock. Young men are invited to come on "A canoe trip to the far north" with Mr. Jas. A. Fife, Science Master P.C.I. The programme will also contain other interesting features.

A Unique Entertainment

The Girl's Guild of St. John's Church will give an old time social in the school room of the church this evening. The affair promises to be a most enjoyable and attractive event. The following ladies and gentlemen will take part: Miss Corry, Mr. Lawrence, Miss Mary Rush, Miss Gumpricht, Misses English, Miss Ruth Dawson, Miss Alberta White and All Saints' male quartette.

A Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Hillier, of 301 Water street, entertained a number of friends and gave a very pleasant oyster supper in honor of Mr. and Mrs. H.H. Hillier, of 12 Victoria Avenue, this being their sixteenth wedding anniversary. A very pleasant evening was spent and supper was served at 11 o'clock, after which the guests retired, wishing Mr. and Mrs. Hillier many more happy anniversaries together.

The Spence Ambulance

The new Dan Spence memorial ambulance has arrived and may be seen at Robinson's livery stable. It has not yet been decided where to keep it. It is of polished oak, and is a very fine piece of work, being beautifully fitted up. On the windows on each side the following words are inscribed :—"In memory of Daniel M. Spence, who died for his country, South Africa, 1901." The ambulance was purchased from A. B. Greer, London, at the cost of $880.00, which sum was raised by subscriptions and a grant from the Council.

A Chapter of Accidents

Three accidents occurred at the Canadian General Electric works on Tuesday. Mr. Geo. Gauthier was unloading a machine from a car and a roller fell on his right foot crushing the large toe badly with the result that a part of it had to be amputated. In the afternoon Joseph Laviseur and J. Killinbeck were unloading machines and each had one foot badly crushed and will be laid up for some time. Yesterday morning Mr. A. A. Smeaton, a machinist, who lives at 191 Rubidge street was doing some steel work when a small portion of burnt steel flew up and struck him in the left eye. He was at once conveyed to the Nicholls Hospital and Dr. McCullough attended his injury, but all efforts to save the sight in this eye were unavailing, and it was severely injured. It is not known as yet whether the eye will have to be removed or not. The right eye has not been affected so far. Much sympathy is felt for Mr. Smeaton at the unfortunate accident.

INCIDENTS OF THE DAY

—The Western Minstrels had a good house last night in the hockey rink. Their performance was above the average.

—The Ontario Gazette says: The Belmont Gold Mine, Limited, a British Company, has received authority to carry on mining operations in Belmont Township, Peterborough.

—Mr. Cooney, the caretaker of Victoria Park, is cutting down a number of trees to let in more sunlight. Fully twenty-five maples have been cut down during the past couple of years.

—Mr. E. W. Gardiner entertained the members of the Athletic Lacrosse Club to a supper on Tuesday evening at his restaurant, George street. A most enjoyable evening was spent.

NO STRIKE COMING

No Trouble Likely to Take Place on the C. P. R.

For some days a rumor has been current that a strike on the C.P.R. by the locomotive engineers was probable. The Times is in a position to state that there is absolutely no truth in the report. There is no friction whatever between the company and its employes.

At the conference held last week in Montreal between Superintendent Timmerman and the men, nothing was then discussed save minor matters incidental to that branch of the service. The meeting was not summoned with the aim of adjusting any form of grievance, and no such thing had been understood to exist, and the proceedings were purely technical and carried on in the most amicable spirit.

REBUILDING

A Woman Makes Headache Over

A lady who used a famous food for convenience made a discovery that she tells of as follows;

"I had been sick for a long time and was a nervous wreck suffering from headache, faintness, distended stomach, palpitation and great heart disturbances.

"Two physicians said that I had valvular trouble of the heart. I was then a widow living alone and was often too ill to get my meals; hearing of Grape-Nuts as a ready cooked food I purchased a package for convenience only, thinking it would at least keep me from starving.

"It was delicious and after a week's diet with little besides Grape-Nuts and cream I had improved so as to be a wonder to myself. Then I took Postum Coffee in place of tea and coffee and continued the steady use of both Grape-Nuts and Postum. This was a year ago and today I am a well woman for my heart disease is gone along with all my other bad symptoms.

"Some time ago I took charge of a Boarding Club of students of our University, and following their instructions I gave them luncheons made up of biscuits or light bread, cold meat and coffee. The result of the students was that many of them suffered from headaches, dullness and inability to apply themselves to study after luncheon.

"I knew that the trouble was the wrong selection of food and it was not long before I persuaded some of them to take only Grape-Nuts with cream for luncheon. This worked like a charm and one after another followed the example until now Grape-Nuts is the principle article of diet for breakfast and luncheon in the Club.

"Some of the Professors in the University have noticed the change, too, for the student's brain, when fed on Grape-Nuts is clear and active, the memory is good, and his ambitions appear to be heightened because the body and brain are in good, steady condition." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

POLICE COURT

Young Man Heavily Fined for Using Bad Language

Thomas McManus, a young man, was charged with using insulting language to a young lady on the street last Monday evening. After a severe reprimand by the Magistrate he was fined $10 and costs, amounting to $12.50 altogether, with two days to pay it in. Mr. D. O'Connell appeared for defence.

A drunk was assessed $2 and costs.

A lad ten years old was charged with refusing to go to school and stealing $10 from his parents. He said he would be good and go to school, so he was allowed to go.

THE HAVELOCK INQUEST

Jury Returned Verdict regarding the Death of Engineer Weese

Coroner McWilliams, of Keene, held an inquest on the death of Henry Weese who was killed at Havelock a couple of weeks ago. The following is the verdict:

"The deceased Henry Weese came to his death from injury received from a car passing over his body, and that there was insufficient protection provided as regards his safety while at work. We disagree on the point as to whether or not the deceased came to his death from any fault of his own, part contending that the evidence went to show that it was customary to depart from the rules in some instances, of which this was one, and thus do the work without sufficient protection, and the rest holding that as an employe he should have looked for himself to see that protection was adequate."

DAMAGE TO PROPERTY

A Glaring Exhibition of Juvenile Depravity

Peterborough is evidently possessed of a number of very bad boys. Elsewhere we publish the complaint of the caretaker of Victoria Park, which is bad enough, but not so bad as the wanton acts of destruction perpetrated by one or more young hoodlums a few evenings ago. Within a few nights two drinking fountains have been injured. One is the fountain on Hunter street, at the creek. The spout has been wrenched or hammered off. Not satisfied with this, the youthful miscreants, for it is plainly the work of boys, smashed the interior fittings of the head of the fountain. Consequently the fountain is dry and teams and horses stop at it in vain to slake their thirst. Similar damage has been done to the drinking fountain in Central Park.

It is full time that an effort was made to put a stop to this vile work.

Shooting Season

The Grand Trunk Railway have issued a very handsome and illustrated pamphlet, entitled, "Haunts of Fish and Game," giving information regarding resorts for shooting Deer, Moose, Caribou, etc., in the "Highlands of Ontario" and at other points along the line of the Grand Trunk. Copies of same will be furnished, on application, at Grand Trunk ticket offices or to J. D. McDonald, District Passenger Agent, Toronto.

When the life of Mrs. Ruff was hanging in the balance she used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and was restored to health. Her experience made her the firm friend of the medicine that cured her.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has no equal in its cures of womanly disease. It establishes regularity, dries the drains that weaken women, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"Five years ago when my life was hanging in the balance, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was brought to my home," writes Mrs. Caroline Ruff, Directress of German Orphan's Home, residing at 30 Hoover Street, Detroit, Mich. "I took it, and it won me back to health. Ever since that time, I have been its firm friend. We frequently have mothers come to our Home who are suffering with uterine troubles, inflammation, tumors and ulceration. A great remedy for a female trouble is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and I have found nothing so far which will so quickly cure the disease, relieve the pain and stop pains. It is a good friend to women."

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Humor of the Hour.

One of the stock stories about tipping is that of the waiter in a swell hotel sneering at a quarter and remarking to the giver: "I beg pardon; haven't you made a mistake?" A few nights ago, in the main dining-room of the Waldorf-Astoria, where tips range frmo a quarter to $5, a westerner said to his two companions: 'Watch me paralyze this waiter, he ain't worth a cuss. He hasn't showed us any etxra attention, and doesn't deserve a cent, but here goes."

The bill being paid, and change placed before him in a plate, he handed the waiter a copper cent. As he expected, garcon turned up his nose and said:

"I beg pardon; haven't you made a mistake?"

"Not at all," was the reply; "not at all. You are quite welcome. I never give less."

Waiter duly paralyzed.—New York Press.

Wife—You know, dear, you told me to invest that money so that I'd have something ior a rainy day.

Husbany—Yes.

Wife—Well, here's the investment. Did you ever see a lovelier rainy day skirt in your life?—Philadelphia Press.

COMFORT HANDED TO CANADA BY UNITED STATES

Idea Seems to Possess Yankees That This Is a Good Time to Spring Reciprocity or Annexation

Cincinnati Inquirer—There will be no disposition in this country to crow over Canada. On the contrary, we regard her with the kindliest feelings, rejoice in her prosperity, recognize her great future and desire to be and remain on the best and most neighborly terms with her. Let her statesmen and ours now undertake the task of reaching such agreements as to trade as will promote amity and commercial development. Existing barriers are wholly artificial and should be broken down.

Philadelphia Press—But the real triumph of Great Britain and the United States is in the peaceable settlement of this vexed controversy. With this decision, in which the representatives of both share, the last contested issue between two sister nations disappears.

New York Times—The conclusion reached, while eminently satisfactory to this country, will be hard for the Canadians to accept, since they had set their hearts on a different result. But in England we may be very sure that a natural sense of justice, joined to the pleasure with which all Englishmen will hear that a possible cause of difference with us has been removed, will make the finding welcome to public opinion.

Milwaukee Wisconsin—There is but one result that could follow a war between the United States and Great Britain or the United States and Canada—and that is the annexation to the United States of all the vast and rich, but sparsely settled country between the Great Lakes and the North Pole. It would hurt the Canadian a bit. They'd like being in the sisterhood of states.

Atlanta, Ga., Constitution—This settlement is a great triumph for the Anglo-Saxon idea of arbitration. In times not long ago nations would have gone to war promptly over a proposition of this sort, and probably killed off a hundred thousand men who had actually a copper cent's worth of interest in who owned the land. But this case will remain as a high and worthy example of the humanity and pure statesmanship of the peaceful process of arbitration.

Philadelphia Telegraph—The Canadians will persist in regarding the proceedings before the Boundary Commission as partaking of the character of an arbitration. The commission is in no sense an arbitration tribunal. Neither England nor this country was willing to place its interests in this matter at the discretion of an outsider, however high his reputation for learning and impartiality might be.

Bay City, Mich., Times—Perhaps those reported early admissions about the Alaskan Boundary Commission's decisions were just to let Canada down easy. Breaking the news suddenly would have jolted our neighbor across the border too hard.

Lexington, Ky., Herald—The narrow policy of the Eastern States lost us the Maritime Provinces of Canada. When the confederation of Canada was proposed by Sir John A. Macdonald, who was a great statesman and justly ranks with Bismarck and Cavour as the creator of nations, these provinces were violently opposed to it, and a wise, generous, far-sighted policy on our part would have prevented the formation of that confederation now known as the Dominion of Canada.

Springfield Mass., Union—Canada can regain that portion of Alaska she lost by joining the great American family.

New York Tribune—It is much to be regretted for their sake, and for the sake of Canada, in so far as their attitude is approved at home, that the Canadian commissioners have shown themselves to be peevish in defeat. Doubtless their disappointment is keen. They probably never hoped to win, but they did not until recently expect to lose. It is a pity that in losing their case they have also lost their composure and made a painful exhibition of qualities not suited to the requirements of so high a trust.

New York Commercial—Both Canada and the United States appear to be getting along pretty well under their present industrial and fiscal policies. It's the "Mother Country" over across the Atlantic that is on the "anxious seat" just now.

Toledo, O., News—By and by Canadians, English, Americans and everybody else will find that these imaginary lines are really imaginary; that there is no need for any; that we are one people, and that we need one language, one government, one army, one navy, one flag, and that all over this blessed earth there will be peace, harmony and love. We are tired of hating everybody. Life is too short for such waste of good mental energy.

New York Journal of Commerce—It would be unfortunate if this decision would be the cause of any prolonged feeling of resentment or bitterness in Canada, and it behooves the government and the press of this country to do everything in reason, even in generosity, to soothe this feeling, and to invite even more friendly relations.

New York American—[illegible] contention was an example of that brilliant principle of conduct, that if you claim a great deal you may get a little bit. It was worked on the United States most effectively in the disputes over the Pacific coast boundary and the earlier controversy on the Atlantic end of the line. The little islands that Canada gets we will never miss, for they would only be of consequence in the event of a war with England—an event of the remotest possibility and no probability.

Baltimore Sun—By the decision of the boundary commission Canada loses nothing to which she ever had a title. She does get, however, a concession in regard to Portland Canal, which is an advantage to her both territorially and in the matter of navigation. Our Canadian cousins ought to accept the finding of the commission with good grace.

Minneapolis Journal—Ultimately, liberal commercial views will triumph and it will be found that, under the most liberal reciprocity treaty, and under even a North American zollverein, our industrial and agricultural interests will not only not suffer a particle, but be greatly developed in their profitable activities. The present reciprocity movement as to Canada in our northern tier of states shows the trend of American sentiment.

Detroit News—Like the babe who lies in his cradle and yearns for the nurse to give him the chandelier or his own reflection in the mirror, Canada mourns and refuses to be comforted. Canada has been on the bottle for a long time. She is old enough and strong enough to discard the milk diet and put away childish things altogether.

Philadelphia Enquirer—It will be a good thing for the Canadians, when the first edge of their resentment at what they regard as the betrayal of their interests be worn off, if they shall ask themselves seriously how much profit they are likely to gain in the future connection with the British Empire.

Buffalo Express—The Canadian Alaska commissioners are taking exactly the course which Canadian commissioners and which led them to criticise sharply the American appointments.

Portland Me., Express—The result is a victory for us, but more important is the fact that the decision has been peacefully reached, leaving the world to marvel that a question of so much importance may be settled between two nations without the shedding of blood.

Manchester, N.H., Union—This action may be a long step in the direction of Senator Proctor's recently declared belief that Canada itself should be a part of the United States.

Scranton, Pa., Times—We trust that Canada will soon forget that she had the least cause for envy or ill-feeling toward her neighbor over the Alaska boundary. We should be more helpful to each other. We need closer and better trade relations, and that such is not the case is due to the American trusts, which control the government.

Cleveland Plaindealer—Canada is given the one thing it was really after—a harbor far to the north of Vancouver and superior to it in having a clear passage to the ocean. Certainly Canada has no cause for complaint.

Chicago News—Any resentment that Canadians may feel must be short-lived, since their case was weak, and they knew it, notwithstanding their labored efforts to make it look presentable.

Westminster Gazette—Opinion across the border seems inclined to accept the position as gracefully as possible. In this the Canadians exhibit a most commendable spirit.

Brooklyn Eagle—We believe the Canadians will themselves admit that the immediate reduction by the United States is preferable in their interests to the continual bickering which would have followed an indecisive outcome.

Pittsburg Telegraph—The settlement is a distinct victory for arbitration as a means of settling international disputes.

HEARD IN HOUSE.

Ottawa, Oct. 21.—The house to-day opened with evidence of extraordinary interest in the Alaskan boundary case. Before the orders of the day were called, Sir Wilfrid Laurier read the following cablegram from Hon. Clifford Sifton:

"London, Oct. 20.—To Laurier, Ottawa. Award signed to-day by Chief Justice and Commissioners Root, Lodge and Turner, being under treaty binding majority. Line commences at Cape Muzon, goes directly to southern entrance of channel between Wales and Sitklan Islands, proceeding northward between said islands to Portland Channel, thence along the middle of Portland Channel to its head; from there line formed by going from peak to peak of mountains, distance from tidal water varying from ten to thirty miles, speaking generally. When opposite Thomas Bay line stops, undefined from there to point about fifteen miles north of head of Taku Inlet; thence follows summit peaks of mountains about northwestward to White Pass, following watersheds of White and Chilkoot passes, thence by peaks of mountains to Mount Fairweather, passes close to police post situated near Klehini River. In this course the line will be from eighty to twenty miles north of the provisional boundary line, from Fairweather a short distance northward, and then on a fairly direct course to the rear of Yakutat Bay, thence from peak to peak by somewhat circuitous route to Mount Elias. Marked map follows to-morrow. (Signed) Sifton."

Sir Wilfrid said the telegram alone would give little information, but the presentation of maps would show the situation. He thereupon opened a large map upon the table of the house and at once there was a rush of members from their seats to the centre of the room. Thirty-two of the people's representatives swarmed around the table, listening to the explanation of the Premier, who pointed out the new boundary line and the situation around the Portland Canal. Seymour Gourley stood next and manifested his usual anxiety, while Mr. Borden and a host of his other followers stood over the tables, their arms reaching out for support.

In reply to a question by Mr. Borden, Sir Wilfrid was heard to say: "That's what I can't understand."

This extraordinary scene lasted five minutes, after which the members scattered, and other business was taken up.

ADAM SHORTT HEARD.

Kingston, Oct. 21.—Adam Shortt says that Canada had no case in the Alaska boundary award and defends Lord Alverstone for his action. He says that the interests of Canada have not been sacrificed.

PRESIDENT ON DECISION.

Washington, October 21.—President Roosevelt gave a special reception at the White House to-night to the members of the Alfred Mosley English Educational Commission. Representatives of a number of educational institutions of Washington and of the public schools met the commission.

The President in a brief address expressed the opinion that England and the United States had a great deal to learn from each other in educational matters.

The President referred to the Alaskan boundary decision, expressing the conviction that the fact that two nations could meet together and decide disputed points on the basis of justice and equity marked a most decided advantage in civilization.

PAY FOR CAPTURING DAVIS

John Camm, Louisiana, is Entitled to Reward

New Orleans, La., October 21.—For over thirty years the sum of $1,503.35 has been lying in the Government treasury at Washington without a claimant. It is the remainder of an original reward of $100,000 for the capture of Jefferson Davis, president of the confederacy.

John Cramm, a resident of Gretna, La., who served as a lieutenant in the federal army during the civil war and aided in the capture of President Davis, believes he will have no trouble in proving that he is entitled to the money. He has in his possession the original warrant for the arrest of President Davis, signed by the president of the United States. His army certificates are duplicates, but the warrant is in the writing.

Only a few months ago Lieutenant John Camm learned of the money being in Washington still awaiting a claimant. He wrote a letter to the department and recently received a reply from Secretary Root saying that the money be paid upon the forwarding of the proper identification papers.

The original reward of $100,000 was paid out in various sums to 154 men of the First Wisconsin cavalry and nineteen men who accompanied Captain Joseph A. Yeoman at the time of the capture of Davis at Irwinville, Ga., May 10, 1865. The act also provided for the payment of eight additional men, six of whom were unknown at the time. When Camm learned of the reward for the men directly under Lieutenant Yeoman, commanding the capturing party, he immediately filed his claim.

OLD STORY DISPROVED.

Camm's story refutes several well-worn stories of how Davis tried to escape in the clothes of his wife. Camm says this was not the case, and he relates the story of the famous capture.

Account of [illegible]

"We were in camp at Macon, Ga.," said Lieutenant Camm. "It was May 7, 1865, when Lieutenant Joseph A. Yeoman of the First Ohio cavalry was detailed to arrest President Davis. He took myself and twenty union soldiers from the Fourth Michigan cavalry and we set out on the still hunt. But none of us knew the mission at the start. Yeoman alone knew what was up, and that we were going to take Jeff Davis, whose hiding place had become known to the federal troops.

"After we had marched about two days Captain Yeoman drew us into line one day and said; 'Boys, we are going to capture Jeff Davis. He has about seven wagon loads of gold money with him and we will all share it alike if we get him.'

"That put life into the boys and there was nothing they would not have undertaken. It was bad weather. The roads were sloppy and the red clay was sticky and hard to travel. At one point we were mistaken by the federal lines and were fired on. [illegible] But we skirted [illegible] and got out of range of Major General Wilson's men, who had fired on us.

"On May 10 we located the Davis camp. It was 4 o'clock in the afternoon of that day when we marched up to the spot where Davis had concealed himself. He was just about to go down to a spring for a bucket of water. He had a rain coat thrown over his head, as it was raining, and his wife was there, but he never attempted to escape in her garb, as has been said. President Davis made no resistance and with him a prisoner we retired to the headquarters of Major General Wilson. General Johnson got the money in the Davis camp, and divided it among his men. We never got a dollar of it."

HAD BULLETS IN 'EM

How a Local Sportsman Went Hunting Rabbits

A few days ago a hunting party was organized, which included one of our most enthusiastic hunters. They proceeded to Burleigh, where they obtained a guide. During the day in the woods, the gentleman referred to had the misfortune to cripple the guide, who got a couple of grains of shot in his heel. After this experience the guide took extra precautions for the safety of himself and the other hunter. Toward the close of a busy day, during which the gentleman had been distinctly unfortunate—having hit nothing—he was told by his guide that his ammunition was expended. "Indeed" he exclaimed, espying a number of cartridges in the bag; "then whose are those?" "'Oh,' stammered the man, "them's not for you, sir. They're for the other gent. They've got bullets in 'em."

TO KEEP MUKDEN SHUT

Indignant Russians Declare Czar will Render Hay's Treaty Useless

CLAIM RIGHTS INFRINGED.

Open Port Would Cancel Chinese Gift of Commercial Monopoly in Manchuria

Che Foo, Oct. 23.—Russians are indignant with the United States for concluding the treaty opening Mukden to the commerce of the world. They say the St. Petersburg government will protest, and maintain that the opening of the new treaty port will never take place.

Admiral Alexiff has privately said that Russia will not evacuate Manchuria, and pointed out that the Chinese did not press them to leave. "What right then has Japan to do so?" he asked.

The Russian fleet has returned from Dalny.

The garrison and 20,000 Chinese laborers are at work building barracks for over 10,000 men here, while the defences north of Talien Wan are also being strengthened.

Calls America Aggressive.

Port Arthur, Oct. 22.—The Novee Krai declares that the opening of Mukden as a treaty port is proof of the aggressive nature of the United States policy. This policy infringes Russian rights secured through the construction of the Manchurian Railway and the concession by China to Russia of the sole commercial exploitation of the province.

Negotiations Are Halted.

Yokohama, Oct. 22.—The negotiations between Russia and Japan have come to another standstill. It is doubtful whether the Marquis Ito's view of the military occupation of Manchuria is endorsed by the country, but it is believed that he is strong enough to carry his point, owing to the strong stand for the integrity of Corea and the open door in Manchuria.

Discredits Landing Reports.

London, Oct. 23.—The Japanese legation attaches no importance to the reports of the landing of Japanese troops at Ping Yang, Corea, or the alleged concentration of Japanese forces in the neighborhood of Hakodate, Japan. The legation has every reason to believe that the situation has not changed materially since last week, and that the Czar's appointment of a special commission tends to limit the powers of General Alexieff in the Far East.

The Daily Mail says since Oct. 16 eight steamships have been chartered in the United Kingdom to carry steam coal to Japan and that two other consignments are reported. The Port Arthur and Vladivostock freight rates have risen three shillings as a result of competition.

Chicago, October 22.—The Tribune says today: A representative of Joseph Chamberlain, for whom he is investigating the results of the protective tariff in the United States, Ernest Augustus Hamlyn, of the Honorable Artillery Company, of London, reached Chicago last night.

The results of Mr. Hamlyn's investigations thus far are embodied in a preliminary report, which he forwarded to London from Chicago. In it he declares the commercial greatness of this country is due to the tariff, adding that it would be "the salvation of England."

Mr. Hamlyn summarized his report to Mr. Chamberlain as follows: "Your protective tariff policy will be the salvation of England. The manufacturers and tradesmen I have seen during 6,000 miles of travel, while visiting the trade centres in this country frankly admit that the English tariff will be a detriment to the continued industrial prosperity of America. They admit that it will be best for England."

The report concludes with an offer by Mr. Hamlyn to contribute $500 to a fund with which to bring to America 100 English workingmen from fifty manufacturing cities to study the effects of a tariff on the wages and living expenses of the working classes.

SLAYER OF "YELLOW"

Edward Clark is on Trial For His Life

Picton, Ont., Oct. 21.—The trial commenced here yesterday of Edward Clark colored, on a charge of killing another colored man, Edward Johnston, both employes of the Pan-American Circus on the 22nd day of July last. Witnesses for the Crown stated that the prisoner was met going to the grounds with an open knife in his hand, declaring he was going there to kill some of of the men. Other witnesses and employes of the circus stated that the prisoner had told them that evening that he had killed "Yellow," being the name by which the deceased went.

The defence, by some fourteen witnesses, gave evidence showing that the prisoner was drinking and dancing and singing in a town hotel until after word came to the hotel that a man had been killed.

JAPS AND RUSSIA

Japan Sanguine of Her Ability to Defeat Russia

Tokio, October 21.—Japan's ability to cope with Russia in war is regarded as beyond reasonable doubt by the most eminent authorities in the country. The Empire has taken the advice of practically every great soldier and sailor wearing his uniform and has weighed the Japanese question of chances with care. He is said to view the possibility of a conflict with comparative equanimity. In consonance with the opinion of his advisers, however, the Emperor has determined to resort to war only when Russia attempts to convert Corea into a second Manchuria. This does not mean that Japan purposes abandoning its diplomatic struggle to check Russia's efforts to monopolize Manchuria. The popular demand for war is seconded by the leading financial and industrial and commercial men who hold that a collision is inevitable and might better be chanced now than later.

Deport Americans

Montreal, Oct. 21.—Mr. Beaugre, president of the Canadian Federation of Shoemakers, has appealed to Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir William Mulock for the enforcement of the Alien Labor Law in the case of certain shoe makers alleged to have been imported from the United States for the purpose of taking the places of a number of members of the federation formerly employed in the factory of a shoe company. The federation asks the Government to send the men back to the United States at the expense of the company.

WALK 600 MILES STARVING

Hudson Bay Trading Expedition is Wrecked and Men Suffer Horribly

Ottawa, October 22.—After suffering terrible hardships in a 600-mile march through the wilds of northern Canada, Captain Ferry and forty-seven members of the crew of the steamer El Dorado of Liverpool, passed through this city today en route for Montreal.

The El Dorado, a ship of 400 tons burden, struck an uncharted rock at the entrance of Hudson Bay, near Fort George, and sank. All the crew succeeded in getting ashore, but were completely destitute of provisions and saved only the clothing that was upon their backs.

The ship and crew comprised an exploration and trading expedition sent out by a stock company. They carried a large stock of goods suitable for barter with the Indians in exchange for furs and it was proposed to operate along the lines of the Hudson Bay Company. Nothing was saved from the wreck and the men began their long march southward almost destitute of provisions and supplies of any kind that could be exchanged for food. They marched through the wilderness for forty-two days, covering nearly 600 miles. Their suffering was intense, but not a single man succumbed.

The Parties Agreeing

Brantford, Oct. 21.—A provisional agreement was drawn up yesterday between the Grand Trunk Railway and this town by which the company secures an entrance into the city and in return builds a $25,000 station.

Ballots Missing

Victoria, B.C., Oct. 21.—The re-count in the Fernie election court, which was to have been held before Judge Ferrin, had to be postponed for one week, owing to one of the ballot boxes being missing. The box is said to have been sent to Victoria by mistake.

Good Printing Pays

If a merchant fully realizes how frequently his business standing is judged by appearances he will never make the mistake of sending out poorly printed matter. Bad printing and poor paper may completely destroy the good effect that a well-written circular or booklet would otherwise have. This is not surprising, for the person who receives printed matter from a stranger is apt to have his opinion of it influenced by its appearance. He may be unconscious of this influence, but he will be affected by it all the same. The same principle holds good with regard to business stationery. A tasty, well-printed letterhead on good paper is in itself a letter of introduction, and one that conveys a good impression. But if the paper and printing be poor, it will be strange if the recipient does not form a poor opinion of the house that sent it out. Some may regard these as small matters, but they are among the small things that count. The Times job rooms do nothing but first class work: no inferior printing allowed to leave the office.

THE KING'S PERMISSION

Mr. Chamberlain would Make the Nation Self Sufficient

London, Oct. 21.—An enormous crowd at Tynemouth today greeted Mr. Chamberlain as he was rising to deliver an address by singing, "He's a Jolly Good Fellow." Mr. Chamberlain declared he had the King's permission to explain to the public why he had left the Cabinet. He had devoted himself, he said, to solving the question of preferential tariffs with the colonies in order to make us self-sufficient and to make the English race throughout the world self-supporting and independent of foreign supplies or assistance.

CANADA TO BLAME FOR LOSS OF TERRITORY

Did Not Protest Against American Possession of the Disputed Land

THIS IS THE OPINION OF RODERICK CAMPBELL

No Need of Award, Had Sir Donald Smith Been in Charge in the North

London, October 22.—A highly-placed British official was seen to-day frowning over cablegrams reporting the angry and often insulting comments of Canadian journals on the Alaskan award.

"Not pleasant reading," an onlooker remarked.

"No," was the official's reply, "certainly not pleasant. We all use hard words in a moment of acute disappointment, and yet read that."

He pointed to the following passage in an editorial of a London journal: "We men of British blood have the instincts of good sportsmen and know how to retire from the wicket with dignity, even if persuaded the umpire has erred in giving us out."

The official added: "I believe firmly that it is true of us all, Canadians and English. I don't believe these hysterical outbursts represent the best Canadian sentiment. After all, this tribunal was the best we could get. We all accepted it."

THE ENGLISH VIEW.

It must be admitted that the full text of Lord Alverstone's judgment is accepted by Englishmen, who generally would have infinitely preferred Canada's victory, as entirely discrediting certain Canadian suggestions, which the Canadian commissioners themselves encourage, that Lord Alverstone acted unjudicially, from motives of high politics. His judgment bears overwhelming proofs that he proceeded solely on the most exhaustive judicial examination of the facts submitted. He knew the high political importance attached to Canadian sentiment at the present moment by his former colleagues and intimate friends of to-day, namely Mr. Balfour and Mr. Chamberlain, and nothing but a conviction of the justice of the case, would have induced him to override, as has done, his own personal feelings of sympathy with Canada and run the risk of Anglo-Canadian friction at the present moment.

CANADA TO BLAME.

Some little stir is caused by a letter published today by Mr. Roderick Campbell, formerly an officer of the Hudson's Bay Company, who details how "despite repeated warnings successive Canadian Ministers from the time of Russia's sale of Alaska, onwards, neglected to take official notice or make effective protests against the aggressive American actions in the disputed territory. Canada allowed America to go her own way to become the man in possession." He argues that "Canadian, not British statesmanship, must bear the greater share of blame for the want of foresight of which the award is the fruit. Sir Wilfrid Laurier himself admitted, in replying to Sir Charles Tupper in the Canadian Parliament, in 1899, that the records showed no Canadian protest made."

Mr. Campbell adds: "If Sir Donald Smith's lot had been cast in the northern instead of the southern department of Rupert's Land, there would have been no occasion for the Alaska Commission."

FIGHTING NOT ALL FINISHED BOUNDARY STILL UNFIXED.

Prominent Canadian Lawyer, Resident in London "Can It Be Blake?" Sees Plenty of Room for Trouble re Alaska Yet

London, Oct. 21.—The following are the views of a prominent Canadian lawyer resident in London:

"That the United States representatives would decide against Canada was clear. They were chosen for that purpose. Of Lord Alverstone the Canadians were suspicious from the very beginning.

"The Canadian commissioners claim Lord Alverstone's decision was not judicial, nor was it meant to be judicial. Therefore, they were compelled to refuse to sign the award. In proof of this statement, they point to his judgment, pronounced a few days previously, giving Sitklan and Kannaghunut Islands to Canada and its subsequent reversal without explanation.

"To what extent the instrument signed today will prove effective remains to be seen. The mountain boundary, as far as laid down, is indicated by a line of peaks, but by the award they are not connected. Are they to be joined by straight lines, or is the connecting boundary to follow the intervening ridges? On this point the instrument is silent. As many peaks are far apart, it is evident that the work of the tribunal has been left in a very incomplete state. Another commission may be necessary to determine what is meant.

Line is Undetermined.

"More amazing still, 120 miles of boundary has been left entirely undetermined on the ground that a further survey will be necessary to determine what mountains were intended by the treaty. Over the whole space from a mountain near Patterson Glacier, to a mountain called the Devil's Paw, north of the Taku River, the line has not been defined at all in the decision. Taku Inlet and River afford a means of communication with a large extent of interior country and a possible route to the Klondike, but the boundary line crossing it has been left unsettled.

"The discovery of gold which might take place any day in the interior, near the head of the Taku River would at once precipitate as serious a dispute as to that which has taken place over Lynn Canal. The same may be said of Endicott Arm, Tracy Arm, Port Snettisham, and its tributary river. Unfortunately, therefore, the Alaska difficulty is as much on the slate as ever and British diplomacy, which may be concerned more in the finality of the award, than its effect on Canada, has nearly all its difficulties still before it.

Canada Might Get a Port.

"The probability of further survey being necessary is not accepted by anyone who is even passably familiar with the facts. No survey of the mountains had been made when the treaty of 1825, in which mountains extending in a direction parallel to the coast, were referred to, was signed. Quite as full a survey had been made of the 120 miles where the tribunal has failed to run the boundary as in any other part of the coast. The maps before the commissioners show the mountains as being fully surveyed, and as affording as good a selection of peaks as any that have been chosen.

"The only other possible suggestion is that, having decided everything else against Canada, this portion of the boundary was left open in order to force some future commission elsewhere. It was contended for the United States commissioners that this portion of the boundary should be settled; that appears to have been sufficient for Lord Alverstone.

"Another contention was with regard to the ownership of Lynn Canal. This has been given to the United States, presumably on the ground of occupation. They have also been given a greater part of the Chilkat Valley, and such territory as is on the Canadian side of the provisional boundary of 1899, notwithstanding the fact that all occupation north and west of the provisional boundary took place under Canadian laws.

"No case was ever better presented than Canada's. Two of her principal contentions were so powerful that even the United States commissioners were forced to accept them, and yet with the assistance of Lord Alverstone they have managed to deprive Canada of the fruits of her hard-fought victory."

TO THE AFFLICTED.

Dear Reader,—Are you a sufferer from any of the following ills: Lack of ambition, nervous exhaustion, ideas easily confused, irritability of temper, impairment of memory, despondency, general debility, liver not right, kidneys out of order, rheumatism, dyspepsia or indigestion, dizzy or fainting spells? PETERBOROUGH, OCTOBER 23 1903

THE UNITED STATES EXODUS TO CANADA

With the turning of the tide, which had long taken from Canada her young men and settled them in the States to the south, opinion is now being quite freely expressed across the border as to what must be the ultimate results of the steady stream of United States farmers into Canada. That this steadily increasing movement is expected to cause changes in the near future, particularly as regards the tariff wall between the two countries, is shown in the frequency with which opinion are being expressed by United States leaders of thought and public men in general. A Washington letter of late date thus refers to the subject:

The exodus of United States farmers to Manitoba and Alberta, according to official reports, is increasing. The steady, high price of beef, the opportunity to take up large tracts of cheap land, and the gradual decline of productiveness of wheat lands in our North-West are believed to be causes for this peculiar movement. At the same time there is going on a steady movement of farmers from New England and the Middle States to Canada, where recent successes in fruit raising have attracted attention. Canada has entered into the shipment of apples, plums, and peaches to Europe on a large scale, and fortunes have been made in that industry of late.

General Corbin, speaking of the migration of our farmers to the British possessions, gives the following account of what came under his observation during his recent tour of western military posts. "Thoughtful persons must be impressed by the great army of settlers which is going into the North-West Territory from the United States. While I was travelling on the Southern Pacific last week the conductor told me that he had taken 400 American settlers into Canada the day before, and said it was nothing unusual for that number to cross the Canadian line on trains from the United States. This movement has been going on for several years, and will continue. It is interesting to consider what changes the settlement of Western Canada by American farmers will bring about. Farmers from Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota and Nebraska, all of them Americans of the sturdiest type, are flocking into the new country. They are selling their high price lands in the United States and buying cheap lands in the new country. Settlers are living in tents along the railway lines. It is impossible to build houses fast enough to accommodate them. In many places whole districts are taken up by American farmers. The country is being Americanized at a rapid rate.

"In 1876 I was through the territory which now makes up the Dakotas and Montana. We had to have guides to find our way through the country. Now that territory has been converted into one great wheat field, and fine farm houses are scattered all over it. Persons who have not travelled through the great North-West [illegible] of the vast development which is going on there."

THE KING'S PERMISSION

Mr. Chamberlain would Make the Nation Self Sufficient

London, Oct. 21—An enormous crowd at Tynemouth to-day greeted Mr. Chamberlain as he rose to deliver an address by singing, "He's a Jolly Good Fellow." Mr. Chamberlain declared he had the King's permission to explain to the public why he had left the Cabinet. He had devoted himself to mould by solving the question of preferential tariffs with the colonies in order to make us self-sufficient and to make the English race throughout the world self-supporting and independent of foreign supplies or assistance.

An Ecclesiastical Coacher.

According to The London Daily Mail, a curious mingling of the mediaeval with the very modern exists at Erith, where articled pupils of Messrs. Vickers, Sons and Maxim are coached by a Franciscan friar. Yet, curiously enough, our Roger Bacon, who is said to have rediscovered gunpowder, was a brother of the same order. According to the manager of Messrs. Vickers, Sons and Maxim's works, some difficulty has been experienced in finding any one to read with engineering students for the examinations which the firm held—examinations of the same standard as those passed by engineer students in the Royal Navy. At or near Erith there are no educational establishments with professors or masters to undertake such work. So Father Edwin—such is the Franciscan's name—teaches mathematics, natural science and applied mechanics to apprentices of the machine gun firm. The monastery of which the father is an inmate stands on a hill in the Carlton road near Erith—a ten minutes' walk from the works. Here live seven of the order in a building which has the appearance of a new suburban library, except that it rests half hidden amid the trees of its own grounds. The father, a tall, robust, elderly man, has a beard worthy of his calling, and wears the brown serge gown and hood of his branch of the order—the Capuchins. Possessing university qualifications, he held for fourteen years the professorship of higher mathematics at St. Peter's College, Agra. This institution was affiliated to the Rurki College of Civil Engineering, which does the same work as Cooper's Hill. Father Edwin has also published several mathematical works. The friar gives five hours a day to teaching his pupils in the parlor of the monastery. Most of them are from the works, and come in the evening.

Lack of Nursing Colleges.

The Hospital (London) says: The recently issued report on training colleges, by Mr. A. Rankine one of his Majesty's Chief Inspectors, tells us that on the staffs of the elementary schools there are at the present day 25,000 teachers who have never passed through a college; that the present training colleges cannot accommodate one-half of those who try to gain admission; and that this inadequate accommodation is the consequence of too scanty grants of public money. Evidently, whilst the theory that those who have failed in other directions are at least fitted to train and develop the minds of youth no longer receives general countenance, the enormous national importance of the schoolmaster is far from being widely recognized. He is allowed to be a necessity, but there are few among the crowd who appreciate his real value in the body politic. "One green [illegible] other green [illegible] is very [illegible] the British public takes of its schoolmasters.

Constructing a Tunnel.

From a recently published official report on the work of boring the great twelve-mile Simplon tunnel in Switzerland, it appears that at the beginning of this year one of the two parallel tunnels which really constitute the work had been completed over a distance of 42,000 feet, and the other over a distance of 41,000 feet, or, in both cases, close on to nine miles. The expenditure on the two drivings, including the lines of access, amounted, in round numbers, to 5,000,000 francs from 1st of October, 1901, to 30th of September, 1902, the fourth year of construction, and for the total of the four years to 37,000,000 francs. The extremely rapid increase of the rock temperature at one time alarmed the officials, going up as high as 125 degrees F., considerably more than had been anticipated, but the bottom of the northern gallery being below the culminating point of the mountain, it was almost certain that the temperature would not increase any further. With its twelve-mile length the Simplon tunnel will be the longest in the world. It will establish direct communication between Paris and Milan, but without the drawback of the heavy grades which characterize the St. Gothard line. The contract made with the Jura-Simplon Railway Company by Messrs. Brandt, Brandauer & Co. guaranteed the completion of one of the two tunnels within five and one-half years. No fixed time was stipulated for the completion of the second tunnel.—Cassier's Magazine.

CATARRHOZONE

The Only Cure for Catarrh endorsed by the Medical Profession

Physicians boldly state that every requirement of a perfect cure for Catarrhal diseases is fulfilled in Catarrhozone, and on this account it is prescribed by almost every intelligent doctor.

It is the most powerful antiseptic known. When the lungs are filled with its germ-killing vapor the microbes which cause and maintain the unhealthy condition of the mucous membranes die immediately. Disease germs cannot exist where Catarrhozone is used.

Although very penetrating, Catarrhozone is a soothing and healing treatment. It quickly [illegible] raw spots and allays irritation and congestion of the mucous membranes.

When using Catarrhozone you don't have to wait all day for relief; it [illegible] with every breath taken through the inhaler. Nose and throat are cleared and cleansed almost at once. Droppings in the throat, headache, coughing, and spitting, and all other disagreeable symptoms of catarrh are banished by a few days' use of this superior remedy.

Catarrhal diseases of every description yield without much difficulty to Catarrhozone. When used for Bronchitis, Lung Trouble and Colds, it affords not only instant relief, but cures in a very short time.

Croup, Whooping Cough and Winter Ills simply won't live any time if Catarrhozone is inhaled four times daily, and as a safeguard for Pneumonia, and Consumption it has no equal.

Better get a Catarrhozone Inhaler; use it occasionally, and you won't have a cough or cold in the head or catarrh. These afflictions can be prevented by Catarrhozone as well as cured. Complete outfit, full two months' treatment, costs $1; small size, 25 cents. Sold by all druggists and N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE MOLSONS BANK.

Forty-Eighth Annual Meeting was Held Monday.

A VERY SATISFACTORY YEAR

Directors' Report was Adopted Without Discussion—The President Speaks of Bank's Affairs.

The forty-eighth annual general meeting of the Molson's Bank was held in the Board Room of that institution at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The president, Mr. W. Molson Macpherson, occupied the chair, and among those present were: Messrs. S. H. Ewing, vice-president; J. P. Cleghorn, W. C. McIntyre, Lieut.-Col. F. C. Henshaw, H. Markland Molson, W. M. Ramsay, Alfred Piddington, D. McNaughton, Charles Spragge, C. W. Robinson, George Filer, M. McKenzie, T. E. Vamey, George Durnford, S. W. Ewing, W. H. Miller and G. R. McIndoe.

REPORT OF DIRECTORS.

The general manager, Mr. James Elliot, then read the annual report of the directors as follows:

Gentlemen,—The directors have pleasure in presenting this the forty-eighth annual report, showing the result of the bank's business for the year ending 30th September, 1903:

The profits, after providing for operating expenses and bad and doubtful debts, are $439,002.34.

There have been paid two semi-annual dividends, amounting to $235,506.96 —9 per cent. for the year. One hundred and fifty thousand dollars has been transferred to the reserve fund, and $36,502.27 expended in branch buildings, leaving at the credit of profit and loss account $25,755.91.

The reserve fund is now $2,730,775, having grown from $2,250,000 balance last year, by addition of $150,000 from profits and $330,775 from the premiums paid on new stock (issue of 15th May last, $346,000 at 190), now being paid up by instalments.

During the year branches have been opened at Frankford, Highgate and St. Mary's, all in Ontario.

With deep regret the directors record the death of Mr. Samuel Finley, who had been a useful and honored member of the Board for thirteen years. Mr. William C. McIntyre has been called to fill the vacancy.

The branches, including Montreal, have as usual been carefully inspected. The officers of the Bank have performed their duties efficiently and zealously.

WM. M. MCPHERSON,
President.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The President then said:

The annual statement of the Bank carries with it the assurance of prosperity for the past year. We have been enabled to pay 9 per cent. dividend to the Shareholders, have added $150,000 to the Reserve Fund, have contributed to the Pension Fund, and have given a bonus to the officers of the Bank.

The growth and prosperity of the country necessitated increasing the banking capital available for the furtherance of business, and the Molsons Bank, since our annual meeting last year, received your authority to increase its capital by $1,000,000, of which $500,000 has since been called up.

The capital of the chartered banks is now upwards of $81,000,000, an increase over last year of upwards of $7,000,000.

The circulation of the chartered banks shows an increase of upwards of $5,000,000, amounting to $66,414,740.

While we are to-day enabled to look upon the past year with feelings of satisfaction, we must view the present and future with feelings of extreme caution. The channels which the increasing loans have gone into are, we apprehend, in many cases surrounded by a speculative element other than of a bona fide business character.

It is pleasing to note that the deposits in the chartered banks, the savings banks and the loan and building societies, have increased by over $35,000,000 during the past year, a very strong indication of the prosperity we are now enjoying throughout Canada.

The farming community of all the provinces of the Dominion have harvested abundant crops, which must enrich all parts of the country. The older provinces have shipped very heavily, cheese, butter, cattle, apples, etc., the exports of the country aggregating $215,145,000, an increase over last year of $14,545,000; and such shipments will continue for some time.

The attention which Canada has attracted, owing to her growth and prosperity, resulted in the most important commercial gathering which possibly ever took place in our country, the fifth Congress of the Chambers of Commerce of the Empire, bringing, as it did, representatives from all parts of the British Empire, with the view of favoring "closer trade relations" within it, which cannot fail to render most beneficial results, so far as Canada is concerned, the representatives of the Chambers of Commerce, as well as members of the House of Lords and House of Commons, who subsequently visited Canada, and traversed the country from the Atlantic to the Pacific, inspecting its wonderful resources and capabilities, have [illegible] information which cannot fail to make Canada's prominence [illegible] in the minds of those who attended it, as well as in the councils in which they will be taking part.

The Molsons Bank suffered a decided loss in the death of Mr. Samuel Finley, who for many years served as a director and gave his most valuable advice. His business experience and good judgment were of the greatest benefit to the Bank.

We are pleased to inform you that Mr. William C. McIntyre has been elected to fill the vacancy. Mr. McIntyre's high reputation and business experience are so well known that it is needless for me to say more than that we consider the Bank fortunate in having his advice and counsel for their guidance.

We are indebted to the General Manager and other officers of the Bank for their untiring energy and services. The payment of a bonus will indicate the Directors' appreciation.

Gentlemen, I do not know that there is more to be said in reference to the affairs of the Bank and the trade which our country has enjoyed. They both benefited as time went on, and the only feeling we have is one of caution, that caution should be exercised in the future.

I beg to move the adoption of the annual report.

This was seconded by Mr. S. H. Ewing, vice-president.

The President invited discussion on the report, but no one having any remarks to offer, he put the motion for its adoption, and it was carried unanimously.

Thanks are tendered.

Mr. G. W. Robinson then moved: "That the thanks of the Shareholders are due and are hereby tendered to the President and Directors for their efficient services during the past year."

This was seconded by Mr. Alfred Piddington, and was unanimously concurred in.

The meeting then proceeded to the election of directors, Mr. Alfred Piddington moving, seconded by Mr. G. W. Robinson, that one ballot be cast.

This was unanimously agreed to, and the ballot having been cast, the scrutineers reported the election of the retiring board, viz.: Messrs. J. P. Cleghorn, S. H. Ewing, Lieut.-Col. F. C. Henshaw, H. Markland Molson, W. Molson Macpherson, W. C. McIntyre, W. M. Ramsay.

The President—"You have heard the scrutineers' report, gentlemen, and I can only say that we will give our services as in the past, and hope we may see a continuance of prosperous times in Canada. I thank the scrutineers for their services."

At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, Mr. W. Molson Macpherson was re-elected President, and Mr. S. H. Ewing, Vice-President for the ensuing year.

Dry Placer Miner, formerly of California.

This company has the right, without royalty payments, to use the new patent machine upon all the land it may own, acquire by lease, or operate, in Arizona. We invite special attention to the great commercial value and profit of this machine, and what can be accomplished by it.

What This Machine Will Do.

For the first time in the history of gold mining a machine has been invented which will handle the dry placer gold gravel without water, and in large quantities. This machine will save 98 per cent of all the gold in the gravel, and will do it at a lower working cost than by any existing process. It is operated by a small, compact engine, using crude oil as fuel. A complete plant, capable of handling 300 tons per day will weigh less than 1,200 pounds.

To secure this gold only those placer lands could be worked, which could command large supplies of water, hence the immense bodies of dry placer lands remote from water have never been worked.

Fifteen Hundred Millions in Gold

The United States has yielded nineteen hundred millions in gold, of which fifteen hundred millions—or more than 75 per cent.—were the product of its placers.

Ninety per cent. of the world's total gold supply has been taken from placers by processes which have admittedly lost the bulk of the values.

Simplicity of Machine—Its Method of Operation

The machine is so extremely simple in construction and operation that any intending investor can operate it instantly. He can take a peck or more of sand, either ordinary house or sea sand, or such as is found in the placer lands of Arizona and California, put into this sand ten or a hundred pieces of gold as small as the point of a toothpick, and from that to the head of an ordinary pin, mix the sand and the gold thoroughly, turn them into the hopper or feed of the machine, and in a few seconds the machine will separate the gold from the gravel and recover from 98 to 100 per cent of the gold. It is an absolute, infallible, ocular demonstration of the merits of the machine. It has solved the problem of handling sand or gravel containing gold in regions remote from water.

Cost of Handling Material

Each plant is portable, weighs less than 1,200 pounds and can be easily moved by a few laborers.

The two greatest authorities in the world on the moving of material are "Haswell" and "Trautwine." They say in their standard publications that a laborer can shovel horizontally, 12 feet, vertically 6 feet for 50 feet haul 17 cubic yards in 10 hours.

A well known engineer in his work for the U. S. Government at Sandy Hook, moved 18 cubic yards, 100 feet haul in 10 hours at a cost of 10 cents per cubic yard, paying laborers $1.75 per day.

The dry placer gold-bearing sands of California, Arizona and New Mexico are handled quite as easily as those of Sandy Hook.

Ten laborers can easily supply one machine with 204 cubic yards of gravel in 12 hours, working at the same speed as shown by Haswell, Trautwine or at Sandy Hook.

Placer work on above basis would cost about 11 1-2c. per cubic yard.

Do You Want Monthly Dividends?

We make a special offer of a limited number of shares of stock at this time, because the company requires immediately sufficient to build several machines to operate in the field.

Every machine at work will increase the intrinsic value of the stock.

Twenty machines in the field will increase the price and value of the stock more than double the present offering, and every additional machine means a further increase in price and value.

The Company intends to divide its net earnings every month, so that the stockholders may count absolutely on receiving monthly dividends in proportion to monthly earnings.

Black Hills Copper Company
LIMITED

Capital Stock, $3,000,000
PAR VALUE OF SHARES, - - - - - - $1.00

This Company owns, free from incumbrance, valuable Copper mines in the celebrated Jerome mineral belt of Arizona, the richest copper district in the world.

The properties belonging to this Company are located mid-way between and on the same mineral belt as the great United Verde and Iron King Mines. The geological and mineralogical formation and the ores in these mines are identical with the great mines of the district. They are being developed with modern machinery, and the work now being carried on will surely open the immense bodies of ore found in this district, which carry high values in copper, as well as considerable gold and silver.

The Stock of the Company is fully paid and non-assessable, there are no bonds or other form of indebtedness, and no preferred stock.

We firmly believe this is the safest and will prove to be the most profitable stock for investment on the market to day.

A limited amount of the Stock is now offered at FIFTY CENTS per Share. Price of Shares is subject to advance without notice.

The development of the property consists of many shafts sunk on ore to a depth of 100 to 600 feet, and a tunnel run a distance of 2,300 feet, not only to develop its own property, but also to unwater and furnish underground transportation for the Gregory, the Bob-Tail and other rich mines of the district.

Transportation

The Colorado & Southern Railroad passes directly in front of the mouth of the tunnel. All ore can be dumped therefrom directly into the cars, giving quick and cheap transportation to the mills. Large returns have been paid from the product of these mines.

Sale of Preferred Stock

The company desires to not only push its development work and complete its tunnel at an early day, but also erect on its own mill site at the mouth of the tunnel, proper reduction works for the treatment of its ores. For that purpose it now offers for sale 250,000 shares of its Preferred Treasury Stock at 50 cents per share, reserving the right to increase the price of all unsold shares thereof at any time without notice. The Company pledges the whole net product of its mines to pay an eight per cent. annual dividend on the sum paid by such stock, before any other stock receives any dividend whatever. After such dividends have been paid, the common stock shall receive a like dividend, when the surplus fund remaining shall be distributed among the common and preferred stock, share and share alike. All stock will be issued full paid and non-assessable.

Active and experienced agents wanted to sell said Preferred Treasury stock on commission.

Prospectus can be had on application. Persons desirous of purchasing stock can do so by remitting to the Company by Draft, P. O. or Express Money Order, payable to the order of

"I need not be a burden, Frank," she said, careful to keep all trace of tears from her voice; "I can live apart from you, and still work for you—oh, Frank, my love! my love! will you let me bear such a martyrdom? I could be happy with you, sharing your disappointment and toil. Let me follow you wherever you go, and make your sorrow lighter by being near to comfort. Your love is more than life to me—and I am your wife!"

"To my cost!" he exclaimed, unmoved by the passionate entreaty in her tones. "I wish to Heaven I had never met you, Gretchen—this marriage has been my curse. Nothing you offer can recompense me for what I have lost—you have been my ruin!"

Gretchen drew herself away from him, as though she had been stung, and, with a moan, covered her face with her hands.

She could scarcely understand this change in the man who had once poured burning words of love into her ears—who had led her to believe that, without her, his life would have been desolate, and void of hope.

And now, it was only the money he craved; the wife he had idolized a few days ago, he looked upon as an encumbrance, and he gave no thought to the pain his bitterness had caused her.

Until her meeting with Frank Stanford, three months before their marriage, scarcely a glimpse of sunshine had found its way into her life.

Her parents had died in her infancy, leaving her unprovided for, and she had been brought up on the charity of relatives to whom she was an unwelcome responsibility.

"She inherits her mother's beauty," she once had heard somebody say. "It is to be hoped she does not take after her in disposition."

Those words, and the look accompanying them, had left an impression on the child's mind, and one day she had asked to be told about her mother.

The subject was avoided then, but years after, when she was of an age to comprehend that which had been so faintly hinted at, she became acquainted with her mother's story—one of misery and degradation.

There had been an early marriage followed, at the end of two years, by a jealous quarrel, which terminated in the wife's elopement with an old lover.

The husband had never lifted his head again.

A week after his wife's desertion he was found dead in his room—shot by his own hand, his child left at the mercy of the world.

A few months later, the announcement came of the wife's death, and those who had charge of Gretchen looked upon her as a hopeless burden.

At sixteen, Gretchen found herself as much disliked, and as much in everybody's way, as she had ever been, and when a rich Australian miner proposed for her hand, she accepted his offer, without reasoning whether the marriage would be for better or worse.

Her relatives desired the match—they thought it an easy way of getting rid of her, and any qualms of conscience they might have had, were appeased by the assurance that she would be well provided for.

"I shall return in a year, and make her my wife," Geoffrey Grey had said, looking with admiration at the girl's lovely face. "I knew her father, and I think he would have willingly entrusted me with his daughter's happiness. She is so young, I will not take her from you yet, but in a year—that will not be too soon."

"I would rather marry you now," Gretchen had answered, for the first time showing interest in the transaction. "Marry me and take me away. I am wretched here. I should be happier anywhere else, and with any one but those with whom I live."

In compliance with her request, the marriage had taken place almost immediately; but on the same day her husband had started on his journey to Australia, leaving his young wife in the care of his own friends.

"It is safer to have the knot tied first," he had said, kissing her for the first and only time. "Nobody will be able to supplant me in my absence. I have a little bride waiting for my return, and I hope that, in time, I shall teach her to love me."

At the end of a year, when he was on his homeward voyage, there had been a terrible gale, that had swept the vessel down under the waves, and on the list of passengers who were drowned appeared the name of Geoffrey Grey.

He had made no will; he had been bringing over in solid gold all he had possessed, and the treasure had sunk with him into the deep.

Once more Gretchen had found herself cast on the world, and, by making her story known to an agent, she had succeeded in securing an engagement as amanuensis to Frank's father, with the result that Frank had fallen desperately in love with her.

To put an end to the attachment, she had been hastily dismissed; but her story was too romantic not to have left an impression on Frank's mind, and clandestine meetings had been effected, during which his love for her increased, and he would not rest until she had consented secretly to become his wife.

She had never dreamed of loving the man she had first married.

He had played so small a part in her life, that even the memory of him seemed to fade, like a forgotten dream, and, when Frank had begged her to take off her wedding-ring, she had dropped it into his hand without a word.

She wore no wedding-ring now; the one with which Geoffrey Grey had made her his wife, had been flung into the sea, and the one that had replaced it for a few hours was secreted in a locket suspended from Frank's watch-chain.

Gretchen had put it there herself, with many a lingering touch of her soft, white fingers; and tonight, standing in the dark mist, with his angry voice echoing in her ears, she wondered if she would ever again wear the little circlet of gold—the pledge of her marriage with the man she loved.

"You wish you had never met me—you call our marriage a curse?" she said, an immeasurable pain in her voice. "Does love so easily die?—or have you never truly loved me?"

"Let us drop the word," he exclaimed. "I have no patience with sentiment—I want money. When I married you I did not know I should be beggared."

"There was the risk——"

"There was—but I did not know it!" he hissed, unable to restrain his rage. "If it had not been for that will, everything might have gone on well. It would have been better for you, Gretchen, if we had never met. I have nothing to offer you—absolutely nothing!"

"So you think of me at last," she said bitterly. "I little dreamt your disappointment would lead to this—that your love would so soon change to hate!"

"I don't hate you," he retorted, savagely; "if I did, I should feel inclined to kill you. I only wish we had never met. I only wish I had not been fooled into this mad marriage!"

"Who urged it?" she asked, her voice vibrating with scorn. "By whom were you fooled?"

"You have been my evil genius," he retorted.

The Norfolk's Monkey.

The 2nd Battalion, Norfolk Regiment, which recently returned from South Africa, and is now quartered at Colchester, is very proud of its regimental pet—a large monkey named Bronko, secured at Pretoria. Bronko is proud of his slatish-colored coat, and knows his name when he is addressed, frowns at strangers, and points at them as much as to say, "Who are you?" To some people he takes readily; to others he shows his teeth. When told that General Gatacre or the Colonel is coming he draws himself up to his full height—over four feet—brushes his coat and salutes in quite a soldierly fashion. He likes a game of tug-of-war with a wisp of straw, at which he is very cunning, eats a quantity of oranges, which cost 6s 6d per week, and is fond of bananas, sweets and almonds. He has a failing for cigarettes, which he does not smoke, but dissects, and can drink beer in a fashion which creates visions of the Black List.

Had the Advantage.

The Kansas papers tell a story of an incident in President Hayes' visit to that State in 1879. President Roosevelt's visit is the occasion for telling it, and, had it happened to the present occupant of the White House, it would have amused him beyond anything else in his entire trip. Mr. Hayes was engaged in a speechmaking and handshaking tour. At Hutchinson a large crowd had gathered to greet him. In Hutchinson at the time was one "Bill" Graham, a cattleman much given to the use of intoxicating liquor. "Bill" joined the crowd without knowing what it was all about. He fell in line and gradually approached the President, who was standing on the lower step of his car and shaking hands with all who came. As "Bill" came near, the President reached over, grasped him by the hand, shook it vigorously and said:—"My friend, I am delighted to see you."

"Thash all right, pard," said Bill, "but, b'gosh, yer got the advantage of me!"

The Nice Conductor.

"Talking of hardships," remarked the minister with a smile, "reminds me of a little romance connected with one of my marriages some time ago. The bride was a very pretty girl, and was one of my parishioners. The bridegroom was a motorman on a trolley car. I wondered when I married them how he had found time to court her, as he was on duty for long hours day and night. Meeting the bride on the street shortly after the honeymoon, I asked her about it.

"'You couldn't have seen much of John while you were engaged?' I remarked.

"'Oh, but I did,' the bride replied. 'I used to ride around with him on the front platform at night, and the conductor didn't look.'"—Philadelphia Telegraph.

TO THE SUFFERING.

The following testimonial may be read with interest to sufferers from skin eruptions or eczema:

January, 20th, 1903.

Dear Sirs,—I notice your advt. in a paper about your wonderful eczema cure and I feel it my duty to tell you that I was induced to try it as I had been afflicted with skin trouble in my hands for 11 years. I have tried several doctors and they done my no good. I only used one box of Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema. It has made a complete cure. I recommend it to all suffering from skin disease. My hand was so bad that the nails used to come off. You can use my name if you wish.

Yours truly,
MR. JOHN WOOD,
Fenkin Station, P.E.I.

UNIVERSALITY OF RELIGION.

G. M. DAVIDSON, Assistant Priest, Church of the Redeemer (P. E.), New York City.

As I passed by, and beheld your devotions, I found an altar with this inscription, "To the Unknown God." Whom, therefore, ye ignorantly worship, him declare I unto you.—Acts xvii., 23.

Nowhere do mankind forget their origin, their nature, their destiny. Coming from God and sustained by Him, the affections and thoughts of men tend to God, their actions, their deeds bespeak Him.

Religion, worship are universal because there is implanted in the heart of universal humanity the thought that there is a God and that He is one, and because the life in men received must needs return to the source whence it comes.

All mankind stand upon a common ground; they have a common relation—they have a common Father. They are created to a same definite end and purpose, even such an end and purpose as are consonant with the wonderful, glorious, perfect nature of their divine Creator.

And only as mankind are brought face to face with their divine Creator and studied in connection with Him do we apprehend the nature of man aright and shall we or do we find results that are true and just and pleasing, and here true and just and pleasing to the extent that man's idea and thought and worship of God are true and just, in some degree adequate to the nature of the divine Being whom he adores.

Interiorly, religions have much in common. It is in their exterior aspects that they are so diverse. For instance, "the moral law"—the Ten Commandments—was known to the nations of the world before it was promulgated from Mount Sinai, but here it was reiterated and made known as a divine command and in its entirety and fullness.

So, too, among all nations there has been a knowledge of the invisible God and of the unity of God. And it is a most interesting and instructive study to go back as far as we can in the history of any nation or people and become acquainted with its earliest ideas of religion, with its earliest ideas of the one Supreme Being.

While we find among all nations an idea of the invisible God, we find also an idea of God manifest, of God as a Saviour, of God as a sensible object of worship; but in time the true idea of God being lost sight of, at least with most.

A common danger here pertains to all mankind, in that they may pervert, or depart from or fall short of the true knowledge of God. Mankind are wont to form to themselves a god of their own imagining; nor can they do otherwise.

God is in Himself. He is. He is the One who is—the "I Am"—and as such "no man hath seen God at any time." But God manifests Himself, and yet our conception of Him is according to the state in which we are. God becomes and is to us what we are capable of forming and causing Him to be.

This knowledge of God is, indeed, dependent upon the character of the truth coming to us from without, teaching us of Him, but even these very truths take shape and find expression according to the form and state of our own mind and life, and within these limits the image and likeness of God may be to us a true one.

An understanding of the life of God in man leads to an understanding of the divine Incarnation—leads to the knowledge of God in Christ Jesus, "in whom dwelleth all the fullness of the Godhead bodily," and to a knowledge of the incarnation of divinity in finite humanity—in the whole human race.

Here is a deep and intricate study. It is in view of such a study, I am sure, the Christian Church must feel and know that it has knowledge and life to present to the world superior to all other knowledge of God that is extant in the world.

There is, there can be, but one divine Incarnation, but one divine Redeemer and Saviour.

God is one, not many. His own divine humanity is one, not many.

Religion, worship, life must find unfoldment, growth, fulfilment in God as He is revealed in Christ Jesus, the Redeemer and Saviour of the world, and then in His coming again in the body of humanity—His Church.

It is here that we stand before great and wondrous truths. Not that the Church nor any one has yet fathomed the wondrous truths that herein lie.

The Church stands confronted with confessed mysteries. Shall these mysteries be revealed? And if they be revealed shall there not ensue a presence and power and blessing of God far surpassing that which is or has been known?

And with this presence of God there shall come to pass a universal brotherhood of mankind—a universal Church—the Church catholic, wherein the Lord alone is worshipped and obeyed. Would this not bespeak a change, a wondrous change, in the life of humanity and of the world?

It is the knowledge and life of God that changes the world of mankind for good. And great and wonderful and glorious as is God, so likewise great and wonderful and glorious are the changes which He effects in the life of the individual, of society, of the Church and of the world.

Not too great things can we look for at the hands of God, for He "is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think." Amen.

RUSSIANS NOW HAVE CONTROL OF MANCHURIA

Manchuria Passes Under Practical Control of Russia by Chinese Consent

Berlin, Oct. 21—The correspondent of a Berlin newspaper quotes the Vostotchni Vestnik, a journal published in the far East, as authority for the statement that Paul Lessar, Russian Minister to China, has concluded a treaty with China which gives Russia practical control of Manchuria, although under a nominal Chinese Government. Russia undertakes to conduct negotiations in any way arising with a third power from the new treaty.

The treaty provides that the appointment and dismissal of the Governor-General and Commander-in-Chief of the prefects in Manchuria shall be effected by the Chinese Government, in agreement with Russian diplomatic representatives. The Chinese troops stationed in the Province of Manchuria shall be under Russian control, but if the Chinese soldiers are incapable of maintaining order and suppressing brigandage Russia is to have the right of using her own troops to this end. In the event of war with a third power arising from the new treaty it will be conducted by Russia and China in co-operation.

RUSSIA FEELS HIT.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 21—The Novykrai, of Port Arthur, commenting on the commercial treaty between the United States and China, declares that article 12 (opening ports in Manchuria to United States trade) strikes at the very heart of Russian interests in Manchuria, and says it is convinced the treaty will only be ratified after material modifications, as it affects part of the territory which, by virtue of existing relations, is not free, so long as Russia has not definitely come to an understanding with China regarding her rights. "Moreover," the Novykrai adds, "prior to her present occupation, Russia had special treaty relations with China regarding this territory, giving her the right to build railways, and guaranteeing that no similar privileges will be granted to others."

A Bedouin Wedding.

The Arab wedding at Earl's Court, says The London Chronicle in describing a recent event there, was quite a popular event, as no doubt it was meant to be. It was also as picturesque as the Arabs, following their own customs, could make it amid the surroundings of a London exhibition. The bridegroom was Hamdun Salach, tall and twenty-one; the bride, Halima Muhamel, a girl of fourteen. Both were members of the little community from Assouan, Egypt, who form the Assouan village at Earl's Court. The bride wore a dress of blue velvet, trimmed with gold lace of an old Egyptian pattern. She had a white tulle veil, roses in her hair, and jewelled ornaments. Four bridesmaids, in robes of a soft Oriental cloth, kept her company. Like her, they were brown of face—brown as a berry—and a little embarrassed by the crowd.

The wedding began with a procession from the central part of the exhibition to the Assouan village. Hamdun rode in front on a horse, which was neither pure white nor an Arab, as it should have been, but which did very well. Its hoofs had been painted green and red and other colors patronized by the Bischari tribe to which the bride and bridegroom belong. Halima drove in a little carriage with an escort of Arabs, variously picturesque, and to the sound of weird music. So the procession got to the Assouan village, where so many visitors, at sixpence a head, had gathered that most of them saw little of the actual marriage ceremony. Hamdun got down from his horse, and with a rifle hanging from his shoulder strode towards a tent, decorated with flowers, and which represented his home. In fact, he had, as it were, been to the tent of the bride's parents for her and had brought her to his own.

A Bischari priest now took matters in hand and set the fathers of bride and bridegroom to the task of arranging the marriage settlement. Among the Arabs—as perhaps elsewhere—this is really done by the mothers. All the fathers had to do was to look important and confirm what their wives had agreed upon. They did so with many words and gesticulations, to which bride and bridegroom seemed to be entirely indifferent. It was explained casually that the father of the former was in the Soudan skin trade—when he is at home—and the father of the latter a hunter.

All being arranged, the Bischari priest read some verses from the Koran, and the Arabs gathered about him intoned them. This was the formal marriage, and the high contracting parties had then each to face an allocution from their respective fathers. Hamdun's sire bade him be a good husband and a good hunter, like his father. Halima's father counselled her to be a dutiful, hard-working wife. "The bride, the bride," cried curious people, who in the crush could see nothing of her. Hamdun lifted Halima in his arms, and she got a genial cheer, but there was disappointment when he did not also kiss her. She blushed furiously under her brown skin, and was no doubt glad to be nearly done with a rather trying ceremony.

It only remained for light-footed Arabs to scurry about with trays of dates and raisins, bananas and cakes—sounds village to entertain the marriage tokens of another hospitable home set up, and for the dancing dervishes and the other wonder workers of the Ascompany.

The court of Amsterdam has a strange lawsuit before it. As far back as February last year a newly-born child was taken from the mother's care to be reared in an incubator. In accordance with medical advice the infant was packed in wadding and hurried to the hospital, where the incubators stand ready to receive weakly babies. Meanwhile, in compliance with Dutch law, the father had the birth of a son registered and the child was given the name of Franciscus Gerardus, there and then. At the hospital a receipt was taken for the baby boy, and he was put into one of the incubators. Some weeks passed, and the parents received notice that their child was well enough to be taken away. Imagine the father's surprise when he went to fetch his son to have a baby girl thrust into his arms! The hospital authorities declared some mistake had been made by the parents. The parents, nurse and other witnesses declared the mistake was on the part of the hospital authorities. The baby girl was not wanted by the parents of the missing baby boy, and nobody else wanted her. The father took proceedings against the mayor of the city, and claimed two hundred and forty pounds damages for his lost son. During the time the child was in the incubator the outside of the machine was painted, and according to [illegible] the [illegible] on which are written the particulars [illegible] the [illegible] were spoiled.

Lord Robert's Criticism.

F. W. Walker in The London Daily Express of Sept. 19 wrote that Lord Roberts summed up his criticism with the conclusion that Sir Evelyn Wood, of the invading army, had attained his object in drawing General French, who was defending London, away from the south coast. Therefore, while the latter prevented the advance on London via Reading, he was attracted so far north by his opponent that a larger invading force might land on the southern coast today and march by a shorter route to London.

The conspicuous figure of the whole manoeuvres is Brigadier-General Scobell, who commands the 1st Cavalry Brigade at Aldershot, under Sir John French. This officer has shown leading of a high quality, and Lord Roberts has complimented him before all the seniors in conference.

Lord Roberts himself issued the following remarks on Sept. 17 in regard to the army manoeuvres:—

In South Africa we were wont to attribute most of our failures in gaining information to the intimate knowledge of the ground on the part of the Boers, and to their natural power of concealment. These manoeuvres have, however, clearly brought out the fact that the increased range of rifles, smokeless powder, and the greater dispersion of troops will probably always cause extraordinary difficulty in obtaining information. We have had instances where a very small body of troops has been able, by concealment and by rapid fire, to induce the opposing force to multiply the estimate of their strength into battalions, or even to report a squadron as being a brigade. This is a point to which we must pay particular attention in future, and officers employed in reconnaissance must henceforth be prepared to take greater risks than they have ever hitherto done, if they hope to supply their commanders with reliable information. A greater dispersion of troops under fire will still further accentuate the importance which mobility gives to cavalry for reinforcing a weak spot in their own line, or of attacking a weak spot in that of the enemy. By an intelligent use of the power of mobility, coupled with a thoroughly expert use of the power given them by modern firearms, either in delaying an infantry advance or in attacking it in flank, the cavalry of the future should accomplish great things. I am satisfied that in these manoeuvres the cavalry have displayed quite as much independence or initiative as I expected would have been the case after our experiences in South Africa, and I think if cavalry commanders will carefully consider what they might have done and weigh against it what they did do, they will agree with me. The condition of the artillery horses excited my admiration. I was much disappointed to find the guns were so much exposed. There were exceptions, but, on the whole, there was practically very little attempt at concealment, and in several cases batteries neglected infantry fire in a manner which would have caused them unnecessary heavy loss. The infantry marching was admirable. They took cover well, and both in attack and defence showed the great improvement in the training of that arm as a result of our experiences in South Africa.

Difference of Opinion

Some authorities connect "Hurrah" with a Hebrew shout of joy to Jehovah, which occurs in the Psalms. Others derive it from "Thor aide!" a war cry of the ancient Northmen. Others point to the Swedish and Danish "Hurra," and the German "hurren," to move quickly; or the Danish "Hurre," to hum, with which our hurry is associated. Sir Francis Palgrave, in his "History of Normandy and England," says:—"It was a wise custom in Normandy, established by Rollo's decree, that anyone who had reason to fear damage of goods, life or limb, could raise the country by the cry 'Haro!' 'Ha Raoul,' justice in Duke Rollo's name. Hence our 'hue and cry.' The old English 'Harrow,' and our 'Hurrah,' are but variations of this." There are some who regard it as merely an imitative interjection, akin to "whurra," used by Addison in a play, 1715, or of "huzza," found in Evelyn's Diary, 1665.

The Latest Machine Milker.

An improved milking machine is reported to be making some progress in Australia. It is a modification of an English machine, about three hundred of which were in use in Victoria. After some months it was noticed that the cows began to shrink.

One of the dairymen, a practical mechanic, put an inspection glass in the rubber tube leading from the teats to the can, when the mystery was solved. In the English machine the four teat cups unite at the bottom into one tube, which has to carry away all the milk, and through which, at the same time, the vacuum pressure is applied to the teats. The result of this arrangement is that, when there is a full supply of milk coming from the cow, the vacuum cannot work properly. The pulsation is caused by letting a little air into the can every second, and this air rushes against the milk, causing it to surge backwards and forwards in the tube. After a little while the milk, instead of running freely into the can, is actually driven up the teat cups against the cow's teats. The final result of this peculiar action is that the milking operation is impeded, while the surging of the milk up against the teats so incommodes the cow that she holds up the rest of her milk.

The result of this discovery was that within a few weeks all of the English machines were discarded. The dairyman, however, who discovered the cause of the failure, Mr. Alexander Gillies of Terang, believing that it could be overcome, at once set to work to do so. After numberless experiments on his own herd of eighty cows, he set up, some three months ago, a machine which is claimed to be a perfect milking machine, which he has protected by patents all over Australia and abroad. Recognizing that a pulsating vacuum was the most feasible method of extracting the milk, he was also equipped that [illegible]

Decayed German Fruit.

Since Friday last some twenty-three vanloads of condemned German plums have vanished into the courtyard of the Bermondsey Borough Council's destructor, says The London Express of Thursday, September 10, and they are destined a few weeks hence to start a useful career as paving stones. Yesterday several vans, with their evil-smelling contents, added to the quantity already waiting to be dealt with, but so heavy have the seizures been that they must wait for a day or two before passing through the processes that result in this wonderful transformation. The fruit must first be burnt, and wet plums would put out the fires of the furnaces unless used in small quantities and mixed with household refuse, which, when burnt, goes to form the "slag" used for the manufacture of Bermondsey flagstones. The slag is ground up into powder, mixed with cement, and pressed by hydraulic power into paving stones. In addition to plums, tins of condemned salmon, tomatoes, sardines and other things "unfit for human consumption" find their way into Bermondsey's flagstone factory. At present the amount of slag available is so great that the output of flagstones is larger than the authorities require. It is therefore proposed to sell the surplus blocks to other boroughs at 3s 6d each. Plums will form a considerable ingredient of the slag for some time to come, for the seizures have suddenly become large. In four working days some six batches of fruit have been condemned in Bermondsey, varying from thirty tons in five railway trucks to fifteen baskets on a costermonger's stall, the contents of which were being retailed at 1d. per lb. The Southwark Magistrate yesterday ordered the destruction of 36cwt. of German plums which had been seized at Cotton's Wharf, Tooley street. The Magistrate, after examining the fruit, remarked that it was hopelessly bad.

A Kindly Act.

Queen Alexandra has just sent a most sympathetic and encouraging letter, accompanied by a check for £50, to the Countess of Dudley, who, with the Lord Lieutenant, has just taken up her residence at Rockingham, in west Ireland. This, with a gift of £5,000 from a prominent landholder in the north of Ireland, Sir Hugh Smiley of Larne, on whom the King recently conferred a baronetcy, has been applied by the philanthropic Lady Dudley to her pet scheme, that of establishing district nurses throughout the locality of the Viceregal home. For some time past the one absorbing thought in Lady Dudley's mind, it seems, has been the assistance of these ministers to body and soul, and in her effort to help the poverty-stricken people among whom her lot has been cast. "I feel," she said, as quoted in The London Gentlewoman, "that it is not only the sick who would benefit by an organization of this kind, but the whole community. A tactful nurse, who, by kindness and attention in sickness, could gain the confidence of the people, would do more than anything else toward raising the standard of life in the districts where the most rudimentary knowledge of sanitary laws and the treatment of sickness does not exist, and cleanliness, cookery and domestic comfort are unknown. There is absolutely no standard of comfort; everything is far behind the times. In the poorest districts there are no maternity nurses, and though the babies more frequently than not struggle into existence, it is often at the expense of the mother's life. It is quite impossible for one dispensary doctor to attend some three or four thousand people scattered over a large area, especially in the mountainous localities, where locomotion is difficult, and in the winter weather often impossible; hence it is only by means of district nurses that we can hope to check the suffering and mortality. It may be," she continued, very earnestly, "I hope it may be my privilege to carry out this plan, but to establish the scheme on a permanent basis I need generous—very generous—support. The initial expenses can be met by the donations already received, but a self-respecting subscription list or a substantial sum capitalized will be necessary to carry on the work, otherwise the movement will only have aroused a need and awakened a hope that we shall not be able to fulfil. So far we are only justified in starting two nurses, who will begin their work at once" (in August), "one at Gowna and the other at Carraroe, both pitiably poor districts, which I have personally visited, selecting and furnishing the tiny houses in which the nurses are to live. Something like £100 a year is necessary for the maintenance of each nurse, and the Queen Victoria Jubilee Fund has voted an annual sum of £100 to form the nucleus of a special endowment fund.

"I feel that as the scheme becomes better known people will respond more generously to my appeal, which has already called forth some very liberal contributions, which will, I hope, enable us to start two more nurses on October 1. There will be no fear of overlapping, as we only purpose dealing with the very destitute districts, where no nurse of any kind exists. Here," she said, opening a large book of photographs, mostly her own snapshots, "here are pictures of some of the places where I hope we shall establish nurses. Can you conceive greater misery? They have nothing out of which to make a living, or, as they pathetically express it themselves, 'Sure, we have nothing, glory be to God, only the air and the water.' And, indeed," Lady Dudley added, "the beautiful pure air of the west is the one blessing they enjoy."

To Destroy Mosquitos.

That warfare against the mosquito may be successful, if it is waged thoroughly and relentlessly, seems to be shown by the results attained on the Isthmus of Suez, where the Canal Company has been trying for several months to exterminate the insects. A contributor to Cosmos, according to a translation made for The Literary Digest, says of this isthmian mosquito war: "A special service has been organized for the purpose. All cisterns have been given a thin coating of oil, which prevents the mosquitoes from breeding; and all marshes and ditches where stagnant water might accumulate have been drained. At the same time, medicine has been distributed, which, by curing the fever, diminishes the poisoned sources whence the mosquitoes obtain their virus. Owing to this, since last December the number of cases of fever has sensibly diminished from month to month, as compared with the numbers in corresponding months of previous years. These operations have gone on for only a few months, and, of course, the anopheles has not completely disappeared; but the examination of specimens captured for this purpose shows that none were infected, which is doubtless to be attributed to the fact that the number of malarial patients has been reduced by proper medical treatment. The oiling of the cisterns and the active surveillance of all the places where the mosquitoes can breed have had another happy result—the anopheles are not the only ones that have suffered; these measures have also caused the culex to disappear so completely that even on the hottest days of the season it has not been necessary to use mosquito nets. The month of August is the malarial season at Ismailia, and only after this period can we tell whether the efforts that have been made are fully successful. It is to be hoped that they are. Besides the immense advantage that will be gained for the region itself, this experiment will show what can be done in this line and with what chances of success. A war of the same kind is being waged in Havana, but we do not yet know its results."

A Sharp Retort.

A student noted for his carelessness in dress approached Prof. Simon Newcomb of Johns Hopkins University for advice says The Yale Review. He was thinking of leaving college and going into business, having had a flattering offer.

"Now, you know my case, Professor," he said, "and if you were in my shoes what would you do?"

The Professor looked very serious and replied:

"Black them, of course!"

"You love my daughter?" said the old man.

"Love her?" he exclaimed, passionately; "why, I could die for her! For one soft glance from those sweet eyes I would hurl myself from yonder cliff and perish, a bleeding, bruised mass, upon the rocks two hundred feet below."

The old man shook his head.

"I'm something of a liar myself," he said, "and one is enough for a small family like mine."—Tit-Bits.

STOCK MARKETS

The following advices were received by Mr. J. Cummings & Co., 160 Simcoe street, over their private wire—

New York, October 22.—The money market continued easy, with plentiful offerings here and at other points. The foreign situation is the feature at the moment and developments in the Russia Japan matter are being awaited. There are many who figure that, foreign situation will have but little material to effect the sentiment so far as the stock market is concerned. One thing is noticeable at the moment that the market is less susceptive to bear influences than for most part. Judge Clancy, of Montana is expected to give his decision against Amalgamated Copper today, but on any quick slump or sinking of prices buy stock, since it will recover smartly. Keep long of Atchison, and take Union Pacific on all recessions. Harriman is a bull. Retain position on Eries and average T. C. I. on point d.p. Traction shares are shaping for substantial advances.

Chicago, October 22.—There was further selling in the wheat pit today and the market sought lower levels, but there was evidences of support from strong sources. The cash situation was less stable. The export business was slower and advices from abroad were bearish. The clearances were moderate at less than 300,000 bushels, and the primary market movement netted quite a lot of accumulation. The crop news was bearish. The corn market was rather sluggish. The price current confirmed an increase in the country movement and the offerings were quite liberal today. The cash business was less active. The foreign advices were quite indifferent. Shorts bought a little corn on the declines. The primary movement was fair and the clearances were only moderate. The crop news was generally bearish. There was a rather limited cash demand, and clearances light. There was more optimistic talk in the provision pit. The market was supported on all shaded spots.

United States Seizing Islands.

A few days ago The Globe published the summary of an editorial from The Scotsman, in which, in a bluntly frank and straightforward manner, a protest was entered against the unwarranted and inexcusable seizure by United States vessels of British islands off the coast of Borneo. The attention of the United States Department has been called to the occurrence and the usual exchanges are proceeding. There can be no doubt as to the result, according to the majority of British papers, which during the past few weeks have discussed the situation, as no other nation but Britain has the shadow of a claim to the islands. None of the papers, however, uses the frank language of The Scotsman, though all are courteously firm. The London Daily Graphic of September 11, in its editorial on the question, gives a brief outline of the status of the case, and shows how absolutely indefensible the United States' claim is. The editorial is as follows:—"Although President Roosevelt made a speech some four months ago at Watsonville, in California, in which he seemed to lay claim to an American hegemony of the Pacific, we do not suppose that the little dispute with this country which has arisen with regard to the ownership of certain islands on the coast of North Borneo will be found difficult of adjustment. It appears that in entering upon their very complicated and multifarious inheritance in the Philippine Archipelago, the Americans have been led southward until, in certain bays of North Borneo, chiefly Darvel and Sandakan, they have come across islands which formerly belonged to a Sultan, over whose territories Spain claimed jurisdiction. Accordingly an American man-of-war was sent to annex these islands, and the Stars and Stripes were hoisted over them. We are bound to say that, seeing how near these islands are to the main land of a British colony—some of them commanding the best harbors in Borneo—the action of the Washington Government in ordering their seizure without a preliminary consultation with this country was a little precipitate. Had this not been done, even the appearance of a dispute between the two countries, which is always to be deprecated, would have been avoided. However, it was done, and Lord Lansdowne has consequently found himself compelled to make certain representations to the Washington State Department, which are necessarily in the nature of a protest. The claims of Great Britain to the islands in question are so very clear, and so firmly and unambiguously founded on treaty, that there can be little doubt of a withdrawal of the Americans as soon as the title deeds have been communicated to Mr. Hay. The wonder is that in a country where all branches of bibliography and the classification and indexing of public documents have reached so high a pitch of scientific excellence as in the United States it should have been possible to ignore these documents, which [illegible] of reference. The ownership of the islands was, indeed, settled as far back as 1877. Twenty years before an American company obtained a concession of territory from the Sultan of Brunei, which included most of the country now administered by the British North Borneo Company. In 1877, however, the Americans were bought out by a syndicate, which gradually developed into the present company, and two years later the new concessionaires bought up all the rights and claims of the Sultan of Sulu in North Borneo, and the neighboring islands. The Spanish Government protested against the cessions made by the Sultan of Sulu, on the ground that his territory was the property of the Spanish Crown; but in 1885 this pretension was waived, and a protocol recognizing British jurisdiction was signed. Since then neither the Sultan nor his Suzerain has had any rights in Borneo or its waters. We have little doubt that as soon as these facts are made clear at Washington the recent seizures will be disavowed, and that relations of cordial neighborliness will be established between the two great Anglo-Saxon [illegible] in the Philippines and in Borneo."

Archaeological Research.

The London Daily Graphic of Sept. 10 says: "Several members of the British Archaeological Association, having expressed a desire to inspect the remains of ancient man, recently the subject of a paper read at Sheffield by Mr. W. J. Nichols of Chislehurst, during the recent Congress of that association, a party of antiquaries were conducted over the caves and passages yesterday by Mr. Nichols, who pointed out the remarkable peculiarities and vast extent of the area which has been excavated for many miles underground at a period to which at present no definite date can be assigned. Starting from the only entrance in the face of the cliff close to the railway station, the party perambulated about four miles of passages, which appear to be formed with considerable regularity, measuring about 6 feet to 10 feet in height, with occasional dips of less height and a breadth of 3 feet to 12 feet. The walls in the solid chalk show numerous marks of the workman's pick, and they curve in slightly at the top, with a flat roof formed by the under surface of a stratum of chalk. There are alcoves or side-chambers with bee-hive shaped domes, dais, or altars, side passages ending in a cul-de-sac, and in one of these labyrinthine walks is a well of very fine and true work and reaching to about 300 feet in depth. Conjectures have been widely hazarded as to the object of these workings, but nothing at present is definitely known beyond the fact that Roman pottery and worked flints have been found.

A Noted Actor.

Mr. J. M. Barrie, whose new play, "Little Mary," was produced in London on Thursday night, says The London Chronicle, has been so much accustomed to praise for many years past that he has probably forgotten the very first critical appreciation he received. When he was a schoolboy at Dumfries he contributed to a manuscript comic-journal got up by his schoolmates of the Academy, and called "The Clown." Young Barrie wrote a series of articles under the heading of "Reckolections of a Skoolmaster," in which, with Artemus-Wardian spelling throughout, he thus introduced himself to his readers:—"When you read the following artickles I think I hear you exklaim, 'Who is this grate literary genus appearing before our eyes and takin our harts by storm?'" The juvenile editor of "The Clown" seems to have been a person of discrimination, for in his "Answers to Correspondents," dealing praise and blame alike to contributors, he says in response to J. B.: "Your 'Reckolections' are exceedingly well composed. Many thanks for both No. 1 and No. 2. We shall be very glad to hear from you again soon." Some of these "Reckolections" were reproduced in a local paper ten years ago, on the occasion of a visit Mr. Barrie paid to his old school. They showed how effectively the lad could reproduce a conversation, and there is a certain crude humor in process of development to be traced in them.

Some Historic Places.

For ages antiquary after antiquary found himself baffled by a simple problem at the Tower. How, in the old days, did the garrison get a supply of drinking water? The antiquary, says The St. James' Gazette, could show you the original fireplace at which William the Conqueror warmed his hands, could point approximately to the spot on which the murdered Princes fell; he could lead you to the place where Henry VIII.'s Queens were butchered, and to the tombstone that collapsed upon their poor bones; he knew the tiny dungeon in which Sir Walter Raleigh spent twelve dreadful years hidden from the light, and could have you in a twinkling in the stone dog kennel, where still remains the ring to which they chained Guy Fawkes. But how these unfortunates and their janitors drank, none could tell. The Thames, hard by, was not the source, they were sure. Organized search was vain. Then there came a thick-headed, unimaginative mason, to whom and his fellows the work of converting certain of the historic dungeons into storehouses for war material meant ninepence-halfpenny an hour and no more.

His pick struck through the flooring of the corridor from which the prisoners used to enter their cells. Behind these latter, and corresponding with the main one, ran, and still remains, the little secret corridor along which eavesdropping officers tip-toed to listen to conversations between captives, for the purposes of evidence. A few blows from the pick brought to light the mouth of a pit. Sixty feet down was water—thirty feet of it. The mason had happened upon the historic well for which search had been made in vain for centuries! It was as perfect as the day that the Conqueror sunk it. To-day it still carries its thirty feet of sweet spring water, and should ever the Tower be beleaguered, its garrison would still be independent of outside supply. We have our holy wells, our miracle-working wells, and wells of medicinal waters. If this historic old shaft which the mason brought to light were distant ten thousand miles, Londoners would make pilgrimages to drink its waters.

AN EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY

FOR BOTH LARGE AND SMALL INVESTORS

Owing to valuable Patents having been granted this Company, we are desirous of extending our business to the Dominion of Canada. Owing to the Customs duties, the extra cost in transportation and the numerous expenses attached, and the delays in deliveries in shipping goods from one country to another, it is absolutely necessary that we should have a factory in the Dominion, that we may be in a position to meet the immediate wants of the business

The articles that we make from our Patent Fabric are too numerous to mention, and it is not necessary that we go into the details of the merits of our goods, as they are already in use to a large extent and have no equal. Our goods are covered by several patents, and the profit on the goods is large, averaging from 25 to 100 per cent, thus affording the company large revenue to meet all its obligations.

In order to secure funds to equip a plant in the Dominion of Canada we will offer to the people of Canada $100,000 of our Bonds paying ten per cent. interest per annum.

Experience has shown that stocks based upon sound industrial enterprises have never been equalled from the standpoint of legitimate profit. For instance, a few hundred dollars invested in the Bell Telephone Company's stock in the beginning of the enterprise now commands thousands of dollars, after having yielded large dividends annually. Of course opportunities for such profitable investments do not present themselves every day, and it is also very true that a vast amount of capital has been misdirected in the endeavor to exploit inventions and enterprises which shrewd and far seeing investors should have recognized as impractical. But as regards this enterprise even the most conservative must admit it has possibilities of development which are almost incalculable and which have already been demonstrated in a practical manner. We have no speculative elements—this is a sound business proposition, and the patents which we own are worth several million dollars, as there can only be one fabric of this kind and that is ours.

All the above facts are simple statements of the truth and can be fully substantiated to the satisfaction of all investors.

The business is no experiment, the incorporators of this Company have made it their business for a great many months past and understand all the details, the prospects are therefore bright, and brighter than those of many other opportunities.

This Company is not a promotors company, every dollar goes to enhance the value of the property and business and increase the capacity. There is nothing speculative in this proposition, the enterprises are undertaken for industrial purposes only to make profits by the operation and development of the business.

Considering that the enterprise is already upon an established basis with a certainty of profitable future expansion, we feel warranted in the assertion that this is an attractive proposition to investors whether large or small.

The price of these Bonds are one dollar each, and will be issued in any number wanted. With every purchaser of each five Bonds we will give as a bonus, one share of stock of the Company, the par value of which is five dollars per share, thus assuring interest on the investment, and with the stock which is bound to increase you will have for nothing. These Bonds will be issued for five years. Persons desiring to avail themselves of this opportunity want to send their remittance at once.

Attention Investors

FROM THE PLACERS OF THE BOISE BASIN, IDAHO, FOUR HUNDRED MILLIONS OF DOLLARS IN GOLD HAVE BEEN TAKEN.

We are now developing the ledges that fed those placers in the ages past.

The Pearl Gold Mining Co. of Idaho

owns seven groups of mines—thirty-seven mining claims and is now working in ore in three of its mines.

The Treasury Stock is offered at a price that will unquestionably make money for those who invest. The Stock is non-assessable—no debts—all clear titles—safe, experienced and conservative management.
